Annual Dinner Dance

H EADLINING the Homecoming program this year will be the football classic at 2:00 when the Bisonmen play host to the Temple Owls. Preceding this in the morning and on Friday, alumni golfers will again be given the opportunity to compete for prizes in the Annual Alumni Golf Tournament. The rules for play as set up last year remain the same: individual prizes for men and women; six prizes in all: for nine hole medal score, greatest number of bobs (on green in par) and jingles (one putt green). No green fees will be required of alumni. All, regardless of class, degree, or residents are eligible. The club house will be golfers headquarters November 12 and 13; ample dressing rooms will be open without charge.

The Annual Alumni Dinner and Dance at the Women's College Dining Room is to be continued in full force with the best banquet-fare that Mrs. Sale can serve up for alumni hungry from cheering a victorious eleven. The dance will again feature the swingable rhythms of one of the number of orchestras which are favorites with the student body.

The large registration board which last Homecoming so successfully tempted alumni in putting down in black and white their names and classes will be an added attraction of alumni headquarters, where alumni will also be given Homecoming Tags identifying name and class.

Dear Bucknellian:

At the laying of the corner-stone of the new gymnasium on September 30th, a brief message from each of the ten men who contributed the cost of the first section of the building was sealed in the traditional copper box.

These brief messages reveal the Spirit of Bucknell in its very essence, so I quote from four of them:

From a trustee who gave $55,000, "I trust that many youth will be stronger and finer and better". From a trustee who gave $25,000, "This gift is inspired by my love for Alma Mater". From a friend who gave $20,000, "To Bucknell University in appreciation of its work for humanity." And from another trustee, "God bless Bucknell and her youth".

There is the whole range of the Bucknell idea in four key words: Youth — Alma Mater — Humanity — God.

We are grateful indeed to these unnamed gentlemen who have given Bucknell its first section of our longed-for gymnasium, and we are grateful to the Chairman of the New Gymnasium Committee, Judge J. Warren Davis, who is rendering his Alma Mater this splendid service.

Now comes our opportunity to create a new program of physical education and health for our women students, to which I hope our alumnae will give their support. Tustin Gymnasium is inadequate for 800 young men, but it can be made a very satisfactory gymnasium for only half that number of young women. It is our plan to remodel it, inside and out, for the use of our women students, and to give Loomis Field to them for their out-door sports, as soon as the new gymnasium is ready for the men. We are getting estimates now on the cost of the remodelling. The cost will be modest, but the values that will accrue to the educational program for our young women will be out of all proportion to the cost. I hope our alumnae will interest themselves in this vastly important project.

Home-Coming Day is on Saturday, November 13th, this year and we shall hope to see a great many of you in Lewisburg on that day. As part of the celebration we will re-dedicate Old Main Restored, and will unveil a tablet to the donor of the new Central Section. This should be a most happy Home-Coming for all. We invite you most cordially to come back to the College on the Hill on November 13th.

With warm regards,

Yours sincerely,

Acting President.

Work Formally Begun On New Gymnasium

IMPRESSIVE corner-stone laying ceremonies held Thursday morning, September 30th, on North Field marked the formal beginning of construction on the University's new $400,000 men's gymnasium.

Sitting under a bright sun, several hundred students and faculty members attended the exercises, highlighted by a radio address by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, high commissioner of organized baseball. Speaking from the Chicago studios of the National Broadcasting Company over the Red network, Judge Landis was introduced by Vice-President, R. H. Rivenburg.

Paying tribute to the late Christy Mathewson '02, Bucknell's most famous alumnus athlete, Judge Landis said, "To you, assembled on the campus of Bucknell University ready to lay the cornerstone of your new gymnasium, accept this word of gratitude from professional baseball for having helped to train a great national hero like Christy Mathewson."

Baseball's high commissioner referred to Christy Mathewson as "a noble inspiration and influence in the lives of millions of boys and men whose heroes are just such men as Christy and who unconsciously strive to be like their heroes. May your new gymnasium help train strong bodies, clean minds, and clean hearts."

Judge Landis concluded his talk by declaring, "President Marts, students and faculty of Bucknell, as you now lay the cornerstone of your new gymnasium, organized baseball, lovers of good sportsmanship, and admirers of their old idol, Christy Mathewson, salute you."

sical education as, "at its best the outspoken champion of play for its own sake."

In his ten-minute talk Mr. Plant described the only successful physical education program as being one that affects the physical, mental, moral, and spiritual natures of all who come in contact with it.

He told the spectators that the world seems to be swinging in the direction of the American ideal of physical education, in which freedom is the keynote.

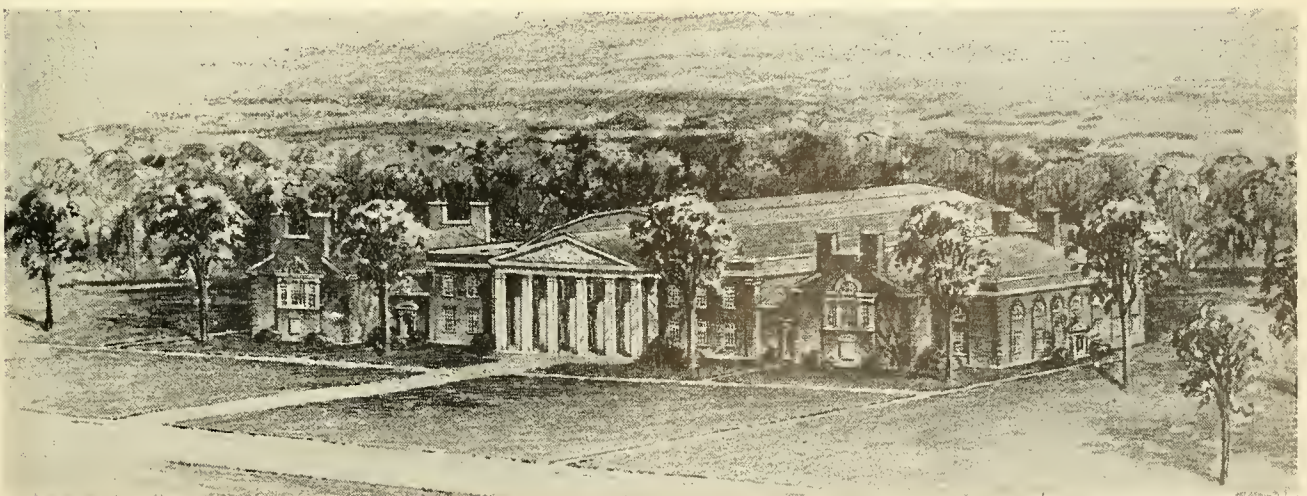

Dr. Harvey F. Smith '94, Harrisburg surgeon and chairman of the trustees' committee on physical education and student health, officiated at the cornerstone laying ceremonies, explaining to the audience concerning items of historical importance placed in the cornerstone.

Material placed in the cornerstone included a photograph of the baseball team of 1870, which, captained by Dr. W. C. Bartol '72, lost only one game in four years; a photograph of the 1891 football team, a record of 42 important football victories, a list of 18 Bucknell men who have played major league baseball, track and field, basketball, boxing, soccer, and tennis records, and two copies of the Bucknellian. Dr. Smith read messages from 8 trustees and 2 friends of the University whose generosity provided the funds to start the work.

Highlights of Cornerstone Broadcast

DEAN RIVENBURG: The students and faculty and many friends of Bucknell University at Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, are gathered at this moment on the campus of the College, prepared to lay the corner-stone of a splendid new gymnasium which is to be erected this fall. I have been asked by the Board of Trustees of Bucknell to come to Chicago as their representative, and in behalf of Judge John Warren Davis, Chairman, and Mr. Daniel C. Roberts, Honorary Chairman, to invite you to send a message on this occasion, for which the National Broadcasting Company has graciously provided the facilities.

We have turned to you, Judge Landis, for such a message, because you are the acknowledged leader and high Commissioner of organized baseball, the great American sport and recreation, and because from Bucknell University came perhaps the greatest figure in baseball of all time — Christy Mathewson.

Bucknell has two outstanding traditions strikingly exemplified by three men who have made great contributions to American life. The intellectual tradition, for which the College exists, is exemplified by David Jayne Hill, for nine years President of Bucknell, for eight years President of the University of Rochester, Minister Plenipotentiary to Switzerland, Ambassador to Germany, and delegate to the Second Peace Conference at The Hague in 1907; the intellectual tradition at Bucknell is also exemplified by General Tasker Bliss, a distinguished scholar who read Latin and Greek for pleasure, and whose knowledge, ability and judgment were so esteemed by President Woodrow Wilson that he was chosen to sit with the President in the great Peace Conference at Versailles. The athletic tradition, also an honorable one, which we are emphasizing today, is exemplified by Christy Mathewson, who as a fine young lad entered college thirty-nine years ago this month at the age of eighteen, who loved Bucknell, and who would be proud and happy over the new Bucknell gymnasium if he could have lived to take part in this corner-stone laying. Christy lies buried in the Lewisburg Cemetery just a few rods from where this ceremony is now taking place on the campus of his College.

On the Christy Mathewson Gateway to the Bucknell Memorial Stadium there is a bronze tablet with this inscription:

"Christopher Mathewson Athlete — Soldier — Gentleman"

It is our hope that the new gymnasium at Bucknell, the corner-stone of which will be laid within a few minutes, will help to train thousands of other young men of the present and future generations in the same mold of moral character, intelligence, bodily vigor and good sportsmanship.

We are grateful to you, Judge Landis, for taking part in this ceremony and will hear with appreciation a message from you.

JUDGE LANDIS: I well remember the Christy

Mathewson Gateway at the Bucknell Stadium to which you have referred, for I was present on the Bucknell Campus at Lewisburg some years ago when this gateway was dedicated as a Memorial to Matty. In behalf of Professional Baseball I helped to dedicate a tablet on that gateway on which we engraved these words: "He was one of the greatest figures in competitive sport of all time."

Christy Mathewson deserves this tribute because of his astounding feat as a pitcher and also because of his sterling character and his fine influence over the boys of the Nation who idolized him. He was a credit to the College that helped to train him, for he had brains and character as well as skill. Johnny Evers once referred to his intelligence in these words:

"He knew exactly what you couldn't hit, and that was all you had to hit at, for he could throw a ball into a tin cup at pitching range."

Perhaps his greatest pitching achievement was in the 1905 World Series when he pitched three shut-out games within five days against the hard-hitting Philadelphia Athletics of Connie Mack and won the pennant for the Giants.

The day after Christy Mathewson died at Saranac Lake in 1925, Grantland Rice summed up his career and paid him a tribute in words which I should like to quote, as follows:

"He was the only man I have ever known who in spirit and in inspiration was greater than his game. For he was something more than a great pitcher. He was one of those rare characters who appeal to the millions through a magnetic personality attached to clean honesty and undying loyalty to a cause.

"He gripped the imagination of a country that held a hundred million people and held this grip

Dr. Smith and President Marts

with a firmer hold than any man of his day or time. There might be rumors and reports concerning others, but here was one man who was clean clear through.

"There had been many mighty pitchers. But here was a ball player with ideals, a ball player who lifted the game up in place of dragging it down. He held public faith in dark days when others were trying to destroy this faith. And with these ideals he was not walking along easy paths. Yet his character was such that he held even the respect of those who had no ideals of any sort, but could still pay tribute to the rugged strength of one who was indifferent to any mockery or taunts.

"Mathewson was above the clamor of the crowds. He appreciated the crowds' applause, but he also knew the fickleness of fame. From the day he first walked upon the field up to his passing he set his eyes upon a certain goal along the road of honesty, cleanliness, service and loyalty, and nothing could swerve him from the path. Others have been idols of a city. Here was a nation-wide idol who at no second of his career ever stepped into the mire. He walked upon clean ground from his first public appearance to the Pennsylvania grave that will hold his dust."

To you assembled on the Campus at Bucknell University ready to lay the corner-stone of your new gymnasium, accept this word of gratitude from professional baseball for having helped to train a great national hero like Christy Mathewson. He has been a noble inspiration and influence in the lives of millions of boys and young men whose heroes are just such men as Christy, and who, unconsciously, strive to be like their heroes. Would that American life would bring us more heroes like that, clean, winsome, conquering. May your new gymnasium help to train strong bodies, clean minds and clean hearts. President Marts, and students and friends of Bucknell, as you now lay the corner-stone of your new gymnasium, organized baseball and lovers of good sportsmanship and admirers of their old idol, Christy Mathewson, salute you.

DEAN RIVENBURG: We are deeply grateful to you, Judge Landis, for your inspiring message, which has been heard with profit by the hundreds of students, faculty, and friends of Bucknell, who are now laying the corner-stone of its splendid new gymnasium to be erected this year. Your message has now become the public record, to be preserved for hundreds of years in the corner-stone of that noble building.

Over the door of the Cornell University gymnasium there was framed as a motto a striking quotation from Bacon:

"He who sinks his vessel by overloading it, though it be with gold and silver and precious stones, will give his owner but an ill account of his voyage."

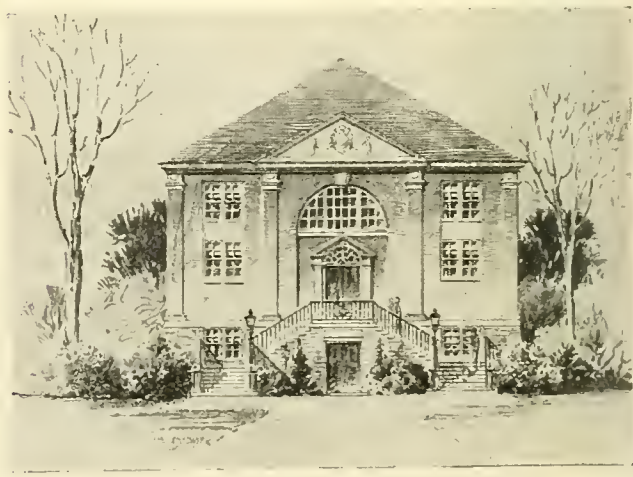

The new Bucknell gymnasium, surrounded by the splendid playing fields of the University, by helping many an ardent, overzealous student to develop his physique, will throughout the coming years make a notable contribution toward the preservation and extension of the intellectual and athletic traditions of Bucknell, in whose behalf I thank you.

ning of the second semester. Gifts, totaling $125,000, will make possible the construction of the central unit which will be built of brick to conform with the architecture of other campus structures and will be situated west of the North Field. This unit will contain a gym floor, bleachers seating 2,600 persons, lockers and showers. The seating capacity includes 1,600 permanent seats and 1,000 temporary. When completed the other sections will contain a field house, swimming pool, offices, and individual sports sections.

Forty-seven year old Tustin gymnasium will be remodeled for the use of the women's physical education department. It is planned to start the re-vamping job as soon as the new gymnasium is ready for the men.

Plans for the Remodelling of Tustin Gymnasium for Use by the Women's Physical Education Department

Bisons Tumble Ursinus, Lebanon Valley, 21-0, 13-0 Lose a Tough One To Penn State 14-20

By Bob Streeter

PLAYING under a new coaching hierarchy headed by Al Humphreys, the Bison football team has provided the highlight of the fall sports parade by displaying a fight and dash that have agreeably surprised even the most ardent supporters of the new regime.

As they pounded out convincing victories over Ursinus and Lebanon Valley, the Bisons blocked and tackled with a fervor that more than compensated for any technical flaws in their early season play. Strangely enough, this same spirit has been much in evidence during practice sessions.

It's a more colorful Bucknell team on the field this year. Coach Humphreys has introduced a tricky new shift and an offense which places more emphasis upon the "open" game than has been the case with Bison elevens for a number of years. Deceptive reverses and passes will be numbered among the Herd's most important attacking weapons during the remainder of the season.

Spearhead of this attack, which will be seen at home for the next time on Friday night, October 15, when the University of Miami, Fla., Hurricanes visit Lewisburg, is Lou Tomasetti, the Old Forge Express, who so far this season has been piling up yardage in an inspired fashion.

WATCH TOMASETTI

Tomasetti, fleet junior halfback who won a starting berth as a sophomore, averaged $6\frac{1}{2}$ yards every time he carried the ball against Ursinus. Then a week later he was even better, averaging $7\frac{1}{2}$ yards every time his signal was called. His specialty is slicing off tackle, then reversing his field for long gains.

Aiding and abetting Tomasetti's efforts is this season's sophomore "sensation", Frank Funair, of Walston, Pa., who has scored two of the five touchdowns made by the Herd in their first two games. His 48-yard touchdown dash following a pass interception was the most exciting play of the victory over Ursinus.

Steading influences in this year's team are the two senior co-captains, Enio Conti, 191-pound tackle from Brooklyn, and Herb Bowman, halfback from Sherrill, N. Y. In early season frays Bowman was crowded off the field by the capable work of juniors and sophomores, but on the basis of the stellar showing he made in the Lebanon Valley game, he will probably see greater service.

Besides Conti, two other veterans, Jack Lynn, of Kingston, at right tackle, and Kurt Manrodt, of Newark, N. J., at right guard, bolster the starting line. Four men playing their first season of varsity

Bill Lane, of Philadelphia, a junior who is the team's most consistent punter, is the starting quarterback, with Sid Canarick, of Glen Cove, N. Y., as his replacement. With Tomasetti and either Funair or Bowman at the halfback spots, the fullback billet is filled by either sophomore George Klick or Junior Marty Quick.

Replacements are far from three deep at Bucknell this year, yet Coach Humphreys has capable substitutes for virtually every position.

THE STATE GAME

Forced to rise to top form in the third game of the season, the Bisons fell before Penn State's powerful Nittany Lions, 20-14, but only after giving a Homecoming Day crowd at State College the scare of its life. Playing on rain-soaked turf, an inspired Herd compelled the Lions to come from behind twice, once in the waning minutes of the game, to eke out the victory.

The Penn State power which had almost beaten Cornell was present, but opposed to it was a Bucknell offense that provided two magnificent touchdown thrusts. State scored early in the first period, but the Bisons quickly retaliated in a march featured by Tomasetti's pass to Lane, who made the six-pointer on a short plunge. The Lions went ahead, 13 to 7, by scoring their second touchdown in the second period.

At half-time, many in the crowd were convinced that Humphrey's team had shot its bolt, was a thoroughly beaten eleven, since it lacked the reserve strength to cope with State's second half rush. They were jarred from their seats when the Bisons dominated the play in the third period and then deadlocked the score early in the final canto after Funair recovered a fumble on the 25.

Driving toward the goal, Bucknell scored when Jones flicked a pass to Wenner. George Klick converted the extra point, and the Bisons were ahead, 14 to 13. Trying desperately to cling to this meagre advantage during the final half of the fourth period, the Bisons fought a losing battle as their reserve strength began to play out. Finally, with about four minutes left to play, Jack Patrick circled left end for the winning touchdown.

BUILDING PROGRESS

East Wing of Old Main was completed in time to accommodate the arrival of freshmen and upperclass tenants. The first floor of this wing was ready for use early in the summer when a number of the Administrative Offices moved into their new quarters. Among this group are Dean of Men, Summer Session and Extension, Engineering, Publicity and Athletic Council, Building and Grounds, Christian Association, and Alumni. The alumni headquarters are now contained in a suite of three rooms, a work room, office of the secretary, and alumni lounge. Workmen are rushing construction of the center section and anticipate completion at an early date. The ground floor of this section will include offices of the President and Dean, and a large entrance lobby. In the basement will be a complete postoffice service for faculty members and students living on the Hill; a mailing room, dark room for developing photographs, and a room for commuting students.

The second floor will be devoted to student activities of various kinds, and will include recreation rooms, while the third floor of the center section provides dormitory facilities for 17 students. Each wing of the building provides living quarters for 51 students on the second, third, and fourth floors.

The interior of Harris Hall has been completely renovated, with new lighting, woodwork, painting and plumbing. In West College, showers have been installed on each floor, and the old shower room in the cellar converted for use by the Economics Department as a classroom.

Rooms on the ground floor of West College used for offices since the burning of Old Main, and prior to reconstruction, have been converted into classrooms for use of the Commerce and Finance Department.

PEACHY KLING

Peachy Kling is dead. The man who cared for Bucknell athletes both as a trainer and as a property man for the past three decades suffered a fatal heart attack early in August.

George "Peachy" Kling had long been linked with Bucknell athletic history having come to Lewisburg in 1906 to train the athletic teams at the time when "Doc" Hoskins was head coach. Kling was promoted to chief trainer in 1910 and served in this capacity for 23 years before increasing duties of the position and ill health forced an addition to the department. He served many different coaching regimes during his long tenure with the Bisons and many hundreds of athletes came to know and respect the soothing touch of his trained fingers. He is survived by his widow and one daughter living at home, one son, and his father, also of Lewisburg.

At the request of the Kling family, the following former Bisonmen acted as pallbearers: George McGaughey '35, Johnnie Sitarsky '36, Bob Pethick '36, Jack Filer '37, Ray Green '37, and Mose Quinn '34.

"Two generations of students and their relatives and friends loved, admired and respected "Peachy" Kling, not for his high-sounding title or college degrees, for he had none; not for his grandiose and impressive manner, for he was the soul of simplicity; not for his claims of being master mind, for he achieved whatever success was his through humble, unremitting service. His homely philosophy, his wholesome advice left as lasting an imprint upon the minds of the athletes among whom he worked as any lessons learned in the classroom."

EDUCATION CONFERENCE

On October 15 and 16, Bucknell University will hold its twelfth annual Conference on Education. As usual, the conference will begin at 2:00 P.M. Friday and close at noon Saturday. General sessions will be held at 2:00 and 4:00 o'clock Friday, and a banquet at 6:30 P.M. Following the banquet, those attending will have the opportunity to attend the football game between Bucknell and Miami University at the Mathewson Memorial Stadium.

Speakers for the general sessions are Dean M. R. Trabue of the Pennsylvania State College School of Education; Dr. Franklin J. Keller, principal of the Metropolitan Vocational High School, in New York City; Dr. Richard D. Allen of Providence, R. I.; and Dr. John G. Flowers, President of the Lock Haven State Teachers College. Guidance will be the central theme of the conference.

On Saturday morning from 9:00 to 11:00 o'clock, group meetings will be held for the discussion of the following problems: guidance in the elementary schools, counseling, measurement and guidance, guidance and the gap between high school and college, guidance and extra-curricular activities, guidance and vocational choice, home room and group guidance. Each group conference will consist of a twenty-minute address, which will be followed by a panel discussion. At 11:00 o'clock, the final general session will begin with five-minute reports from the group meetings and close with an address by a nationally-known guidance expert.

DAVIS HONORED

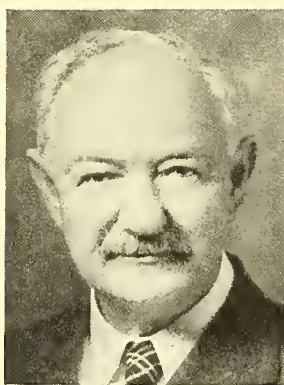

Sixteen former students and associates of Dr. Nelson F. Davis, Professor of Biology wrote scientific articles for a privately printed testimonial volume published in honor of Dr. Davis' 65th birthday anniversary. A copy of the book was presented to Dr. Davis, Tuesday afternoon, August 10, at a birthday celebration at the Forest Inn, Eagles Mere. Forty-five former students and friends of the professor, who has been a member of the Bucknell faculty since 1898, were present.

Dr. Heber W. Youngken '09, of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy, was chairman of the editorial committee for the birthday volume, which was printed in Boston. Dr. J. Herbert Waite '11, Professor of Ophthalmology at Harvard University, also was active in publishing the book, and served as toastmaster at the birthday gathering. The book, an artistically printed volume of 124 pages, contains articles in special scientific fields by 16 men, as well as a foreword describing the highlights of Dr. Davis' life and his contributions to the development of Bucknell. Dr. Davis' efforts made possible the development of a strong biological department at Bucknell, the foreword points out.

Dr. Davis was graduated from Bucknell with a Bachelor of Science degree in 1895, receiving a Master of Science diploma a year later. In 1898, he became an instructor in biology, and four years later was made a professor. The growth of Bucknell's biology department has paralleled his career.

Virtually all the men who contributed their scientific knowledge to the birthday volume are authorities in some specialized field of science. The 16 authors are: Dr. George H. Shull, Professor of Botany and Genetics at Princeton University; Dr. Norman H. Stewart, Professor of Zoology at Bucknell; Dr. Harold N. Cole '06, Clinical Professor of Dermatology at Western Reserve University; Dr. Youngken; Dr. Albert T. Poffenberger '09, Professor of Psychology at Columbia University. Dr. Gilbert S. FACULTY CHANGES

Ten new faculty members have been added to the teaching staff, several of them filling newly-created posts. The appointees and the departments in which they will teach are: Dr. Robert L. Anthony of Yale, mechanical engineering; Dr. David Brown of Williams College, English; Dr. E. G. Cornelius of Georgia State College for Women, economics; Dr. Robert O. Oliver of University of Wisconsin, public speaking; Dr. Allan Halline of Wisconsin, English; Theodore Parker of St. Lawrence University, sociology; Donald Blankenship of Kenosha, Wis., economics; Joseph D. Stetkewicz of Columbia, chemical engineering; Miss Barbara Ryerson of LaSalle Junior College, French; and Albert E. Humphreys of North Tonawanda, N. Y., football coach and physical education. Administrative changes include the naming of Dr. Robert L. Sutherland, head of the department of sociology, as Dean of Men, and the appointment of Miss Miriam Evans, of Lewistown, N. J. as assistant librarian, replacing Miss Elizabeth Bentley '33 who was married this summer. Miss Evans attended Earlham College at Richmond, Ind., and Drexel Library School. She comes here from the Free Public Library at Morristown, N. J. Another assistant librarian, Mrs. Rachel Heim Williamson '29, has resigned her post and has accepted a position in the cataloging department of the Princeton University library. No successor has been appointed as yet.

Dr. Anthony will fill the position left vacant by Dr. Frank E. Burpee who left his teaching post last spring to become Bucknell's first full-time superintendent of buildings and grounds. Mr. Stetkewicz replaces Dr. Robert H. Kintner, who has been named head of the department of chemical engineering at Armour Institute of Technology in Chicago. Mr. Stetkewicz has had nine years of training in engineering at Columbia where he received his A.B., B.S. and Chemical Engineering degrees. He is listed to receive his Doctor's degree from Columbia in October. Dr. Oliver succeeds the late James P. Whyte.

Dr. Cornelius was awarded his A.B. degree by Maryville College, and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees by Vanderbilt. He has also had training at the University of North Carolina, the University of Chicago, the University of California, and Peabody State Teachers College. Dr. Brown has had eight years of experience at Williams College, where he received his A.B. degree. He was awarded the M.A. degree by Harvard and his Ph.D. by Yale. Dr. Cornelius joins the Commerce and Finance faculty to assist in taking care of the rapidly-increasing enrolment in that department, and Dr. Brown will serve at the Bucknell Junior College in Wilkes-Barre. Miss Ryerson and Mr. Blankenship will teach at the Junior College.

Dr. T. Ernest Newland, associate professor of education, relinquished his teaching position in August to become chief of special education in the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction. In his new capacity, Dr. Newland will supervise the education of all exceptional children in the state. This work includes directing special schools and institutions for the mentally gifted, as well as the defective. Dr. Newland began his new work September 1.

BASEBALL ALUMNI

In connection with the plans for laying the corner-stone of the new gymnasium, September 30, University athletic officials selected an all-time Bucknell big-league baseball team. Christy Mathewson '02, the "Big Six" of major league baseball heads the list of pitchers on this all-time alumni nine. Other Bucknellians selected for the pitching staff are: Bucky Vail, of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Wyckoff, Philadelphia Athletics; G. H. Northrop '10, Chicago Cubs, and William M. Parsons '08, Boston. Catchers include: the late Harold M. McClure '77, Boston Stars; Walter Blair '05, New York Yankees, and Dean Sturgis '16, Philadelphia Athletics; first base, George Cockill '05, Detroit; second base, Yentzer Weidensaul '02, Detroit; third base, Harvey F. Smith '94, Washington Nationals, and Edward A. Manning '12, New York Yankees; short stop, Mike Doolan '01, Phillies.

Outfielders include: Jim Sebring, Pittsburgh Pirates; Jimmy Clark '10, St. Louis Cardinals; "Moose" McCormick '04, New York Giants; Bert Daniels '12, Yankees, and Charles Piez '13, Giants. Two Bucknell alumni also attained prominence in the minor leagues. They are: Thomas A. O'Leary '14, who caught for Syracuse, and Charles D. Loveland '11, who played short stop for Augusta, Ga.

Loveland, who helped select the all-time, Bucknell big-league team, said of his college baseball activities, "We really had a championship team the year I was captain in 1910. Practically everyone of our team was scouted for the big leagues and almost all of us went out and played at least a year of professional baseball."

LINE COACH

The appointment of S. J. "Bus" Blum of North Tonawanda, N. Y. as line coach of the Thundering Herd was announced shortly before the opening of fall practice. Blum, who was graduate from Colgate University in 1934 after three years on the varsity during which he won All-American mention as a guard, played for two years at Cook Academy under Al Humphreys who began his new duties September 1st as Head Bison Mentor.

CONVOCATION SPEAKER

Public life and the use of leisure time are two fields in which the trained mind can find scope for its activities, Dr. Guy E. Snavely, of New York and Birmingham, Ala., executive secretary of the Association of American Colleges, told students September 23 at the annual fall convocation of the University.

"Chance favors the prepared mind," Dr. Snavely, who is president of Birmingham Southern College, said. "The trained mind is ready for the chance when it comes."

The noted educator deplored the fact that college-trained people take little interest in public affairs, suggesting that the educated should study public events, vote regularly, and stand for office if they discern a need for better administration.

With the machine as their slave, moderns will establish a flourishing civilization if leisure time can be utilized wisely, Dr. Snavely predicted.

SUMMER SCHOOL

Fifty-five persons received degrees at the annual summer session commencement exercises held on August 6. Of this number thirty-five were Master's degrees. Symposium courses, bringing a dozen outstanding personalities to the campus in addition to the regular faculty, proved to be an outstanding feature of the summer program. Two such courses were offered, one in secondary education and the other in international problems. The former featured P. W. L. Cox of New York University, Elbert K. Fretwell of Columbia University, Ralph D. Owen of Temple University, E. D. Grizzell of the University of Pennsylvania, and Joseph Miller, director of guidance in the Wilkes-Barre public schools. The course was divided into five major units, each introduced by one of the men named above. To the symposium course in international relations came Lawrence Duggan, Chief of the Latin American Division of the Department of State; Oswaldo Aranha, Ambassador from Brazil; William Manger, Counsel of the Pan American Union; Samuel Guy Inman, noted authority on Latin America; A. Curtis Wilgus of George Washington University, specialist in Latin-American affairs; and Edmundo Gonzales, Consul at Washington, D. C. from the republic of Mexico.

CHAPEL SERIES

Plans for a new chapel series "Steps Going Up", beginning October 7, have been announced by President Marts who will be the first speaker on that date. The men who will deliver addresses in this series include two educators, an expert on finance, a banker and an advertising man. On the second Thursday, Dr. Leland R. Robinson of New York, will speak. Dr. Robinson, an authority on economics, is chairman of the board of the American General Corporation, lecturer in the school of Business, Columbia, director and treasurer of the League of Nations Association, and a member of the Commission on International Justice and Goodwill. On October 21st, Dr. Lester K. Ade '21, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will speak.

William R. White '26, Banking

Commissioner of New York state, will appear before the student body on October 28. He will be followed by Dr. George B. Cutten, President of Colgate University. Kenneth W. Slifer '26 of Woodbury, N. J. who is affiliated with N. W. Ayer & Sons, Philadelphia advertising agency is the final speaker to be named at this time.

GUIDANCE SYMPOSIUM

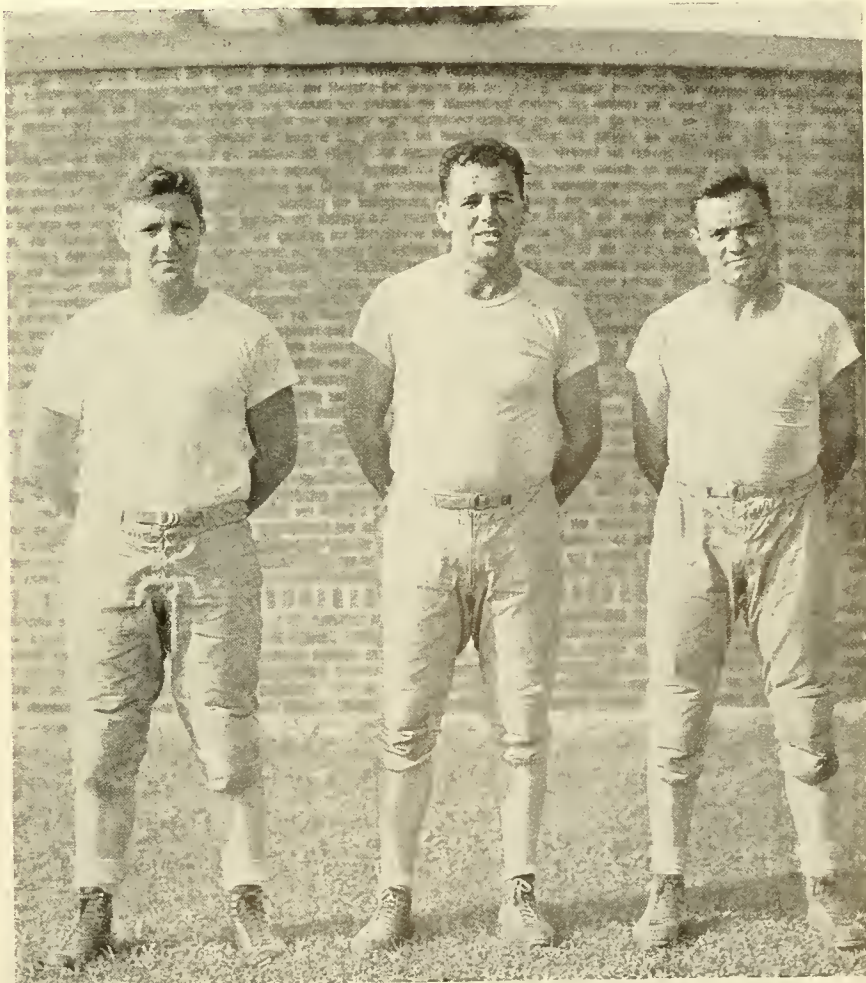

Recognizing the importance of guidance as a technique in education, Bucknell has arranged a series of 14 lectures to be given by faculty members in various local centers. This symposium, which aims to acquaint teachers and administrators with the principles and techniques of guidance in our school program, has already been successfully organized in Scranton, Hazleton, and Harrisburg, and is acceptable in partial fulfillment of requirements for the Pennsylvania Guidance Certificate.

MARINE BAND

Numbers frequently heard in the concert hall, as well as popular and light classical selections, were presented in afternoon and evening concerts by the U. S. Marine Band on Saturday, September 25th. Playing in the Memorial Stadium the band featured the works of several great symphonic masters along with popular marches and the compositions of modern musicians. Invited guests of the University at the afternoon concert included members of high school bands from Towanda, Wellsboro, Mifflinburg and Sunbury. The service band, known familiarly as "The President's Own", appeared on the campus during the course of a brief fall tour authorized by President Roosevelt.

Word has just been received of the death of Mrs. John Reilly of Overbrook which occurred July 9. Mrs. Reilly was the former Anna Lloyd.

John H. Wingert, who celebrated the 65th anniversary of his graduation in June, died September 13th in the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore where he had been a patient for the past month. His death was caused by a complication of ailments. At the June Commencement, Mr. Wingert, with Dr. William C. Bartol shared the distinction of being the only living members of the University Class of '72. Mr. Wingert, who was 84, was one of the oldest alumni of Bucknell and of Sigma Chi. He taught school for a period of 35 years in the schools of Union and Northumberland Counties and was for many years active in local politics, having served one term as County Commissioner.

1877

The death of Clara Ann Beck occurred on June 26th in the Moravian King's Daughters Home, Bethlehem. Miss Beck who had been active for many years in historical and genealogical circles in Montgomery and Northampton Counties was 77. She was the author of the book "Kith and Kin of George Wolf, Governor of Pennsylvania, 1829-1835," and wrote numerous articles and pamphlets on historical subjects. She was graduated from the Bucknell Institute at the age of 16, being the youngest student ever to receive its degree, and received a special invitation to attend the recent Commencement events but was unable to make the trip to Lewisburg. Miss Beck also had the distinction of being the first woman elected as a member of the Nazareth School Board.

Dr. Frank J. Rawlinson, one of China's best-known missionaries, was one of 8 Americans and Europeans killed during the August 14 bombing of Shanghai. The Christian Century

issue of August 25th paid the following tribute to this distinguished Bucknellian: "He was a scholar in no respect inferior to Robert Morrison and Timothy Richards and 'other giants of the old days' among missionaries in China, but Rawlinson's scholarship was of the sort that kept him in close touch with the life of the Chinese nation and aware of and informed about her problems. His article, (China Opens the Door) which it is our privilege to present in this issue, reveals the fineness of his sympathy with a struggling people and the firmness of his grasp upon the service which the Christian church may hope to render to it. When the Christian Century first set up its staff of news correspondents, it turned to Frank Rawlinson as the man ideally fitted to be its representative in China, and this paper suffers a direct and irremediable loss in his death." Life (August 30) carried the following account of Dr. Rawlinson's tragic death: "Dr. Rawlinson had reached the edge of the International Settlement, when one bomb fell squarely into a crowd of Chinese refugees. He stopped his car, stepped out just as another bomb crashed near him. He was killed instantly. His capable wife, Florence Lang Rawlinson, managed to drag his body back into the car and drive to the morgue before she collapsed.

"Dr. Rawlinson had been a keyman in the old missionary quarrel over whether to give China Christianity straight or mixed. Born a poor Englishman, educated in U. S. colleges, father of eight by two wives, he admired Chinese culture. In 1914, he became editor of the Chinese Recorder in Shanghai, made it the world's best religious magazine. His liberalism so dismayed his own Baptists that they asked him to quit the editorship. He quit the Baptists, devoted himself to explaining China to Christian missionaries as well as explaining Christianity to the Chinese. He wrote a simple life of Christ in Chinese and books on "Chinese Ideas of the Supreme Being." He felt China could take Christianity without ceasing to be Chinese."

Beside his wife, he is survived by 3 daughters and five sons, one of whom, Alfred H. Rawlinson, '29, is also a graduate of Bucknell.

Ernest A. Sterling's New York address is 245 Madison Avenue. Since 1917 he has been affiliated with the James D. Lacey Company, Timberland Factors and Forest Engineers and is now Vice-President of that firm. His present activities are connected with the new pulp and paper mill developments in the South.

J. Sanford Davis died August 31 following an operation for appendicitis. His wife, Isabel, and two children, Marion, wife of Dr. Leslie E. Myatt, and Harland, and two grandchildren, Harland, Jr. and J. Nelson Davis survive him. For 9 years Mr. Davis was principal of schools near his home at Greenwich, N. J. He was a teammate and classmate of Christy Mathewson. Coach Hoskins considered "Sandy" the best basketball player he had coached at Bucknell as he played forward and guard equally well.

Dr. Charles C. Fries, of the University of Michigan, was highly honored at the conclusion of the second session of the Linguistic Institute held at Ann Arbor, when, at the concluding meeting of the Institute, Professor Franklin Egerton of Yale, visiting professor of Sanskrit, expressed for the faculty and students of the Institute a resolution of thanks for the energy and courtesy with which

Dr. Fries as Director of the Institute had conducted its second session on the Michigan Campus. So thoroughly successful was the 1937 session that the Linguistic Society of America and the University, under whose joint auspices it was held, voted to continue the Institute at Michigan for the next three years. More than 250 students many of them members of college and university faculties pursuing post-doctoral studies, were enrolled in the courses offered in various languages and the physiology and psychology of speech. The faculty and visiting lecturers included some of the most distinguished American linguistic scholars. Under Dr. Fries' able leadership the Institute has come to occupy a place in linguistic studies comparable to that long held by the school of biological studies at Wood's Hole among biologists.

Editor's Corner

THE seventeenth Homecoming Day dawned wet and soggy. It will go down in the annals of the local weather bureau as a super-saturated Saturday. After Old Main had been rededicated, as if by prearrangement, the elements relented to reward the stouthearted who had splashed to Lewisburg through the twenty-four hour downpour.

FOLLOWING our announcement of the Homecoming Program in the last issue, an elaborate Homecoming Parade was arranged and staged by a representative committee of Lewisburg business men and University officials. Although postponed until the evening and dampened by the events of the day, the final line-up of floats showed nearly 40 salvaged out of the 75 entries. Next year the Parade promises to be an added bright spot of the day's program.

ALTHOUGH the attendance at the annual Homecoming Dinner was slightly diminished by the outside influences, the enthusiasm was unabated. The Glee Club as usual gave a fine accounting with the introduction of a new football song, "Go Bisons", written by Cam Rutledge '33, a former Gleeman.

ON October 16, the first meeting of the current year of the Officers and Executive Committee of the Alumni Association was called to order by Dr. Carl Millward, President. Other members present were the Secretary and Treasurer and W. C. Lowther of the Executive Committee. The proposal was presented to share the net profits of the Alumni Ball over and above last year's net with the newly organized "B" Club to assist them in laying a nest egg for the purchase of "B" sweaters for qualified wearers. The proposal was referred to a committee consisting of the Graduate Manager, the Director and Assistant Director of Physical Education, and the Treasurer. This Club which is an association of lettermen has as its objectives: (1) the placing of the award of the Varsity "B" on a higher plane to foster school spirit and (2) the association of undergraduate and graduate members in the stimulation of the quantity of athletic material and the quality of varsity athletics.

IN accordance with the By-Laws of the Association, the following Alumni Trustee Nominating Committee was appointed: Julius F. Seebach, '20, Chairman, Paul E. Fink, '29, and Mrs. Carolyn Hunt Mahaffey '25. The Secretary hereby gives notice that this committee will now receive nominations for Alumni Trustee, nominations to close January 31 (Article XIII, Sec. 2.)

THANKS to the financial interest taken in the Alumni Ball by the "B" Club through undergraduate sales promotion, the alumni were treated to the melodies of Woody Herman and his orchestra, NBC and recording favorites. The receipts showed that over 450 couples approved of the selection.

Dear Bucknellians:

Christmas is a holiday which centers about the family; which renews our affections for home and mother.

At this Christmas Season, your "other mother" — Bucknell — mother of your youthful aspirations and high endeavors, sends you her message of affection, also.

Your Alma Mater "cares" about you; rejoices in your achievements; mourns your disappointments; hopes and prays that you will never falter in your quest for the upper levels of living.

May you and yours enjoy a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, which appears to read "Howard C. Marts". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a large initial 'H'.

Acting President

A Message from the President

Alumni Cooperation With Bucknell's Freshman Admissions Program Is Invited

--Arnaud C. Marts

"AN ever-normal enrollment of 1200 resident students" is the ideal toward which Bucknell's Freshman Admissions Program aims. This is the full capacity of our present buildings; — our class-rooms, laboratories, dormitories, and library; and this represents a full teaching load for our splendid faculty. Maximum educational efficiency can be maintained at Bucknell with a constant enrollment of this size. Sharp fluctuations, either up or down, from this level are extremely costly.

In accordance with the traditional ratio between the sexes at Bucknell of two men students to one woman student, which has helped put Bucknell among the two or three outstanding co-educational liberal arts colleges of the East, this normal enrollment of 1200 students comprises about 800 men and about 400 women.

In terms of the enrollment of Freshmen, this ever-normal total enrollment of 1200 means a normal freshman class each year of approximately 400 students — about 267 freshmen men and about 133 freshmen women.

It is in connection with the enlistment of a well selected freshman class of about 400 that the cooperation of alumni and students and friends is invited. They are the most important factor in the Freshman Admissions Program, for 70% of the freshmen who come to Bucknell do so because other Bucknellians have advised them to do so.

Our Registrar, H. Walter Holter, who has charge of Student Admissions, has appointed a young alumnus, Lee Francis Lybarger, Jr., Bucknell 1928, as Director of Admissions. Mr. Lybarger will spend his entire time this year in the field working with those alumni who may wish a representative of the College to interview certain prospective freshmen in their communities.

APPOINTED

Lee Francis Lybarger, Jr., '28
Director of Admissions

A Freshman Admissions Alumni Committee is being organized in each county in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Delaware, and in other important centers, such as Baltimore, Washington, Cleveland, etc. A quota for Freshman Admissions from their county will be given each such Alumni Committee.

Of these 400 freshmen, approximately 235 will come from Pennsylvania, approximately 80 will come from New Jersey, approximately 75 will come from New York and the balance from other states.

Will you send in immediately to Mr. Holter the names of prospective freshmen of your acquaintance to whom Bucknell literature can be sent? Will you send for Mr. Lybarger when you wish a prospective freshman interviewed personally, or when you can arrange for him to speak in your High School? He is one of the most eloquent speakers and debaters who has graduated from Bucknell in recent years.

Bucknell especially asks her Alumni's assistance in the search for "quality" freshmen, — young men and women with those qualities of mind and personality, and character and ambition, and self-reliance, and grit that lead them to appreciate to the full Bucknell's opportunities. "Such youth are the future leaders of the world," said President Harris, and such youth we long to serve in the College on the Hill.

We earnestly invite your full cooperation in helping in this Freshman Admissions Program. If you will help us maintain "an ever-normal enrollment of 1200 resident students at Bucknell," of high quality, we will maintain a standard of educational efficiency of which you will be increasingly proud.

Bucknell Benefactor Visits Campus for First Time

THE central portion of reconstructed Old Main will henceforth be known as Daniel C. Roberts Hall, Judge J. Warren Davis, acting chairman of the Board of Trustees, announced during the impressive dedicatory ceremonies, high-lighting an overcast Alumni Homecoming afternoon.

At the same ceremony a new gift of $50,000 from

Principals in Old Main Dedication
President Marts Mr. Roberts Judge Davis

Mr. Roberts toward the building program was announced by Judge Davis. Earlier benefactions of the Wilkes-Barre philanthropist had included $100,000 toward the Old Main reconstruction and $50,000 toward the fund for a new men's gymnasium.

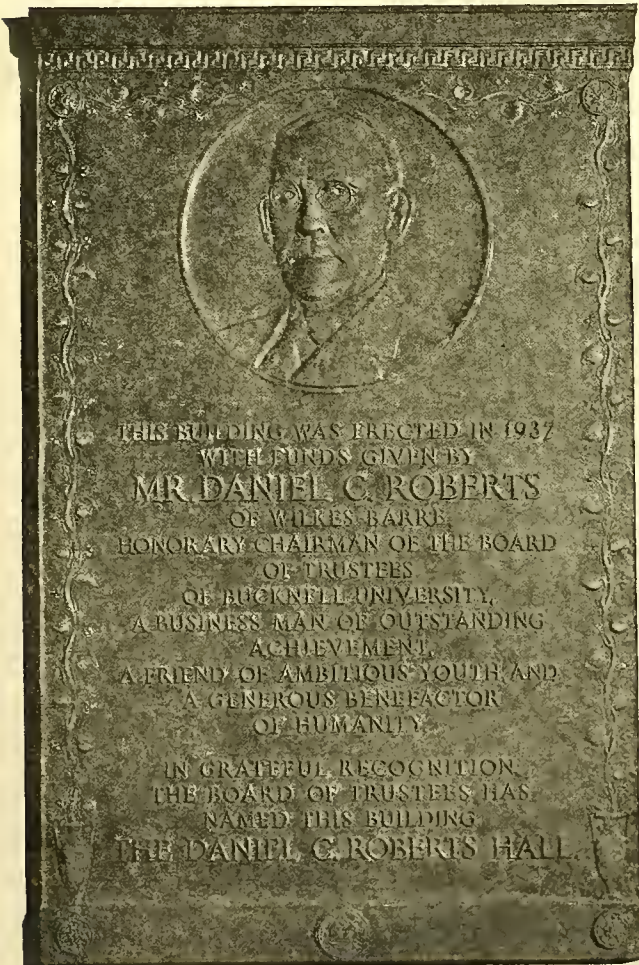

A bronze plaque to Mr. Roberts, who is honorary chairman of the Board of Trustees, was unveiled in the lobby of Old Main during the rededication.

"This is sacred ground," declared Acting President Marts in opening his dedicatory address, "and we make it more sacred in the performance of this duty." He then recounted the history of Old Main, from the time when a committee headed by Dr. Taylor, Bucknell's first Acting President, staked out the outlines of the original building in the snow nearly 90 years ago, to the time when the central section was "utterly destroyed" and the wings left as "mere hollow shells" by the fire of 1932.

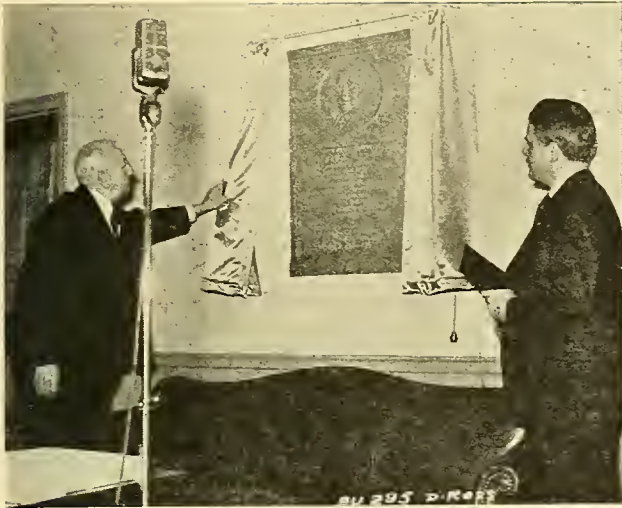

Old Main was designed by Thomas U. Walters "who was the foremost architect of America of his day. It was he who designed the dome of our national capitol, the Congressional Library and other important buildings in Washington. Mr. Walters drew the design for this building and gave it to the College. Soon, this great structure began to rise as money for its construction was subscribed. When it was completed, it enjoyed the distinction of being the largest college building in the country, and was regarded by many as the most beautiful," President Marts said.

He told how "a modest gentleman in Wilkes-Barre was quietly watching the progress of the reconstruction and was shaping his plans in his own mind, plans that were to make us joyous when the time came for him to announce them.

"The acquisition of a great fortune often has a most unfortunate effect on many people. Some people it makes hard and unkind. Others it renders greedy for more and always more. Others it may make proud and vain and haughty. But now and then men acquire great fortunes and remain as modest, as kindly, as generous, as sympathetic as they were in their early days of struggle. Such was the effect of great business success upon him whom we honor here today, Mr. Daniel C. Roberts of Wilkes-Barre. It was he who quietly watched the progress of our building efforts here, and it was he who, out of the sympathy and generosity of his great heart, gave the hundred thousand dollars which was needed to rebuild this Central Section of Old Main. To Mr. Roberts, Bucknell owes this beautiful and lovely building; had it not been for his gifts, this important central section could not have been rebuilt.

"It is one of the happiest privileges of my life now, in behalf of the Board of Trustees, the Faculty, to help unveil this tablet so that all who hereafter pass this way may read this inscription upon it.

"Mr. Roberts, it is a high honor which comes to few men to have such words inscribed in deathless bronze and hung in the corridor of a great college. But this is not an honor conferred upon you from the outside. It is an honor which your own spirit and your acts have won for yourself. And it is an honor which will be engraved not only upon imperishable bronze; it will be engraved upon something still more immortal, — the hearts of youth, endless lines of Bucknell youth, stretching farther into the future than any of us can see or imagine.

"Many other memorials have been placed in rooms and sections of the two wings of this building. Additional memorial plates will be put in place — to commemorate gifts of other trustees and alumni and friends of Bucknell ranging in amounts from one thousand to fifty thousand dollars each. Names dear to us all will be held sacred in perpetuity by these plates which have been put and will be put upon certain doorways in these wings.

"With all our hearts we thank each of you who have helped to put this beautiful building back into the active service of God and of humanity.

"And now, by the authority vested in me by the act of the Board of Trustees of Bucknell University, I declare that this Central Section is hereafter to be known by us as The Daniel C. Roberts Hall and I offer to you, Mr. Roberts, the deep gratitude of all Bucknellians."

Judge J. Warren Davis, chairman of the Board of Trustees and manager of the campaign for building funds, assisted President Marts in unveiling the plaque. Reading from the inscription on the tablet, Judge Davis described the Wilkes-Barre man as "a business man of outstanding achievement, a friend of ambitious youth and a generous benefactor of humanity."

Those present at the ceremony applauded as Mr. Roberts arose and acknowledged the gratitude which President Marts had extended him in behalf of Bucknell.

The Reverend Charles Roush, '09, pastor of the church Mr. Roberts attends in Wilkes-Barre, made the dedicatory prayer.

Preceding the ceremony, The Bucknell Band played familiar Bucknell songs. A double quartet from the Girls' Glee Club sang "Invocation to Life" by Charles Gilbert Spross, and an arrangement by Professor Gies of "Fair Bucknell" by Dr. Bartol.

WILLIAM EMMET MARTIN

LOVER OF BOOKS AND MEN—AN APPRECIATION

By Prof. Lewis E. Theiss, '02

Last year a Friend of the Library, who did not wish his name mentioned, forwarded a check for fifty dollars for the purchase of the latest and most authoritative books in the field of sociology, logic and anthropology. This generous and unsolicited gift was presented as a memorial to Dr. Wm. E. Martin, who for twenty-five years served Bucknell so ably as professor of sociology, logic and anthropology.

It is hoped that other Friends of the Library as well as former students and friends of Professor Martin will add substantial gifts of books or money this year to this initial gift. Certainly no more fitting tribute to the memory of Bucknell's gifted librarian could possibly be made than this, for Professor Martin loved books almost as much as he loved men. Each volume will contain an appropriate Friend of the Library bookplate, giving the name and class of the donor. All books thus acquired will be known as the "Dr. Wm. E. Martin Collection."

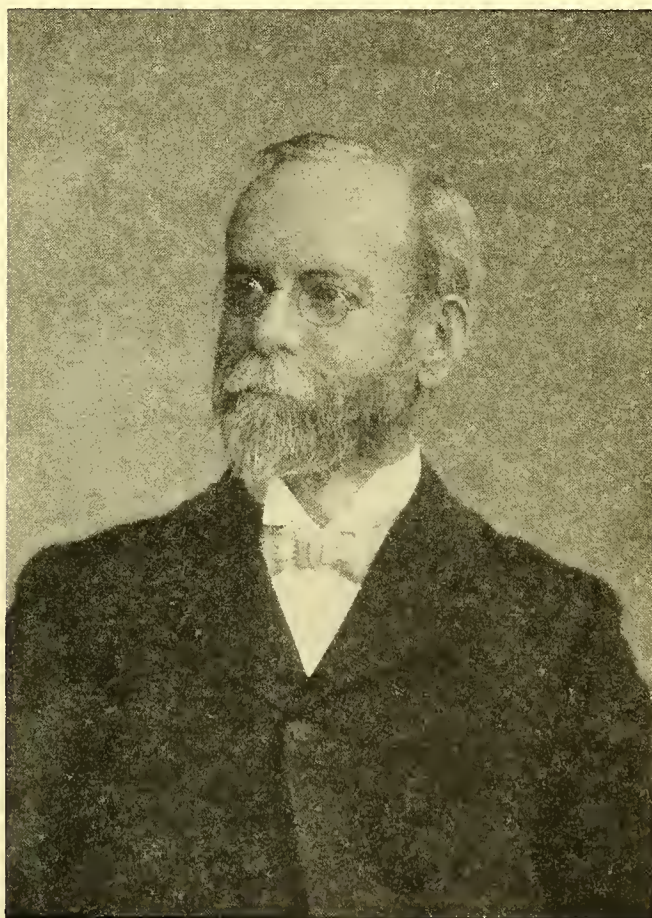

—Norman E. Henry, President, Friends of the Library.

WHEN the frightful flood of 1889 swept through Western Pennsylvania, damaging, weakening, and utterly destroying bridge after bridge in the various watercourses, there was one bridge that stood like the Rock of Gibraltar. In vain the rushing waters tore at its foundations. Fruitlessly the masses of debris battered its structure. When the river had subsided, there stood the bridge, unharmed.

It was a Pennsylvania Railroad bridge over the Kiskiminetas River. So impressed by the quality of this structure were the P. R. R. officials that they caused a bronze tablet to be affixed to it. This tablet, after telling the tale of the flood, paid honor to the builder of the bridge — that sterling stone mason, John Martin. It was his masonry that stood when the masonry in other bridges was torn apart.

That outstanding mason, John Martin, was the father of the late William Emmet Martin, for many long years librarian of the Bucknell Library. If ever character was transmitted by heredity, here was a case. "Like father, like son" might appropriately have been coined in relation to these two men. And the characteristic that was so strikingly transmitted from one to the other was that of reliability, dependability.

John Martin labored with stone, William Emmet Martin worked with books and human beings. So far as the books were concerned, he had little to work with. He directed the Bucknell Library in a day when the student body was small, money was scarce, and purse strings even in the case of a college were customary tightly drawn. Yet somehow he got books together, often buying them with his own funds, and little by little he expanded and enriched the contents of the Bucknell Library.

His official title was that of librarian, but really, he was the library. He had few helpers, and those were untrained student assistants. They knew little about the books they passed out to their fellow students. Dr. Martin knew everything about them. One had only to say to him, "I am interested in such and such a subject. What material is there on it and where can I find it?" and in the twinkling of an eye, Professor Martin would name a string of books bearing on the subject, tell what magazine articles dealt with it, and before you could fairly list the sources enumerated, he would lay the volumes before you. Indeed, one often suffered from an embarrassment of riches, so much material would he place in one's hands. If ever a librarian knew what was in the books under his control, and where to place his finger on the very material desired, it was William Emmet Martin.

On the foundations he thus erected, the present Bucknell Library has grown. And with its growth in literary content has continued that selfsame spirit

Announce Plans for Literary Week-End February 10-12 To Honor Formal Naming of Vaughan Literature Building

The unveiling of a tablet to the late Dr. Charles P. Vaughan in the Literature Building on Thursday, February 10 will feature a ceremony during which the building will be formally renamed the Vaughan Literature Building.

In honor of this event, February 10-12 has been designated a "Literary Week-End." The program will include a special convocation, the Annual Meeting of the Bucknell Society of Phi Beta Kappa, and the Annual Dinner of the Friends of the Library of Bucknell.

A feature of this "Literary Week-End" will be an exhibition of books, essays, plays and poems that have been published by Bucknellians. All Bucknellians, who have had such material published, are urged to send their exhibits to the Alumni Office where they will be catalogued and arranged for display during the "Literary Week-End." They will be returned to the owners afterward.

COLLEGE LIBRARIES AND PHI BETA KAPPA

Dr. William A. Shimer of New York, the national secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, in an interview which appeared in The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph on October 17, 1937, explained that the standing committee on applications, in deciding upon the qualifications of any college, is guided by these criteria: (a) the standing of its faculty, (b) the quality of its graduated students, and (c) its library facilities.

It is safe to assume that more than one college has failed to secure a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa because of inadequate library facilities. In this connection, Bucknell can point with pardonable pride to its own Library, which contains 66,000 volumes at present, while more than three thousand items are being added each year through a fixed budget and the gifts of interested alumni and the Friends of the Library. The Bibliotheca Bucnellensis, which is published independently, is the official organ of The Friends of the Bucknell University Library. Its sole purpose is to promote the growth and expand the resources of the Library so that it may meet the constantly increasing demands which are being made upon it by every department of the University. The results are already most gratifying.

MARY J. HARRAR LOAN COLLECTION OF FIRST EDITIONS

The first installment of a large Loan Collection of First Editions and other rare volumes has been received by the Library from Miss Mary J. Harrar, '26. Miss Harrar has made an initial loan of one hundred and twenty-five volumes of "firsts," largely of contemporary authors. She plans to add to the collection from time to time, and the books will be held in trust by the Bucknell Library, where they will be treasured and exhibited on occasion. They will be accessible, however, at all times to professors and advanced or special students who may have occasion to consult them.

Visiting Engineers in Fall Meeting Approve Important Changes

THE Bucknell Visiting Engineers Committee met at ten o'clock Saturday morning, November thirteenth. Five of the committee were present: Mr. R. B. Derr, '17, of the Aluminum Research Laboratories, New Kensington, Pa.; Mr. J. C. Hostetter, '08, of the Hartford-Empire Company, Hartford, Conn.; Mr. Calvin Oberdorf, '07, in Government service in Washington; Mr. J. O. Roser, '11, of the General Electric Company at Pittsfield, Mass.; and Mr. F. O. Schnure, '14, Bethlehem Steel Company at Sparrow's Point, Md. President Marts extended greetings to the visitors.

Prof. Richard L. Anthony, who has succeeded Prof. F. E. Burpee as chairman of the Mechanical Engineering Department, described the changes in the Mechanical Engineering curriculum recently approved by the faculty. In general, certain specialized Senior courses were replaced by others of broader scope, in recognition of the fact that fundamentals must be emphasized in undergraduate work. The committee expressed their approval of this change.

All the departments outlined changes in laboratories and equipment as well as plans for future development. Preliminary plans for the completion of the Engineering Building were discussed. In the original plans for this building Chemical Engineering was not provided for, while the Physics Department was included. These plans have been changed to provide space for Chemical Engineering in the new building, but not to include the Physics Department. This change of plan requires a greater area of ground floor space for engineering laboratory equipment which must have a solid foundation.

Professor Rhodes described the new plan for an ever-normal enrollment as recently formulated by President Marts.

The Student-Faculty Congress

--Philip L. Harriman, Professor of Psychology

The Supervision of Student Activities at Bucknell

Reprinted from the Journal of Higher Education, November, 1937

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles written by Bucknell Faculty members to acquaint alumni with recent trends in Faculty-Student relations. Later discussions will include "The Student Counseling Program" by Dr. Robert L. Sutherland, Dean of Men, and "The Student Church" by Prof. Charles M. Bond of the Department of Religion. The emphasis will be largely upon the presentation of objectives and reports of progress.

FOUR years ago Bucknell University instituted a Student-Faculty Congress to have supervision over student activities. Consisting of eighteen students and twelve faculty members, this organization has met over thirty times. Special meetings and committees have been assembled many more times during its course of existence. As an experiment in a democratic, cooperative control of student activities, Bucknell Student-Faculty Congress has made an interesting record. Still in the tentative, experimental stages, the plan avoids, on the one hand, the laissez faire system hitherto in vogue here and, on the other, a dictatorial oversight. Four years of experience with this plan have revealed certain unfortunate weaknesses in the setup, but have also been most encouraging.

A faculty committee made a careful investigation of all student activities, apart from intercollegiate athletics and social fraternities, in 1931. The committee found a complicated maze of activities functioning with varying degrees of efficiency. A few appeared no longer to meet any real needs whatsoever, yet they perpetuated themselves by yearly initiations. Others seemed to depend wholly upon the enthusiasm of their officers and at times to emerge meteor-like from the darkness of obscurity. Some activity groups, owing to the absence of integration, were overcharged by dance orchestras or by printers, while other groups were given special prices. Although a college officer audited the account books, there was no control over expenditures. Bills accumulating over the years curtailed the expenditures of oncoming generations of students. The principal objections to the former laissez faire plan were, first, that student activities were not co-ordinated; and, second, that these activities were not so directed as to fit in with the whole educational program of the college.

The first step was to appoint twelve faculty members to serve on the Congress and to ask the students to elect eighteen representatives from the dominant-interest groups. These persons made up the organization. Both a student and a faculty adviser represented each of the following: dramatics, debating, publications, intramural athletics, honorary and professional societies, musical groups, literary clubs, religious organizations, and citizenship. Students represented the Panhellenic and the interfraternity councils, the nonfraternity group, dormitory men, women's student government, and each of the classes. The sponsoring of business manager-ship, the promotion of social activities for the whole college, and student government were given to three members of the faculty. Interest groups, rather than a large number of specific activities, made possible a smaller governing body and helped at once to facilitate an integration of campus life. Under musical groups, for example, are the band, the glee clubs, and the orchestra. Publications include the college newspaper, a handbook for new students, and other similar productions. Rules for new students and other student-imposed regulations come under citizenship.

This functional grouping in terms of compatible interests was easily accomplished. Publicity given to the survey and wide solicitation of campus opinion prepared students to welcome the suggestion. In the survey, however, those students most aggressive in furnishing data were often actuated by real or fancied grievances against the status quo. A few of their recommendations, eloquently and vociferously phrased, were at variance with consensus of judgment. Adoption of such suggestions made a number of problems. Hitherto, for instance, class offices had been coveted; but under the congressional plan each class was to be represented by a member elected solely for place on the group. In the first year, therefore, only three per cent of the student body voted in class elections for positions now regarded as meaningless honors. At the present time the class president is ex-officio the representative to the Congress. Another suggestion hastily adopted was to accord representation to these interest groups, regardless of the number of students involved in them. Debating, consequently, with not more than thirty students included in its activities, has a representative; and the nonfraternity group, including almost half the student body, likewise has a single spokesman on the Congress. A revision of the plan to give fairer representation has not yet been drawn up.

From the outset the most useful work done by the Congress has been the establishment of control over the student budget. A close check on disbursements and accounting was immediately instituted. Treasurers of activity groups obtain approval before contracting financial obligations and present the bills to the budget adviser for payment. No funds are handled by students. The Congress, however, does

Basketball Opener Dec. 13

--Bob Streeter

DIGGING their cleats desperately into the morass that was the Memorial Stadium gridiron, Al Humphreys' Bisons ended their season on Homecoming Day, November 13, by holding a favored Temple team to a scoreless tie, and then looked forward to a 1938 campaign which should find them prepared to make an advance over this year's fifty-fifty record.

Of the eleven regulars who fought back every thrust made by Pop Warner's Owls, only two, Co-Captains Herb Bowman, Sherrill, N. Y., right halfback, and Enio Conti, Brooklyn, N. Y., left tackle, are expected to be missing when the training grind begins next September. Only eight of this year's squadmen were seniors.

Back to the football wars next autumn will storm Lou Tomasetti, Bill Lane, Marty Quick, Bill Jones, Frank Funair, George Kiick, and Sid Canarick, seven fine backs. Four seasoned ends, four tackles, four guards, and two centers will also be available, according to present indications.

The depressing note in an otherwise roseate picture is the sparseness of promising material on its way up from the present freshman team, which closed its season without winning a game. However, the yearlings earned a 0-0 deadlock with Temple and will supply needed reinforcements at several crucial spots.

Winding up the season with a flourish, the Thundering Herd hit its peak the Saturday before Homecoming when it punched out a 20-7 victory over Furman, and continued the pace to stalemate a Temple eleven which is still seeking its initial triumph over Bucknell since Pop Warner came to the Philadelphia college.

The treacherous condition of the playing field, drenched by a 20-hour rain and churned into a quagmire after the first few scrimmages, prevented both elevens from venturing anything but the simplest offensive maneuvers.

Each team had only one golden opportunity to score the touchdown which would have given it the lead in the Temple-Bucknell series, now thoroughly deadlocked with three wins for each rival and five ties.

Two goal-line fumbles, the first by Bucknell's Lou Tomasetti and the second by Temple's Mike Lukac, nullified each eleven's scoring chance.

Midway in the third quarter Baker, Owl quarterback, back to punt on the fourth down, fumbled the soggy ball and was tackled by the fast-charging Bison forwards, Bucknell gaining possession one foot from the goal line. Twice Martin Quick plunged into the red wall of Temple linemen and was hurled back. On third down Tomasetti swept off tackle, and as he was tackled on the goal line, the ball slipped from his arms into the end zone, where Nichols of the Owls recovered for a touchback.

Temple's big opening came in the fourth quarter when Renzo's sensational 29-yard punt return launched an Owl drive. On six plays the Warner-men moved from their own 44-yard line to the Bison 15, where Pappas' fumble was a temporary setback.

On the next play, however, Funair fumbled, and Temple regained possession on the nine-yard line, first down, goal to go. On the first play Lukac circled left end toward the goal line, but as he was hit on the two, the ball popped from his arms clear out of the end zone for an automatic touchback.

With the exception of these two "breaks," the game was evenly contested, the Bisons dominating the action in the second and third quarters and the Owls holding an edge in the opening and closing periods. The long-distance punting of Bucknell's Bill Lane and Temple's Johnny Kovacevich, both of whom lifted the wet ball in kicks that averaged nearly 40 yards from the line of scrimmage, was a feature of the contest.

Throughout their eight game season, during which the Bisons won three games, lost three, and tied two, Humphreys' pupils were outclassed only by the Villanova Wildcats, who overpowered Bucknell, 21-0, and subsequently finished the campaign undefeated.

The Bison soccer team, captained by Ira Fox, of Narberth, finished on the black side of the ledger this fall, winning four games, losing three, and tying one. The booters compiled their record by coming down the homestretch at top speed, defeating Lafayette, University of Delaware, and Temple in their final three games.

With the autumn sports out of the way, attention on the campus is now being directed toward preliminary drills for basketball and boxing, the two big winter sports.

First to get under way, the basketball season will begin December 13 at home against Elizabethtown College, with Cornell to be met at Ithaca, N. Y., the following evening.

Coach Mal Musser faces the task of building his quintet around a nucleus of five lettermen, Harold Sager, of Smithton, William Foltz, Connellsville, Robert Summers and Joseph Deegan, both of Milton, and William Lane, Philadelphia.

Three lettermen, Ray Monahan, Jack Filer, and Stuart Smith, have been lost by graduation from last year's team, which won nine games and lost six.

Boxing prospects are bright this year, with all but one of last year's championship squad slated to return. Captain Joe Valentino, conference champion at the 165-pound post, was the only one of Coach Joe Reno's charges to be lost by graduation.

Among the men who are expected to make the 1938 boxing squad the strongest in Bucknell history are: Bill Androski, of Scranton, conference ruler at 135 pounds; Steve Stephanou, Norwich, Conn.,

CLUB CALENDAR

Alumni Clubs Active in Pre-Homecoming Programs

BALTIMORE

October 11. Fifteen Baltimore Alumni were present at the first Fall meeting of the club, which was held at the Rail Grill.

A constitution, which had been drawn up prior to this meeting, was read by our President, J. Fred Moore, '22. After a few changes were made, the constitution was adopted.

We offer our thanks to all Sparrow's Pointers who have taken such an interest in these meetings.

November 8. Once more there were fifteen members present at our meeting. This seems to be the set number for all of our meetings so far.

Our November meeting was a purely social one. This dinner was also held at the Rail Grill. We have decided to have all meetings here for the sake of convenience to everyone. This does not, however, include one yearly meeting that is to be held at the club house in Sparrow's Point.

The purpose of this meeting was the making of plans to return to Lewisburg for Homecoming. Many of us are planning to drive up for the game.

ELEANOR L. BUCHHOLZ, '31, Secretary.

LEWISBURG

October 12. The four meetings of the Alumnae Club are always enthusiastically attended and enjoyed very much by the older women of the Seminary days, the "near-new" alumnae and the recent graduates.

The first meeting of the year was held in Larison Living Room, October 12th, featuring the annual tureen supper. Mrs. Ruth Easley sang two numbers, "The Old Refrain" and "Autumn Leaves."

The guest speaker was Mrs. J. M. Barris, authoress, who spoke on "Joys and Trials of a Writer."

The Christmas meeting to be held December 14th will be in charge of Mrs. Ruth Easley with Mrs. Donald Stillman as guest pianist. Mrs. Mildred Gommer Pursley, '30, will give a reading.

With Mrs. Lulu Coe Stolz, the local alumnae club promises to have very interesting and instructive meetings through 1937-38.

SARA DECK CROSSGROVE, '28, Secretary.

NEW YORK

October 19. Fall meetings of the New York Alumni Association started with an evening dinner and meeting at the Hotel Winthrop on October 19th. This was a stag affair and 26 Alumni turned out for the meeting. Dr. A. C. Marts, President of the University, gave a very comprehensive and interesting report of Bucknell activities and the meeting was then thrown into an open forum at which members asked Dr. Marts to elaborate on various phases of Bucknell life and growth.

New officers of the Association were elected consisting of E. A. Snyder, '11, President, William F. Redcay, '11, Vice-President and Treasurer, and Charles T. Farrow, '26, Secretary.

Various suggestions were made for activities to be considered by the Association during the coming year and as a result of a very enthusiastic discussion and suggestions a Planning Committee was appointed consisting of Edward C. Kunkle, '97, Chairman, and Julius Seebach, '20, and Campbell Rutledge, '33, who were instructed to consider all the proposals suggested and present a report of suggested activities for consideration at the next monthly meeting. This report was presented at the regular monthly meeting held at the Hotel Wentworth on the evening of November 9th. Great interest was manifested by the 24 members present and it was voted to mimeograph the report and transmit it to the male members of the New York Alumni Association prior to the next monthly meeting which will be held on December 14th at the Hotel Wentworth, 59 West 46th Street, at 6:30 P.M.

The New York Alumni Association is holding regular monthly stag meetings on the evening of the second Tuesday of each month. They are planning to hold as many of these as possible at the Hotel Wentworth. In case it is impossible to secure a room for that evening, announcements will be mailed to the Alumni prior to the meeting as to the exact meeting place. While the evening meetings so far have been confined to the men Alumni, it was suggested that we undertake to form a women's Alumnae group to hold independent monthly meetings and to merge the women's and men's meetings for a joint social gathering sometime in February. We believe there is a strong need for a women's Alumnae Association and an opportunity for them to do much constructive work for the University, and it was suggested that the President advise the Alumni Secretary to take this under consideration and attempt to interest some of the New York women in this project. The officers of the men's Alumni Association will be glad to cooperate with any of the women who would undertake the formation of such an association.

The Alumni Association discussed football affairs at the last meeting and voted unanimously to send a letter of appreciation to Coach Humphreys and the team for their good work under adverse circumstances during the past season and to tell them that the New York Alumni would be strongly represented at the Homecoming game. This letter was written and I understand that numerous encouraging telegrams from the New York Alumni were sent to Coach Humphreys prior to the game.

EDGAR A. SNYDER, '11, President.

ROCHESTER

October 28. Dr. Homer P. Rainey, Director, American Youth Commission of the American Council on Education, Washington, was in Rochester October 28th, for the Zone meeting of the State Teachers Association.

President Ellis Smith was fortunate in securing Dr. Rainey to meet with the Rochester Bucknell Club at 12:00 o'clock on that date at the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Rainey spoke on the work of his commission.

L. L. HUTCHINSON, '23, Secretary.

TRENTON

October 29. The Central New Jersey Bucknell Club held a dinner meeting in Trenton at the Cadwallader Tea Room on October 29th. For the first affair of this type that has been held by this club, thirty-four members responded despite the fact that the College Club of Trenton held an affair on the same evening. Plans discussed at this meeting were to hold meetings of this type in the future either monthly or bi-monthly. Homecoming was discussed and several members planned on making the trip to Lewisburg on November 13th. The club was favored with some very interesting and humorous recitals by Mr. J. H. Shoemaker of the class of 1908.

The ladies of the Central New Jersey Bucknell Club are planning an afternoon bridge December 2nd at 1:30 P. M. at the home of Mrs. H. W. Giffin, Cadwallader Apartments, Trenton, N. J.

"To members of Central New Jersey Bucknell Club." Keep in mind the dinner meeting to be held at the Cadwallader Tea Room, Friday, December 10th at 7:00 P. M. Mr. Chas. M. Morris, Editor of the Alumni Monthly will be present to speak to the members on current events at Bucknell. Please make reservations with Mr. L. W. Morrell, Trenton 3-6626 or W. J. Irvin, Trenton 3-2028.

W. J. IRVIN, '22, President.

READING

October 30. The notes of "Dear Bucknell, oft of thee we're thinking," alumni and friends of Reading sat down to a delightful dinner at the Wyomissing Club to make merry. And that is exactly what we did. Dr. Grim, the President was a most attentive host, chasing away all formalities and making everyone feel very much at home. He introduced several visitors from the campus, Mr. Charles Morris and Mr. Walter Holter.

With enthusiasm born of the defeat of the afternoon, accompanied with that never-say-die spirit we planned our campaign to put Bucknell across to High School Seniors. Entertaining prospective college students at our "get togethers" and perchance taking them back to the dear old campus, having interested parents with us to sell Bucknell to them and giving them the treat of hearing Dr. Marts are just a few of our plans for the future spring months.

At a short business meeting following dinner, Morgan Davies, '26, was elected President, and Angeline Kissinger, '22, Secretary for the ensuing year. Just in case someone might be interested in knowing who the people in Reading are who still thrill to "Come Bucknell Warriors, Hopes are on you" we are including our guest list:

Dr. David G. Grim, '97, and Mrs. Grim, The Rev. Dr. Charles E. Roth, Hon. '28, Dr. Merrill DeWire, '21, and Mrs. DeWire, Dr. John Eisenhauer, '05, and Mrs. Eisenhauer, Mrs. J. Turner Moore, Fred McCormick Moore, '36, Mr. A. Paul Mosser, '26, and Mrs. Mosser, Mr. John Speicher and Mrs. Speicher, '07, Mrs. Helen Blakemore, '08 Miss Laura Smith, '22, Miss Barbara Houghton, Miss Elizabeth Turner, '24, Miss Angeline Kissinger, '22, Paul Weaver, '22, J. Singleton Neisser, Philip Neisser, '32, Richard Doty, Paul Schmidt, '25, Howard Fisher, '13, Karl Krug, '22, Charles Morris, '31, H. Walter Holter, '24.

ANGELINE KISSINGER, '22, Secretary.

PHILADELPHIA ALUMNAE

The Card Party and business meeting which was to have been held in November was postponed but we are expecting to have it on Tuesday, December 7th, at Whitman's, 1626 Chestnut Street. We are planning a business meeting, a pleasant social evening of cards and other games followed by supper. The proceeds from this party are for our Scholarship Fund.

The Annual luncheon is to be held this year on Saturday, February 12th. Dr. Daniel Poling has accepted our invitation to be our guest speaker so we are looking forward to a very interesting meeting.

ALICE ROBERTS, '24, Secretary.

ENGINEERS MEET

The committee passed two resolutions:

"Resolved, that the Visiting Engineers Committee is in hearty accord with the policy of 'an ever-normal enrollment of 1200 resident students' as recently proposed by President Marts. "Resolved, that in the designs for the completion of the Engineering Building provision should be made for a total enrollment of 400 engineering students."

The committee adjourned to the Women's College dining room and enjoyed an excellent luncheon.

The fiftieth anniversary of the Alpha Baptist Church and Sunday School of Philadelphia was observed on October 3rd. Dr. Howard K. Williams, pastor of the church which started in 1887 in a cobbler shop, preached the morning sermon.

George Cockill, Sr., one of Bucknell's baseball immortals, died Tuesday, November 2nd, following a long illness. He was buried in Lewisburg and his death was quite a shock to older residents of the community who remember well his vivid exploits on the diamond and football field. Following graduation he became famous as a baseball player with Milton and the big leagues. At one time he was an umpire in the National League and had coached the University football team, later serving as a member of the Athletic Council. He spent the latter part of his life at Steelton where he was prominent as a member of the Dauphin County Poor Board.

Dr. L. C. Hylbert of Shanghai, China, was the principal speaker on Men and Missions Day, observed by the Watsonstown First Baptist Church on November 7th. Dr. Hylbert has served as Mission Secretary for East China since 1926. He has made a notable contribution of service in connection with famine and flood relief, which earned him the title of Chai Ho Hsun Chang (Good Harvester) from the Chinese Republic.

Referring to recent experiments of Dr. J. B. Rhine of Duke University, Dr. Charles F. Potter told the First Humanist Society: "Trained telepathists will supplant the present spy system. Without leaving their own country, a little group of gifted 'es- pers' will be able to discover the plans of the enemy's strategists. Since the essence of success in war is secrecy, when secrecy is destroyed, war will be impossible."

1908

Joseph W. Henderson was elected a member of the Board of Governors of the American Bar Association at its annual convention in Kansas City, October 2nd. As a member of the Board, Mr. Henderson will serve for a three year term.

Lieut. Commander R. W. Shrum has been appointed Protestant Chaplain of the Naval Training Station, Newport, R. I.

Chaplain Shrum has had a varied and interesting career in the Navy. He was appointed Chaplain in the Navy in 1918 during the World War and assigned to duty at the Naval Academy. From 1919-22 he was Chaplain of the U. S. S. Arkansas and served 1922-24 in the U. S. S. Pittsburgh when that warship was flagship of the European Station. From 1924-29 he was attached to the Navy Yard, Washington, with additional duty on board the U. S. S. Mayflower, the President's Yacht during the Coolidge Administration. From 1929-32 he served in the battleship U. S. S. West Virginia. Chaplain Shrum was

W. Leigh Durham '02

Chaplain of the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn., from 1932-34. This duty included two European cruises. From 1934 to this year when he was ordered to Newport, Chaplain Shrum was Chaplain of the U. S. S. Saratoga, except for a short time when he was assigned to temporary duty aboard the U. S. S. Houston for one of the cruises of President Roosevelt.

Rev. Frederick B. Iglar, Baptist Student Pastor at the University of Pennsylvania, was a recent campus visitor when on Homecoming Sunday, November 14th, he addressed the Student Church on "Talking ad infinitum."

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Edna May Romweber, of Hightstown, N. J., and Carl E. Geiger. Mr. Geiger is an instructor at the Peddie School.

Dwite H. Schaffner is one of Bucknell's most active alumni in War Veteran affairs. In June of this year he was elected Department Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for the State of Ohio. Overseas in the World War, he was attached to Co. K, 306th Regiment, 77th Division, with the rank of First Lieutenant. In 1922 he was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for personal bravery during an engagement in the Argonne Forest. Only ninety-three such awards were made by Congress out of the millions of men in the service and only sixty-one of the men so honored are alive today. Mr. Schaffner has practiced law in Ohio for several years and is prominent in the Bar Association. He married Miss Elma Bliss and with their two daughters, aged 13 and 11, reside at 296 Grace Ave., Akron, Ohio.

C. H. Davies, President of the Davies Airplane Metal Limb Company, Philadelphia, has recently returned from the Argentine Republic where he opened a branch of his company in Buenos Aires. While there he was interviewed by "La Caceta" for an article describing his accomplishments. When new and unusual establishments are introduced in the Republic and such lend themselves to the helpfulness of the physically handicapped "La Caceta" immediately sends its staff reporters to investigate. Whoever is so selected for a full page write-up automatically makes the Republic of Argentina's "Who's Who." Mr. Davies has the distinct honor of being one of the very few North Americans sharing this honor.

Dr. Lester P. Fowle, University physician and assistant professor of Anatomy, and Dr. R. R. Legault, assistant professor of Chemistry, have received a grant of $3,000 from the John and Mary R. Markle Foundation of New York City as an aid toward their research on the problem of fungus diseases. Fungus diseases of which "athlete's foot" constitutes a small part, have commanded the attention of Dr. Fowle for some time in his work as the University physician. Many students have approached him for treatment of these diseases. He is interested in the possibility of inducing a natural immunity to the pathogenic fungi not in the development of a so-called "cure" for "athlete's foot." He initiated the present research while his colleague, Dr. Legault, has been cooperating from the standpoint of the chemist.

Dr. Fowle accompanied by his wife has gone to Florida where the former is recuperating from a severe attack of pneumonia. He had been a patient at the Geisinger Hospital, Danville for a number of weeks.

Robert S. Kyle is an Industrial Engineer for the Mishawaka (Ind.) Rubber and Woolen Mfg. Co.

Clark Hinkle, the ex-Lackawanna Express of the Thundering Herd from 1929 to 1931 under Carl Snively, and who has earned the title of the most powerful kicker in professional football during his past six years of activity with the Green Bay Packers, is shown above getting off a lusty practice boot prior to the Packers' game with the Washington Redskins at Washington, D. C. on Sunday, November 28.

Hinkle has made football history for Bucknell in the "play for pay" ranks with his versatile performances with the world champion Packers eleven. During the past six years he has five times earned recognition on all-star professional teams. Against Washington he was the star of the Green Bay offense and was a central figure in the defense despite the fact that he received a bad head injury during the game and had to be removed for nearly half of the game. The Packers lost the tilt by a score of 14-6 despite Hinkle's brilliant individual play.

A daughter was born Saturday, October 16th to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hall, of Hamilton Square, N. J.

A son was born on November 15th to Mrs. Eunice Samson Mech of Pullman, Wash.

determine each year the proper allocation of budget funds to each of the approved organizations. Yearly, therefore, every student-activity group must convince the Congress that it meets a genuine campus need, and that its request for financial support is well justified. By this plan moribund groups are starved out of existence. No unpaid bills can remain to take up appropriations for subsequent years. Student managers are protected from the wiles of high-pressure salesmen. The budget officer is able to make printers and orchestras give a single, fair price when students desire their services. This control, though apparently somewhat dictatorial, has met with student approval.

The policy-forming activities of the Congress have been a disappointment until this year. Without any clear definition of purpose or of authority, the group concerned itself with many trivialities for three years. Much time was devoted to debates over the type of watch charm which should be purchased to adorn the vests of representatives. About seventy per cent of the funds the Congress allocated to itself went for these ornaments. This year, however, the members were persuaded to rule out such tangible recognition of their services to the college community. Furthermore, time was spent in discussing legislation to make possible the passing of legislation, in the words of a college newspaper editor. Attendance at the meetings dropped markedly, and it appeared that the entire project would fail.

The reasons for the initial failure were three. First, the group should have been given an authoritative definition of its powers. Quite tardily, such a statement has been approved this year. Second, the members had to discover for themselves what policies ought to be encouraged and how to proceed. Faculty leaders might have saved time by proposing certain functions for discussion, modification, and approval. Experience has indicated that students appreciate assured leadership given in a democratic spirit. Third, the Congress began each year with a wholly new set of members. Now there is provision for continuing a fourth of the membership for two years. Each new Congress hitherto had to begin afresh except for references to the minutes of preceding meetings or the recollections of faculty members. Since the plan largely succeeds or fails depending upon the type of student membership, it is preferable to continue interested members for at least two years.

More than three years were required to show what powers the Congress actually wanted. Then a faculty member exercised leadership, and, with a committee of students, drew up a list of desired powers. These were readily granted by the college administration. Specifically, the Congress now has the following authorizations: to prepare the allocation of budget funds, amounting to about twelve thousand dollars, with the cooperation of a faculty adviser; to promote a better campus spirit; to develop a wholesome social program for the whole college; to develop a yearly artist-course program; to supervise student elections; to assist in bringing out a weekly calendar of college activities; and to sponsor a spring festival. The whole program of student activities would now be functioning much better if the Congress had at the beginning been given these powers. A clearly formulated agenda is indispensable for student government groups which change memberships in a short time. Experience has also demonstrated the wisdom of having representatives elected in the spring rather than at the beginning of a college year. This procedure, now followed, gives more continuity to the governing body.

The defects of the Bucknell plan are four. In the first place, student representation is unequally distributed among the various interest groups. Second, at the outset the plan involved an entirely new student membership each year. Third, the purposes to be served by the Congress from the beginning were perhaps understood by its founders, but they were too vaguely expressed to guide the members. Fourth, the efficiency of the organizations is dependent upon the abilities of student representatives. An apathetic president, or a few members with a touch of reformatory paranoia, vitiate the efficiency of the group during their year of office. Student elections leave much to chance, campus politics, and the meretricious appeal of embryonic politicians.

The advantages of the plan are four. First, a student-faculty governing body provides for the co-ordination of all student activities, otherwise a chaotic maze of conflicting interests. Second, the administration and faculty members may effect purposeful changes in the campus life by working through such an organization. Third, a coherent and continuous plan for the business management of student activities is made possible by this setup. Fourth, student activities are brought into harmony with the whole educational purpose of the college. In some measure, the classroom teachings may be actualized in the informal campus life of the student body. At present the Bucknell plan of a Student-Faculty Congress is a hopeful attempt to strive for achievement of these purposes.

of helpful service that was so characteristic of the library in his day. No structure can ever be better than its foundations; and no matter how large or how notable the Bucknell Library may become, it will be what it is because of the excellent foundations that this outstanding librarian put under it.

Some one has said that a man's opinion is no better than his information, a truth that should be self evident. Similarly, it might as truthfully be said that a librarian's ability is no better than his knowledge of men. As one's opinions are founded upon his information, so is a librarian's helpfulness based upon his acquaintance with his fellows. He must know their characters, their mental abilities, their prejudices, their various traits, if he is to render maximum assistance to the searcher after truth. He must know how to help the inquirer find the truth. So he is, per force, a student of mankind.

William Emmet Martin was primarily a student of men and books. He gained his love for books in school and college, and his love for them became the ruling passion of his life. Just when he began to study men it is difficult to say; but immediately after his graduation from Bucknell in 1871, he was appointed an assistant in the preparatory department, and in 1873 was made principal of the Bucknell Academy. When the two were merged, in 1878, he continued as principal of the Academy, continuing in that post until 1894, when he was appointed professor of logic and anthropology in the College. In 1902 he was professor of sociology. Certainly, in these long years of dealing with youth he could not have done otherwise than study men.

Dr. Martin understood well that you can lead a horse to water but you cannot make him drink. He knew also that you can lead men to learning without being able to compel them to partake of it. So his method was that of education through personality. He sought to embody in himself the ideals of culture and knowledge in which he strove to interest others. That he was effective is amply proved by the host of young men and women who first glimpsed the meaning of the word "culture" through his eyes and found it eternally attractive.

When Dr. Martin died in 1922, at the age of 74, the Bucknell Alumni Monthly said of him: "Dr. Martin is dead. How misleading the statement. All those who knew him realize its falsity. For if ever a man lived in the spirit which perished not, it was he. Though his earthly frame be vanished, that spirit shall dwell among us to the end." Now, fifteen years later, that spirit is still with us. His work will continue also. Like John Martin's bridge, the structure he erected stands and will stand. It is both the realization of an ideal, and a monument to the man who made it.

The Bucknell Alumni Monthly

Published monthly during the college year by

THE ALUMNI COUNCIL FOR

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY

Entered as second-class matter December 23, 1930 at the post office at Lewisburg, Pa., under the Act of August 24, 1912.

Dear Bucknellians:

We are issuing this pictorial booklet as the February, 1938, number of the Alumni Monthly as a part of the program which we announced recently of establishing an "ever-normal enrollment" of 1200 students at Bucknell.

I hope you will enjoy these pictures of present-day life at your Alma Mater. And I trust you will think of choice young men and women to whom you would like us to send this booklet and other material pertaining to application for admission to Bucknell.

If so, please use the attached postal with which to send such names and addresses to Registrar Holter.

With best wishes,

Yours for Bucknell

"FALL IN FOR BUCKNELL"

The Drummer Boys of Bucknell Beat the Long Roll

Bucknell University, a coeducational college nearly a century old, is situated on the Susquehanna River in the beautiful town of Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, sixty miles north of Harrisburg, the state capital.

The pictures on the following pages reveal something of the spirit, purpose and tradition of this fine old college. You too may want to "Fall In" for Bucknell.

You glimpse the campus of Bucknell from the veranda of the President's home. Each year some 1,100,000 young American men and women are in a college career. Bucknell can accommodate only 1,200 of them. Registration at Bucknell is restricted to about 800 men and 400 women.

The aims of Bucknell are high — archery is a symbol as well as an athletic exercise.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY exists for young men and women with those qualities of mind and personality and character and ambition and self-reliance that lead them to want to grow, and to achieve, and to serve mankind.

To them Bucknell offers a broad Liberal Arts course, and also curricula leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in special fields: Biology, Commerce and Finance, Education, Chemical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, and Mechanical Engineering. In all its academic work, Bucknell strives to achieve the dual aims of specialized training and rich cultural education, in order that the students' professional and vocational careers may be based upon deep and broad foundations.

Bucknell has a faculty of ninety-two competent teachers prepared to give training in a wide variety of fields. Many are eminent scholars; all are men and women of high intelligence and character who maintain a personal, human interest in the students they teach.

Bucknell's standing is high. It is approved by the Association of American Universities and other accrediting agencies. Each year many Bucknell men and women make fine records in the nation's most exacting graduate schools.

Outside the classroom are diversified activities which serve to develop personality. In addition to extracurricular opportunities in athletics, dramatics, journalism, debating, and other interests, Bucknell offers a broad social and recreational program directed by skilled counsellors.

Expenses at Bucknell are moderate. Dormitory rooms are available at prices scaled to suit all budgets, while tuition charges are also reasonable.

In a stimulating and unusual environment, where river, mountain, meadow and forest meet, Bucknell challenges you to "fall in" for the long march toward personal fulfillment.

Mrs. Vaughan and the Memorial Plaque in the Vaughan Literature Building

The Vaughan Literature Building Dedicated During Literary Week End

IN a beautifully impressive ceremony held on Saturday afternoon of Literary Week End in the auditorium of the new literature building, that structure was formally named in honor of Dr. Charles P. Vaughan, late chairman of the Board of Trustees, and solemnly dedicated to its purpose of aiding in the education of American youth. Mrs. Vaughan and two of her daughters, Mrs. Harry H. Hellerman, Jr., and Mrs. William D. Watson, Jr. were present, together with many other distinguished alumni and friends of Bucknell.

Dr. Arnaud C. Marts, now acting president of Bucknell, served as chairman of the meeting and also delivered the dedicatory address.

MR. MARTS' SPEECH

"If I were to attempt to characterize Dr. Vaughan in a very few words", he began, "I would say: He was a generous man, a modest man, and a man of great power. Of his great generosity I shall not speak in detail, for his very modesty forbade that. Of his modesty, I may speak.

"When he was first invited to become a member of the Board of Trustees of Bucknell, he hesitated because he did not think himself qualified for the task.

"We who had the privilege of serving with him, know now that it was this very modesty which qualified him to become one of the three or four greatest trustees of Bucknell's long line of splendid trustees.

"Thy modesty", said Fielding, "is a candle to thy merit".

"And Kipling put a similar thought in these words: 'Humble because of knowledge, mighty by sacrifice'.

"We who sit on boards are often quite loquacious. Some of us on the Bucknell Board probably speak too frequently and at over-length. Dr. Vaughan spoke very seldom in the Board meetings, and when he did speak it was in a low voice and very briefly. But every word, quiet though it was, was heard, and heeded.

"Men of few words are the best ones", said Shakespeare in King Henry V, and again in King Rich- ard, he said: 'Truth hath a quiet breast'.

"So, I do not say 'Dr. Vaughan was a generous man, a modest man, but a man of great power'. I say rather, 'Dr. Vaughan was a generous man, a modest man, and a man of great power'.

"It is appropriate, therefore, that our living monument to him, our beloved leader and colleague, should be the literature building; that his name should be linked immortally at the college he loved and served so nobly, with an aspect of education and of life which preserves inherently the very qualities which were the essence of his being.

"Literature — the quiet flow of man's best thoughts and insights from generation to generation; Literature — the deep reservoir of mankind's wisdom accumulated and treasured from the beginning of man's cultural life; Literature — the cool, silent spring of living waters, by which all men live who truly live.

"'They had no poet', said Pope of an earlier people, 'They had no poet, and they died'.

The Vaughan Literature Building

"It is supremely appropriate that Dr. Vaughan's name should forevermore, be associated here with literature, the quiet art.

"It is equally appropriate that literature should, forevermore, be associated on our campus with Dr. Vaughan's name. Kindred in depth, in modesty, and in power.

"And now it becomes my pleasure and my duty, in behalf of the Board of Trustees of Bucknell University at Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, to declare that hereafter this beautiful building shall be known by us all as THE VAUGHAN LITERATURE BUILDING.

"To Mrs. Vaughan, and to the daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Vaughan, Mrs. Hellerman and Mrs. Watson, all three of whom we are proud to have present today, and to Mrs. Ira Vaughan who is prevented by illness from attending, I extend the affection and gratitude and deep appreciation of Bucknell, and of all who love this college, for the share each of these ladies has had in the notable service which Dr. Vaughan rendered Bucknell.

"In the corridor just at the entrance to this Auditorium has been placed a bronze tablet which memorializes Dr. Vaughan and commemorates the naming of this building.

"This tablet reads as follows: 'One hundred years from now, the main campus of Bucknell will be out here at what is now the far edge of the campus. This building, built for the centuries, the first of the many "buildings to be" will be here — insofar as human foresight can see — and this tablet of imperishable bronze will still be in its place preserving the likeness of this our beloved friend and this brief intimation of his life and of our service'.

"Let us also preserve this memory in that which is more imperishable than bronze — in the living tradition of a great college. Let us pass down from generation to generation some vital sense of the warm admiration and gratitude which we feel for this gentleman who means so much to Bucknell of today and of tomorrow. Let us thus keep alive — as bronze alone cannot do — the memory of Dr. Charles Parker Vaughan, a generous man, a modest man, and a man of great power".

During the ceremony, a picture of the bronze memorial, highly magnified, was thrown upon a screen at the front of the auditorium, and President Marts requested the audience to participate in the dedication by reading in unison the words on this memorial tablet.

President Emeritus Emory W. Hunt, during whose administration Dr. Vaughan became a member of the Board of Trustees, told of the latter's great generosity to the college. In the interim between the resignation of Dr. Hunt and the election of his successor, Dr. Homer P. Rainey, Dr. Vaughan served as acting president. Thus he was known to both men intimately. Dr. Rainey, in whose administration the Vaughan Literature Building was erected, spoke of Dr. Vaughan's idealism and far-seeing vision. The Bucknell Girls' Chorus, led by Miss Grace Jenkins, sang two selections: "Wings", and "Invocation to Life".

Bucknell's Literary Week End Starts a New Custom

WITH the initiation of a Literary Week End, Bucknell has evidently "started something." Dr. William A. Shimer, executive secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, who was here as one of the week end speakers, said as much. Commenting upon the affair, in one of his talks, he remarked: "We have had all sorts of week ends — Homecomings, Spring Festivals, reunions, and so on, and now comes the Literary Week End. It appears as though Bucknell has really hit upon something new. It is delightful to attend such an affair. Such a gathering is so unusual. Let us hope there will be more of them."

Dr. Shimer's wish is unquestionably echoed by hundreds of visitors and students, for the week-end program brought to the campus several choice personalities, whom it was truly a delight to meet, and to whom well pleased audiences listened with keen interest.

If variety is the spice it is said to be, then Bucknell's Literary Week End was indeed a spicy affair. It began on Thursday morning, when, at the usual chapel hour, Dr. Huston Peterson of Columbia University and Rutgers College, talked to the assembled student body. Dr. Peterson is also director of the People's Institute of New York City. Anticipating a large audience, the college had secured the use of the Methodist church auditorium, and it was filled to capacity. Dr. Peterson's talk on "Good Books and Tired Brains," which was well spiced with wit and humor, fairly delighting the audience. President Marts presided, introducing the speaker, and Professor C. Willard Smith pronounced the invocation. The academic gowns gave just the literary touch needed to complete the occasion. Professor William McRae and the Bucknell chapel choir added greatly to the meeting with their music.

Dr. George Lyman Kittredge, Gurney Professor of English Literature Emeritus of Harvard University, outstanding Shakespearean scholar, talked to a large audience on Thursday evening in the Lewisburg High School auditorium, discoursing about "The Villains of Shakespeare." Professor William H. Coleman, of the Department of English, presided and introduced Dr. Kittredge. A Bucknell trio, consisting of Instructor Charles F. Stickney, violin, Charles Henderson, harpsichord, and Lois Brungart, cello, delighted the audience with their rendition of appropriate old English melodies.

Friday afternoon brought to the campus Dr. Frederick A. Pottle, Professor of English Literature at Yale University, who described to an interested audience in the auditorium of the Vaughan Literature Building the finding of a recently-discovered collection of Boswell papers in an old Boswell castle in Ireland, and acquainted his hearers with the contents of those papers. Dr. Pottle is known as the editor of Boswell's "Journal of a Tour to the Hebrides with Samuel Johnson, LL.D." and other works of Boswell's. Professor Harry W. Robbins, of the Department of English, presided and introduced the speaker. Miss Lois Chapin sang several solos. She was accompanied by Miss Martha Sears.

Friday evening brought a most delightful meeting in the Lewisburg Baptist church, when Dr. Shimer discoursed about "Literature and Personality," and Miss Elsie Singmaster, famous writer of tales of the Pennsylvania Germans, read her own story "Thanksgiving is not Christmas," in a delightful manner, which fairly captivated the audience. Preceding her reading, Miss Singmaster spoke briefly about the Pennsylvania Germans, pointing out the remarkable part they had played in the development of Pennsylvania and other States, and describing delightfully some of the racial peculiarities of speech and manner that they have retained to this day.

Professor Robert L. Sutherland presided and introduced both speakers. Mrs. Ruth Parker played a piano solo, and Miss Hazel Gravell sang two selections.

Saturday noon brought a delightful luncheon of the Friends of the Bucknell Library, with Mr. Norman A. Henry, '05, president of the group, presiding. Professor Eliza J. Martin, Bucknell librarian, reported concerning the library —its present equipment, its needs, and plans that had been made for it. She also told of the books that had been contributed to the library during the past year by members of the group.

Saturday afternoon saw another meeting in the Vaughan Literature

The Friends of the Library Hold a Luncheon

Building, with Mr. Henry also presiding, and the speaker being Mrs. Mary Agnes Hamilton, of England, who spoke delightfully on "Today's Novelists."

The dedication of the Vaughan Literature Building, the crowning event of the week-end, has been described elsewhere. It occurred at three o'clock on Saturday afternoon, following Mrs. Hamilton's talk, and brought together a notable group. Immediately after the ceremony, tea was served in the lounge of the building, in honor of Mrs. Vaughan and her daughters, Mrs. Hellerman and Mrs. Watson. Members of the Department of English faculty acted as hosts. Many of the visitors attended the tea, and were well pleased with the arrangement of this portion of the building, as professors' offices, seminar rooms, the library, and other portions of the building were thrown open for inspection.

Saturday evening saw a showing of motion pictures in the Literature auditorium, which has recently been equipped with picture projection machines. Leslie Howard and Norma Shearer were shown in two presentations of the screen version of "Romeo and Juliet."

Student church, with a service in the Lutheran church auditorium, on Sunday evening, ended the formal program for the week end. The speaker was Dr. D. Montfort Melchior, who has taught for many years in the Bucknell summer session, and who gave one of his characteristically delightful talks on the Bible. Thus ended Bucknell's first Literary Week End.

While all this was in progress, however, interested visitors and students had been examining the fascinating literary exhibits assembled in The Vaughan Literature Building, in Roberts Hall in Old Main, and in the Carnegie Library. The Roberts Hall exhibit consisted of 150 photographs lent by the New York Times, that illustrated the history of the printed word. There were also assembled here the 1346 books given to the library during the past year by the Friends of the Library. In the Vaughan Literature Building were shown some of the newer books that have just come off the press.

The crowning exhibit, however, for Bucknellians, was that in the Carnegie Library, where Professor Eliza Martin had gathered together

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Bucknellians:

The 1938 Commencement will be held on Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, June 11, 12, and 13th. I hope a great many of you will find it possible to return to "the college on the hill" for these stimulating exercises.

This year's Commencement season will be especially interesting because the formal session on Monday morning, at which the addresses will be delivered and the degrees awarded, will be held in the new Men's Gymnasium, now in process of construction. Following the graduation exercises, the Gymnasium will be dedicated to its life-time service to Bucknell youth, and it will be given its name. Come and take part in this gala occasion.

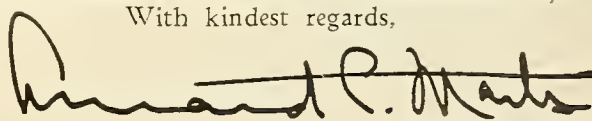

The work on this building is progressing steadily. A few weeks ago when we came to a crucial decision as to certain very vital questions of design, equipment, and finish, the largest contributor to the building fund sent us word that each of the questions should be decided in favor of the best way to build a gymnasium regardless of cost. With his message he sent enough additional funds to pay the increased costs which follow such decisions. "I want the Bucknell Gymnasium to be the best anywhere," he said, and that is what it is to be.

Meanwhile we are making plans to renovate Tustin Gymnasium for the use of our women students, and next fall the physical education facilities for our women will be as much improved over their present facilities as will be the men's improved over their present facilities.

Following the completion of this work, we hope to take up the erection of the final wing of the Engineering Building, the present wing of which was erected in 1922. The Engineering Faculty and the architect are hard at work on the designs for this construction and generous initial gifts have already been received.

In spite of physical changes which come to Bucknell as they must come to all growing organisms, the spirit of your Alma Mater remains unchanged, — the spirit of high endeavor of ambitious youth, of unselfish devotion to God and humanity. Let us keep that Bucknell banner afloat wherever a Bucknellian may be.

With kindest regards,

Acting President

Mrs. Theiss Finds Interesting Items Concerning Bucknell Writers

WHEN Shakespeare said, "There are more things in Heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy," he was right. We do not have to go far to find some of those interesting things. In fact, Dr. Mary Bartol Theiss turned up a lot of them in her investigation into the identity of Bucknell's writers, of whom she discovered more than 300, with more than 1,200 volumes to their credit.

It is interesting to note that from the very beginning, Bucknell has had writers of some standing. Her very first professor of literature, Lucius E. Smith, was represented in Godey's Lady's Book with the poem "To a Transplanted Tree." That poem is printed elsewhere in this issue. Godey's Lady's Book was as preeminent a periodical in its day as the Saturday Evening Post or The Atlantic Monthly or The Ladies Home Journal is today.

Everett T. Tomlinson, whom Bucknell honored in 1906 with an LL.D., was the author of more than 100 books for boys. These were stories of the finest type. They were practically all of a historical nature, and dealt with the Wars of the Revolution, of 1812, the Civil War, and the struggles with the Indians. Most of them were set in his own native South Jersey country. It is amazing to find that every one of these books went into several editions, and by 1929 more than 2,000,000 copies of these stories had been issued. In 1911 Dr. Tomlinson became executive director of the Baptist Board of Ministers' and Missionaries' Benefits. It had no funds. When he resigned in 1926, the organization had an endowment of $1,800,000. Evidently Dr. Tomlinson was as unusual as an executive as he was as an author.

Dr. George W. Anderson, Bucknell's second professor, was the father of Miss Ellen Anderson, who became the wife of General Tasker Howard Bliss, ex-'73, chief of staff of the U. S. Army during the World War. Their daughter Eleanor, a Bryn Mawr Ph.D. in geology, married Dr.

Adolph Knopf, professor of geology at Yale University.

James Buchanan, Pennsylvania's only President, was a member of the Board of Curators of Bucknell in 1851, and attended the first commencement exercises on the top floor of the present Taylor Hall. The minutes of the Board of Curators show that he made the motion, at the curators' meeting, which authorized the conferring of bachelor's degrees upon our first graduating class—seven young men.

Dr. Thomas Fenner Curtis, professor of theology, 1860-'63, was expelled from the Lewisburg Baptist Church because he wrote a book on "The human element in the inspiration of the Scriptures." (The italics are ours).

Frank Earl Herring, '97, author of "At the Edge of Day," a volume of verses, and other writings, was named by the Montana legislature and credited in the U. S. Congress as the first nation-wide sponsor of "Mother's Day."

John Price Crozer, for 19 years a trustee of Bucknell, was born in Delaware County, Pa., in the house in which Benjamin West, America's first great painter, was born.

Dr. Ernest M. Gress, '07, who has long been Pennsylvania State botanist, has written many monographs on grasses and other plants that are of very great value.

Dr. George G. Groff, for many years professor of science at Bucknell and author of many monographs and books, was called by President David Jayne Hill "the father of coeducation at Bucknell." Dr. Groff fought long and valiantly to have women admitted to the college classes before that end was accomplished. Dr. Groff was given leave of absence during the Spanish-American War, when he served as a surgeon, with the rank of major, in the U. S. army. Sent to Puerto Rico, he cleaned up that island, instituting a modern system of sanitation, and became the actual father of the first modern system of education in that country, although the position of first Commissioner of Education later went to another man.

In an article titled "Authors Every Boy Should Know," Good Housekeeping prints a list of 58 writers for boys. This list covers the leading English and American writers for boys, of all time. One of the authors listed is Dr. Lewis E. Theiss, '02, professor of journalism, who is the author of nearly thirty books for boys, and hundreds of magazine articles.

Dr. Amos S. Hershey, ex-'91, famous as a teacher and writer of history, was one of President Woodrow Wilson's advisers at the making of the Treaty of Versailles. Another of his advisers was General Tasker Howard Bliss, ex-'73.

President Justin Rolph Loomis, notable as an early world traveler, was the author of the first textbooks used at Bucknell that were written by a Bucknell man. His two volumes on anatomy, physiology and hygiene, and on geology were the books. They were standard texts at the time and were widely used. It was Dr. Loomis who gave several thousand dollars for the purpose of cutting back the shoulder of the hill where the power house now stands and using the earth and rock to fill in the playing field later named for him. It was he, also, who bought the ground on which stands the president's house, and who built the original structure there. The University later bought the property back, and the house has repeatedly been enlarged. The property was transferred to the University with the restriction that no vinous or spirituous liquor should ever be sold on the plot.

Dr. Homer P. Rainey, former president of Bucknell, and his director of publicity, Arthur L. Brandon, '27, who was formerly publicity director for Bucknell, are the co-authors of "How Fare American Youth?" It is the initial report to the American Council on Education of the American Youth Commission, with which both are now connected.

One of the world's most famous hymn writers was Dr. Robert Lowry, '54, who was a Bucknell professor from 1869 to 1875. His hymns swept the country and his fame spread throughout the world. Upon the occasion of a visit to England, he was received with tremendous ovations. Song books he issued were sold by the hundreds of thousands. Some of his compositions are: "I Need Thee Every Hour," "Shall We Gather at the River?" "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" "Savior, Thy Dying Love," etc. Many of these hymns were written in the house he then occupied at the foot of the campus, in which Dr. William C. Bartol has lived for the past half century and more.

Another famous Bucknell writer was Dr. Howard Malcom, Bucknell's first president. Sensing the need of a Bible dictionary, he wrote one. It was the very first such text. It met a crying need, and the book sold many thousands of copies. Although Dr. Malcom received a royalty of only four cents a copy, he was able, out of the proceeds, to build the lovely old home that stood where now the Kappa Sigma house stands. This home was of course the first presidential residence. It was later occupied by a Bucknell professor, and still later by a Bucknell fraternity. Dr. Malcom was the author of 13 books.

Dr. Lemuel Moss, for three years a Bucknell professor, became the secretary of the Christian Commission during the Civil War. This organization was the forerunner of the American Red Cross, and served soldiers in that bloody struggle as its successor would now do. Dr. Moss wrote a very notable report on the work of that commission. After leaving Bucknell, Dr. Moss served as president of both the University of Indiana, and the old University of Chicago.

John Gundy Owens, '87, was a pioneer in American archeology. As a Harvard graduate fellow he was a leading member of an early expedition to Yucatan, to study the remains of the old Mayans. He was taken ill with tropic fever and died in Copan. He was a younger brother of Professor William Gundy Owens, '80, who retired from the faculty two years ago.

George Alexander Peltz, '57, D.D. '79, once a curator of Bucknell, was one of the organizers of the original Chautauqua movement. He was the first editor of The Baptist Teacher, and later became assistant editor of The Sunday School Times.

Major William Gray Murdock, ex-'05, was in charge of the draft for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, during the World War.

Dr. William Robert Williams, author of "Conservative Principles in our Literature," and other books, and lecturer on Baptist history, was a charter curator of Bucknell and also of Madison, now Colgate University.

In 1934 the Harvard University press published as No. 42 of Harvard Economic Studies, Paul Wallace Gates' "Illinois Central Railroad and Its Colonization Work," an interesting study of Middle West pioneering, of interest to Union County as many hundreds of early settlers in Buffalo Valley went west to Freeport and Stephenson County, Illinois.

Frank Alfred Golder, '98, was perhaps the most interesting among all our alumni. Born near Odessa, in southern Russia, Golder was brought by his parents to America in 1880, when he was three years of age. After his graduation from Bucknell he taught for three years in Alaska, on a lonely island settlement and in island schools. Returning, he took his Ph.D. in 1907. His attention and interest now centered in Alaska and in Russia. He became interested in the study of Russian expansion on the Pacific. In 1914 the Carnegie Institution selected him to investigate sources for the study of American history in Russian archives. This resulted in his Guide to materials for the study of American history in Russian archives, in 1917. He was so fortunate as to secure in Russia an important collection of unpublished letters of John Paul Jones concerning the Russo-Turkish war 1787-92, which were published in 1927 by Doubleday. He published Bering's Voyages, in two volumes, 1922.

He was a member of Colonel House's Inquiry Commission as a specialist in Russian affairs. In 1920 he collected in eastern Europe material for the new Hoover War Library at Stanford University. In 1921 he became a member of the faculty in history at Stanford, but continued in Europe as a member of Hoover's Relief Administration.

During the Russian revolution, he rendered invaluable assistance to hundreds of Russian scholars, who owe him their life. On the

STUDENTS ASK MARTS TO ACCEPT PRESIDENCY

Probably unique in the history of American colleges was the petition presented by the student body at Bucknell to Acting President Marts just prior to the Christmas vacation, asking him to consent to become the permanent head of the institution. The usual Thursday chapel was in session, in the Baptist church auditorium, when Ambrose Saricks, a senior student from Wilkes-Barre, varied the customary procedure in chapel service, by walking to the front of the auditorium and, in a few simple and appropriate words, presenting to the astonished Acting President, who was presiding, a huge petition that had been signed by practically every one of the 1200 students at Bucknell.

This petition read as follows: "We, the undersigned students of Bucknell University, appreciating the valuable and disinterested service you have given to our University since you became temporary president in October, 1935, do most earnestly, but respectfully, express the hope that you will now consent to accept the title of President of Bucknell University. We believe that under your leadership the progress that our University has made during the last two years will continue indefinitely. Therefore, acting as we believe in the best interests of our Alma Mater, we ask you to accept this petition as an expression of our confidence in you and as a pledge to you of our loyal support in years to come."

The Bucknellian issued immediately a number that carried a special story reciting the achievements of Dr. Marts, and editorially repeating the request embodied in the petition.

The Board of Trustees has also strongly urged Mr. Marts to accept the presidency, but he has given no indication as to his decision. He has, however, consented to remain in charge for another two-year period. The faculty has also decisively indicated its earnest wish that he consent. The Alumni Monthly takes this occasion to add its voice, most emphatically, to the chorus demanding that Arnaud C. Marts become president of Bucknell University in fact as well as in name.

BUCKNELL'S POETS

SO far as we can learn, by careful investigation, the first poem written by a Bucknellian, which gained recognition, was one called "To a Transplanted Tree," by Professor Lucius E. Smith, Bucknell's first professor of literature, 1865-'68. This poem was published in Godey's Lady's Book, that very famous early American periodical. It is reproduced in the pages of this issue of the Alumni Monthly.

Another early Bucknell writer, famous as America's foremost writer on international law, was Dr. David Jayne Hill, '74, one time president of Bucknell, who achieved such an outstanding career in the realm of diplomacy. As early as the days when he was a student he produced some very good poems.

Dr. James Mitchell Stewart, '76, has some volumes of excellent verse to his credit. Professor Herman H. Horne, of New York University in his preface to one of these volumes, says of Dr. Stewart: "The author is by vocation a physician, by avocation a poetic artist." His volume entitled "Moods and Musings," contains many very touching and well-wrought poems.

Among writers of a later day, Mrs. Branche Bane Kuder, '04, Mrs. Ruth Hammitt Kauffman, '06, and Mrs. Dorothy Markham Brown, '23, all have won recognition for their verses. Elsewhere in this issue, we print a verse of Mrs. Kauffman's that appeared in the Circle Magazine, and one of Mrs. Brown's that was recently featured in Good Housekeeping.

The late Miss Alif Stephens, '04, wrote many excellent verses for children, which were set to music by her sister, Mrs. Ruth Stephens Porter, '05, and very attractively published for little folks.

Frank A. Mitchell, ex-'03, who became a successful Chicago manufacturer, produced much excellent verse after his college days. Some of his poems were collected and published under the title "War Rhymes and Peace Poems." This volume went through two editions, which is unusual for books of poetry. His verses had something of the homely philosophy of James Whitcomb Riley, and a little sparkle all their own.

There is also a poem from Dr. Wilfrid H. Crook, associate professor of sociology at our Junior College in Wilkes-Barre.

It seems highly appropriate that in this particular issue of the Alumni Monthly some of the work of our Bucknell poets should be presented. We are able to publish the poems printed in this issue through the kind permission of the magazines and writers owning the copyrights. We thank both the periodicals and the authors for these permissions.

TO A TRANSPLANTED TREE

By Lucius E. Smith

Far from thy native mountain side
 The hands of man have planted thee,
 Where, rooting deep and branching wide,
 Full many an hour thou'st sheltered me.
 With cautious care and patient toil
 They drew thee from thy native ground;
 Now nurtured by a kindlier soil,
 New beauty circles thee around.
 How fiercely every fibre clung
 To the dear spot that gave thee birth—
 As if, though tender and though young,
 A parcel of the solid earth!
 Yielding at length, as one by one
 Thy ties by violence were parted,
 How hung thy foliage in the sun,
 Like the forlorn and broken-hearted!
 And when within this garden's bound,
 A happier home, a brighter scene
 For thy wild mountain stem was found,
 Why, 'mid its flowers and alleys green,
 Why didst thou droop, so sadly pale?
 Wast pining for the purer breeze
 That waked the pine-grove's evening wail,
 And danced upon the waving trees?
 Yet short thy sadness;—Summer showers,
 Her morning sun and evening dew,
 Gave fragrance to unnumbered flowers,
 And on thy tender branches threw
 A glorious and unwonted smile,
 Unknown to the dark forest scene.—
 Rewarding thy transplanter's toil
 With strength renewed and freshened green.

Then stretched thy branches wide and high,
 Then deeper delved thy roots beneath,
 Till strong, the whirlwinds to defy,
 And dally with the thunder's breath:
 While all thy fellows one by one,
 The hill-mates of thine infancy,
 By storm or woodman's axe o'erthrown,
 Like withered grass have shrunk away.
 Often, beneath a sultry noon,
 Under thy thick, green canopy,
 The memory of days by-gone
 Is mingled with my thought of thee:
 I, too, am a transplanted tree!
 Time, Time and Death have come to sever
 From the low roof of infancy,
 And to lead me from its door forever!
 Lights that around the fireside glowed,
 To other hearths have wandered far—
 Or, sinking into darkness, strewed
 Their ashes on the hillside there:
 And there the green and velvet sod
 Carpets the mound above their dust,—
 But changeless as the truth of God
 Endures the memory of the just!
 And therefore do I love to sit,
 All the bright hours of sunny days,
 In calmness at thy shaded feet, —
 While every breeze that round thee plays
 Murmurs a song of grateful hope,
 And trusts in Providential love,
 That watched thee, lest one leaf should droop
 When taken from thy native grove.

THE TEST OF AFFECTION

by David Jayne Hill

(written when he was a Bucknell sophomore)

"The test of affection's a tear," wrote he

Who sealed up the fount of his own;

But what is the crystal drop to me,

When the weeper's heart is stone?

When, weary with watching, the worn out soul

Is buried in shadows and gloom,

Soft tears have no magic to roll

The stone away from the tomb.

'Tis a sterner and holier test of love

That a broken spirit will crave;

'Tis a grander thing to look above

To a face that's bright and brave.

Then give me not tears when my heart is weak,

For of these I shall have no need;

But grant me the boon my soul shall seek—

The test of affection's a deed!

THE WIFE

by Ruth Hammitt Kauffman

Each night at six, lest he be late,
Here at the door I wait and wait.

Our little home, to us a shrine
Where every breath is his and mine,
Is silent and intent with me

To hear the clicking of his key,
Which opens, in the twilight dim,
All of my heart and soul to him.

The cloth is spread, the dinner steams;
I wait the comrade of my dreams.

I wait to catch and kiss his hands

As in the door my husband stands;

And touch and stroke his tangled hair,
Smoothe out his forehead's frown of care,

Caress his listless lips to life

And whisper he is with his wife.

Tonight will all — I — love be late?

Here at the door I wait, I wait.

WHEN DAY IS DONE

by Frank A. Mitchell

I guess it's sort of natural when a man is past his prime,
And edging toward the borderland, to take more stock of Time.
Its market value kind of creeps up point by point each year,
For human nature prizes most the things that disappear.
And when we have a plenty, we loll in our easy chair,
And take for granted blessings will come looking for us there.

A lesson we all have to learn—it took me sixty year—
Is that the things we've done ourselves, that cost us pretty dear
In time and hard, soul-grindin' work, enrich us more by far
Than things that come too easy like, no matter what they are.
Why, every sod on this old farm is irrigated through
With the sweat of years of labor, and plenty of it, too.

I prize it as I prize the years that fence it all around,
Enclosing memories that grow on every foot of ground.
The apples in the orchard, they're the finest anywhere,
But every tree means more to me because I put it there.
And Time—the years are precious, and I value every one,
Not as a gift, but a reward, by hard-earned labor won.

A GROWING-UP SON

*by Dorothy Markham Brown, '23*Printed by permission of Good Housekeeping

* * * *

It seems such a little while

Since he was playing at my knee,

And when I spoke to him, my eyes

Would downward turn his face to see.

And now, in just a few short years,

(Oh God, how short the years can be)

My eyes must upward turn, for then

He will be looking down on me.

Dear God, if in the years gone by

I have been in some measure fit

To merit childhood's upturned gaze,

And only quail a little bit,

Please help me in the coming years

A nobler woman yet to be—

That when his eyes must downward turn,

His soul will still look up to me.

SCHOLAR OR SERVITOR? — A CHALLENGE

by Wilfrid J. Crook

He came to me in quiet perplexity
Reluctant to expose his soul's distress;
Told his life's aim, of real nobility,
Which sudden fate now forced him to suppress.

A gentle soul, with love of learning's lore,
Despising oft the world's unseemly waste
In liquor and in things of little store;
Now bound himself to serve the vulgar taste

He sees his goal fast slipping from his reach
As hopes of legal calling fade away.
Familial duty makes increasing breach
In college plans, which yield to need of pay.

To tranquil souls, with ample wealth endowed,
This tale should come as challenge and as shame.
They, having much, to share it should be proud,
To give such earnest youths a chance for fame!

Dr. Robert M. Steele, '08, president of the California State Teachers College, at California, Pa., was host on February 14 to a notable assemblage of persons who had come to his institution to initiate the Federal-State building project there, which will provide the institution with some needed college structures. For this work more than $600,000 was allotted by the General State Authority. Dr. Steele has always retained his interest in Bucknell, and in recent years has been active in the work of the Friends of the Library.

Dr. Edward J. Humphreys, '26, director of the research department at the Letchworth Village, New York institution for mental hygiene, is spending three months at the Phipps Clinic, at the Johns Hopkins University, in Baltimore, where he is carrying out a special study under the direction of Dr. Adolf Meyer.

The Rev. Clarence W. Cranford, '29, for the past six years pastor of the Logan Baptist Church in Philadelphia, recently married Miss Kathryn May Young, of Fort Collins, Colo. The ceremony was held in the church at 13th and Ruscomb Sts. The Rev. Aubrey Young, of Chestnut Level, performed the marriage ceremony. More than 300 members of Mr. Cranford's congregation gave a reception for him and Miss Young before the wedding.

"Cranny" was active in various fields at Bucknell. He rose to the chief editorship of The Bucknellian. He is a member of the Alpha Chi Mu social fraternity, and the honorary journalism fraternity, Pi Delta Epsilon.

Carl L. Giles, '36, recently married Jane Louise Repley, of Shamokin. Mr. Giles entered Bucknell from the Valley Forge Military Academy. He is now teaching in the Ralpho Township school at Elysburg.

William R. White, '26

William R. White, '26, State superintendent of banking for New York, was the recipient recently of the distinguished service award key and scroll given annually by the New York Young Men's Board of Trade to a young man, not more than 35 years old, "who has made the greatest contribution to the community."

Leaders in the banking field paid tribute to Mr. White at a luncheon in the Bankers Club, where Joseph A. Broderick, president of the East River Savings Bank, conferred the award for 1937.

Others receiving the award in recent years were Lou Gehrig, 1936; Thomas E. Dewey, 1935; and Joseph D. McGoldrick, 1934.

Henry Bruere, president of the Bowery Savings Bank, attributed to Mr. White "the art of refraining from too meticulous interference." Mr. White not only understood "intricate economy", Mr. Bruere said, but had "a distinguished career" in performing a public service.

His Knowledge Cited

George V. McLaughlin, president of the Brooklyn Trust Co., paid tribute to Mr. White's "broad knowledge not only of banking but of law."

Allen Sproul, vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, was another speaker.

Bucknell was represented at the luncheon by Robert L. Rooke, '13, of the Bucknell Board of Trustees.

Many Congratulate White

Letters of congratulation were received from Governor Lehman, Alfred E. Smith, S. Parker Gilbert, Lamar Hardy, A. A. Berle, Jr., Thomas I. Parkinson, James H. Perkins, and Donald Campbell.

Mr. White was presented by Harmon Martin, president of the Young Men's Board of Trade, as the youngest appointee to the office of the Superintendent of Banking since the inception of the department. He is now 34 years old.

In addition to the key and scroll, Mr. White received honorary membership in the organization.

Mr. White was a chapel speaker here during November.

Frank C. Kostos, '30, who used to be a varsity basketball player in his Bucknell days, is one of the players in the newly-organized Faculty Basketball League in the anthracite region. Teams in the league include those from Conyngham, Mt. Carmel, Coal Township, Kulpmont, Shamokin, Shenandoah, and Bloomsburg.

Horace M. King, ex-'37, son of the late Horace B. King, '08, of Harrisburg, and Mrs. King, recently married Miss Helen M. Fry, of Milton. The latter had for some years been employed as a reporter on the Milton Evening Standard.

Mr. King took up journalism as a reporter on the Bucknellian, while he was a student here. He has just taken over the Lewisburg News Bureau, which supplies news to a number of out-of-town newspapers, including some metropolitan dailies. This bureau was established by Walter Ruch, ex-'34, after he left the editorship of The Bucknellian, a few years ago. He was succeeded by Hugh Morrow, ex-'37, who now is replaced by Mr. King. Both Ruch and Morrow are now members of the editorial staff of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Saturday Evening Post for March 12 prints the fascinating story of the new Burpee Crown of Gold marigold. The article is written by Frank J. Taylor, as told to him by Mr. David Burpee, president of the Burpee Seed Company. It mentions both Professor William H. Eyster, '14, and Thomas Little, '31, who played a part in developing this now famous flower.

Mr. Burpee is the donor of the Burpee fellowship in genetics. This fellowship was held by Mr. Little. In the Bucknell experimental gardens Dr. Eyster and Mr. Little worked out principles in genetics that Mr. Burpee applied in his big seed farms in the production of several of his recent spectacular creations in the plant world. After leaving Bucknell, Mr. Little took up work at the California plant breeding farm of the Burpees, where he is the chief hybridizer.

Dr. Robert L. Sutherland, professor of Sociology, was recently appointed as executive secretary of a Research Board of the American Youth Commission to conduct an inquiry into the effect of their racial status upon Negro youths in the development of personality. The appointment was made by Dr. Homer P. Rainey, director of the Commission. The General Education Board has allocated $110,000 to finance this study.

Professor Sutherland will work under an advisory committee headed by Dr. Will W. Alexander, farm security administrator and a member of the Youth Commission.

During the past two years this commission has investigated many problems of modern youth. These investigations, which have dealt with young folks of all races, have produced much material as to many aspects of Negro life, but have assembled no information concerning the inner feelings of Negro boys and girls in regard to race matters. It is considered important to ascertain how persons of this race feel in racial matters, so that any desirable educational adjustments for them may be recommended to school authorities.

Prof. W. H. Eyster, '14

After seventeen years of distinguished service at Bucknell, Mrs. Clara Globe Sale has just retired from her position as dietitian of the Women's College. She left Lewisburg about the end of the year, to make a home for her son, Dr. George Sale, '31, who is physician in the Student Health Service at the University of Montana, at Missoula.

Mrs. Sale is a grand niece of the man who invented the Japanese jinrikisha. He was the Rev. Jonathan Goble, an early American missionary in the island kingdom. The only conveyances then in use were clumsy wheelbarrows, which jolted the rider terribly. When Mr. Goble's wife became ill, he drew a design for a two-wheeled conveyance with shafts that could be pulled by hand. A native carpenter made the thing for him, and the jinrikisha had been born. It soon became immensely popular all over the Orient, and is the usual native vehicle seen today in both Japan and China.

Mrs. Sale herself is the widow of a Baptist minister. After his death she took up work in dietetics, and served as dietician in several colleges before coming to Bucknell. Her keen mind, unusual ability, and delightful personality have endeared Mrs. Sale to a great number of Bucknellians. Her daughter Elizabeth, as well as her son, is a Bucknell graduate. She was a member of the Class of 1929.

The Bucknell Who's Who in Education is available to alumni at the nominal cost of 25 cents. It contains biographies of more than 500 Bucknellians now in the field of education or who have served in this field. Since its publication, a number of letters have arrived telling of persons whose biographies are missing. These notes are much valued, since it is hoped that a supplementary edition can be published soon, containing the biography of every alumnus who will take the time to send for a biography blank. Mail your request to Frank G. Davis, '11, Lewisburg, Pa.

"Fall in For Bucknell" is the title of the latest publicity bulletin issued by the college. It is a 40-page booklet, approximately seven by ten inches in size. In keeping with the spirit of the times, this is almost entirely a pictorial presentation of the University. Introduced by a picture of drummer boys from the Bucknell band, (who summon readers to "fall in line," for Alma Mater), the brochure pictures forth the life of the campus.

There are very beautiful photographs of some of the memory-hallowed campus paths, of the restored Old Main, the Vaughan Literature Building, and Bucknell Hall. Characteristic indoor scenes — dinner time in the women's dining hall, a zoology class at work, a fraternity house dance, and so on — are presented with amazingly clear detail and sharp definition. In short, practically every phase of life at Bucknell is here faithfully portrayed by photographs.

President Marts has received many congratulations on the excellence of this newest attempt to tell the world about Bucknell.

Dr. Walter H. Sauvain, assistant professor of education, has been made chairman of the editorial committee of the Bucknell Journal of Education. He has also been appointed director of the Curriculum Library of the Department of Education, the first to be established in the State.

CLUB CALENDAR

ALUMNI CLUBS, ETC.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

November 7 — Washington Alumni held their first meeting of the season at the home of Lawrence O. Manley, '07, and Mrs. Manley. Twenty-nine members, enjoyed the excellent, informal buffet supper. The new president, Dr. Harry R. Warfel, '20, presided at the business meeting.

The following committees were appointed by the president: Scholarship, John Burlew, '30, chairman, Mrs. Grace A. Burley, '30, Mrs. Dorothy Kirkwood Freeman, '32; Program, Mrs. Margaret Weddell Brandon, '16, chairman, Mrs. Betty Bentley Scheffler, '33, Robert Housel, '36, and Mrs. Louise Manley Kreuger, ex-officio. The group gave suggestions for the year's program. It was agreed to hold at least one formal meeting — perhaps a combined dinner and dance.

January 19 — Twenty-one Washington Bucknellians gathered for their second meeting of the school year at the club house of the American Association of University Women. After an excellent dinner, Lee Francis Lybarger, Jr., '28, the new Bucknell Director of Administration entertained the group with campus motion pictures and a talk on the advantages Bucknell offers to students. He offered to repeat the talk during the week of February 21, for prospective Bucknellians whom the local alumni might assemble.

It was announced that Robert Housel, '36, has moved to Harrisburg. Kenneth Miller, '35, was appointed to take Mr. Housel's place on the program committee. February 6-7 — In response to many requests made during the past two years by the Washington Alumni, the Bucknell Glee Club has finally sung here. The club gave two delightful concerts, on the sixth at Central High School, and on the seventh at the Calvary Baptist Church. The club presented an excellent program, which was greatly enjoyed by a large gathering.

HARRISBURG

February 3 — Twenty-five alumni and friends of Bucknell met at Jackson's Restaurant to open a new year with the club's new president, Allen Jones. Future meetings will be held at the same place the first Thursday of each month, and Mr. Jones asked the attendance captains to call the persons on their lists prior to each meeting.

The following committee chairmen were appointed by the president: Program, Boyd Sheddan; Entertainment, Edward Glover; Publicity, Carl Sprout; Attendance, the Rev. Harvard Griffith; Constitution and By-Laws, Joseph Nissley, Esq.

A welcome guest at the dinner was Francis Lybarger, Jr., Bucknell Director of Admissions. He said that the purpose of the plan he is directing is to make the student body at Bucknell more selective, with a maximum enrollment of 1200 students. The freshman class next fall he believes will number 400, and consist of 325 men and 75 women.

Dr. Harvey Smith, of the Board of Trustees, explained football scholarships from a trustee's point of view, assuring us that Bucknell will always have a reputable football team, even if it is not of championship calibre. Dr. Smith praised President Arnaud C. Marts highly, and asked for him the whole-hearted cooperation of all alumni.

Tentative plans were made for a club dance in the near future. A committee composed of Edward Glover, chairman, Robert Payne, and Bruce Butt will make dance plans to be presented at the March meeting.

Janet Blair Bogar, '33, Secretary

BALTIMORE

February 7 — The Bucknell Alumni Club of Baltimore held its latest meeting at the Rail Grill on February 7, with 22 present including three prospective students and Robert Schnure and Charles Smith, who are now students at Bucknell. This is the largest gathering that we have had since the organization of our club last year.

Mr. Lee Francis Lybarger, Jr., '28, showed motion pictures of Bucknell campus scenes and activities. He also told of the advantages Bucknell can offer to students. Mr. Lybarger was also a welcome guest. Our next meeting will be held in May, at the Club House at Sparrows Point, and we are all looking forward to a grand time.

Eleanor L. Buchholz, '31

LEWISBURG

February 8 — The Lewisburg Bucknell Alumnae Club held its annual guest meeting in Larison living room. The annual play was given. This year's presentation was "Suppressed Desires", a comic satire by Susan Glaspell. The characters were taken by Miss Margaret Ross, '31, Mrs. Romaine Good Burgard, and Dr. George Irland, '15. Miss Trennie Easley, '31, coached the play.

After a short business meeting conducted by Mrs. Lulu Coe Stolz, '27, the Social Committee served refreshments. About eighty members and guests were present.

Sara Deck Crossgrove, '28

PHILADELPHIA

February 12 — Thirty Philadelphia alumnae spent a very enjoyable time at a luncheon at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, on February 12. Prof. M. L. Drum, '02, brought "Greetings" and an interesting account of the activities of the University. Dr. Daniel A. Poling was the guest speaker.

The new club officers elected at the meeting were: Alice Roberts, '24, President; Mrs. R. E. Wallace (Jesse Brookes, '23,) Recording Secretary; Dorothy R. Griffith, '28, Corresponding Secretary; and Catherine P. Boyle, '26, Treasurer.

Alice Roberts, '24

NEW ENGLAND

February 16 — The Bucknell Alumni Association of New England held its annual meeting at the Boston Chamber of Commerce, on Wednesday evening, February 16. Fifty-two were present. Secretary "Bill" Willman, '22, of the New England Association, by statistical argument proved that, with all of its enthusiasm, the New York Association, proportionately, must take second place to the "Hubbers".

From Bucknell came Prof. M. L. Drum, '02, and Lee Francis Lybarger, Jr., '28. Discussing the spirit of Bucknell, as main speaker of the occasion, Mr. Lybarger showed movies of Bucknell which proved particularly attractive to alumni of the far northeast who have not been back to college in some years. On at least one prospective Bucknellian, Mr. Lybarger made a distinct impression. Other speakers included Chaplain Reuben W. Shrum, '08, who with his California wife, drove up from Newport, and Charles N. Brubaker, '11, manufacturing engineer of the General Electric Company at Pittsfield, Mass.

There were three of the Owens family present: Albert Waffle Owens, '09, and his wife; Mrs. Herbert L. Hayden (Katherine Owens, '23), and her husband; Mrs. Thomas Fogarty (Jeannette Owens, '17), and Mr. Fogarty. Three Bucknellians now in Harvard Medical School were in attendance: William P. Boger, Jr., '34; John Raker, '37; and John G. Sholl, 3rd, '37.

The Rev. John Feaster, '30, drove down from Kennebunkport, Maine, for the occasion, as did the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur A. Rouner. Mrs. Rouner was Elizabeth Stephens, '18.

Letters were received from a number who found it impossible to come to Boston. Writing from Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Leroy Stephens, '87, tells of her active interest in the Baptist work of that area. John O. L. Roser, '11, of Pittsfield, who has been with the General Electric since graduation includes the following paragraph:

"I have a family of five children — two of them, Jack, '37, and Jean, '37, have been to Bucknell; two more who, I hope, will go next fall. The youngest is 11. He has plenty of time yet".

Old timers will be delighted with the note received from the Perrys who are living at 40 Webster St., Brookline, Mass. "Mrs. Perry and I send greetings. We are sorry that we cannot be with you. Mrs. Perry was May Gerhart, of the class of 1877, and last year was the sixtieth anniversary of her graduation. We planned to be at Commencement, but on account of what the doctor called an over-tired heart, I was not able to make the trip. My class was 1878, the last class that President Loomis graduated. I have had a great time with our presidents. I was given the degree of A.B. by President Loomis, A.M. by President Hill, Ph.D. by President Harris, D.D. by President Hunt." Signed — Joseph E. Perry, '78.

The Rev. Newton C. Fetter, '09, presided. The following officers were elected: President, H. A. Larson, '21, Braintree, Mass.; Vice President, Mrs. Charles W. Bond, '20, Wellesley Hills; and Secretary, Wm. C. A. Willman, '22, of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Newton C. Fetter, '09

ALLENTOWN

February 18 — A meeting of the Lehigh Valley Bucknell Alumni Association was held on February 18 at the Hotel Allen in Allentown, Pennsylvania, with 30 members present. Mr. Lee Francis Lybarger, Jr., '28, gave a very interesting talk and showed moving pictures of Bucknell activities.

We expect to have another meeting the latter part of March to elect officers for the ensuing year.

Ross A. Mask, '24

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

At a regular meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Alumni Association, the following officers recently were elected.

George T. Henggi, '26, President, address 138 View Street, Oakmont, Pa.

George Jones, '23, Vice President, Oliver Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Samuel J. Leezer, '31, Secretary and Treasurer, Park Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA

February 23 — Forty Bucknell Alumni from Philadelphia and vicinity gathered at the University Club, 16th and Locust Sts., Philadelphia, in an old-time rally and smoker, on February 23rd, with Dr. A. C. Marts, acting president of Bucknell, as the leading speaker of the occasion. There were present from among the alumni of Philadelphia and vicinity, Dr. E.

E. Keiser, '86, one of the older

Bucknell graduates; Joseph W. Henderson, '08, and H. Boardman Hopper, '06, of the Board of Trustees; and a number of Bucknellians from interior Pennsylvania. Romain C. Hassrick presided.

The address of Dr. Marts was an accounting of his stewardship as acting president of the University. He sketched the progress that the University has enjoyed in the field of higher education and reviewed the progressive plans for the future. He said that the University has decided it will accommodate 1200 students acceptably and that the student body would be limited to approximately that number.

The meeting was in the nature of a reception to Dr. Marts, who enjoys great popularity among the alumni in the Philadelphia area. Dr. A. R. Garner, '99, of Norristown, the only other speaker of the evening, informed the alumni as to the athletic situation at Bucknell and urged them to support the program of the Athletic Council.

It was decided that the next meeting of the Alumni will be an occasion for honoring the Hon. O. B. Dickinson, '77, judge of the Federal Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, one of the outstanding sons of Bucknell.

Romain C. Hassrick, '06

THE SUMMER SCHOOL

Beside the usual variety of courses in economics, engineering, academic subjects and education, a number of special features will be offered by the 1938 Summer School. Among these are a Conference on International Relations, one on The New Leisure, and a one-week school of Parent Education. The last-named is being presented in cooperation with the National and Pennsylvania Congresses of Parents and Teachers.

The customary class reunions will of course be held this coming Commencement. The classes scheduled for reunions are those ending in "3's" and "8's", such as the classes of 1873, 1878, 1883, 1888, and so on.

Class secretaries are urged to communicate with the members of their groups, to secure as large an attendance as possible. Registrar H. W. Holter and the Alumni Office will be glad to cooperate with any or all returning alumni. Special programs are being prepared for Alumni Day.

THE LITERARY WEEK END STARTS A NEW CUSTOM

as much as possible of the work of Bucknell authors. In preparation for this exhibit, Dr. Mary Bartol Theiss had made an investigation that occupied several weeks, in an effort to discover the identity of every Bucknellian who has done any literary work since the beginning of the college. She discovered more than 300 authors of books and additional writers for periodicals. Their combined titles exceeded 1200. These were the books Miss Martin had assembled, or as many of them as she had been able to secure, for they had to be gathered from the far corners of the land.

Among the outstanding writers whose work was on display were Dr. David Jayne Hill, once president of the college, a foremost writer on international law; Dr. Robert Lowry, once professor of literature here, a world-famous song writer; Dr. Justin R. Loomis, another former president, who wrote some notable books on science; Dr. Lewis E. Theiss, present professor of journalism at Bucknell, one of the leading American writers for boys; Christopher Mathewson, the late baseball pitcher, who also wrote a number of juveniles, and many others.

Faculty contributions to magazines were also on exhibition. Many Bucknell teachers have written articles of a technical or semi-technical nature for educational journals. Dr. George A. Ireland exhibited several of his technical monographs that have been published by the U. S. Government for general distribution. Professor Lewis E. Theiss displayed articles in forty or more different general magazines and Dr. J. Orin Olyphant had on exhibition some notable articles published in historical journals. There were different articles in school journals.

Altogether, the entire venture was noteworthy. It was a venture into a new field. Dedications we have had before, both here and elsewhere; but perhaps never was a dedication more appropriately embellished than was the dedication of the Vaughan Literature Building expanded and adorned by this truly worth while and inspiring week end devoted to literature. Assured Bucknell has "started something."

WITH OUR ATHLETES

BASEBALL will be continued as an intercollegiate sport at Bucknell, it has been decided by the Athletic Council, reversing an earlier decision to abandon the game because of inclement weather and lack of student interest.

Already Coach John J. Sitar-sky, '36, has sent his charges through indoor drills for several weeks. Beginning indoor practice early in February, the Bisons were off to a very early start.

The diamond schedule is as follows: April 22, Albright, Lewisburg; April 25, Gettysburg, Lewisburg; May 3, Lebanon Valley, Annville; May 4, Bloomsburg S. T. C., Lewisburg; May 7, Elizabethtown, Lewisburg; May 12, Lebanon Valley, Lewisburg; May 20, Albright, Reading; May 21, Bloomsburg S. T. C., Bloomsburg; May 23, Elizabethtown, Elizabethtown; May 24, Susquehanna, Selinsgrove; May 26, Susquehanna, Lewisburg; and June 4, Penn State, State College.

Meanwhile, the varsity track men this spring will engage in five dual meets and two tournaments. Coached by John Plant, the track team will open April 27 with a home meet against F. and M.

Juniata and Lafayette will come to Lewisburg for matches, while the Plantmen will go on the road to tackle Dickinson and Susquehanna. The team will compete in the Penn Relays April 29 and 30 and the Middle Atlantic at Gettysburg May 13 and 14.

Winter sports are scheduled to conclude this month, with the basketball team driving toward a triumphant finale after a mediocre start. Late in the campaign the Mussermen built up a six-game winning streak, and entered their final two games with a record of seven victories and five defeats.

Coach Joe Reno's boxers, although champions of the Eastern Inter-collegiate Boxing Conference, have been beset by a series of injuries and withdrawals which have destroyed their chances of making an above-average dual meet record.

However, since the Bison mittmen are strongly fortified at four positions, they have a chance of again winning the conference crown on March 18 and 19 at Morgantown, W. Va.

MANY INTERESTING ITEMS ABOUT B. U. WRITERS

withdrawal of the commission from Russia, he returned to the United States and was appointed director of the Hoover War Library at Stanford and professor of history. He died in 1929.

Charles Carpenter Fries, '09, faculty '11-'20, now professor of English at the University of Michigan, displayed portions of manuscripts and printed pages of the new English dictionary, the compilation of which he heads. This dictionary is expected to be as important as the Oxford dictionary. Dr. Leo L. Rockwell, '07, formerly of the Bucknell faculty, also worked on these volumes, under Dr. Fries' direction.

Dr. David Jayne Hill, known to all as a foremost diplomat and authority on international law, as a young man wrote the second textbooks written by a Bucknellian that were used at Bucknell. These were his "Elements of Rhetoric and Composition" and "Science of Rhetoric."

Two books dealing with the Susquehanna have been written by Bucknellians. Hiles C. Pardoe, '61, wrote for the Methodist Book Company "Up the Susquehanna." Lippincotts published "Legends of the Susquehanna," written by Truman H. Purdy, '58.

Dr. S. Calvin Smith, '01, a Philadelphia heart specialist, has written three able books dealing with the heart. They are: "Heart affections, their recognition and treatment"; "Heart records, their interpretation and preparation"; and "How is Your Heart?" These are intimate talks on the prevention of heart disease and on the care of an already damaged heart.

Bucknell has shown rather an unusual record for a small college only 92 years old, in the matter of fraternities. Dr. Robert Lowry, '54, in 1893 compiled and edited the first song book of Phi Kappa Psi. William C. Gretzinger, '89, our first registrar, edited the Shield of Phi Kappa Psi from 1895-7. Mary Bartol compiled the first and second editions of the Songs of Pi Beta Phi, and compiled the second edition of the general catalogue of the fraternity. As Mrs. Theiss she was editor-in-chief of the Arrow of Pi Beta Phi from 1908-1912. In 1911 Mrs. Kate McLaughlin Bourne edited the third edition of the general catalogue of Pi Beta Phi. Dr. Elkanah B. Hulley, now a member of our Board of Trustees, was editor-in-chief of the Phi Gamma Delta Quarterly from 1911 to 1917. He also compiled and edited as an issue of the magazine a catalogue of the fraternity's membership.

A. Donald Gray, '14, who has been landscaping the campus, published in 1935 at the insistence of the Saalfeld Publishing Company, "Your garden; plan; planting; care." The book has sold widely, and with good reason.

Major General David McMurtree Gregg, ex-'54, stood eighth in his class at West Point, 1855. He was brevetted major general of volunteers August 1, 1864, "for highly meritorious and distinguished conduct throughout the campaign, particularly in the reconnaissance on the Charles City Road, Va." He has written the story of "The second cavalry division of the army of the Potomac in the Gettysburg campaign." He spent his later years in Reading, Pa., where his statue has been erected in a city park.

While Dr. Curtis lived in Lewisburg he occupied the house now the residence of Dr. Wm. C. Bartol on University Avenue. The north side of the house still has its wall peppered with short black leather straps by which Dr. Curtis had trained in English espalier fashion an apricot tree over the side of the house. There still remain in the yard two southern fringe bushes which he planted.

His father-in-law, Mr. Rest Fenner, of London, had published much of Coleridge's writings. These original manuscripts had become the property of Dr. Curtis at the time he lived in Lewisburg.

He was an abolitionist, and the barn which used to stand on his land (the foundations are still visible in the rear of the Rivenburg home, close to Bliss alley at the railroad, as property lines were changed after the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad cut its way across the lower campus), was used to shelter southern negroes as a branch of the famous "underground railroad" which transported by night and sheltered by day, escaping slaves.

Ralph Charles Henry Catterall, A.B. '91, was professor of history at Cornell University when he died in 1914. His "Second Bank of the United States," published by the University of Chicago in 1903, is still an authority in its field. At the time Catterall took his Ph.D. at the University of Chicago, the Chicago chapter of Phi Beta Kappa had a regulation that any person receiving his Ph.D. summa cum laude was initiated into Phi Beta Kappa, thus earning, not merely being eligible to election to, his key. Catterall is the only Bucknell graduate known to have been thus honored.

The late Dr. William Frear, '81, and faculty '81-'83, for so many years professor of chemistry at Pennsylvania State College, was a member of the Pure Food and Drugs committee. He was an outstanding chemist.

U. S. Senator James J. Davis (Hon. LL.D. '24) in his book "Iron puddler; my life in the rolling mills and what came of it" tells the dramatic story of his life. When he was in Lewisburg at the Commencement of 1924, upon the occasion of the conferring of the honorary degree of LL.D., he said that his mother from her little savings in 1846 had contributed to the new college at Lewisburg.

Mrs. Sara Chamberlain Eccleston, Inst. '58, translated into Spanish for Appleton's some early books on the kindergarten. She went to Buenos Aires in the late eighties to develop kindergartens in Argentina. She was one of two outstanding kindergarten teachers selected to go to South America, by the U. S. government, at the request of the Argentine government.

The Baptist Encyclopaedia, published in 1881, and still the standard source book for Baptist history, was written by William Cathcart, who received the honorary degree of D.D. in 1873.

Bucknell has some noteworthy grandchildren. Marion Reilly, who was dean of Bryn Mawr College from 1907 almost to the time of her death in 1928, was the youngest child and only daughter of Congressman John Reilly of Altoona and his wife Anna E. Lloyd, Inst. '64. She served in Philadelphia on the committee of awards for Mr. Edward Bok, and until 1927 was president of the Philadelphia branch of the League of Women Voters.

Elinor Hoyt Wylie, the poet, was a granddaughter of Governor Henry M. Hoyt of Pennsylvania, who was a member of our Board of Curators from 1879 to 1882. Dorothy Johnstone Baseler, the Philadelphia harpist, is the daughter of Hettie Henry Johnston, Inst. '65, of Cynwyd.

Thomas Ustick Walter, the architect of Old Main and of the Academy Building, now called Taylor Hall, also built the classical Girard College building, in Philadelphia, and the wings and dome of the Capitol at Washington. In 1846 he published his "Guide to Workers in Metal and Stone," as well as "Two hundred designs for cottages and villas." Many of his letters, notebooks, sketchbooks, and drawings are now owned by Mrs. C.H. Wegemann of Baltimore, who also inherited his portrait as a young man, painted by John Neagle. The College of Architecture of Cornell University the Library of Congress, the office of the architect of the Capitol, the office of public buildings and parks, and the office of the supervising architect of the Treasury Department contain a wealth of his material.

The Pennsylvania Grit of Williamsport was originated late in 1882 by Henry M. Wolf, Jr., '80, when he was editor of the daily Sun and Banner of Williamsport. From 1888 to 1891 William W. Kelchner, '86, later a trustee of Bucknell, edited the early volumes of the Pennsylvania School Journal.

Ruth Sprague Downs, '98, had an interesting exhibit of Braille. For some twenty years she has been doing work in Braille for the American Red Cross. Just now she has been transcribing into Braille advanced mathematics for a blind graduate student at the University of Pennsylvania. This work involved the satisfactory inventions of mathematical signs and notations in Braille.

These items constitute but a small fraction of the interesting material unearthed in this search for Bucknell writers. In many parts of the world, and in many fields of thought, Bucknell writers have achieved. We can well be proud of them.

He talked about developments in the field of science. Dr. Hostetter was until recently an official of the Corning Glass Works, at Corning, N. Y. The 200-inch lens, cast there for a western observatory, was made under his supervision. It is the largest lens in the world.

E. Carroll Condict, to whom Bucknell gave a D.D. a few years ago, is back in Burma after a considerable leave of absence, spent mostly in Lewisburg where his sons were attending Bucknell. One of them graduated last year. Dr. Condict says that he is not really an educator, yet he confesses that for more than 25 years the government of Burma has addressed him as Superintendent of the A.B.M. Chin School, at Thayemyo. His school has eight grades, like our grammar schools. It is co-ed and has a boarding department. There are 150 students and seven qualified teachers. He began with 29 students and three teachers. Dr. Condict's record in the mission field has been an admirable one. During the World War he played an interesting part. Chin troops were transported to the battlefields by the Allies, but nothing could be done with them because there was no one at hand who could speak their language. Finally Dr. Condict was taken to them, and he straightened out all difficulties, as he spoke their language readily.

DR. PAUL J. PONTIUS

Dr. Paul Jeremiah Pontius, celebrated specialist in diseases of the eye, and eye surgeon, died recently in Philadelphia, where for many years he had lived and served as surgeon and president of the Wills Eye and Ear Hospital. He was about 70 years of age.

He was graduated from Bucknell in 1888. Three years later he added to his A.B. degree that of A.M., also from Bucknell. And in 1932 his Alma Mater bestowed upon him the honorary degree Sc.D. Thus he was one of the few persons who held three degrees from Bucknell. In addition, he held the degree M.D., which he earned at the University of Pennsylvania.

Beginning quite early to specialize in diseases of the eye, he became well known as an eye doctor, and eventually was one of the leading eye surgeons and doctors in Philadelphia. This field of interest naturally drew him into close relationship with the eye hospital, and for many years he was chief surgeon there, as well as president of the organization.

He married Miss Lillian Cook, who preceded him in death. His body was interred in the West Laurel Hill Cemetery.

WILLARD M. BUNNELL

Willard M. Bunnell, Esq., '97, one of Scranton's best known citizens, died on February 4 at his home, 410 Clay Ave., Scranton, after suffering a paralytic stroke four days previously. He was 64 years old. He is survived by his widow and two sons.

The deceased was born on January 14, 1874, at Dimock, Susquehanna County, Pa. He came from outstanding New England stock. He was the son of William J. Bunnell, who was a direct descendant of William Bunnell, a founder of New Haven, Conn., in 1639. Mr. Bunnell's father was for many years editor and proprietor of the Montrose Record, the leading Susquehanna County newspaper.

Upon his graduation from Montrose High School, young Bunnell went to Keystone Academy, and later entered Bucknell. He at once became a leader, and all through his college days was outstanding. A member of Phi Gamma Delta social fraternity, he became class president in his sophomore year. He played on the baseball team, was a member of the track team, played football and was captain of the varsity, and was student director of the gymnasium. In music he was likewise outstanding, for he possessed a very unusual tenor voice, of great sweetness and strength. Indeed, his fine singing ability played no small part in his success in life. He sang in the Chapel Choir and the Glee Club, and was the leader of the latter organization by the time he was a sophomore. He became leader of the University Band. He played in the college orchestra, and he was the leading figure and editor in the production of the first Bucknell song book. With it all he was a good student.

In business life he was just as successful as he had been in college. He was one of the organizers of the Anthracite Trust Company, which went to the wall during the depression of 1929, and he served as vice president of the organization. He was identified with many other enterprises, and stood high as a lawyer. During the World War he acted as Scranton chairman for the third and fourth Liberty Loan drives. He was assistant manager of the Lackawanna County Victory Loan drive, and Red Cross chairman for the county.

A Democrat in politics, he was elected prothonotary of Lackawanna County in 1909. In 1913 he was the candidate for the mayoralty on the first nonpartisan ticket ever launched in Scranton, but failed to win.

He was connected with many fraternal orders, including the Masons, the Odd Fellows, the Elks, Knights of Pythias, P.O.S. of A., Sons of America, and other societies. He was the first vice president of the Scranton Kiwanis Club, and was a member of the New England Society. He was a member of the Episcopal Church.

MRS. LUCY BAILEY HARRIS

Mrs. Lucy Bailey Harris, widow of the late Dr. John Howard Harris, for thirty years president of Bucknell University, died on January 26 at the home of her eldest son, Reese Harris, '03, Scranton attorney, and former member of the Board of Trustees. Mrs. Harris was almost 80 years of age, and death was due to the infirmities of old age.

Following the funeral services in her son's home, Mrs. Harris was brought to Lewisburg, for interment in the family burial plot in the Lewisburg cemetery. Through the courtesy of President Marts, her body was first brought to the presidential residence, where she had lived and graciously presided for so many years, and where scores of her friends came to say a last good bye. After an impressive service there, the funeral party moved on to the cemetery, where the body was laid at rest beside that of her late husband. The pallbearers were six of her own sons.

Few women who have presided in the home of Bucknell's president have won such affectionate regard from Bucknell supporters, friends, and alumni as Mrs. Harris won. Gentle, kindly, intelligent, she came to the campus with her husband from the Keystone Academy, where he had been principal before he became president of the college. Accustomed to students and student ways, she entered heartily into the life of the campus. For thirty years, while her husband was president, and for five years more, while he was still teaching here after retiring from the presidency, Mrs. Harris lived on the campus, in friendly touch with the student body. During those years the college proper grew from an institution of approximately 70 to be a group of more than 700. Thus she came to know a great army of Bucknellians.

Mrs. Harris was the mother of eight sons, seven of whom are living. Dr. Harris had, in addition, two other children by a former wife. They are Herbert Harris, Esq., and Dr. Mary Harris, head of the Federal Institution for Women at Alderson, W. Va. All of these children were graduated from Bucknell, and the family is still represented on the Board of Trustees by Dr. Mary Harris.

Dr. Harris was not only president of Bucknell, but was also an alumnus, for he was graduated from the University in 1869, when he was still very youthful.

Mrs. Lucy Bailey Harris

Harris Hall, one of the dormitories for women, was named in his honor by the Board of Trustees.

DR. HERBERT C. STANTON

Dr. Herbert C. Stanton, '97, for the past thirty years medical director of the Burn Brae Sanitarium, in Primos, Pa., died recently at the age of sixty-four.

Dr. Stanton came from a family which was closely tied to Bucknell University. His elder sister, Mrs. Evelyn Stanton Gundy, was graduated from Bucknell in 1890, being the fourth woman graduate of the college and the first woman to whom a scholarship prize was awarded. Seven years later she became the first dean of the college women, retaining that position until 1904 when she was married to Dr. Charles A. Gundy, '93, Lewisburg physician. Two brothers and another sister, Mary, '07, now married, who became preceptress of the Institute, also attended Bucknell.

Dr. Stanton came to Bucknell from Keystone Academy, and after his graduation here earned his medical degree at the University of Pennsylvania. After following a general practice for several years he built up a private sanitarium of his own.

He was a member of the Philadelphia Zoological Society, the Phi Gamma Delta social fraternity, the Sons of the War of 1812, the Philadelphia Psychiatry Society, and the Rose Tree Hunt Club. He lived on the sanitarium grounds at Oak Lane and the Baltimore Pike, Primos.

Dr. Stanton is survived by his widow, Elsie M. Stanton, his sisters, Mrs. Gundy and Mrs. John Speicher (Mary Stanton) of Reading, one brother, Frank W. Stanton, '02, Cleveland attorney, and his five sons and two daughters.

GEORGE E. SCHILLING

A Bucknellian who not only made a success of his life, but who also made a deep impress upon his community, was George E. Schilling, '00, late principal of the Bradford, Pa., Senior High School who died on January 27 at the Bradford Hospital, where he had been a patient for several days. He had been ill for a year.

Early in life he acquired the habit of making himself felt. Born in Cumberland, Md., June 20, 1871, he passed through the grammar school to the Mt. Pleasant Institute, in Western Pennsylvania, and from there to Bucknell University, where he covered the usual four-year course in three years, being graduated in June, 1900. Not only was he outstanding as a student here, but he was also a leader in college music circles. He sang in the Glee Club, was leader of the Mandolin and Guitar Club, played in the college orchestra, and was a member of the chapel choir. He served as a reporter on the Orange and Blue (now The Bucknellian), and took part in interclass track sports. He was a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Following his graduation, he attended Crozer Theological Seminary for one term. He had some experience in business. For a time he was secretary of the Y.M.C.A. at Franklin. Then he turned to teaching and secured a position on the Franklin High School faculty, where he taught for three and a half years. Meantime, he took up advanced work at Bucknell, and in 1920 gained his Master of Arts degree here. At once he became principal of the Bradford High School, which position he retained to the day of his death, making a deep impression on both students and townsfolk in that city.

Perhaps nothing better shows the affection in which he was held than two editorials that were printed in the Bradford Era immediately after his death. One, written by a high school student, and published under the title "Lost—A Friend," said, in part: "A more broad-minded person never lived. Our troubles at school became mere trifles when we were in his presence and listened to his words of encouragement and guidance. Being sent to the office for some form of misconduct ceased to be a thought of entering our 'chamber of torture' because once there we were immediately put at ease. He heard our side of the story, and being the fair-minded person that he was, he gave us a fair trial."

The newspaper itself, in commenting editorially upon Mr. Schilling's death, remarked: "During his eighteen years of loving labor in this city in the profession which he preferred above all others, Mr. Schilling won the unstinted admiration and respect of all who know him personally, or who knew of his work in the local high school. . . . His advice and counsel were constantly sought, not only by students, whose educational destinies he painstakingly guided, but by many more mature citizens as well."

HORACE B. KING

Horace B. King, '08, Harrisburg corporation tax lawyer, died on January 11, in the Harrisburg Hospital, at the age of 54, from a chronic heart ailment. He is survived by his widow and six children, one of whom, Horace B. King, attended Bucknell for a while and has just taken over the Lewisburg News agency.

The deceased started life in a little farmhouse at King's Corners, near East Smethport, Pa. Beginning his schooling in a typical one-room country school, across the road from his father's home, he pushed on to the Smethport High School, from which he was graduated at the age of 15. After teaching country schools for three years and also working in Smethport stores, he entered Bucknell in the fall of 1904. In three years he had secured practically all the credits he needed for graduation, though he did not get his degree until 1098. Meantime, he was working in the Dickinson Law School, from which he was graduated in 1910. He was a member of the varsity baseball team during most of his time at Bucknell.

After leaving Dickinson, Mr. King joined United States Senator James J. Davis in developing the Order of Moose throughout the country. In 1915 he was admitted to the Dauphin County bar, and with Attorney Edward Barnitz formed a firm for the practice of corporation tax law.

Not long after leaving Dickinson, Mr. King married Miss Rose Vanderbilt McKeehan, of Carlisle, who survives him. In 1925 he built a pretentious house on the Harrisburg waterfront. Constructing a tennis court on his grounds, he took up the game, and although he had never played previously, he speedily became an outstanding player. Mr. King was a member of the Market Square Presbyterian Church, and was active in church work.

EDWIN C. REBER

Edwin C. Reber, '10, of Vineland, N. J., died recently at the U. S. Naval Hospital in Philadelphia, after a long illness. He was 49 years old. He had long been under treatment for serious lung ailment.

Mr. Reber was the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Reber, of Vineland, in which town his father was once supervising principal of schools. Starting his college career at Lehigh, the deceased transferred to Bucknell, where he was graduated. His activities were varied. For a time he taught mathematics. He was engaged in business. He also served as a borough commissioner of Vineland.

Enlisting in the navy early in the World War, he served on different submarine chasers off the New Jersey coast, and later was on duty at New London, Conn., in Bermuda, Portugal, and Gibraltar. Ever since the war he has been active in promoting the welfare of veterans. Besides belonging to the Adolph Phillips Navy Club, the Theodore Roosevelt Post of the American Legion, the Van Deusen Post of the V.F.W., he was active in the Kiwanis and other organizations, and belonged to the Vineland Masonic Lodge.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Alva Reber, his widow, Mrs. Sarah Reber, a brother, Guy Reber, of Haddonfield, N. J., and three children. He was given a military funeral and interred in Siloam Cemetery.

CHARLES CLIFFORD GILLETTE

Charles Clifford Gillette, Sr., '17, World War veteran and son-in-law of William B. Reed, president of the Central Trust Company of Altoona, died suddenly at his home, 525 Hickory St., Hollidaysburg, recently of a heart attack.

Mr. Gillette was born September 1, 1895, at Rushville, N. Y., the son of William Winfield Gillette and Mabel Olmstead Gillette. He was an electrical engineer and was graduated from Bucknell University in 1917. He was manager of the research department of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, leaving this position in 1926 to become vice president of the Wheeling Public Service Company.

In 1929, he became manager of the Rachford Electric Company, Rachford, Ill., later becoming chief engineer of the American States Public Service Company. At the time of his death he was employed by the Pennsylvania Edison Company.

He had an excellent war record, serving in the World War as captain of the fourth infantry, third division, United States Army. He served overseas for two years, being for ten months with the army of occupation, stationed at Andermach.

He was a member of the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church at Dormont, Pa., a member of the Shriners—Scottish Rite, and Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

The survivors are his wife, Camilla Bunker Reed, '18, and the following children: Camilla B.; Helen T., C. Clifford, Jr., Priscilla H., and Sara, at home; also by one sister and two brothers: Mrs. Cernon Hafler; Frank Gillette, and William Gillette, of New York state.

MARTIN K. MOHLER

Martin K. Mohler, '21, a department manager for the Fisher Body Company, died December 13th last, in a Cleveland hospital following an operation for acute appendicitis. He was the husband of Elthera Corson Mohler, '20, and the son-in-law of Dr. E. S. Corson, '92, of Bridgeton, N. J. His home was at 13902 Castalia Ave., Cleveland. He is survived by his widow and one son, and also by both parents and two brothers and two sisters.

Mr. Mohler came to Bucknell from Ephrata, Pa., where he was born, and where he was graduated from the local high school. At Bucknell he earned the degree of Sc.B. in Mechanical Engineering. During the World War he served in the U. S. Navy. In December, following his graduation from Bucknell, he secured a position as die maker's helper in the Fisher Body tool room. Two months later he became a foreman in the press room, and a few months later was advanced to be schedule clerk of the press department. In quick succession he stepped upward from one rank to another, and on March 1, 1924, was made assistant superintendent of the shipping department. At the time of his death he was superintendent of the shipping, receiving, stores, and salvage departments. His technical ability was supplemented by a pleasing personality.

Mr. Mohler was active in the work of the Y.M.C.A., the Rotary Club, and the American Legion. He was also an active alumnus of Bucknell. He was a member of the First Baptist Church, and was much interested in the welfare of the Fisher Body Company employees.

WILLIAM C. LITTERER

William C. Litterer, '22, Virginia district manager of the Atlantic Refining Company, died on January second at his home in Richmond, after a long illness. He was 41 years old. He is survived by his widow, two daughters, and three sons.

A graduate of the high school in his native town of Danville, Mr. Litterer entered Bucknell as an engineering student and was graduated with the degree of Sc.B. in Chemical Engineering. Selecting the petroleum field for his work, he was soon employed by the Atlantic Refining Company, and for thirteen years he was associated with that organization.

He was a World War veteran, having served in the Twenty-eighth Division Field Artillery, A.E.F. He was a member of Richmond Post No. 1 of the American Legion, a Mason, a member of Lambda Chi Alpha, and a Presbyterian.

All Bucknell Alumni

will be gratified at the result of the selective admission plan of securing students for their Alma Mater, and will be pleased at the showing that incoming students have been making, during Freshman Week, when given the psychological examination urged by the American Council on Education.

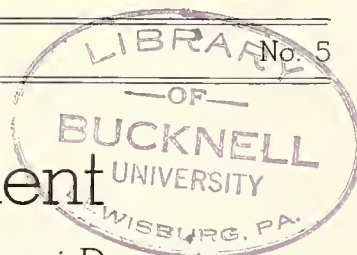

According to a report on scholastic matters at Bucknell, made to the Bucknell Board of Trustees last December by Dean R. H. Rivenburg, Bucknell freshmen have made a very striking record, as the following extract from that report shows: "It is interesting and gratifying to note that the median score of the entire 19,600 students in various colleges was 163, whereas the median score of the entire Bucknell freshman class was 183. Of these 333 Bucknell freshmen, 61, or one-fifth, stood in the upper 10 per cent of these 19,600 students, who represented 133 colleges. In all these colleges only one student made a score higher than 369 in these American Council examinations. In the entire United States only 13 students made grades of 340 to 349. Two of these were Bucknell students. Thirty-six made scores of 330 to 339, of whom three were Bucknell students. Of the 62 students ranking highest among these 133 colleges, Bucknell has five. Of the 116 students who stood highest in the entire United States, Bucknell has eight."

Come Back For Commencement

Meet your Classmates Alumni Day
See the New Gym Dedicated

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY'S annual Commencement on Monday, June 13, will make history in a very special sense this year. Not only will it mark the graduation of the university's eighty-eighth class of seniors but, as an added feature, will include the naming and dedication of the new gymnasium, where the exercises are to be held. We know that you will want to have a part in this happy time and that you will make an extra effort to return to the campus for the occasion.

Beginning with the Trustee-Faculty Dinner on Friday evening, June 10, a full program has been planned for Commencement week-end, with the gymnasium dedication as the climax. To add to the excitement, the Trustees have decided to keep secret the name selected for the gym until the dedicatory ceremony actually takes place.

DR. GRAVES TO SPEAK

The Commencement speaker this year will be Dr. Frank Pierrepont Graves, President of the University of the State of New York and Commissioner of Education, an outstanding figure in the educational world. His address alone will make it worth your while to attend Commencement.

Alumni Day will be celebrated Saturday, June 12, with fifteen classes scheduled to hold reunions. The success of last year's general alumni luncheon in the college dining hall has resulted in the planning of a similar affair for this year, when reunion classes will have their own tables.

Other important events listed for Saturday include the meeting of the Board of Trustees, the business meetings of the Alumni and Alumnae Associations, a music recital, band concert, fraternity symposia, and the annual Commencement play, "Hay Fever" by Noel Coward.

President Arnaud C. Marts will make the Baccalaureate address in the Methodist Church, Sunday morning and will entertain at the President's annual reception in the afternoon. Joseph Haydn's "The-resian Mass" has been chosen as the oratorio for Sunday evening.

The Commencement procession Monday morning will form on the Women's Quadrangle and will then proceed to the new gymnasium for Bucknell's first indoor Commencement in recent years, when approximately 210 students will be awarded diplomas. The Corporation dinner in the college dining hall will follow the exercises.

All in all, it will be a glorious week-end — So Come Back for Commencement.

President Arnaud C. Marts

Dear Bucknellians:

This is your Alma Mater's official invitation and my warm personal urging to attend the 88th Annual Commencement exercises of Bucknell to be held

JUNE 11 - 12 - 13, 1938.

A complete program of events is printed herewith. An added feature this year will be the dedication of the new Gymnasium.

It is an inspiration to all of us here at Lewisburg, faculty and students alike, to see large numbers of Alumni return for the ceremonies and reunions that mark the culmination of the academic year.

Come back, all who can!

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

ALUMNI DAY -- SATURDAY

ALUMNI HEADQUARTERS IN ROBERTS HALL

Send in Your Reservation Now

If you have not already done so, mail your luncheon reservation at once to the Alumni Office. With the exception of two groups, all of the reunion luncheons will be held in the college dining hall, where special tables will be provided, so that classmates may sit together. The price of the luncheon will be seventy-five cents.

All Alumni Are Invited

You are cordially invited to attend the Alumni Luncheon Saturday noon even though yours is not a reunion class. All you need to do is to send to the Alumni Office your name and the number of places you wish reserved.

To Honor Fifty-Year Class

Members of the Class of 1888, the 50-year class, have been invited to be the President's guests at Commencement. Invitations have gone to 15 members of this group. They include 7 graduates, 5 non-graduates, and three graduates of the Institute.

Meet After Lunch

Many of the reunion groups will want to get together after the luncheon for informal meetings. Rooms where such meetings may be held will be assigned to any of the classes requesting them.

Rooms for the Week-end

There will be available in the dormitories a few rooms for Commencement visitors. Also, the Alumni Office will be glad to reserve rooms downtown for alumni who request them. If you want a room reserved for you, either in the dormitory or in a private home, please notify the Alumni Office. A deposit of one dollar, sent to this Office, will reserve a room for you.

Editor's Corner

SUMMER SCHOOL is in full swing as we write. More than 550 students, the largest number in the history of the summer session, are enrolled for the six-weeks' course. Dr. Frank G. Davis is again directing the session. Commencement is scheduled for Friday, August 5, with President Marts as the speaker.

— o —

AND by the way, that title "President" Marts sounds pretty fine, doesn't it? Acting President Marts finally yielded to the combined pleas of alumni, students, faculty members, and trustees, and agreed to accept the presidency on April 7. The University is being widely congratulated on its good fortune in persuading Mr. Marts to become its permanent leader. To alumni everywhere the announcement came as extremely welcome news, and brought to our President renewed pledges of support from students, faculty, and alumni alike.

— o —

THE Alumni Luncheon is here to stay! We refer, of course, to the annual luncheon of the Alumnae and Alumni Associations held in the college dining hall on the Saturday of Commencement week-end. Introduced last year as an experiment, the luncheon this year attracted more alumni than could be accommodated in the dining hall.

— o —

WE are delighted to learn that the University has a 97-year old alumna living at Hampton, West Virginia. She is Mrs. Harriet Mason Stevens, who was graduated from the Institute in the class of 1858 when she was 17 years old. President Marts sent her a special invitation to come back for Commencement, but her health would not permit. Mrs. Stevens is, without doubt, our oldest living graduate. To her we send congratulations and our best wishes.

— o —

IT won't be long now. Homecoming has been set for Saturday, November 19, and it isn't a bit too early to start making plans. George Washington University will send its football team here to do battle with Coach Humphreys' Bisons in the Stadium, and then there'll be the Homecoming dinner and dance after the game. Save the date for your Alma Mater.

— o —

THE campus has never been more beautiful than it is just now. The many plantings and shrubs set out in the past year or so are finally coming into their own, and the results of many weeks of landscaping are everywhere beginning to be evident. The Quadrangle in particular is an especially attractive place just now, and returning alumni are loud in their praise of its beauty. It's our favorite spot, and if you'll excuse us, we'll go out ourselves to take another look.

DEDICATE MEN'S GYMNASIUM IN COMMENCEMENT CEREMONY

BUILDING NAMED FOR JUDGE J. WARREN DAVIS

FOR its 88th annual Commencement on Monday, June 13, the University offered a double-feature attraction which drew an audience of nearly 3,000 persons, the largest crowd ever present at Bucknell's graduation exercises.

The awarding of degrees to 214 men and women and the naming and dedication of the men's new gymnasium in honor of John Warren Davis, Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and newly-elected Chairman of the Bucknell Board of Trustees, were the highlights of the exercises, which were held in the gymnasium.

NAME KEPT SECRET

The gymnasium dedication, of course, provided the climax for the entire program, since the name of the person for whom the building was to be named had been carefully kept secret, so that even Judge Davis himself was not aware that he was the alumnus whom his Alma Mater had chosen to honor.

Arnaud C. Marts, Bucknell President, Daniel C. Roberts, Honorary Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Dr. Harvey F. Smith, Chairman of the Trustee Committee on Athletics and Physical Education, participated in the dedicatory ceremony.

GIFT OF 12 MEN

President Marts, after outlining briefly the history of the gymnasium, which is the gift to Bucknell of 12 men, ten of whom are Trustees of the University, explained that it had been the original desire of the Trustees and of eleven of the donors of the gymnasium to name it for the Trustee whose generous gifts had initiated the enterprise and had carried it through a time of crisis, — Mr. Roberts, but that Mr. Roberts had requested that this should not be done, as he felt one building named for him (the Daniel C. Roberts Hall) was enough.

President Marts explained that he and Mr. Roberts then wished to name the gymnasium for the man who had worked hardest to make it possible, and that it had been agreed to honor the Chairman of the Gymnasium Building Committee, Judge J. Warren Davis. He stated that he and Mr. Roberts had not dared consult Judge Davis for fear of his veto. Taken completely by surprise, Judge Davis vigorously protested the choice, saying that he did not deserve such great recognition, but his protests were of no avail as the President continued his address. Dr. Marts told briefly of the noted jurist's years of service to Bucknell, first as a Trustee, then as Vice-Chairman of the Board, and more recently as Chairman of the Board, a post to which he had been elected two days before. He paid high tribute to Judge Davis, declaring that: "As a student, alumnus, and trustee his loyalty has been always instant and complete. Never has he withheld a single ounce of energy in his service to his Alma Mater."

President Marts and Mr. Roberts then unveiled the memorial plaque which bears this inscription:

"THE DAVIS GYMNASIUM NAMED IN HONOR OF
HON. JOHN WARREN DAVIS,
LL.D., JUD.

CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY

JUDGE OF THE U. S. CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS

The aspiring youth in humble circumstances, dreaming of the future, found in Bucknell the opportunity he coveted.

The successful man in high place, youthful dreams fulfilled, remembered his Alma Mater in unwavering service.

This building will forever perpetuate his spirit and encourage all aspiring youths to emulate his example."

Dr. Harvey F. Smith, speaking on behalf of the Board of Trustees, expressed appreciation for Judge Davis's efforts to turn into reality the long-hoped-for dream of a new gymnasium for men.

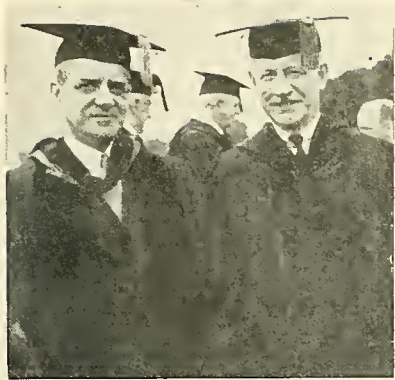

Judge Davis, when he was finally allowed to speak, minimized his part in the undertaking and referred specifically to the men whose generous gifts had made the building possible. To Dr. Marts, Mr. Roberts, and the other Trustees who had concurred in the choice of the name, he offered his deepest gratitude.

"You can't do this to me", says Judge Davis, as President Marts and Mr. Roberts enjoy the surprise of the Chairman of the Board of Trustees when he learns that the gymnasium has been named for him.

DR. GRAVES MAKES ADDRESS

Dr. Frank Pierrepont Graves, President of the University of the State of New York and Commissioner of Education, made the Commencement address, speaking on the subject, "An Aristocracy of Service."

He warned his listeners that "even the most gifted youth has no natural right to the advantages of a college education" unless he is willing to serve society. "Even more important than ability is the desire and will to accomplish something worthwhile for humanity and civilization," he declared, urging the development of "an aristocracy of service" as an educational step of greater importance than the creation of "an aristocracy of brains."

SOCIAL SERVICE IMPORTANT

Since the talented youth "is not in the least responsible for his own great ability, the only justification for his receiving opportunities of which others have been deprived is that of a larger return to society," he explained. "Indeed, the more highly endowed a student is, the more sensitive should he be rendered to social service."

"Bucknell should, therefore, strive to select its students wisely and, in addition, train them definitely for the service of society." "Only in this way," he concluded, "can the University maintain the repute that it has honestly won through the years as the creator of high-minded and effective leaders in all fields of civilized effort."

After his address Dr. Graves was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. Honorary degrees were conferred upon five other noted Americans. Bachelor's degrees were awarded to 190 students, Master's degrees to 17, and a Professional degree to one alumnus, making a total of 214 degrees in all.

BACHELOR'S DEGREES FOR 190

Of the 190 Bachelor's degrees awarded by President Marts, 108 went to Bachelor of Arts and 82 to Bachelors of Science. The latter were sub-divided as follows: Biology, 10; Education, 17; Commerce and Finance, 40; Chemical Engineering, 7; Civil Engineering, 1; Electrical Engineering, 3; and Mechanical Engineering, 4.

FOURTEEN HONOR STUDENTS

Fourteen students were awarded their degrees with honors. They were headed by Robert E. Streeter of Williamsport, who received his degree with the distinction of Summa Cum Laude and who was graduated also with Honors in English Literature.

The other honor students were as follows: Magna Cum Laude, Ernest E. Blanche, Wellington, N. J.; and Robert O. Renville, Luzerne; Cum Laude, Robert O. Beers, Dalton; Ernest S. Cranmer, Haddonfield, N. J.; William H. Dauberman, Margaret E. Lawson, Robert St. Claire Price, Lewisburg; Kenneth M. Dickie, Kingston; Gerald Finkelstein, Sea Cliff, N. Y.; William M. Leshner, Washington, D. C.; Janet I. McKenna, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Robert L. Mayock, Wilkes-Barre; and Anna K. Shields, Pittsburgh.

PRIZES GO TO 12

Twelve prizes were awarded to students. For the first time in recent years, no student received more than one prize.

Prize winners and their prizes were: Gerald Finkelstein, Sea Cliff, N. Y., Gretzinger Economics; Ward E. Gage, Blakely, Tustin Philosophy and Psychology; June N. Grim, Lincoln University, Barrows Latin; Robert E. Streeter, Williamsport, Decker Scholarship; William H. Dauberman, Lewisburg, Decker Engineering; Robert L. Mayock, Wilkes-Barre, Ziegler Biology; Margarida F. Reno, Lewisburg, Ziegler French; Anna K. Shields, Pittsburgh, Bucknell Scholarship; Grace Gault, Coudersport, Bucknell English; Robert St. Clair Price, Lewisburg, Alpha Chi Sigma Chemical Engineering; Robert V. McGee, Milton, Delta Mu Delta Economics; and Martha E. Riggs, Northumberland, Avira-gnet Music.

HONORARY DEGREES AWARDED TO SIX MEN

BUCKNELL conferred honorary degrees upon six distinguished Americans, including two of her alumni, at the Commencement exercises June 13.

The men thus honored were: Angelo Di Domenica, pastor of the First Italian Baptist Church of Philadelphia; Frederick B. Igler, pastor for Baptist students at the University of Pennsylvania; Norman E. Henry, Latin scholar and Pittsburgh educator; Frank P. Graves, the Commencement speaker; and Daniel C. Roberts, Wilkes-Barre philanthropist and honorary chairman of the Board of Trustees.

The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon Rev. Di Domenica and upon Rev. Igler, the degree of Doctor of Pedagogy upon Mr. Henry, the degree of Doctor of Civil Laws upon President Beury, and the degree of Doctor of Laws upon Dr. Graves and upon Mr. Roberts.

Mr. Henry was graduated from Bucknell in the class of 1905 and the Rev. Igler in the class of 1912.

Dr. Marts, in conferring the degrees, made the following citations:

ANGELO DI DOMENICA

You have found your life work in a land far removed from home, but you have always been at home here in your work, for you have been a laborer in the Kingdom of God on earth, which knows no boundaries of race or tongue or nationality.

You have rendered valiant service in a difficult field to the brotherhood of unselfish men under the Fatherhood of a loving God; we at Bucknell are interested in that brotherhood and we count it a privilege to recognize and applaud your service to it.

FREDERICK BENTLEY IGLER

Fortunate is the man who finds his life work in a new field of great need which challenges his creative capacities and fulfills his deepest desires.

You have found such a field, in which you have been one of the creative pioneers, the field of ministering to the spiritual needs of young people at a great secular university.

As the pastor to thousands of young university students, you have helped to keep religion at the center of their personalities, and thus you have served to synthesize their knowledge into wisdom, to fuse the many divergent facts they learn into a pattern for happy, useful living.

Alma Mater is proud of you and is happy to give this public recognition to your life and service.

NORMAN ELWOOD HENRY

To you, a good book is something precious; to be acquired whenever possible; to be read and treasured; and to be made available to others who long to learn, to grow, and to achieve.

As organizer and president of the Friends of the Bucknell Library, you have brought to our collection by gift thousands of useful books. We have watched you handle these books with an understanding, almost a tenderness, which has added to our own respect for books and to our own determination to make a great library the very heart of Bucknell.

For your personal achievements in your educational career and for your service to the intellectual vitality of your Alma Mater, we take pride in honoring you today. To my own words, I add the word of Miss Martin, our beloved librarian who is prevented by illness from being here.

CHARLES E. BEURY

There were those who feared that when the founder of Temple University should die, the vitality of his unique dream and creation might languish. But this fear ceased when it became known that you were willing to devote your great talents to youth. You have brought new vitality to this great sister institution. Within a few short years you have strengthened its foundations and extended its usefulness to a degree that seems little short of miraculous.

We beg leave to pay our sincere tribute today to Temple University, and to you, its president, who symbolizes in your life those qualities of intellect, of integrity, of high idealism and of the rare capacity to bring important things to pass, which we think of as the ideal to be striven for by educated men and women.

FRANK PIERREPONT GRAVES

We have looked forward to this day when we might pay you this sincere tribute in appreciation of what you are and of what you have achieved in the field of education.

We are especially proud to honor you because of the high standards of integrity which you have established and maintained in your public service.

You have occupied a high public office in our greatest State for 17 years, and in all this time you have performed your duties on the high plane with irreproachable integrity and objectivity, and have proved that public education can be administered as a science and as a public trust.

In recognition of your life and of your services and in gratitude for what you have done so unselfishly for Bucknell, we honor ourselves by taking you into our family.

DANIEL C. ROBERTS

It has been a long, long journey from that store, in Northern New York state where you worked as a lad at your first job for $2.00 a week, to this platform where you now stand as the beloved and respected Honorary Chairman of the Board of Trustees of this great College.

You have spanned that long distance in your lifetime because you possess the rare qualities of intelligence, of sound common-sense, of industry, of brave initiative, of integrity of character.

Your achievements are an inspiration to all youths of our day, and we would welcome this opportunity to honor you singly for the purpose of inspiring and encouraging them, but we have a still deeper desire to honor you, for you possess another quality which is ever more rare and precious than those which I have mentioned. You have been able to survive your success.

Prosperity too often destroys men. It softens their characters and hardens their hearts. They too often make garish display of their good fortune and adorn themselves with too many outward evidences of their prosperity.

In your great success, you have retained your simple tastes, you have remained modest in your attitudes.

For this supreme achievement we admire and honor you and are proud now to take you into our Bucknell family as a son of the Alma Mater for which you have done more than any other living man, more indeed than any other man who has ever lived.

MANY GRADS BACK FOR ALUMNI DAY

Alumni Day at Commencement this year saw more alumni back on the campus than at any previous Commencement reunion. Many of them, more than 350 in fact, registered at alumni headquarters in Roberts Hall, and many more who did not register attended their class reunions and spent the week-end in renewing old friendships.

The Alumni Luncheon for all graduates, regardless of date of graduation, which was inaugurated last year, proved an attractive drawing card. More alumni than could possibly be served, and the dining room accommodates nearly 400, showed up for the affair. In addition, three of the classes held their luncheons downtown, 1898 at the Lewisburg Inn, 1903 at the Lewisburg Club, and 1908 at the Hotel Lewisburger.

Miss Carrie Foresman, '16, President of the General Alumnae

Association, presided at the luncheon. After a short musical program by the Men's Glee Club, she presented the two principal speakers, Dr. Arnaud C. Marts and Dr. Carl L. Millward, '06, President of the General Alumni Association. She also called upon several other guests, including Dr. Homer P. Rainey, Judge J. Warren Davis, and Dean R. H. Rivenburg, all of whom responded briefly.

1888 WINS RECOGNITION

Of especial interest were the brief comments made by some of the older returning alumni introduced by Miss Foresman, who called upon a representative from all of the reunion classes for a word of greeting from the class. Special recognition was paid to the class of 1888, represented at the luncheon by all of its seven surviving members.

Mrs. Harriet Mason Stevens, 1-'58, of Hampton, Va., one of Bucknell's oldest living alumni, had been invited by President Marts to return as a guest of honor at Commencement. Mrs. Stevens, who is 97 years old, could not attend, but she sent her greetings to the alumni in the form of a letter, which was read at the luncheon by Mrs. Elizabeth Bates Hoffman, 1-'94, whose mother was a classmate of Mrs. Stevens.

Mrs. Stevens, who makes her home with her daughter at Hampton, is the widow of a missionary to Burma. Seven years after graduation from the Institute in 1858 at the age of 17, she married the Rev. Edward Oliver Stevens and went with him to Burma, where they spent the next 48 years. Upon his death she returned to this country in 1911 and took up her residence at Hampton.

DEAR BUCKNELLIANs:

Another Commencement has come and gone; 190 seniors have received their degrees and have gone on into their further careers with the excellent preparation which Bucknell gives to her sons and daughters. It is interesting to observe the large percentage of them, 40 per cent, who are planning to take graduate work in varied fields in many universities.

We are proud of these 190 graduates and our affectionate hope for them and faith in them goes out to each of them wherever they may be.

The Commencement exercises, held in the new gymnasium will be long remembered by all who were present. There were many events of interest throughout the program; — there were two special thrills — when the audience arose spontaneously and enthusiastically to greet Dr. Daniel C. Roberts, Honorary Chairman of the Board of Trustees and great friend of Bucknell, when the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon him; and when the new gymnasium was named in honor of Judge John Warren Davis, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, loyal and hard-working alumnus.

Now that the magnificent Davis Gymnasium is ready for the use of our men students, we are renovating and remodeling the Tustin Gymnasium and Loomis Field for our women students, so our physical education program may be strengthened equally for men and women in the coming year.

Our architect is now consulting actively with our Engineering Faculty and others in completing the design and specifications for our next building project, which will be the completion of our Engineering Building, the first wing of which was built in 1922. We hope additional funds may become available soon so that construction on this building may be started in the near future.

Our hearts have been saddened in recent months by the loss of several beloved Bucknellians, — Mrs. John Howard Harris, President-Emeritus Emory W. Hunt, Dr. Mary Bartol Theiss, Miss Eliza Martin, and several alumni known to all older Bucknellians. We, who remain, feel the added responsibility for maintaining the Bucknell tradition that now comes more pointedly upon us as these beloved ones are removed from their places in the human chain that links the Bucknell of today with past history and memory.

Our 93rd college year will open on September 21st and it appears that we shall have an entering freshman class of choice young men and women with high qualities of mind, personality and character. Never have there been as many applications for admission to Bucknell at this date in July as there are this year. You alumni, who are constantly telling young people and their parents about Bucknell, are responsible in no small degree for this wide-spread desire to come to Bucknell, and we are grateful to you.

The faculty and administration and present students at Bucknell are resolved that these new students, who are coming to Bucknell with high hopes and expectations, shall find here the utmost incentive and help and inspiration to grow, to achieve, and to serve.

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

FULL PROGRAM FEATURES COMMENCEMENT WEEK-END

THE University's 88th Commencement season provided Bucknell with its busiest week-end of the year, beginning with the annual Trustee-Faculty dinner, Friday evening, and closing as usual with the Corporation dinner after Commencement.

This year the Trustee-Faculty dinner was limited to the Trustees and to one faculty member representing each department.

Musical events played an important part in the three-day program. They included a student recital and an open air concert by the Band Saturday afternoon, a sacred concert by the Mixed Chorus and the Men's Glee Club Sunday afternoon, and the traditional oratorio Sunday evening. This year the oratorio was Joseph Haydn's "Theresian Mass."

Other important events were the annual Commencement play, Noel Coward's "Hay Fever," given Saturday evening, and the President's reception for seniors and alumni on Sunday afternoon.

President Arnaud C. Marts presided at the Corporation dinner, presenting as the guests of honor the six men who had just been awarded honorary degrees, and calling upon each one for a brief talk. He also called upon Judge J. Warren Davis, Judge Joseph H. Buffington of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Philadelphia, and upon Attorney James Harris of Scranton, son of the late John Howard Harris, former Bucknell President.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

ELECTS DAVIS CHAIRMAN

Judge J. Warren Davis was elected chairman of the Board of Trustees of Bucknell University at the semi-annual business meeting of that body held in the President's house on the campus Saturday morning, June 11.

Daniel C. Roberts of Wilkes-Barre was again named as honorary chairman and Oliver Decker of Williamsport and Dayton L. Ranck of Lewisburg were re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

NEW TRUSTEE

Michael L. Benedum, President of the Benedum Trees Company, Pittsburgh, who was elected a Trustee of the University.

One new member was added to the Board. He is Michael L. Benedum of Pittsburgh, president of the Benedum Trees Company. Three trustees were re-elected for five-year terms. They are: Judge Thomas J. Baldrige, Hollidaysburg; Joseph W. Henderson, Philadelphia; and Andrew J. Sordoni, Kingston.

Most important action taken by the Board was that authorizing President Marts to let the contracts for the remodeling of Tustin Gymnasium and for the completion of the engineering building, as soon as the necessary funds become available.

DR. MARTS PREACHES BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Because the "turning wheel" of events is fairly certain to bring an eventual change for the better in American life, college graduates should not be disheartened by the present-day "mass mood of deep pessimism and cynical gloom," declared President Arnaud C. Marts in his baccalaureate sermon to Bucknell seniors.

Speaking in the Methodist Church, where the exercises were held this year, Dr. Marts predicted the return of fairly normal economic life and the eventual restoration of peace among nations. He assured the seniors that even if stability and normal life fail to return, the educated man or woman will find the supreme value of his training, "for he is privileged to store up a wealth of inner treasures on which he may nourish his mind and spirit when the outer world turns utterly stale and disappointing."

MEN'S GYMNASIUM

The Davis Memorial Gymnasium, when completed, will be a group of several units. The gymnasium proper, dedicated at Commencement, constitutes Unit "A". It contains a gymnasium floor 140 feet long and 85 feet wide. On the sides are balconies containing 1600 permanent seats. Temporary seats for over 2000 more can be placed on the floor when the gymnasium is used for an auditorium. Unit "A" cost about $200,000.

Unit "B" will stand in front of Unit "A" and will contain offices for the Physical Education staff, class rooms, and individual corrective exercise gymnasium, and rooms for wrestling and boxing instruction. The basement of Unit "B" is completed and contains the heating plant for the whole structure. Unit "B" will cost about $50,000.

Unit "C" will be a swimming pool, under its own roof, connecting with Unit "A" and standing just to the North of it. This will cost about $100,000.

Unit "D" will be a balancing wing standing to the South of Unit "A" and will contain hand-ball courts, squash courts, bowling alleys, and other sports. It will cost about $50,000.

Unit "E" will be a small field house, a forty-foot extension to the rear of Unit "A", with dirt floor, for the indoor practice of outdoor sports. It will cost about $30,000.

There are no present plans for constructing Units "B", "C", "D", and "E". They will be built in the future as funds are given for that purpose.

REUNIONS AT THE ALUMNI LUNCHEON

CLASS REUNIONS IN INFORMAL REVIEW

SILVER ANNIVERSARY FOR '13

By CHARLES A. FRYLING, Reunion Chairman

Twenty-five members of the Class of 1913 with their families returned to the remodeled halls of their Alma Mater for their twenty-fifth anniversary. Class headquarters were established in the music room on the second floor of Roberts Hall. All morning members and their families kept arriving from far and near. At noon an informal reception was held at the Lewisburg Club.

Promptly at one o'clock members and their guests, 75 in all, sat down to lunch. The luncheon program was in charge of general chairman Charles A. Fryling. Music was presented by the Irey Trio of Danville. The class joined in old Bucknell songs lead by Jane Irey Rees. Instrumental selections were given by Glenn Fryling and David Rees. Letters and telegrams of regret from absent members of the class were read. The Rev. George Haines of Wyoming conducted a short memorial service for fourteen deceased members. In the absence of President Middleton, who was detained by two weddings, Leslie Stout acted as toastmaster. Informal talks were made by various members of the class including the Rev. Richard Bowling of Norfolk, Valedictorian of the class; O. V. W. Hawkins of New York City; Jane Irey Rees of Danville, and Howard Fisher of Reading.

MARTS COMMENDS CLASS

The outstanding feature of the program was the address of President Marts commending the Bucknell alumni in general for their renewed interest in Bucknell and their hearty cooperation with the Trustees and Faculty. He also commented on the unique distinction of the class of 1913 having three of its members: E. M. Richards, Robert Rooke and Berkeley Hastings on the Bucknell Board of Trustees.

Howard Fisher of Reading was elected President and Baker Barnhardt, of Lewisburg, Secretary-

Treasurer-Reporter to prepare for the thirtieth reunion, five years hence. Following the luncheon, the class retired to Loomis Field where class pictures were taken.

GUESTS AT "HAY FEVER"

In the evening the members of the class were guests of the University (one whole block of seats being reserved) at the Cap and Dagger play "Hay Fever."

The following committee planned the reunion ably assisted by H. W. Holter, Registrar and the Alumni Office: Charles A. Fryling, Chairman; James McClure; Jane Irey Rees; Baker Barnhardt; Berkeley Hastings; Ethel Hottenstein Miles; Harold Shaffer.

The following were present:

Helen Bartol Leonard, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. C. Baker Bernhardt and two children, Lewisburg; Mr. and Mrs. J. Ralph Bogert, Hempstead, N. Y.; Rev. and Mrs. Richard H. Bowling and three daughters, Norfolk, Va.; Dr. and Mrs. Fayette C. Eshelman and daughter, Hazleton; Mr. and Mrs. Howard V. Fisher and three children, Reading; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Fryling and three children, Sunbury; Marwood B. Glover and son, Vineland, N. J.; Rev. George F. Haines, Wyoming; Mr. and Mrs. O. V. W. Hawkins, Plandome, L. I.; Carlton B. Hooker, Camp Hill; Ethel Hottenstein Miles and two children, Milton;

Jane Irey Rees and son, Danville; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. McKeague and two children, Petersburg, Va.; Dr. and Mrs. Albert N. Redelin, Nesquehoning; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. L. Rooke and two children, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Clay S. Sanders and daughter, Shamokin; Harold A. Shaffer, Lewisburg; Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Steele and two children, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Still, Philadelphia; Leslie W. Stout, Wilmington, Del.; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Talbot, Wilmington, Del.; Samuel K. White, Merion; Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Zehner, Uniontown; Mr. and Mrs. Berkeley V. Hastings and four children, Milton; Mr. and Mrs. James F. McClure and two children, Lewisburg.

'08 STARTS FELLOWSHIP FUND

Thirty-nine men and women met at the Hotel Lewisburger for the fortieth reunion of the class of 1908. Of this number, 26 were graduates and the others were guests of their husbands or wives. A roll call of the entire class list was a feature of the occasion, with each alumnus contributing some piece of information about himself and also about those graduates who could not be present.

The class voted to establish a fund, to be known as the Fellowship Fund of 1908, to aid their less fortunate classmates. Money for this purpose was contributed by many of those who were present and the fund is now an established fact.

Since this class had its last reunion five years ago, nine of its members have passed on.

During the business meeting the Rev. Winfield Scott Booth was elected president and Dr. Paul G. Stolz was elected secretary and treasurer.

'03 CELEBRATES ITS THIRTY-FIFTH

By W. K. RHODES, Reunion Chairman

The Class of 1903 assembled in the Dining Hall of the Women's College for the celebration of the thirty-fifth anniversary of its graduation. The following members of the class with their guests were in attendance:

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Taylor, Mrs. Elva Coleman Herpel and son, Mr. Merle M. Edwards, Miss Hannah Goodman, Mr. Frederick

B. Jaekel, Mr. W. Lawrence Kalp, W. N. C. Marsh, Esq., Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Rhodes, Charlotte Shields, Mr. J. F. Sigel, Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Brown and son, Dr. Charles A. Lehman, Mrs. Eva Ginter Filmore, Mrs. F. E. Burpee.

The class members of the immediate vicinity were greatly delighted on this occasion to see such a goodly number of their classmates present. At the call of the presiding officer of the joint meeting of the General Association of Alumni and Alumnae immediately following the luncheon, W. K. Rhodes responded very briefly in behalf of the loyalty and devotion of his classmates to their Alma Mater.

40 YEAR CLASS MEETS AT INN

BY GRACE SLIFER DRUM, Reunion Chairman

The Class of 1898, or forty-year class, met at the Lewisburg Inn for its reunion.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Roy B. Mulkie and son, Union City; Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Clement, Sunbury; Andrew Leiser, Esq., Lewisburg; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Baker, Downingtown; Rev. and Mrs. J. Elmer Saul, Norristown; Mrs. Ruth Sprague Downs, Ardmore; Rev. and Mrs. E. Herbert Dutton, Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Anna Rodgers James and daughter, Allentown; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Flint, West Chester; J. G. Lauderbaugh, Washington; Charles D. Koch, Harrisburg; and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Drum, Lewisburg.

ROY MULKIE TALKS

Between courses our President, Roy Mulkie, made a brief address, following which an article from the March, '38 Alumni Monthly was read about one of our class, Frank Alfred Golder pronounced by Mrs. Theiss "perhaps the most interesting among all our alumni," also letters from Morris C. VanGundy of Houston, Texas and from J. T. Anderson, of Baltimore.

Just finishing dessert we were interrupted by the official photographer and from the accompanying what the years have done to us. (That is Charley Koch with the ing picture all absent '98ers can bearded. He had to introduce himself to us! Who would have thought that a VanDyke would prove so effectual a disguise! Distinguished in appearance, isn't he?)

THE YEARS REVIEWED

After the photographer had done his best for us, we returned to the dining room and had our real reunion. Our presiding officer, Roy Mulkie, prompted by the rest of us, rose and told what he had been doing since leaving Bucknell, and was followed in turn by each class brother or sister as he called upon them round the table. Each, sure that his hearers were really interested, responded, giving a brief account of his interests, work, and whereabouts since '98.

And was it interesting? To us it was more so than a best seller and at the close we'd had a real reunion, not whoopee or hurrah for '98, but what have I done and what has life done to me since '98. We found it thrilling, and felt it was the best class reunion we'd ever attended.

DOWN MEMORY LANE

After each class member had spoken, different ones of those who had passed on were mentioned and talked about by someone who knew — Charlie Clement telling us of Dave Elliott, Charlie Koch about J. P. Stober. Reunion a sad time? No, it was wonderful, but just like life, sad in spots. Of course, living absentees were discussed as well. In the quiet breezy coolness of that long dining room our minds harked back to an eventful day in '98 and we bridged the years with almost the same feeling "Can this be truly I?"

Then Mr. Mulkie called upon Professor Drum, who was present, for a word from the College, and received an enthusiastic report of the progress at Bucknell.

To the absent members of '98 we send our greetings and hope you may all be present for our 50th.

"FALL IN FOR BUCKNELL" GETS PUBLICITY AWARD

"Fall in for Bucknell," the book of views issued by the University this year for distribution to prospective students and sent to alumni as the February number of the Alumni Monthly, has been judged the second best college viewbook in the country.

Entered in a contest conducted by the American College Publicity Association at its annual convention in Pittsburgh late in June, "Fall in for Bucknell" was voted second place by three advertising men who selected it from a long list of booklets submitted by the leading colleges of the country.

1898 Leaves Its Dessert to Have Its Picture Taken

ALUMNI GROUPS ELECT

C. L. Millward, '06, Reelected President of Alumni
Trennie E. Eisley, '31, Heads Alumnae Association

Dr. Carl L. Millward, '06, superintendent of schools at Milton, Pa., was re-elected president of the General Alumni Association at the annual meeting of the Alumni Council held in Bucknell Hall, Saturday afternoon, June 11.

At the same meeting Mrs. Margaret Phillips Matlack, '18, of Audubon, N. J., was re-elected vice-president and Dayton L. Ranck, '16, of Lewisburg, was re-elected treasurer. W. Cline Lowther, '14, of South Orange, N. J., was elected to the Executive Committee.

Lee Francis Lybarger, Jr., '28, director of admissions, was authorized by the Association to serve as acting Alumni Secretary, until definite plans for filling the office, vacant since February, are completed.

The Association recommended that Judge Thomas B. Balridge, whose term as Alumni Trustee expired in June, be re-elected for another five-year term.

The Acting Secretary made a report of the work of the Alumni Office and the clubs visited during the past year. The Alumni Clubs visited included: Allentown, Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, New York City, Williamsport, Baltimore, Southern New Jersey, Trenton, Elmira, Washington, D. C., Northern New Jersey, and the New England Alumni Club at Boston, Mass.

Treasurer Dayton L. Ranck stated that he had no financial report to make inasmuch as the Alumni Association has no activity for raising funds and that since no dues are paid by the members of the Association, the Alumni Office has been financed entirely by the budget of the University, and, therefore, no funds are handled by the Association. Mr. Ranck also made a report on the status of the Alumni Loyalty Trust Funds, showing a fund of $10,213.40, from which loans have been made to students totalling $7,794.83, leaving a balance, after deducting expenses, of $2,389.74.

Williamsport — reported by G. Grant Painter, '17.

Wilkes-Barre — reported by William J. Curnow, '32.

New York City — reported by W. Cline Lowther, '14.

Harrisburg — reported by Clair G. Groover, '15.

Remarks were made by Dean R. H. Rivenburg, '97, Lewisburg; Roy G. Bostwick, Esq., '05, Pittsburgh; and Al G. Stoughton, '24, New York City.

The Acting Secretary was instructed to communicate with Dr. Lewis E. Theiss and extend the sympathy of the Alumni Association in the passing of his beloved wife and member of the Association.

ALUMNAE MEET

Miss Trennie E. Eisley, '31, editor of the Bucknell News Service, is the new president of the women's graduate organization of the University. She was elected at the annual meeting of the Alumnae Association held Saturday morning, June 11, in Larison Hall.

Other officers elected at the meeting, attended by 53 members, are as follows: Miss Thelma Showalter, '29, vice-president; Mrs. Margaret Stoughton Meyers, I-'05, corresponding secretary; Miss Nancy Griffith, '31, recording secretary; and Mrs. Helen Kerstetter Bechtel, '23, treasurer. Mrs. C. A. Gundy, '90, and Miss Eliza J. Martin, I-'97, were re-elected to the Board of Managers.

Mrs. Ralph Reish, '33 gave the report of the corresponding secretary and presented her bill for postage and stationery which was voted paid.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bates Hoffman, '94 was called on for a report of statistics which was accepted by the Association.

A motion was made by Mrs. M. L. Drum, '98 that the Secretary write a note of sympathy to Professor Theiss and daughter.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bates Hoffman gave a report on the improvements which were made in Larison Hall.

Mrs. Florence Utt Focht, '26, Treasurer, made the following report:

	Balance	$234.76
Dividend from Trust Fund	193.80
	Total	$428.56
Investment returned	$25.00
Bill presented	.24
Amount paid
for improvements	300.00
	$325.24	325.24
	Balance	$103.32

It was moved and seconded that a committee be appointed to compile a history of women graduates of the University for the Centennial of 1946. The following committee was appointed by the President:

Mrs. Florence Utt Focht, '26, Chairman.

Miss Eliza Martin, '00.

Mrs. Martha Wolfe Kalp, '05.

Miss Anna VanGundy, '85.

Mrs. William Owens, '34, reported on Student Loan Fund. In 1937 this committee had its 50th meeting. The fund was turned over to Dayton L. Ranck for student assistance. Assistance was given to 202 girls during the 50 years of this committee's work.

Class toasts were given as follows:

- 1858 Harriet Mason Stevens (Letter)
- 1868 Sara R. Murray (Letter)
- 1878 Mrs. H. M. McClure
- 1888 Mrs. Charles E. Stein
- 1898 Mrs. A. M. Robinson
- 1898 (Col.) Mrs. S. E. Downs
- 1908 (Inst.) Miss Verna G. Noll
- 1908 (Col.) Mrs. Olive Richards Landers
- 1918 Mrs. M. W. Derr
- 1938 Miss Betty Webb

Mrs. Elizabeth Gerhart Faries, '08 brought greetings from the Philadelphia Alumnae Society and described briefly their activities for the year.

N. Y., N. J. Alumni Plan To Start Scholarships

THE Bucknell Alumni Associations for New York City and Northern New Jersey have once more demonstrated their capacity for originating and carrying out constructive projects to aid their Alma Mater by undertaking to establish one or more competitive scholarships for prospective students in the areas served by these two organizations.

Announcement of the proposal was contained in a letter mailed this month to the more than 900 alumni residing in the metropolitan area, inviting them to express their views on the plan which has been developed by the New York Association. A folder giving full details on the undertaking set forth by the club's scholarship committee, headed by Edward C. Kunkle, '97, was enclosed with the letter.

Reasons for selection of this project, as outlined by the committee, are:

"Because of a desire to increase the number of Bucknell scholarships for undergraduates. Altogether too few such scholarships are now available. Many more are needed to enable girls and boys of outstanding promise, but without adequate financial resources, to go to college — and to Bucknell in particular.

"To give opportunity for Bucknellians in the area of the two associations to give effective help to their Alma Mater at the point of greatest significance in helping Bucknell to practice selectivity on a wider scale in admitting prospective undergraduates to the University."

The committee hopes to begin with the establishment with one $300 scholarship and to increase the number until one scholarship can be awarded in each class, the award to be made on a competitive basis in line with University standards.

The special committee appointed by the New York Association to foster the undertaking includes, in addition to Mr. Kunkle, the following members: Walter J. Bower, '18, William Gerken, '33, Harland A. Trax, '01, Campbell Rutledge, '33, and Paul Schreiber, '12. The very active and capable president of the New York club is Edgar A. Snyder, '11.

HARRISBURG

Bucknell Alumni of Harrisburg have enjoyed two very interesting meetings during the past months. On April 7 the guest speaker was Coach Humphreys who brought us first hand information about the joy that was expressed by students and faculty alike when the news of Dr. Marts' acceptance of the presidency was announced in chapel that morning. He also spoke, of course, of Bucknell's football team — its prospects for the coming year and the possibilities for a successful season with a revised schedule. He related many interesting stories of incidents which occurred during the past season and showed and commented upon pictures of the Bucknell-Furman game which was played in Greenville last fall.

A special treat at the meeting on May 5 was the presence of President Arnaud C. Marts and the talk which he made concerning conditions at Bucknell. He was introduced by Dr. Harvey Smith, '94, a member of the Board of Trustees, who expressed the feelings of the club as well as his own when he said that Bucknell was indeed fortunate in having a man of the calibre of Dr. Marts at its head.

President Marts spoke of the fine progress which is being made with the building program at school and expressed his gratification at the receipt of an additional gift of $100,000 which enabled the Trustees to build the gymnasium in such a fashion that it will be the finest in the state. He announced that $25,000 would be spent remodelling Tustin Gymnasium for the use of the women students, and the Engineering Building will soon be enlarged. Dr. Marts mentioned other phases of progress at Bucknell and urged all alumni to be present at the Commencement exercises which will be held in the new gymnasium on June 13th.

Before closing the meeting, President Allen Jones, '25, called upon Mr. Jacob K. Bowman, '11, Mr. Harvey Bogar, '01, and Mr. Joseph Nissley, '31, to make remarks upon some phase of interest to Bucknell alumni and friends.

Janet Blair Bogar, '33,
Secretary.

PITTSBURGH

The Western Pennsylvania Alumni Association held its annual dinner dance Friday evening, March 11, at Penn Lincoln Hotel, Wilkesburg. One hundred and ten Bucknellians and their guests sat down to dinner, after which our Alumni President, George Henggi, '26 introduced the Toastmaster for the evening, John T. Shirley, '09. Mr. Shirley had some very interesting stories to tell, after which Clarence Peters, '15, presented the Western Pennsylvania Football Trophy to Captain James Curran of Scott High School Football Team, winners of 1937 Class AA WPIAL championship. Principal Kirschner and Coach Snyder of Scott High School made some remarks.

Our Toastmaster then introduced the honor guest, Dr. Marts, who gave us a very enlightening talk on the activities at Bucknell and the progress being made on the building program.

After Dr. Marts' talk the chairman of the party, George Jones, '23, had Mr. Lybarger, '28 show motion pictures of Bucknell, and then took charge of the dancing.

The party broke up at 1:30 and all reported having had a good time.

S. J. Leezer, '31,
Secretary and Treasurer.

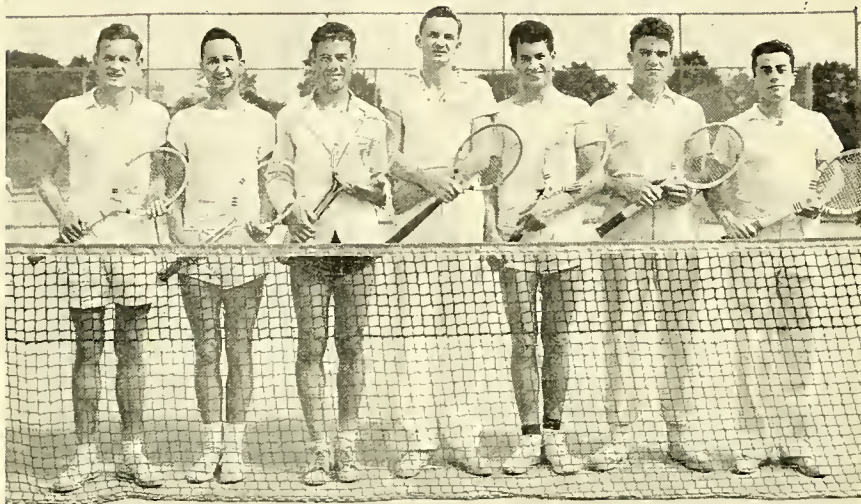

TRENTON

Edmund B. Pierce, '28 has been elected President of the Bucknell Club of Trenton. Others named at a recent meeting are: M. S. Fairheller, Vice-President; Mrs. Eva Himmelreich Apgar, '12, Secretary; M. E. Shourds, '31, Treasurer; and Miss Emma Dillon, '15, Judge J. Warren Davis, '96, and James C. Pierce, '19, are members of the Executive Committee.

Bison Athletes Make Fine Record With 37 Victories in 7 Sports

Making their finest showing in recent years, Bucknell's varsity athletes compiled a won-lost percentage of .627 during the academic year which ended with Commencement.

The Bisons, competing in seven sports, won 37 games during the year against 22 defeats and three ties. Boxing was the only sport with a won-lost record on the wrong side of the ledger, the Bison mittmen winning only two out of six engagements.

A revival of the winning habit in the spring sports was the highlight of the year's campaigning. Ordinarily, Bison teams make their best records in the fall and winter sports. This year, the situation was reversed, as the tennis, baseball, and track teams contributed 20 of the 37 victories.

The tennis team was the outstanding Bison athletic array during the year. Coach Floyd Ballentine's netters won 11 straight matches without being extended, ending their season undefeated.

The second longest winning streak during the year was a seven-game string assembled by the baseball team before it dropped the finale to Penn State, 9-0.

Season's records for Bucknell's seven varsity sports are:

Football: won, 3; lost, 3; tied 2.

Soccer: won, 4; lost, 3; tied, 1.

Basketball: won, 8; lost, 6.

Boxing: won, 2; lost, 4.

Track: won, 2; lost, 2.

Tennis: won, 11; lost, 0.

Baseball: won, 7; lost, 4.

Summer Session Enrollment Largest in School History

The annual summer session opened on Monday, June 27, with the largest enrollment in the history of summer courses at Bucknell, 550 students having registered for the six-weeks' course. Dr. Frank G. Davis, who is directing the session, heads a faculty of 48 teachers who make up the staff.

Bucknell is conducting two Demonstration Schools this summer for student teachers, one at Lewisburg and the other at Milton, with more than 500 boys and girls of grade school age enrolled. Sixty-five student teachers from 22 colleges are taking the course in practice teaching this year.

Special events planned for the session include the Second Annual Institute on International Affairs on July 13 and 14, a conference on leisure time activities on July 27 and 28, and a School of Parent Education from July 18 to 22.

DISTRICT CLUBS

After the election Judge J. Warren Davis spoke upon the progress of the University, particularly in regard to the financial strides that are being made in the raising of funds for new dormitories, a gymnasium and scientific buildings. Judge Davis is probably the most widely known Bucknell alumnus in this territory and is devoting a great deal of his time to furthering the interests of the University. He pointed out that clubmen should submit names of prospective students to the Registrar of the University for contact purposes.

The outgoing president is William Irvin, '22.

WASHINGTON

At a recent business meeting of the Washington, D. C. Club the following officers were elected:

President — Mr. Lawrence O. Manley, '07.

Vice-President — Dr. John S. Burlew, '30.

Secretary and Treasurer — Mrs. Elizabeth Bentley Scheffler, '33.

Elizabeth Bentley Scheffler, '33, Secretary and Treasurer.

ELMIRA

Dr. Arnaud C. Marts was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Elmira Alumni Club held in that city on April 30, with 40 members present. The alumni had dinner at the Age Tea Room and then went to the High St. Temple to hear Dr. Marts.

The Rev. Roland N. Dutton, '26, was toastmaster. Rabbi Frederic A. Doppelt spoke briefly and motion pictures of campus life were shown. Sanford L. Barcus, is president of the club.

Dr. Marts told the alumni that the solution of today's momentous problems lies in a reversion to the humanitarian philosophy of education — moulding of the whole man, personality, character, conduct and spirit as well as intellect.

FROM THE FACULTY FRONT

Prof. C. A. Lindeman Retires Taught Here 36 Years

Professor Charles A. Lindemann, '98, more familiarly known to thousands of Bucknellians as "Lindy," has been forced by ill health to give up his post as professor of pure mathematics and has retired from the Bucknell faculty after 36 years of service to his Alma Mater. Professor Lindemann's retirement was regretfully announced by President Marts in June.

Known to Bucknellians everywhere through his long connection with the University, both as a student and as a teacher, Dr. Lindemann completed this year a teaching career extending over a period of 39 years. He was graduated from Bucknell in the class of 1898 and received his Master's degree here in the following year. After several years of teaching, he joined the Bucknell faculty in 1902 as instructor in mathematics. In 1905 he was made assistant professor of mathematics and in 1907 professor of pure mathematics. John B. Stetson University paid tribute to his ability by awarding him the honorary degree of Doctor of Science.

HELD IMPORTANT POST

During his long association with Bucknell, Professor Lindemann has held numerous important offices. He was one of the pioneers and creators of the Engineering School and chairman of the committee that built the North playing fields and did the preliminary work on the stadium. He also served for a number of years as secretary of the faculty.

President Marts, in commenting on Professor Lindemann's retirement, expressed deep regret that the latter's health during the past three years had been such that Professor Lindemann concluded that he should retire rather than complete the 40-year teaching program that he had anticipated for his life career.

"He has been one of the great teachers in Bucknell history," said Mr. Marts, "unique in his capacity to impart accurate information to students and in his ability to inspire them to hard, effective effort to master their subjects.

"As he retires from active teaching we hope that he will be happy in his new mode of life and that he will be on hand to greet returning alumni and to give wise counsel to those of us who are continuing in the service of Bucknell."

It is expected that Professor Lindemann will be elected professor emeritus of mathematics when the Trustees of the University hold their next meeting in the fall.

ROBBINS, COLEMAN PUBLISH TEXT IN WORLD LITERATURE

Western World Literature, a unique anthology containing 464 selections from 190 authors representing the whole span of literature in the western world from the time of Homer to the present, compiled by two Bucknell professors, Dr. H. W. Robbins and Dr. W. H. Coleman, has just been published by Macmillan Company.

Dr. Robbins and Dr. Coleman were invited by the publishers to prepare the book on the basis of their experience with the course in World Literature which they developed at Bucknell. It will fill a long-felt need in the textbook field and will undoubtedly be adopted by many of the colleges which have followed Bucknell's lead in the establishment of survey courses in world literature.

Western World Literature has a number of unusual features, one of which is a chronology which attempts to correlate literature and history. The authors have supplied historical data for the period in which each author wrote, in order that the student may have a better understanding of the writer and his times.

Of especial interest are the translations made by Dr. Robbins from foreign literature. These include works in Greek, Latin, and Old French, translated by Dr. Robbins for inclusion in this text.

President Marts, who has been deeply interested in the project, said: "We are very proud of these two Bucknell professors who have been able to produce this important textbook. Its publication marks an important milestone in the development of the survey courses in which Dr. Rainey pioneered at Bucknell."

FOUR PROFESSORS PROMOTED

Four faculty promotions were announced by Dean R. H. Rivenburg at Commencement. They are as follows: Dr. Ralph E. Page, from associate professor to professor of political science; Dr. Alvin B. Biscoe, from assistant professor to associate professor of economics; Dr. Meyer F. Nimkoff, from associate professor to professor of sociology; and Dr. William T. MacCreadie, from assistant professor to associate professor of mathematics.

STILLMAN GETS LEAVE

Donald G. Stillman, instructor in English, has been granted leave of absence for next year. He will study for his Doctor's degree at the University of Michigan. Mr. Stillman and his family have already moved to Ann Arbor.

COLGATE HONORS BOND

Dr. Charles M. Bond, professor of religion, was honored by his Alma Mater, Colgate University, when that school conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity at its Commencement exercises on June 13. Dr. Bond was one of six noted educators and distinguished men who were awarded honorary degrees by Colgate this year.

STATE CERTIFIES KUNKEL

Dr. George M. Kunkel, '19, assistant professor of mechanical engineering, has recently been notified of his certification as a Professional Engineer in Pennsylvania, which signifies that the State considers him qualified to design and direct any engineering work in his field, and to accept responsibility for its safe accomplishment. His past record was such that he was excused from taking the examinations which are often required.

RICE ENGAGES IN RESEARCH

Dr. John W. Rice, professor of bacteriology, is spending the summer at Lake Seneca, N. Y., where he is engaged in special research for the New York State Agricultural Station at Geneva. Dr. Rice was invited by Dr. Breed, chief of the bacteriological division of the Station, to assist in research in paper containers, a field in which the Bucknell professor has already done considerable work.

Noted Leaders Join In Tribute To Dr. E. W. Hunt, President Emeritus

Noted leaders in education, religion, and foreign mission work gathered in the First Baptist Church at Lewisburg on May 23 to pay final tribute to their esteemed leader, Dr. Emory W. Hunt, Bucknell's beloved President Emeritus, whose death occurred on Friday, May 20, at his home in Lewisburg.

Dr. Hunt, who retired from the presidency of Bucknell in 1931, had been in ill health for several months. In mid-winter he suffered an attack of pneumonia which left him in a weakened condition, so that his death was not entirely unexpected.

The same beauty and simplicity which had marked Dr. Hunt's life characterized the impressive funeral services, with representatives from the institutions and organizations which he had served participating in this last memorial.

Dr. Arnaud C. Marts, speaking on behalf of the University, praised the late Bucknell president as "a strong, brave, courageous, gentle leader" who served as head of the University during "the twelve most difficult years of its history."

"There were no frontiers to the mind of Dr. Hunt," said Dr. Joseph C. Robbins, representing the Baptist Foreign Mission Board. He described Dr. Hunt's influence upon the foreign missions movement, citing his work in establishing and supporting Shanghai University, West China University, and Judson College in Burma.

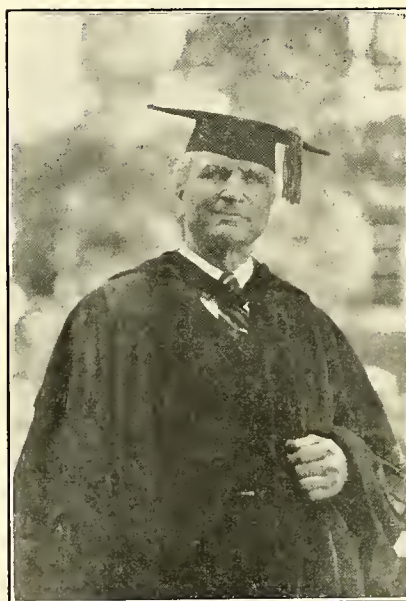

"We leave him greater than the world suspects, living and dying," said Dr. George H. Baker of the Baptist Education Board. At the time of his death Dr. Hunt was Chairman of this Board.

Dr. James H. Franklin, president of Crozer Theological Seminary, praised Dr. Hunt as "a disciple of the meek and lowly Jesus." "He was the gentlest strong man I ever knew," he explained.

Others who took part in the services were Dr. Avery A. Shaw, president of Denison College, Granville, Ohio, which Dr. Hunt headed for more than a decade, Dr.

Milton G. Evans, former president of Crozer Theological Seminary, and the Rev. James B. Ostergren, pastor of the Baptist Church here.

Members of the faculty who attended in a body wore their academic robes as a special mark of respect for their former leader. Dr. Hunt's body, clad in his academic gown, lay in state in the church for several hours preceding the services, which were followed by burial in Lewisburg Cemetery.

Dr. Hunt was born in East Clarence, N. Y., February 2, 1862, the son of the late Rev. and Mrs. Harrison P. Hunt. He was educated at the University of Rochester, where he received the Bachelor of Arts degree in 1884. He was graduated from Crozer Theological Seminary, Chester, Pa., in 1887. Honorary degrees were conferred on him by the University of Rochester, Hillsdale College in Michigan, McMaster College, John B. Stetson College in Florida, Denison University in Granville, Ohio, and Bucknell University.

Prior to becoming president of Bucknell University he was president of Denison University from 1901 to 1913.

Among positions held by Dr. Hunt was the presidency of the Northern Baptist Convention, the highest honor offered by the Baptists of the north. Dr. Hunt headed this body from 1910 to 1912. He was also general secretary of the American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society from 1913 to 1915. Just before entering the presidency of Bucknell University he was pastor of the First Baptist Church at Newton Centre, Mass. He was pastor of prominent churches in Toledo and Boston before he was president of Denison University.

While he was president of Bucknell University, beginning June 24, 1919, and continuing until June 9, 1931, five buildings and the memorial stadium were added to the college campus. Academic standards were maintained and approved and the college grew in size to 1,200 students, with 800 persons in the extension division.

Dr. Hunt was married to Miss Josephine Kendrick of Rochester, N. Y., in 1888. Their daughter, Miss Helen Hunt, is Dean of Women in Judson College in Burma. Mrs. Hunt died in 1890. In 1892 Dr. Hunt married again, taking as his wife Miss Elizabeth Olney of Walton, Mass., whose death occurred in 1932. Two daughters of this marriage are surviving. They are: Mrs. Earl Richards of Columbus and Mrs. William Mahaffey of Pittsburgh.

Mary Bartol Theiss '94

Dies of Heart Attack

Dr. Mary Bartol Theiss, '94, who, it is said, knew more about Bucknell than any other individual, died very suddenly of a heart attack at her home near Muncy on Saturday, June 25, ending a brilliant career characterized by remarkable versatility and activity. The wife of Dr. Lewis E. Theiss, Professor of Journalism at Bucknell, she was known to thousands of Bucknellians for her loyal and continuous devotion to her Alma Mater, manifest in her deep interest in every project promoting the welfare of the college which she loved so greatly.

Mrs. Theiss was born at Union Grove, Wisconsin, November 11, 1875, the daughter of Dr. William C. and Martha Belle Bartol, and came to Lewisburg in 1881 when her father became a member of the Bucknell University faculty. She attended Bucknell Institute and Bucknell University, and was graduated from the latter with honors in 1894. She received her Master of Arts degree in 1895, and then accepted the Bennett Fellowship at the University of Pennsylvania, where she was awarded a Doctor of Philosophy degree in 1899. She was then appointed head of the department of ancient languages at Rockford College, Rockford, Ill.

In 1903 she married Dr. L. E. Theiss, who was then on the editorial staff of the New York Sun, and they resided in New York City until 1912. From 1914 to 1924 they resided near Muncy, where they were occupied with writing books and articles for leading national publications.

Mrs. Theiss, a writer herself, contributed numerous articles to leading national magazines, and assisted Dr. Theiss in writing the book, "His Big Brother," and many more of his books. As a contributor to the Alumni Monthly, she was an authority on graduates of the University who have become famous, and at the time of her death was writing a history of the Bucknell Chapter of Pi Beta Phi, national social fraternity. She was one of the founders of the Bucknell chapter, and also became its first president.

So varied were her interests that it is almost impossible to enumerate all of them.

Mrs. Theiss was active in many local civic and social organizations and started the Girl Scout Movement in Lewisburg. She was a member of the Shikelimo Chapter of the D. A. R., the Campus Club, and of the Susquehanna Branch of the American Association of University Women, which she assisted in organizing. She belonged to Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity.

She is survived by her husband, '02, a daughter, Frances Warren Theiss, a student at Bucknell; her father, Dr. W. C. Bartol, '72; two sisters, Miss Belle Bartol, '99; and Mrs. William L. Leonard, '13; and by one brother, William A. Bartol, '95.

Eliza J. Martin Dies Librarian for 15 Years

Miss Eliza J. Martin, '00, Librarian at Bucknell University for the past 15 years, died at her home in Lewisburg on Friday, July 8, after a brief illness. Her death came as a distinct shock to the many Bucknellians who had come into contact with her interesting personality as a student and later as an administrator at Bucknell. She was 56 years old.

Miss Martin's family had long been prominent in Bucknell history. Both her father and mother were graduates of Bucknell. Her mother, who was Mary E. Brown, l-'62, taught for several years in the Music School before her marriage and her father, William E. Martin, '71, was connected with the University for nearly half a century, first as teacher and later as librarian.

Miss Martin was born in the academy building, when her father was principal of the academy. In those days members of the faculty occupied the same quarters as students. She was graduated from Bucknell in the class of 1900 and received her Master's degree from the University two years later.

She later studied for a brief period at the University of Jena, the University of Berlin, Columbia University and the New York State Library School.

She came to Bucknell as Assistant Librarian in 1921 and was made Librarian the following year, holding that position until her death.

For many years she took an active interest in alumni affairs and held a number of offices in local organizations. She served as president of the Campus Club in recent years. Two years ago she spent some time in China and upon her return filled numerous lecture engagements.

She is survived by one brother, James Brown Martin, '98, of Nashville, Tenn.

Funeral services were conducted in the First Baptist Church at Lewisburg and burial was made in the Lewisburg Cemetery. Members of the faculty at Bucknell, deacons of the Baptist Church, a number of alumni, and also a number of townspeople were honorary pallbearers.

THE AMERICAN MIND

Reviewed for the Alumni Monthly by Allan G. Halline, assistant professor of American Literature at Bucknell.

The American Mind. Edited by Harry R. Warfel, '20, Ralph H. Gabriel, and Stanley T. Williams. American Book Company, 1937. This book is a new departure in anthologies of literature. Instead of including selections only from the standard literary figures of America, the editors have chosen amply but discriminatingly from the writings of men who have been outstanding in other fields of intellectual endeavor: religion, philosophy, science, politics, economics, and sociology. This inclusion of material from other fields of American thought enables one to understand more fully the intellectual development of the nation and enriches his reading of the traditional literary figures. Such an approach is in keeping with recent tendencies in American criticism.

Brief, concise, and proportionate surveys give the key to the background in each distinct period of American thought, and informative introductions, with selected bibliography, provide the student with a helpful approach to the various figures represented. In addition, there are general bibliographies at the end of the volume, as well as a convenient chronology which arranges the historical and literary events in parallel columns, thus putting in outline form the general theme of the book.

To some the chief fault of the book will be the briefness and sketchiness of the selections which represent a few of the writers. No doubt the editors would answer to this that one of their interests was breadth in the inclusion of authors, and also that they were obliged by production limitations to omit several hundred pages they wished to include.

Personals

George T. Bailey, one of Bucknell's oldest alumni, familiarly known as "the grand old man of La Plume", celebrated his 90th birthday in February.

Mr. Bailey, who is a brother of the late Mrs. John Howard Harris whose death occurred this year, can claim one of the most unusual records in college circles, for he has served "the longest trusteeship at any school, college, or university in the United States." Mr. Bailey became a trustee at Keystone Academy, now Scranton-Keystone Junior College, more than 69 years ago, assuming the post shortly after the death of his father, who had been one of the founders of the school.

At 90 Mr. Bailey is still an active man and is widely known for his remarkable memory which has served him in good stead in his histories of Keystone Academy and other local institutions.

Patrick F. Duncan, prominent business man of Duncannon, Pa., died at his home in that city last February, following an extended illness. Mr. Duncan was a pioneer banker at Duncannon and was interested in numerous large corporations. He was one of the largest stockholders of the Clark's Ferry Bridge Company and was well known throughout the state.

Dr. Spenser B. Meeser, who is now living at South Wellfleet, Cape Cod, Mass., is reported to be improved after a serious illness caused by heart trouble.

Dr. Mary B. Harris, superintendent of the Federal Industrial Institution for Women at Alderson, West Virginia, was selected as one of the women of the month in a magazine article by Genevieve Forbes Herrick that appeared in the June Issue of "The Country Gentleman" under the title of "Women in the News".

After outlining the remarkable record made by prisoners at Alderson, the writer adds: "For years I had heard about this remarkable Mary Harris. I knew she had been graduated with honors from Bucknell University, in Pennsylvania, where her father was for thirty years president. I knew she was a Pi Beta Phi sorority sister of Grace Coolidge and Carrie Chapman Catt. I knew she was a musician, a linguist, and a numismatist. Yes, I too had to run to the dictionary to be sure it means a collector of rare coins and medals.

"I knew that she went into penology almost by accident, giving up the teaching of Latin and Greek, when her college friend, Dr. Katherine Bement Davis, persuaded her to take, just temporarily, the position of superintendent of the Women's Workhouse on Blackwell's Island.

"But I had never met her until she came to Washington a few weeks ago to address the annual meeting of the Women's Bar Association, almost thirteen years to the day, from the time she had gone down to Alderson, West Virginia, to be its first and famous superintendent."

William E. Renshaw of Idaho Springs, Colorado, was killed in an automobile accident near his home on May 31. Widely known as a mining man, former state senator, and former member of the state industrial commission, Mr. Renshaw had celebrated his 78th birthday only a few days before the accident which resulted in his death.

A native of Scranton, Mr. Renshaw went West while still in his early thirties, determined to learn the gold mining business. He soon acquired the famous Gem mine on Deaton hill, near Idaho Springs, which he still owned at the time of his death. For a number of years he was one of the largest mining operators in his section of the country.

In 1898 he married Frieda Walsen, daughter of the late Fred Walsen, pioneer merchant, banker, and stockman, for whom the town of Walsenburg, Colorado, was named. Mrs. Walsen's death occurred more than a year ago.

Irvin S. Cobb, internationally known writer and commentator, added his name to the long list of men who regard Christy Mathewson as "the outstanding player of organized baseball for all time," when, in a recent radio broadcast, he picked Christy as the greatest baseball star the world has ever known.

In a letter written to a graduate of Keystone Academy, now Scranton-Keystone Junior College, and printed in a recent issue of "The Keystonean", the school's paper, Mr. Cobb reviewed the remarks which he made about Mathewson in the course of his broadcast. Mathewson attended Keystone Academy before coming to Bucknell.

He selected Christy Cobb said, "Because he was not only a great athlete but a great gentleman. Because coming into professional baseball at a time when the game was rougher and less scrupulous than it is today, he proved that a youth could give to his team all that he had of skill and wisdom and courage without surrendering his sense of natural honesty or his natural dignity or his natural decency. Because he passed on in his prime by reason of ailments contracted in time of war while bearing his country's flag. Because his record remains as an evergreen monument to his memory and his spirit—an example, in sport and in life generally, to the boyhood and to the manhood of this nation. Christy Mathewson is dead and in his grave—but his soul goes marching on! Of how many of us can you say the same?"

Horace R. Barnes is a member of the faculty of Franklin and Marshall College and is Chairman of the Department of Economics and Business Administration. After graduation from Bucknell, Prof. Barnes took his master's degree at the University of Pennsylvania. He started his teaching career at Peddie.

Death claimed another Bucknellian early in May when Charles N. Brubaker of Pittsfield, Mass., well known engineer at the Pittsfield works of the General Electric Company, died of a heart attack.

The Works News of the General Electric Company reported his death as follows:

"A lovable man who first endeared himself to his host of associates here, as a test student in 1911 following his graduation from Bucknell University, 'Bru' continued to hold this admiration in the executive position he held at the time of his death.

Upon completion of his duties 'on test' Mr. Brubaker served as a designing engineer before being transferred to Fort Wayne in 1920. Six years later he moved to the Erie Works where he was appointed managing engineer of the transformer section. He returned to Pittsfield in 1932 to complete 27 years with General Electric.

Mr. Brubaker, 52, was born in Liverpool, Pa. He was a member of the South Congregational Church executive committee, the Mystic Lodge of Masons, Melba Temple, Shiraz Grotto, Berkshire Commandery and Berkshire Shrine Club, also the Stanley Club, the Quarter Century Club and the A. I. E. E."

Professor W. K. Rhodes, one of his teachers at Bucknell, commented upon his passing in these words:

"Mr. Brubaker is affectionately remembered here at Bucknell by the members of our faculty who were in service at the time he was attending the Academy and during his college career. His strength of character, sincerity of purpose, and seemingly limitless capacity and energy are outstanding traits still fresh in the memory of his teachers."

Editor's Corner

BOWING into this unfamiliar corner, we're shirking that old editorial standby, a statement of policy, except to promise a continuation of the "Alumni Monthly for Alumni" emphasis. You can do your part by tossing overboard that becoming modesty, and giving us a line on what you've been doing. Any ideas or comment on Monthly features will be welcomed.

— o —

SHOULD a new Alumni Directory be published? L. Francis Lybarger, Jr., acting alumni secretary, has received many inquiries concerning the issuance of a revised directory. So, in this issue of the Monthly, he's conducting a straw poll of alumni on this question. If you're interested in buying a directory supplying the up-to-the-minute addresses of your classmates and friends, check the appropriate response on the business reply card inserted at the rear of the Monthly. Whether you favor or frown upon the proposal, send your answer to Mr. Lybarger. The most recent directory, incidentally, was published in 1930.

— o —

IT'S almost here! "It", of course, is Homecoming, set for Saturday, November 19. Elsewhere in these pages you'll find a handy summary of Homecoming highlights. It's an attractive program, full but yet not too crowded to rule out those informal confabs with friends you haven't seen since "way back when".

— o —

IF YOU like to make your Homecoming plans in advance, you can secure tickets and reservations through correspondence with the alumni secretary. Full information as to prices will be found inside the back cover of the Monthly.

— o —

WITH the coming of fall, district alumni clubs have launched an exceptionally active season. Each week we're receiving enthusiastic reports on the formation of new groups or on the flourishing condition of the established clubs. If you're not affiliated with a sectional alumni organization, check the club list on this page and make arrangements to be on hand at the next meeting.

— o —

BUILDING plans have continued to dominate the campus scene since the last issue of the Monthly. Ground has been broken for the two wings which will complete the Engineering Building, and women students have taken over remodeled Tustin Gymnasium. Tennis courts are multiplying rapidly, and Loomis Field has been entirely transformed for coed use. You who return only for Homecoming will have your first glimpse, too, of Davis Gymnasium, the Number One addition during the year.

See you at Homecoming!

Varied Homecoming Program Arranged

To Hold Alumni Ball In Davis Gymnasium

The date: NOVEMBER 19.

The place: BUCKNELL'S CAMPUS.

The event: HOMECOMING.

The thing to do: COME TO LEWISBURG, via motor, rail, air, or thumb.

With all the standard attractions again appearing on the program, this year's Homecoming will offer the added feature of a dance in the new John Warren Davis Gymnasium. Held previously in the Women's College Dining Hall, this year's Alumni Ball will be the first dance in the new sports center. Graduates who remember ruefully the wearing effects of a three-hour caper on the Dining Hall's adamant floor will hail the switch to the gymnasium.

Headlining the program, of course, will be the gridiron battle at 2 o'clock in the Memorial Stadium between Coach Al Humphreys' Bisons and the Colonials of George Washington University. Not for many seasons has the Thundering Herd met defeat before a Homecoming crowd, and this year's team will be out to protect that record against a foe which to date remains unbeaten. Since the epidemic of injuries that struck the Bisons in mid-season is expected to be cleared up by November 19, the Homecoming battle looms as one of the most keenly-contested of the campaign.

The formal Homecoming schedule will get under way at 10:15 o'clock Saturday morning when Bucknell's soccer men tangle with Dickinson's booters on one of the new playing fields laid out this fall in the vicinity of the new gymnasium. Rebounding from an early-season slump by defeating Western Maryland and deadlocking Temple, the Orange and Blue soccer team should provide a good show for alumni who arrive during the morning.

Following the soccer game alumni will have an opportunity to chat with old friends and to inspect the constantly-changing campus. Then, after the football contest there will be another lull during which graduates can reacquaint themselves with each other and with the college. Both Davis Gymnasium and remodelled Tustin Gymnasium will be open for inspection throughout the day.

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK

At 6:45 o'clock alumni paths will converge on the Women's College Dining Hall, where the Alumni Dinner will be held. Carl L. Millward, '06, president of the General Alumni Association, will act as toastmaster, while President Arnaud C. Marts will be the principal speaker. Prominent University and alumni figures will be introduced. There will be a restraining valve on the flow of oratory, with alumni fellowship the keynote of the occasion.

Entertainment will be provided by Professor Melvin Le Mon's fine Men's Glee Club, which has prepared a Homecoming program, including a Bucknell medley and a number of alumni specialties. Tickets for the dinner will be on sale at 75 cents apiece.

After the dinner ends, the group will adjourn to the Gymnasium, where dancing will be scheduled from 9 to 12 P.M. Playing for the dance will be Howard Woods and his orchestra, with his "Celeste" and Glee Club. After a successful summer and fall in the New York metropolitan area, the Woods band will play the Alumni Ball engagement before migrating southward to spend the winter at Georgia and Florida resorts. Soloists with the orchestra are Ralph Bennett and Woods himself. Dance tickets are priced at $1.50 per couple.

Encouraged by the success of last year's Alumni Ball, which marked the resumption of the policy of securing outside orchestras to play for the dance, the committee signed the Woods group in the belief they will duplicate the smashing hit scored in 1937 by Woody Herman. Dress for both the dinner and dance will be informal.

GOLF TOURNEY PLANNED

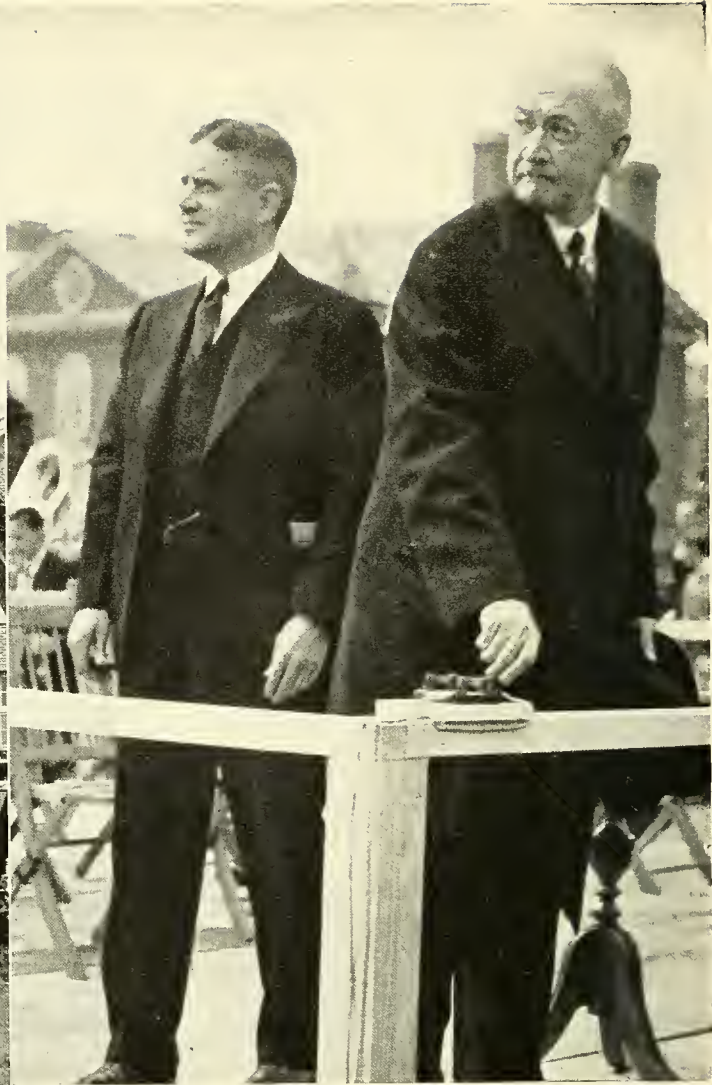

Throughout Friday and Saturday of Homecoming week-end alumni golfers will make their headquarters at the University Golf Course, where the annual tournament will be in progress. Greens fees will be abolished for tourney entrants.

The top-ranking alumni golfers, men and women, will be determined on a match play basis, Malcolm Musser, '18, director of the tournament, announces. Contestants will report their scores at the completion of their rounds, and the winner and runner-up in both men's and women's divisions will receive awards at the Alumni Dinner Saturday evening.

Roberts Hall Lobby will be the registration center for all alumni, it was announced by L. Francis Lybarger, Jr., acting alumni secretary.

For advance reservations and tickets for all Homecoming events, consult the inside of the rear cover for details. These may be secured through correspondence with the alumni secretary, or, in the case of football tickets, by ordering directly from the University athletic office.

Homecoming pageantry, always an important part of the program, will reach a high peak this year. Larger than ever, Bucknell's 80-piece Band is practicing overtime to work up novel maneuvers and stunts for November 19. Again this year the Band is doubly drummajored, with Bernice Henry, '39, and Walter Biddle, '41, twirling the batons. Then, too, a vigilant Student Tribunal has shown unprecedented ingenuity in planning and casting the Freshman Follies of 1938, a free Homecoming sideshow.

Ground Broken For Engineering Addition

Cost of Two Wings Will Be $275,000

ANOTHER important step in the University's building program was taken Sept. 29 with the breaking of ground for two new wings to be added to the Engineering Building at a cost of $275,000.

A gift of $100,000 by a donor whose name was not announced completed the sum required for the construction. Previous benefactions totalling $175,000 had already been received.

Pressing an electric switch which set off a charge of dynamite at the site of the new building, Dr. Charles A. Lindemann, professor emeritus of mathematics and first teacher of engineering subjects at Bucknell, had an important role in the ground breaking ceremony.

Features of the exercises were a radio address by Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam, noted writer on scientific topics, and a tribute by Arnaud C. Marts, Bucknell president, to the men who pioneered in engineering at the University.

TRIBUTE TO PIONEERS

Dr. Marts outlined the development of the engineering department, paying special tribute to five of the professors out of whose courses the work in engineering grew. They include four professors emeritus, Dr. William C. Bartol, Dr. William G. Owens, Dr. Lindemann, Dr. Frank E. Burpee, and Professor Walter K. Rhodes, of the present faculty. He also commended the contributions of the late President John Howard Harris, who inaugurated the engineering courses, and the late President Emory W. Hunt, in whose administration the present wing of the Engineering Building was erected.

Declaring that "the function of the college is to train the mind and the personality, rather than the hand", Dr. Marts emphasized the growing conviction among leaders in the engineering profession that engineering courses in college should not be too pointed in their vocational aim.

In his address Dr. Wiggam described "the final challenge to the engineer" as the problem "whether man shall control science or science control and destroy man". He was introduced to a Mutual Broadcasting System radio audience by Dr. R. H. Rivenburg, dean and vice-president.

Dr. George A. Irland, professor of electrical engineering, described the design and uses of the new building.

Construction of the two new wings will provide twice as much additional space as is now supplied by the present wing, and will make possible the housing of Bucknell's four engineering departments, civil, mechanical, electrical, and chemical, in one structure.

New equipment costing $50,000 will be installed in the completed building for the four engineering branches.

All Time Record Set In Student Enrolment

SOARING above the 1,300 mark for the first time in history, the University student body this year numbers 1,322 persons, Registrar H. W. Holter has announced.

This year's enrolment tops last year's total by 87, and climaxes a steady growth which began four years ago.

In this record-breaking student body there are 375 freshmen, 314 sophomores, 312 juniors, and 277 seniors.

During the past four years no incoming freshman class has fallen below 300 in size, and a successful effort has been made, through the selective admissions program, to maintain high standards in choosing students.

STUDENTS RANK HIGH

The success of this program was evidenced in a statement made by Dr. Philip L. Harriman, professor of psychology, who pointed out that Bucknell students have consistently ranked above the national psychological median for American college students.

This year, on the basis of scores made in psychological tests by 6,500 freshmen in American colleges, it was found that 60 per cent of the Bucknell students ranked in the upper 3,250, Dr. Harriman said.

Alumni cooperation has played a large role in selecting this student body. University officials have worked closely with graduates, who have in many cases served as a link between the college and incoming students.

The Bucknell Junior College at Wilkes-Barre likewise reports the largest total enrolment in its history with 207 students registered. Of this number, 107 are freshmen.

ALUMNI EDUCATORS HAVE CONFERENCE ROLES

THIRTY-SIX alumni played prominent roles in the University's 13th annual Conference on Education, held on the campus October 21 with 500 educators from all parts of Pennsylvania in attendance.

On the general committee, headed by Frank G. Davis, '11, were also John H. Eisenhower, '05, William H. Eyster, '14, Charles E. Hilbish, '09, John F. Hummer, '08, Carl L. Millward, '06, Rudolph Peterson, '15, R. H. Rivenburg, '99, Leo L. Rockwell, '07, Stanley H. Rolfe, '09, A. M. Weaver, '05, and John A. Young, '03.

Dr. Weaver, superintendent of the Williamsport schools, also presented an address on "Pupil Adjustment" at a general session of the conference, while Henry S. Jones, A.M., '38, superintendent of the Plymouth schools, presided at another general session.

DEAR BUCKNELLIANs:

Another Home-Coming Day is nearly here and I invite each of you most cordially to return on that day, November 19th, and renew your friendships with one another and your vows to Alma Mater.

Since the college opened in September, we have broken ground for the two final wings of the Engineering Building, the first wing of which was built in 1922. These additions will enable us to bring all four Engineering Departments under one roof and to give each Department increased space and much additional instructional and laboratory equipment. The new wings will be ready for occupancy in September, 1939. They will cost $275,000, an amount which has been given by two Trustees.

We have also rededicated Tustin Gymnasium for the use of our women students, after complete renovation. Tustin Gymnasium and Loomis Field now represent a perfectly splendid physical education plant for our 435 women students.

The women held an open-house reception for the men in Tustin at the dedication in order that the men should remember it as it is now, rather than as when they last used it. Otherwise they might have gone through life feeling sorry for the girls and feeling rather superior because of their fine Davis Gymnasium. The physical education facilities of men and women have been equally improved, thanks to the generosity of a score of Trustees who gave well over $200,000 for the two buildings. We might reduce the equal improvement to this equation—

The new Davis Gymnasium for Men: Old Tustin Gymnasium: the new Tustin Gymnasium for Women: the attic of Harris Hall which the women formerly called their Gymnasium.

The Campus is full to overflowing. We have 1,322 students here this year and were obliged to refuse applications of hundreds more. There is spirit, enthusiasm, zest for life, and eagerness to learn and to serve which one fairly feels in the air. It is the same spirit which you remember, of which a young graduate recently wrote in these words:

"When we meet we talk with shining eyes and hushed voices of the good things that were ours . . . great evenings of music, Cap and Dagger first nights, trees full of sun and lawns full of shadow, academic processions with familiar class-room figures looking strangely solemn and impressive . . ."

This is your Bucknell which you love. May she ever be true to you, and may you be ever true to her highest hopes for you.

Yours sincerely,

Bison Gridmen Enter Second Half of Season

HALFWAY through their stiff eight-game schedule, Coach Al Humphrey's embattled Bison gridmen, boasting a record of three victories and one defeat, are set to swing into their final quartet of contests, three of them with teams from south of the Mason and Dixon Line.

Entering the second half of their autumnal activities, the Bisons have only a single blot on the record — a 26-0 loss to perennially-tough Temple, suffered only six days after the Herd handed Penn State a 14-0 setback in a gruelling contest.

Busy days lie ahead because, as The Alumni Monthly goes to press, three of Bucknell's four remaining opponents remain in the ranks of the undefeated. They are George Washington University, Georgetown University, and the University of Miami, a trio of Southern foes.

Returning alumni will watch the Bisons do battle with George Washington's powerful Colonials in the Homecoming encounter November 19. Another District of Columbia team, Georgetown, will be met Friday night, November 4, in Washington, while late in November the Herd will journey to Florida for a Thanksgiving Day game with the University of Miami's Hurricanes. Albright was scheduled to tangle with Bucknell October 29 in Lewisburg.

VETERAN ELEVEN ON HAND

Representing Bucknell this year is a completely seasoned array. From end to end in the line and at all the backfield spots, veterans are available. However, though a capable first team is at hand, the problem of reserves has again arisen to plague the coaches.

At the ends are Hoover Rhodes, Lewisburg, and Harry Wenner, Philadelphia, while the starting tackles have been Jack Lynn, Kingston, and Frank Pocius, Riverside, N. J. Harry Sitarsky, Rutherford, N. J., and John Bovi, Rome, N. Y., have also seen much service at the tackle posts. Joe Grieco, Jersey Shore, who was out most of last season with a broken collar bone, and Kurt Manrodt, Newark, N. J., have been handling the guard assignments. Harold Pegg, Wilkes-Barre, has been both starting and starring at center for the second consecutive season.

In the backfield Co-Captains Bill Lane, Philadelphia, and Lou Tomasetti, Old Forge, have been brilliant performers at quarterback and left halfback, respectively. George Kiick, Ephrata, has won a starting berth at fullback by his line-plunging and rugged defensive work, while Frank Funair, Wals-ton, and Martin Quick, Philadelphia, have been alternating at right halfback. Another ball-carrier who sees much action is Bill Jones, senior halfback from Elyria, Ohio.

As they pounded out convincing triumphs over Furman, Gettysburg, and Penn State, the smartly-

'Feminized' Tustin Transferred to Women

Coeds enter Tustin Gymnasium, remodelled at a cost of $25,000 for the use of women students, and check their equipment with Miss Sylvia Derr, left, director of physical education for women.

TUSTIN GYMNASIUM, center of men's intercollegiate athletics at the University for nearly half a century, was formally turned over to the women students at an interesting ceremony on October 6.

The principal speaker was Dr. Mary M. Wolfe, '96, superintendent of the Laurelton State Village and a member of the Board of Trustees, who outlined the history of physical education for women at Bucknell.

Undergoing a thoroughly feminine face-lifting during the summer, Tustin Gymnasium now provides facilities for ping pong, shuffle-board, basketball, badminton, and other sports, thus affording a broadened program for the girls.

Loomis Field, too, has been set aside for the use of the women students. The former baseball field has given way to four new tennis courts and two hockey playing areas.

The shift was made possible by the completion of the John Warren Davis Men's Gymnasium, as well as by the construction of additional playing fields in the vicinity of the new sports center.

A feature of the program marking the "feminizing" of rugged old Tustin was the transferring of the gymnasium keys from the men to the women. Martin Maloney '39, president of the Student-Faculty Congress, presented the keys to Elizabeth Osborne '39, who accepted them in behalf of the Women's Athletic Association, which she heads.

Originally scheduled for Loomis Field, the exercises were held in the Baptist Church when heavy rainfall made the outdoor ceremony impossible.

Introduced by President Arnaud C. Marts, Dr. Wolfe described the changes which have been made in the women's athletic program since exercise for girls was first prescribed in 1855.

The earliest mention of regular gymnastics and calisthenics appeared in the University catalogue for 1861, and in 1864 the catalogue described the gymnastic uniform required for the women, who had their first gymnasium in Larison Hall, later transferring to Harris Hall.

In the late 'eighties Bucknell girls began to play tennis, but they took no part in the bicycle craze of the early 'nineties. They organized their first basketball teams in 1896.

35 Frosh Follow Family Tradition

Children of Alumni Enroll at University

FAMILY tradition is being followed by 35 members of this year's freshman class whose parents attended the University. In 13 cases, both parents were students here, while for 22 other freshmen either the father or mother is a Bucknellian.

Heading the list is the triple "legacy" of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Williams, both '15, who have three children in this year's freshman class. Former residents of St. Clair, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Williams are making their home in Lewisburg while their children are in college.

Two daughters of John O. Roser, '11, of Pittsfield, Mass., also entered the University this fall, while the remaining alumni were content with contributing one person to the freshman class of 375.

Freshmen both of whose parents attended the University include the following:

John B. Clark, son of Edward O. Clark, '15, and Eva Taylor Clark, '21, 3708 Livingston St., Washington, D. C.

Fred H. Fahringer, Jr., son of Fred H. Fahringer, '15, and Edna Sayenga Fahringer, '17, 1830 North 75th St., Wauwatosa, Wis.

Herbert C. Grice, Jr., son of Herbert C. Grice, '18, and Fannie Fisher Grice, '21, 90 Brown St., Lewisburg.

Frank D. Hamlin, son of Albert J. Hamlin, '15, and Ruth Williams Hamlin, '16, 120 Weldy Ave., Oreland.

Margaret M. Matlack, daughter of Royden S. Matlack, '17, and Margaret Phillips Matlack, '18, 253 Washington Terrace, Audubon, N. J.

Mary Ellen Oesterle, daughter of Eric A. Oesterle, '16, and Helen Ott Oesterle, '14, 23 Frazer Ave., Collingswood, N. J.

George P. Riggs, son of George A. Riggs, '07, and Margaret Leshner Riggs, '07, R. D. 1, Northumberland.

Frederick O. Schnure, Jr., son of Frederick O. Schnure, '14, and Dorothy Bunnell Schnure, '16, 819 C St., Sparrows Point, Md.

Donald H. Sholl, son of John G. Sholl, Jr., '10, and Helen Hare Sholl, '10, 25 Kenton Ave., Pitman, N. J.

Lovenia E. Williams, Bennett G. Williams, and William T. Williams, children of Thomas B. Williams, '15, and Florence Good Williams, '15, 822 Market St., Lewisburg.

James S. Wood, son of Thomas Wood, '05, and Eva Stoner Wood, '05, South Main St., Muncy.

Other freshman legacies are:

John E. Brush, son of Edwin C. Brush, '13, 1051 Vance Ave., Coraopolis.

Elmer E. Fairchild, Jr., son of Elmer E. Fairchild, '14, 353 South Front St., Milton.

Violet Vesta Farr, daughter of Roy J. Farr, '08, 521 Park Central Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

Edmund W. Fetter, son of Newton C. Fetter, '09, 335 Harvard St., Cambridge, Mass.

Glenn R. Fryling, son of Charles A. Fryling, '13, 411 Market St., Sunbury.

C. Edwin Glass, son of Clarence E. Glass, '16, 1134 Mississippi Ave., Dormont.

Janet Gray, daughter of Mrs. James L. Gray, the former Amanda Whitaker, '17, 102 North Second St., Millville, N. J.

Josephine R. Harter, daughter of Brice O. Harter, '12, 601 Chestnut St., Mifflinburg.

Mary Anne Heacock, daughter of Charles Heacock, '11, 2879 Catwaba Ave., Memphis, Tenn.

William J. Lahodney, Jr., son of William J. Lahodney, A.M., '38, 510 Broadway, Milton.

Martha Rea Lininger, daughter of Mrs. Lloyd D. Lininger, the former Mary Mehl, '15, 905 Alcoma St., Sharon.

Hiram B. Mann, son of Walter H. Mann, '11, 311 Ninth St., Sunbury.

Robert E. Meek, son of Walter G. Meek, '15, Allenwood.

Linabelle Nicely, daughter of Charles A. Nicely, '08, 411 Main St., Watsontown.

Barbara Roser and Dorothy Roser, daughters of John O. Roser, '11, 45 Breton Terrace, Pittsfield, Mass.

Jean M. Samuel, daughter of Edmund W. Samuel, '15, 3519 Lakeshore Ave., Oakland, Cal.

James W. Shaw, son of Walter B. Shaw, '23, 3107 Front St., Harrisburg.

Anna Louise Stolz, daughter of Paul G. Stolz, '08, 103 South Front St., Lewisburg.

John L. Tyson, son of Jesse R. Tyson, '12, 938 Linden St., Bethlehem.

Julie Anne Van Why, daughter of Eugene Van Why, '09, 160 Williams Ave., Winsted, Conn.

Daniel M. Wise, son of Daniel M. Wise, '12, 518 Childs Ave., Drexel Hill.

PLACEMENT SERVICE OFFERED IN NEW YORK

The Metropolitan Alumni Association has organized a placement committee which is trying to help deserving Bucknell graduates secure positions.

A file of applicants giving their qualifications, experience, and, in the case of recent graduates, their university record, is maintained in the office of the president of the New York alumni group, E. A. Snyder, Room 1354, 26 Broadway, New York City.

Alumni are asked to advise Mr. Snyder promptly of any possible openings brought to their attention.

District Clubs

OFFICERS NAMED BY METROPOLITAN GROUP

The New York and New Jersey Alumni Associations held a joint dinner meeting on Friday evening, October 21, at the Town Hall Club in New York City. Ninety-five men and women alumni attended. Dr. William G. Owens, professor emeritus of chemistry, who was born on the Bucknell campus, graduated in the class of 1880 and then served his Alma Mater as teacher and professor for a period of 55 years, was our guest speaker. He entertained us with a description of many intimate and interesting experiences in a talk entitled "Glimpses of the Orient."

Al Humphreys, our popular football coach, was also able to be with us. He gave us a very enlightening description of the year's past activities and the future prospects of our Bisons, and showed excellent pictures of the Penn State-Bucknell game. After listening to Al's discussion, the Association voted unanimously to send Co-Captains Lou Tomasetti and Bill Lane a telegram, voicing our appreciation of their coach, themselves, and the whole team, and pledging continued loyal support and encouragement.

During the business session of the joint New York and New Jersey meeting it was decided to rename the Association, The Metropolitan Alumni Association, and to have it composed of two groups with two sets of officers, one for the New York division and one for the New Jersey division, both to work cooperatively for the best interest of Bucknell. It was decided to alternate the place of meetings between New York and New Jersey and, in addition, hold several joint meetings during the year. Officers for both the New York and New Jersey divisions were then elected as follows: For New Jersey: President, W. C. Lowther, '14; Vice-President, H. C. MacGraw, '23; Secretary, Mildred Cathers, '10; Treasurer, W. J. Bowers, '18. For New York: President, E. A. Snyder, '11; Vice-

CHICAGO-MILWAUKEE

Twenty-eight persons attended a combined meeting of the Chicago and Milwaukee Alumni Clubs at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening, October 21, in the Quadrangle Club of the University of Chicago. Thomas J. Morris, '00, president of the Chicago club, presided.

New motion pictures of student activities and campus scenes were shown by L. Francis Lybarger, '28, and a recording of the ceremony marking the breaking of ground for the new Engineering wings was heard.

On Saturday, September 10, the Chicago club accepted the invitation of Dr. A. R. E. Wyant, '92, and enjoyed a picnic in his beautiful garden in Beverly Hills, a suburban part of Chicago. About 30 graduates and members of their families appeared during the afternoon. This included the Rev. and Mrs. Fred Fahringer, of Wauwatosa, Wis., who drove down especially at the invitation of Mr. Morris to discuss the suggestion of a combined meeting of Chicago and Milwaukee Alumni.

PHILADELPHIA

The Philadelphia Alumni Club met Thursday evening, October 13, at the Penn Athletic Club with 25 members present. Romain C. Hassrick, '06, president of the club, was in charge of the session.

L. Francis Lybarger, Jr., '28, showed motion pictures of the Bucknell-Penn State game while Jimmy Tyson, ex-'40, called the plays and named the players. Dr. Edward W. Pangburn, '15, spoke concerning the team.

OTHER MEETINGS

Other alumni meetings held after the deadline for this issue of the Monthly include the following: Buffalo, October 28; Cleveland, October 31; Uniontown (organization meeting), November 2; Trenton, November 2; Rochester, November 4; Union County (organization meeting), October 27. Full accounts of these sessions will be carried in our next issue.

Local Notes

NEW UNIVERSITY LIBRARIAN NAMED

THREE new faculty members, one of them a transfer from the Junior College at Wilkes-Barre, began their duties at the University with the beginning of the fall term. In addition, two new teachers were added to the Junior College staff.

Harold W. Hayden

Harold W. Hayden, superintendent of departmental libraries at the University of Iowa, succeeded the late Eliza J. Martin as University librarian. He is a graduate of Nebraska State Teachers College and has received degrees in library science from the University of Illinois and the University of Michigan, where he studied on a Carnegie Corporation Fellowship.

Miss Suzanna L. Rohn, of Canton, Ohio, has joined the faculty as an instructor in physical education for women. She is a graduate of Oberlin College and has served as supervisor of physical education in the schools of Kalispell, Montana.

Dr. William I. Miller, assistant professor of mathematics at the Junior College, has come to Lewisburg to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Dr. Charles A. Lindemann. He was succeeded at Wilkes-Barre by Dr. Arthur Bernhart, formerly head of the department of mathematics and physics at Ottawa University, Ottawa, Kansas.

Dr. Stanley Townsend, of the University of Illinois, joined the Junior College faculty, replacing Elwood J. Disque, who was granted a year's leave of absence to continue his graduate study at the University of Pennsylvania.

WILSON PRESIDENT SPEAKS AT CONVOCATION

DECLARING that "we can no more isolate the United States from the infections which blight other important parts of the world than we can isolate ourselves from influenza if it is scourging our community", Dr. Paul S. Havens, president of Wilson College, spoke at convocation exercises marking the official opening of the University for its 93rd year.

"We Americans are peculiarly prone to be tempted by the impulse to save our own skins and to believe that we can do so no matter what happens elsewhere," Dr. Havens said. "We may as well face the fact that, whether we like it or not, isolation is impossible. If we are to exist at all, common sense appeals us to ask what we can best do as individuals to contribute to sanity amid insanity, to constructive effort in a world seemingly bent on destruction, to order amid chaos."

TRIBUTE TO MISS MARTIN

A tribute to the late Eliza J. Martin, '00, former University librarian, written by Mabel Grier Leshner, '01, is the leading article in the October issue of Bibliotheca Bucnellensis, publication of the Friends of the Bucknell Library.

After describing Miss Martin's professional career, Mrs. Leshner writes, "She viewed her position as one carrying responsibility and as an opportunity to aid mankind. She loved life and she loved people of all ages — a dynamic personality, aggressive yet affectionate, thoughtful, and eager to be of service."

Bibliotheca Bucnellensis also announces progress in the creation of a memorial book fund in honor of Miss Martin's father, the late Professor William E. Martin, '71, in recognition of his fifty years of service to Bucknell.

STATE HISTORIANS MEET ON CAMPUS

The University was host October 29 to the Pennsylvania Historical Association, which held a luncheon session at the College Dining Hall following a motor trip from Williamsport, scene of the historians' annual meeting.

President Arnaud C. Marts, discussing "An Unexploited Field of History", was one of the speakers at the campus meeting. Dr. J. Orin Oliphant, associate professor of history, presided at the luncheon; he also served as program chairman for the state association.

FATHERS' BANQUET HELD IN GYMNASIUM

Featuring the annual Father's Day observance, a banquet was held October 29 in the new John Warren Davis Gymnasium. With accommodations for 900 persons, the dinner was the first all-college event to be held in the Gymnasium since Commencement.

Other highlights of the Dad's Day week-end were a varsity football game with Albright, a three-act comedy, "The Bishop Misbehaves", by Cap and Dagger, and special church services.

DOUBLE FEATURE FOR FIRST TILTS IN DAVIS GYM

A basketball-boxing double feature attraction is being planned for Saturday evening, January 14, when Davis Gymnasium will be used for the first time in intercollegiate competition.

Mal Musser's cagers, freed from the cramped confines of the Tustin bandbox, will battle with American University, of Washington, D. C., in the basketball end of the program.

In the ring the opposition will be provided by West Virginia's Mountaineers, perennial contenders for the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Conference title, who have always been keen rivals of Joe Reno's Bison punchers.

Plans are underway for appropriate ceremonies marking the introduction of varsity competition in the news sports center.

BURPEE GIVES BULBS

Davis Burpee, University trustee and president of the W. Atlee Burpee Company, Philadelphia, has given Bucknell several thousand bulbs for planting on the campus.

LEAD GROUP MEETINGS

Leaders of various sectional meetings included Elizabeth Meek, '05, dean of girls at the Montgomery High School; Rock L. Butler, Sc.M., '37, supervising principal at Wellsboro; Katherine Reed, M., '18, supervisor of music at Sunbury, and J. H. Carter, '21, principal of the Trevorton High School.

Other alumni who spoke during the group meetings dealing with specific educational fields were Margaret Fairchild, '36, Milton; Thomas L. Hinkle, Sc.M., '38, Hazleton; Elizabeth Curry, A.M., '34, California, Pa.; Leland M. Bennett, '27, Plymouth; J. H. Melhuish, '31, Blakely; Robert Beckman, A. M., '35, Sunbury; Kathryn Stannert, '35, Milton; Dorothy Swiderski, '36, Mount Carmel; Joseph McIlwain, '20, Jersey Shore; Frederick Padgett, A.M., '38, Sunbury; Daniel A. Rothermel, '38, Sunbury; Stanley Galiley, A.M., '31, Shamokin; Floyd D. Newport, Sc.M., '37, South Glens Falls, N. Y.; Charles T. Lontz, '28, Milton; Richard J.

Thomas, Sc.M., '38, Shickshinny; Charles R. Winter, '31, Wellsboro; Mildred Kelly, '34, Montoursville; Harold F. Martin, A. M., '38, Turbotville, and Arthur E. Minnier, '31, Lewisburg.

"While the athletic field is not the only place where intelligence and character can be developed, and the importance of social contacts must not be overlooked," Dr. Wolfe said, "there is no better place for their development than in the great outdoors, using your heads in your games, vying in rivalry with your fellow students, striving to win, but using consideration and desiring no victory unless it is won without unfairness and dishonesty on your part."

drilled Bucknell football men showed a versatile and powerful attack coupled with a stalwart defense that refused to budge when the pressure was turned on.

Launching Bucknell's fifty-sixth season by meeting Furman in the Memorial Stadium, the Thundering Herd romped to a 28-6 win over the invaders from South Carolina. Tomasetti, who has sparked the Bison attack the past two seasons, crossed the goal-line twice and threw passes to Lane for the other two touchdowns.

With Tomasetti again showing the way, the Orange and Blue warriors won their second game by crushing a stubborn Gettysburg eleven, 27 to 14, in the Stadium. Relying on a ground game that gained consistently, the Bisons rolled up a total of 21 first downs to the Buller's 9. The Old Forge Express tallied two six-pointers, while Jones and Kiick registered the other Bucknell scores.

BISONS TOPPLE STATE

Against Penn State on the third Saturday of the campaign the Bison brigade rose to early-season heights, stunning a Homecoming crowd of 13,000 at State College by handing the favored Nittany Lions a 14-0 defeat. Before the game was three minutes old Funnair slipped off left tackle and raced down the sideline for 94 yards and a touchdown that gave the Bisons a lead they never lost.

With an aroused State team fighting desperately to score, the Bisons played astute defensive ball to protect their margin. Midway in the final period Bucknell capitalized on a break when Kiick intercepted a Nittany pass and ran to the State 30-yard stripe. Nine plays later the Bisons pushed over the touchdown that removed all doubt as to the issue.

Then, with the Humphreys'-coached team riding on the crest, came a disheartening relapse. An enraged Temple eleven, smarting from two consecutive defeats at the hands of Pitt and Texas Christian, made short shrift of the Bison winning streak by overpowering the Herd, 26 to 0, in a night game at Temple Stadium.

Unable to rise to the occasion two weeks in a row, the Bisons were no match for one of the strongest Owl elevens in recent years. Pop Warner's men, admittedly "pointing" for the Bucknell fray, scored two touchdowns in the first quarter and two more in the third period. Handicapped by injuries to Tomasetti and Rhodes in the second quarter, Bucknell made its only sizable gains via the forward passing route.

Meanwhile, Coach John Sitar-sky's freshman team opened its season by holding a highly-regarded Army Plebe eleven to a scoreless tie.

President, Charles Farrow, '26; Secretary, Mrs. Wesley Koster, '33; Treasurer, William F. Redcay, '11.

The officers of the New York and New Jersey divisions, with a committee selected from each group, will plan a series of activities and meetings for the coming months. This program will be announced in the November letter to the Metropolitan Alumni Association members. We may say now that one of our joint meetings is tentatively planned to be a Glee Club concert and social evening some time early in 1939.

Dr. E. C. Kunkle, '97, Chairman of the Scholarship Committee, reported that in response to the Questionnaire sent out with our

Mrs. E. R. Humeston, the former Martha Anna Alden, observed her 95th birthday anniversary on October 10. She now lives with her daughter, Mrs. Robert O'Brien at Apponaug, R. I. Still active, she reads a great deal, enjoys the radio, and is an interested Bucknellian. Her son, Edward Humeston, '99, is a Bucknell graduate, as is a grand-daughter, Esther O'Brien, '31, now Mrs. Ned H. Meinhard.

Mrs. T. S. Johnston is living with her daughter, at Swarthmore, Pa. She is now 92 years old. Mrs. Johnston was Hattie Henry.

Reminiscences of early days in the Susquehanna Valley gleaned from an interview with William C. Walls, president of the Lewisburg National Bank, were featured this fall in an article written by Girard, columnist of the Philadelphia Inquirer. His talk with Mr. Walls was "like raising a curtain to reveal great political scenes of sixty years ago", Girard wrote.

1875

A stroke proved fatal to Mrs. William P. Ritter, aged 80, the former Sallie Aurand, on October 3. The widow of a pioneer Union County lumberman and farmer who died a decade ago, she was long active in the Evangelical Church as a member of the Missionary Society and the Board of Deaconesses. She had also taken a prominent role in the program of the W. C. T. U.

1877

The Rev. Thomas P. Morgan quietly observed his 87th birthday anniversary on October 12 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David G. Evans in Scranton.

1878

Death claimed another Bucknellian when the Rev. W. Kay Lord, retired Baptist minister, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ethel Lord Moore, in Chester, Pa. He was 83.

Active in children's work, he was for 21 years superintendent of the Delaware State Children's Home Society. He served congregations in New England, Kansas, and New Jersey.

After leaving Bucknell Mr. Lord attended Crozer Theological Seminary. He was a member of the Baptist Ministerial Conference of Philadelphia; the Masonic order, and was chaplain of the Penn Forest, No. 21, of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon.

Dr. William J. Coulston, retired Baptist minister, met his death June 30 when the car he was driving was struck by another automobile at an intersection near Lancaster, Texas, where he had been living for the past eight years. He was 81 years old.

Ordained into the ministry in 1884 after being graduated from Rochester Theological Seminary, Dr. Coulston during his pastorate performed 280 marriage ceremonies, baptized 789 persons, preached 6,257 sermons, and conducted 390 funeral services. He had held pastorates in

Major J. Madison Hare, World War chaplain and retired Baptist clergyman, died at Pocono Lake, Pa., after a long illness following a stroke. He was 78. Born at Huntingdon, Pa., he was graduated from Rochester Theological Seminary after attending Bucknell. In 1922 he received an honorary D.D. degree from Bucknell.

Major Hare served in three campaigns as an army chaplain, on the Mexican border, in the Spanish-American War, and in the World War. In the latter he served as senior chaplain of the Twenty-Ninth Division. Performing his duties under shellfire, he was decorated by the French government with the Croix de Guerre. He retired from the Army with the rank of major in 1922.

Elizabeth B. Meek, '05

Among the pastorates Mr. Hare had held were the East Church in Elizabeth, N. J., 1888 to 1889; in Phoenixville, Pa., 1889 to 1892; Burlington, N. J., 1892 to 1898; the Parmly Memorial Church, Jersey City, 1899 to 1902, and the Linden Church in Camden, 1902 to 1908, when he returned to the Parmly Memorial Church, remaining until 1914. He had also served at Scotch Plains, N. J., Huntingdon, Pa., Turbotville, Pa., and Watontown, Pa.

Mr. Hare was a member of the United Spanish War Veterans, the Military Order of Foreign Wars, serving at one time as chaplain of both; the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the American Legion. He held many medals for expert rifle and revolver shooting. His clubs were the Clergy, of New York; the Chaplains' Club of the Northern Baptist Convention, and the Huntingdon Club.

The Rev. John Phillip Currin died June 7 in Sarasota, Fla., where he had made his home for the past ten or fifteen years. In his 83rd year at his death, he had visited the campus at Commencement several times in recent years. He was also a graduate of Rochester Theological Seminary.

Dr. Amos V. Persing, who attended Bucknell Academy from 1886 to 1888, died July 22 at Devitt's Camp, near Allenwood, Pa., where he had been a patient for several months after a prolonged illness. Dr. Persing practiced medicine in the Allenwood-Watsonstown section for 45 years following his graduation from Jefferson Medical College.

Dr. William VanV. Hayes is practicing medicine in New York City, with his office at 115 East 61st Street. He lives in Greenwich, Conn.

Willard C. MacNaul is secretary of the General Welfare Association of Illinois. He lives at 5478 University Ave., Chicago.

The career of Harry W. Shipe, who attended the Academy in 1890 and 1891, was recently reviewed in the column, "An American You Should Know", in the Washington Evening Star. A specialist in the Office of Indian Affairs, Mr. Shipe has been studying the habits of the red men for 44 years. He is a native of Sunbury, Pa.

The Rev. Perry S. Calvin is preaching at the First Baptist Church, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, where he has been serving for eight years.

1895

Address change: Mrs. W. H. Shafer, the former Helen Thomas, now living at 527 East 17th St., Bloomington, Ind.

1899

William C. Purdy is a sanitary engineer and an important member of the staff of Public Health Service Laboratory, Cincinnati. Specializing in the study of problems of stream pollution, he is now mainly concerned with the discovery of nitrifying bacteria which help to purify water.

1901

George W. Alexander has moved to 2502 Elsinore Ave., Baltimore, Md.

1902

Lee A. Amsler died August 16. He was a resident of Tionesta, Pa.

Alan Craig Cunningham is engaged in the investment business in Philadelphia. He lives at 1818 Pine Street in that city.

The degree of Doctor of Education was conferred upon Elizabeth B. Meek at the summer session Commencement of the Pennsylvania State College on August 4. She has the distinction of being the first woman ever to receive the degree of Doctor of Education at Penn State.

Miss Meek, who is dean and counselor of the Montgomery-Clinton High School in Montgomery, Pa., has taught for 31 years in Pennsylvania high schools. She holds the Master of Arts degree from Bucknell. At present she is chairman of the guidance section of the Central Convention District, Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Mrs. Rawl Milo Chase and Norman E. Henry were married July 1 at McKeesport. They are living at The Ruskin, Schenley Farms, Pittsburgh. Mr. Henry is president of the Friends of the Bucknell Library.

The address of Mrs. L. Walter Davis, the former Laverda A. Burgart, is now 527 E. Hudson Ave., Altoona.

A. Miller Carringer has moved from Tionesta to 345 Denniston Ave., Pittsburgh.

1907

Representing Bucknell at the inauguration of President William Harold Cowley, of Hamilton College, on October 29 was Dr. Leo L. Rockwell, head of the School of Languages and Letters of Colgate University.

1908

The Rev. E. Carroll Condict is stationed at the American Baptist Chin Mission, Thayetmyo, Burma.

John C. Bank is engaged in sales engineering and manufacturing in New York City. His mail address is Box 144, Pequannock, N. J.

Josephine Brown has moved from Kutztown, Pa., to Allenwood, Pa.

Morris, Pa., is the new address of Mrs. Louis G. Krouse, the former Erie M. Teed.

1911

The Rev. Frederick B. McAllister, pastor of the First Baptist Temple, Youngstown, Ohio, represented Bucknell at the inauguration of President Charles Burgess Ketcham at Mount Union College on October 20.

Dr. Frank G. Davis, head of Bucknell's education department, is the writer of an article, "Teacher as Guidance Specialist", in The Clearing House, a magazine devoted to junior and senior high schools.

Address changes: Grover N. Brown to 1524 Gordon Street, Allentown; Harry Hoffman to 517 Market Street, Sunbury.

Arthur B. Conner, the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Cleveland Conner, has been awarded a scholarship to Yale University for graduate study in Chinese. The Conners — she was Alberta Bronson before her marriage — have five other children, including two sets of twins. Mr. Conner is manager of personnel for the Sun Oil Company refinery at Marcus Hook, Pa. Their home is at 217 Linwood Ave., Ardmore.

Harry S. Bastian is a mechanical engineer, working in Portland, Ore. His address is 2515 S. W. Hoffman Ave., Portland.

Carey W. Harding has moved to R. D. 1, Leavittsburg, Ohio.

A new address for Grace Rossiter is 200 South 2nd St., Sunbury.

An attending physician at the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., was Dr. Ralph M. Tyson, of Philadelphia. Queried by reporters as to whom the President's grandson resembled, letter of July 7, nearly $300 has been pledged toward the Metropolitan Alumni Scholarship Fund. This is encouraging and insures success for the undertaking, but there is need for more. Many of the alumni have not returned the Questionnaire and they are urged to do so immediately. If it has been mislaid, we urge that alumni write a personal letter to President E. A. Snyder, Room 1354, 26 Broadway, New York, N. Y., giving their views on the project and a statement of the amount they will pledge towards the Fund for any or all of the next four years. This is a most worthy undertaking and merits the support of all our alumni.

The officers of the New York and New Jersey divisions of the Metropolitan Alumni Association take this opportunity to greet all their members and to ask for active and loyal support to help make this a banner year for Bucknell activities in their area. Lest it be thought that these activities are not worthwhile, we call attention to the fact that in this year's Freshman enrollment, the New York and New Jersey area showed the largest percentage increase.

Mrs. Wesley Koster, Secretary of New York Division.

HOME PRESENTED TO JUNIOR COLLEGE

A gift to the Bucknell Junior College of a 14-room residence and lot at 76 West Northampton St., Wilkes-Barre, was announced October 27 by President Marts. The donors are Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Weckesser, of Wilkes-Barre.

The property adjoins the site of the Junior College campus on South River Street and will be connected by a direct pathway with Conyngham Hall. It is expected that the house will be used primarily as the official residence of the Director of the Junior College, although some of the space may be reserved for class rooms.

Gilbert S. McClintock, chairman of the Board of Trustees for the Junior College, expressed the deep appreciation of the trustees, faculty, and students as follows: "Mr. and Mrs. Weckesser's gift will enable us to enrich our present cultural service to the youths of the Wyoming Valley, and to care for the increasing enrollment as the Junior College grows from year to year."

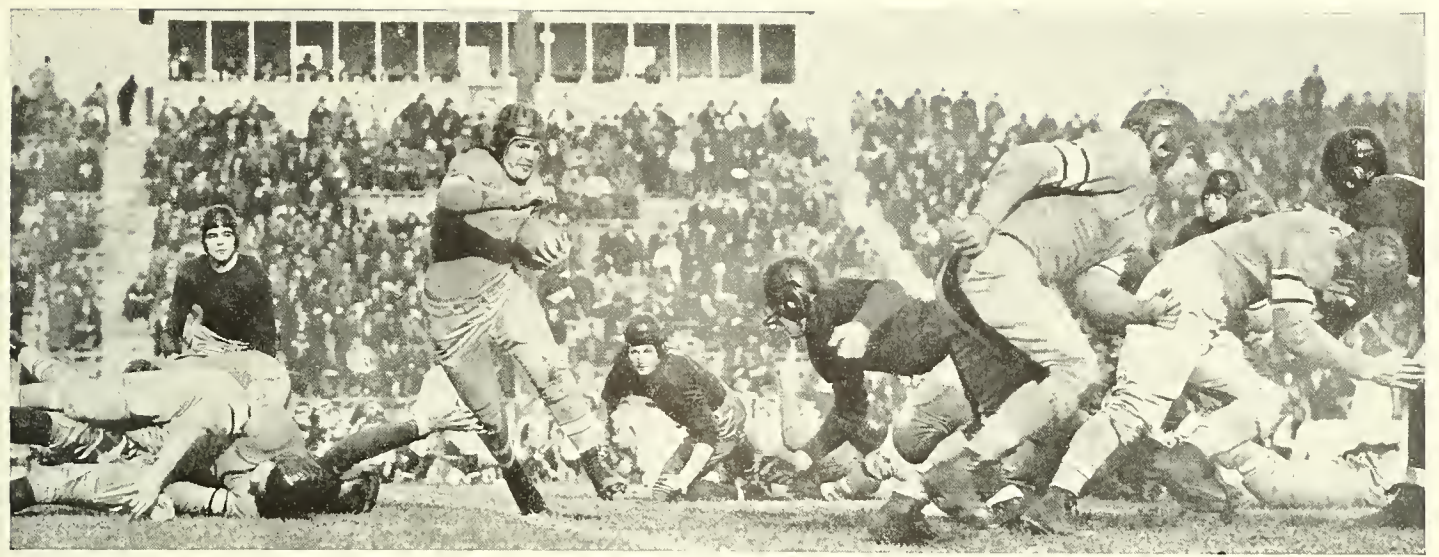

Gift of the Weckesser property will provide the Junior College with three fine buildings donated by generous citizens, as both Chase and Conyngham Halls were received through gifts.

BUCKNELL Alumni Monthly

Volume XXIII

IF you're among those of us who are still drying out after that Homecoming deluge two months ago, you'll support our unofficial move to have the General Alumni Association, when it meets in June, elect a special Committee on Climate empowered to negotiate a peace at any price with the weatherman, who appears to have a grudge against Bucknell. Seriously, though, next year's earlier Homecoming, with a little help from the law of averages, should solve the weather problem very nicely.

QUESTION of the month in the last issue was: Should a new Alumni Directory be published? Returns from the informal straw poll among alumni indicate that many of you feel the need for up-to-date information on your college friends, so L. Francis Lybarger, Jr., acting alumni secretary, is going ahead with plans for publication. On the rear cover of the Monthly is a preview of the attractive directory which will be printed if alumni interest expressed in orders for copies, warrants it. "Your College Friends", a streamlined Alumni Directory, will be published as soon as its financial budget is balanced by 2,500 orders at $1.00 per copy, 1,250 orders at $2.00 per copy or by contributions from persons interested in the success of the project. Don't postpone filling out the information blank which will give your Alma Mater the complete story on you and your class-mates.

NOMINATIONS are now open for the position of Alumni Trustee. Until March 1, when the lists close, names of candidates should be proposed in writing to the Alumni Trustee Nomination Committee, in care of the Bucknell Alumni Association. The March issue of the Monthly will contain a ballot for all alumni to register their choices for the trusteeship. At present, alumni representatives on the Board of Trustees are Thomas J. Baldrige, '95, Earl M. Richards, '13, Harvey F. Smith, '94, Berkeley V. Hastings, '13, Robert L. Rooke, '13, Earl A. Morton, '05, Mary B. Harris, '93, and Harland A. Trax, '01. Remember that the nomination deadline is March 1.

WITH the second semester on the horizon, the question of where to acquire a college education is going to come up soon for your younger friends who are high school seniors. Why not see to it that these college-bound young folk have a chance to learn what Bucknell can offer them? Bucknell credits its alumni influence with bringing it many of its finest students. The record is worth maintaining. Incidentally, with a student body of more than 1,300, and with the college being forced to turn away applicants every year, the wisdom of early application might be mentioned to young people who are considering Bucknell seriously.

From Indian Clubs To Trap-Shooting

Athletics Week-End
Dramatizes Changes

With this article the Alumni Monthly begins a series devoted to chronicling changes which have taken place during the years in fundamental phases of college life. Physical education has been chosen as the initial topic, since both men and women this year are enjoying expanded gymnasium facilities.

WITH a whirr the clay disk catapults from the queer-looking steel gadget. It soars into the air, outlined against the late afternoon sky, until suddenly there is a roar, and the spinning black circle explodes into a thousand fragments of baked clay.

The scene is a Bucknell physical education class, streamlined 1938-39 model, where a score of men are learning the fundamentals of the manly art of trap-shooting. Almost any afternoon in early winter, visitors to the campus, if they stray near the new men's gymnasium, can hear the sound of shotgun-fire as another clay pigeon bites the dust.

The student pictured on the front cover is John C. Stevens, '41, of Camp Hill, Pa., who won the intramural trap-shooting contest this year.

The introduction of trap-shooting into the "curriculum" is a symbol of the change that has come over the college physical education program during recent years. In general, emphasis has been shifted from formalized exercises and calisthenics to activities which are likely to be used by students during their post-college life.

This evolution in physical education aims was dramatically illustrated this month during a Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletic Week-End staged in connection with the first intercollegiate competition in the John Warren Davis Gymnasium.

Sponsored by the men's and women's physical education department, the three-day program from January 12 to 14 included a dance recital, demonstrations of Buck-nell's athletic program, and a varsity boxing-basketball double-header.

The gala week-end opened Thursday evening, January 12, with a performance by Doris Humphrey, Charles Weidman, and their dance troupe. President Arnaud C. Marts spoke during the Friday evening program, which also included a student-faculty indoor tennis match.

Saturday afternoon was devoted to recreational demonstrations of volleyball, badminton, shuffleboard, and folk dancing, with both men and women students participating. Brief addresses were made by Miss Sylvia Derr and John D. Plant, directors of the women's and men's programs, respectively. The week-end came to a close Saturday night as West Virginia's boxers and American University's cagers clashed with Bucknell.

Contrast today's program with the exhibitions held in Tustin Gymnasium four decades ago. Gym students of the 'nineties offered demonstrations featuring a wand drill, horse and buck work, horizontal bars, parallel bars, clubs, and pyramids.

In 1939, although calisthenics, formal drills, tumbling, and gymnastics have not been completely forgotten, they play a less important role. Now the stress is laid upon team games fostering desirable social attitudes, as well as upon individual sports which lead the student to worthwhile leisure-time activity.

The men's curriculum includes instruction in hunting and fishing, a lesson on approved fly-casting technique, golf, and tennis, in addition to the established team games of soccer, touch football, basketball, volleyball, and baseball. Likewise, the women's program features archery, tennis, golf, badminton, dancing — all activities with a carry-over value in later life.

Familiar to recent graduates are the physical education theory classes, in which lecturers well-versed in various sports are heard.

These, then, are the elements of Bucknell's physical education program — a program which, in the words of John Plant, "undertakes to furnish skilled and intelligent leadership of students in the age-old activities of the human race — activities which have meaning and significance; those which allow for mental activity, promote wholesome self-expression and offer desirable social training in a democracy."

Dear Bucknellians:

Your Alma Mater is in the midst of a busy and, I trust, significant year.

One of the unique developments here this year is an earnest endeavor on the part of students and faculty to develop new practical techniques for student participation in the government of our Campus life. We have an unusually capable group of student leaders who are willing and able to carry the responsibilities of self-government, and we are hopeful that this year's leaders will set patterns of student government which will give added value to the educational process at Bucknell.

Our alumni groups in many centers are unusually active this year in various constructive endeavors to serve their Alma Mater. All are cooperating effectively with our Director of Student Admissions, Francis Lybarger, and several of them are starting scholarship funds with which to aid promising students to enter Bucknell from their respective communities.

Our trustees have set as a goal for themselves this year the wiping out of the capital indebtedness of the College. This consists of the unpaid balance still due on the cost of the Memorial Stadium, Hunt Hall, the Women's Dining Room, the Botany Building, the Golf Club, and the past deficits of the Athletic Council. At the beginning of this school year this debt stood at $356,000. During the past two months, a committee headed by Judge Davis and Dr. Roberts have been actively at work on this problem, and as a result a dozen trustees and a loyal alumnus, not a trustee, have made gifts to Bucknell totalling $178,000, exactly one-half of the debt. These are the same men, for the most part, who have given so generously recently toward Old Main, Daniel C. Roberts Hall, Davis Gymnasium, and the Engineering Building. All Bucknellians owe this little group of generous friends our deepest gratitude. We are working hopefully to the end that the entire debt can be wiped out by June. Such an achievement would add immeasurably to the vitality of our service to youth here at Bucknell.

The board of Trustees have resolved that, as soon as this debt is cleared off, we should undertake to erect a new Library Building. We are looking forward with eagerness to the day when we can launch that undertaking. We have a fine collection of over 90,000 books and bound volumes of publications, and we subscribe to nearly 600 magazines and periodicals. Our library staff is an excellent one, consisting of six trained librarians, with degrees from library schools, and twenty-three part-time student assistants. But our present Carnegie Library building was never intended to house 90,000 volumes or to serve 1,300 students. Last summer Professor Burpee built a mezzanine floor in our Carnegie Library which provided stack space for 23,000 additional volumes which had been bundled up in the basement, most of them inaccessible to students because there was no shelf space for them. The library staff are now cataloguing these volumes and placing them on the new shelves on the mezzanine floor. These present volumes will completely fill these additional shelves.

This is the ultimate possibility of expansion of our present library capacity, and our next move must be to provide a new and enlarged building to enable our library to keep pace with the requirements upon it. A fine library is the heart of a modern college, and we are hoping that we can soon give Bucknell a "Heart", of which every Bucknellian will be supremely proud.

With kindest regards to each and all of you.

Yours sincerely,

buffalo act so successfully that their rivals from Washington, D. C., failed to register a single first down. Bucknell scored a touchdown early in the game when Martin Quick skirted left end for 19 yards to climax a 42-yard march; then, a moment later, the score went to 9-0 as the alert Herd line charged into the G. W. backfield to force a safety after a bad pass from center. Willis Jones tallied the second touchdown in the final period after Bucknell recovered a fumble deep in George Washington terrain.

The principal speaker at the Alumni Banquet, held in the Women's College Dining Hall, was President Arnaud C. Marts, who expressed the University's appreciation for the loyal support given to it by the alumni during the past year.

And the rains came . . .

But several hundred alumni came, too, so the day was a success.

The reference, of course, is to the annual Alumni Homecoming held November 19 in a setting which blended mire and mirth, rain and reminiscence, soggy and story-swapping.

Those hardy souls who disregarded the storm signals and returned to the campus salvaged three noteworthy experiences from the wet week-end: (1) watched the Bisons conquer George Washington University's football men in a dramatic demonstration showing the superiority of mind over mud; (2) attended a splendid Homecoming dinner — 300 alumni were there, and (3) danced for the first time in the new John Warren Davis Gymnasium.

HOMECOMING EARLIER IN 1939

Remembering that the last two Homecoming Days have been marked by torrents of rain, alumni cheered when it was announced at the banquet that the 1939 Homecoming will be held nearly a month earlier. The date — get out that pencil and paper — will be October 21. The football opponent will be Georgetown, which this past season had one of the nation's few undefeated and untied teams.

1938's Homecoming opened auspiciously, in all respects except weather conditions, as the Bucknell soccer team coached by Merle Edwards, '03, outfought and outsplashed Dickinson, 3 to 0.

Another morning highlight was the battle between freshmen and sophomores to determine whether the first-year men should retain "dinks" and black ties as insignia of their inexperience. The embattled freshmen won a tug-of-war, and thus gained the right to discard their black ties. However, the day's honors were divided when the sophomores succeeded in protecting from freshman molestation a "dink" which had been placed atop a greased pole.

During the afternoon, interest centered on the Memorial Stadium, where the Bisons staged the water

Bucknell Nine
To Take Part

CHRISTY MATHEWSON Day at Cooperstown, N. Y., set for May 27 when Bucknell plays St. Lawrence University, will be one of the several days dedicated to the immortals of baseball which will be staged as pre-ludes to "The Cavalcade of Baseball", now on the calendar for June 12 at Cooperstown.

The official dedication of the Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum and the unveiling of the memorial plaque to the great men of the past will take place on June 12.

Cooperstown, however, is only one part of the national celebration of baseball's great birthday party. The centenary is being directed by the National Baseball Centennial Commission, Inc., of New York, headed by Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis and with Al Stoughton, '24, as secretary.

Centennial games will be played all during the year — and not on any one date — by teams in the major leagues, minor leagues, semi-pro associations, and amateur clubs from coast to coast. Intercollegiate games are also now being scheduled by the leading universities and colleges, generally in connection with special days to honor not only the centennial of baseball but also prominent alumni who have gone from their respective Alma Maters into national prominence in baseball.

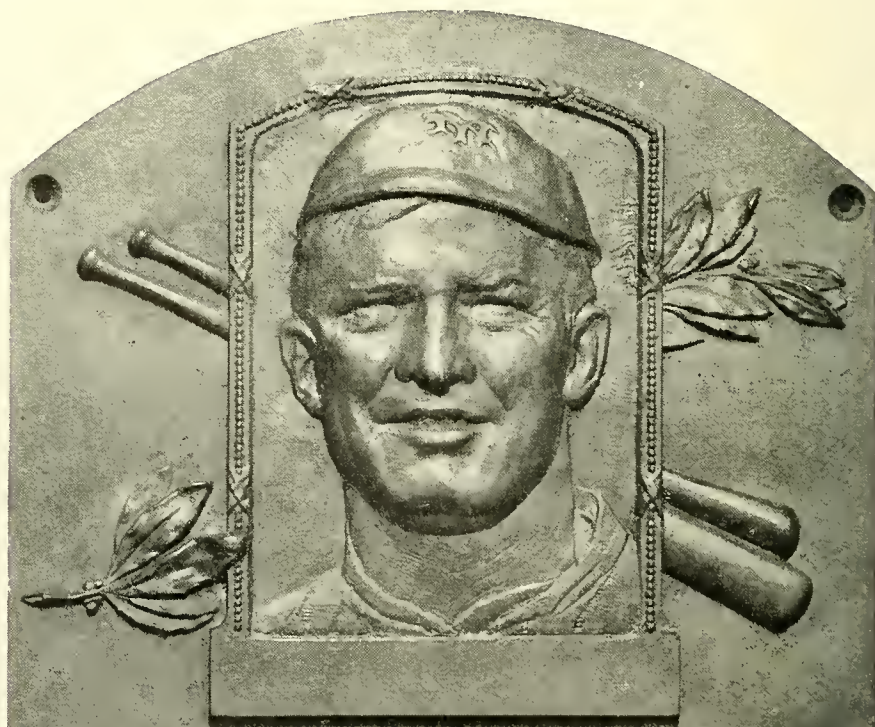

B. U. PLAYERS RECALLED

Bucknell boasts not only of Mathewson, but also of Harry McCormick, '04, famed Giant pinch-hitter and later coach of baseball at Bucknell and West Point, Al Jordan, '13, Walter Blair, '05, G. H. Northrop, '10, Harold McClure, '77, Dean Sturgis, '16, George Cockill, '05, Yentzer Weidensaul, '02, Harvey F. Smith, '94, Edward A. Manning, '12, Jimmy Clark, '10, Bert Daniels, '12, Charles Piez, '13, Thomas O'Leary, '14, and Charles D. Loveland, '11.

William Beatty, curator of the Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum at Cooperstown, says that of the thousands who have visited this shrine to date seven out of ten ask first to see the Mathewson plaque and exhibits.

An interesting Mathewson connection with Cooperstown was the recent transfer of Dr. Wilbur S. Sheriff, '28, from the Baptist Church at Factoryville, Pa., Matty's birthplace, to Cooperstown, where the great "Big Six" is enshrined in the Baseball Hall of Fame.

A bronze bust of Mathewson will be unveiled by the widow of the famed pitcher on May 27, the day Bucknell meets St. Lawrence at Cooperstown. Regarded as one of the finest items in the Baseball Museum collection, the bust was molded in plaster by Gertrude Boyle Kanno, who died in San Francisco August 16, 1937. Before modeling Mathewson's bust, she spent many afternoons at baseball parks watching him play. Following Mrs. Kanno's death the bust, after much research, was discovered and a bronze casting obtained by the museum.

Radio Hymn Sing Honors Robert Lowry

75th Anniversary
Celebration Held

THE memory of Dr. Robert Lowry, '54, who gave the world some of its most beloved gospel hymns, is being honored this month in an observance arranged by his Alma Mater.

Marking the 75th anniversary of the writing by Dr. Lowry of his most popular hymn, Shall We Gather at the River, the celebration includes a special chapel service, church programs, and a hymn sing of Lowry compositions over a nationwide radio network.

The Bucknell Mixed Chorus, directed by Dr. Paul G. Stolz, is singing Saturday afternoon, January 21, from 3 to 3:30 P.M. over Radio Station WABC, New York, and the Columbia Broadcasting System, presenting a number of Lowry favorites.

The same group of singers is appearing in chapel Thursday morning, January 19, at 11 A.M.

CHURCHES COOPERATE

In connection with the anniversary, ministers of churches throughout the East have been invited to include hymns written by Dr. Lowry in their musical programs for Sunday, January 22.

The man to whom this celebration is dedicated was the author of more than a score of well-known hymns, including I Need Thee Every Hour, We're Marching to Zion, and All the Way My Savior Leads Me. Of himself he said:

Dr. Robert Lowry, '54

"My brain seems to be a sort of spinning wheel; there is music running through it all the time."

Born in Philadelphia March 12, 1826, Lowry entered Bucknell in 1850 to prepare himself for the Christian ministry. He was graduated in 1854 with the Bachelor of Arts degree and with the highest honors of his class.

Ordained to the ministry during his senior year, after graduation he served as pastor of the First Baptist Church, West Chester, Pa.; Bloomingdale Baptist Church, New York City, and the Hanson Place Baptist Church, Brooklyn, N. Y.

TAUGHT AT ALMA MATER

Accepting a call from his Alma Mater in 1869, he became professor of Belles-Lettres in the University and at the same time pastor of the Lewisburg Baptist Church. After performing this double work for six years, he retired with the honorary degree of D.D., and was subsequently elected Chancellor of Bucknell. He died in 1899.

Shall We Gather at the River, the hymn that was to endear Dr. Lowry to millions throughout the world, was composed in 1864, while the writer was pastor of the Hanson Place Baptist Church in Brooklyn.

The immediate popularity of Shall We Gather at the River is reflected in this comment by the Christian Herald:

"In the spring of 1865, forty thousand children sang this hymn on their May anniversary parade and in their churches. Then it went everywhere. It was sung in conventions, in churches, in Sunday schools, and at the bedside of the dying. It crossed the ocean and became known in Great Britain and on the Continent. At some of the most distant missionary stations of Asia it was translated and sung. It found its way to the Sandwich Islands and soon encircled the globe."

Ranck Says College Brings $600,000 Yearly to Town

In direct expenditures alone, Bucknell University annually brings more than $600,000 to the borough of Lewisburg, Dayton L. Ranck, '16, University comptroller, revealed in a talk to members of the Lewisburg Rotary Club.

"Although local business firms and town leaders have always considered the University as a town asset of incalculable value," the Lewisburg Journal commented, "the rank and file of Lewisburg and even the merchants themselves have never realized the actual monetary value of the educational institution as revealed in the statistics presented to the Rotary Club by Mr. Ranck.

"Comptroller Ranck told the service club men that at an absolute minimum this annual expenditure (of $600,000) is turned over at least five times within the community, making an annual turn-over in the borough of approximately $3,000,000."

MODEL LEAGUE TO MEET ON CAMPUS

The Model League Assembly of the Middle Atlantic states will convene on the Bucknell campus April 13, 14, and 15, with delegations from 30 Eastern colleges expected to attend.

Assignment of student delegations to present the views of different nations has already been announced by Lewis Coren, Bucknell senior and secretary-general of the Assembly. Bucknell will represent Eire.

More than 200 college students and faculty members will come to Lewisburg during the deliberations of the Assembly.

Cagers, Boxers Move Into Davis Gymnasium

Ring Tournament
Here This Year

A well-balanced indoor sports program for the initial season in the new John Warren Davis Gymnasium, gradually gaining momentum this month, will reach its climax March 17 and 18, when the eighth annual Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Conference tournament is held at Bucknell.

Several of the East's strongest ring squads will come to Lewisburg for the tourney, which is being held at Bucknell for the first time. Completion of the new indoor sports center has provided the college with ample facilities for staging the event. According to present plans, the semi-final round will be held Friday evening, March 17, with the finals the following night.

DOUBLE-HEADERS SLATED

Other highlights of the winter campaign will be three boxing-basketball double-headers, including the twin bill on January 14 which marked the beginning of intercollegiate competition in the gymnasium.

Additional bargain attractions are scheduled for February 24, when Temple and Muhlenberg will furnish the opposition in boxing and basketball, respectively, and for March 3, when Western Maryland's boxers and Elizabethtown's cagers will visit the campus.

With this ambitious program outlined, both the basketball and boxing squads, weakened by graduation losses, face a difficult struggle if they are to go through the season with successful records.

Seldom in Bucknell's four decades of basketball have the season prospects loomed as a bigger question mark than they do this year. Embarking on a 15-contest schedule, the Orange and Blue passers will present a lineup in which experienced men will be definitely in the minority.

Graduation took five capable performers from the squad which won eight games against six defeats last season. Among this quintet of seniors were the team's three high scorers, Bill Foltz, Harold Sager, and Bob Summers, as well as Joe Deegan and Leon Kolanowski, a pair of dependable reserves.

KICK LOST TO TEAM

Then, a month ago, when pre-season practice had been under way little more than a week, misfortune struck again. George Kiick, rugged junior guard who was being groomed as a mainstay of the 1939 five, underwent an emergency appendicitis operation which removed him from action for the entire campaign.

With Kiick lost, only two letter men remain as a nucleus for this year's team. They are Joe Diblin, a regular guard last year, and Bill Lane, who substituted at both guard and forward. Four other holdovers from last year's squad — Bill Allen, Glen Eshelman, George Lane, and Bob Smith — are also on hand this season.

Faced with a dearth of seasoned material, Coach Mal Musser has been compelled to pin his hopes on sophomores. Among the newcomers counted upon to add strength to the varsity array are Joe Buzas, a reliable guard who was troubled by an ankle injury early in the winter; Jack Riley, Bob Nolan, George Good, Bill Creveling, Ralph Bush, Ray Armor, Bill Crawford, and Bill Johnson. A senior, Kenneth Allen, is a candidate for the team for the first time.

As in basketball, so in boxing inexperience is the factor responsible for most of the furrows in Coach Joe Reno's brow. The only boxing letter men are Martin Quick, conference 175-pound champion the past two years, and Don Walker, 145-pounder.

However, Reno is working with a squad of 19 men, and Bison ring fans are confidently expecting the mentor to produce a couple of hand-tailored champions from raw, untried material.

As the ALUMNI MONTHLY goes to press, probable Orange and Blue boxers in each weight class

HARRISBURG

Boyd R. Sheddan, '26, was elected president of the Bucknell Alumni Club of Harrisburg at a dinner meeting of the club at Jackson's restaurant December 1. The speaker was Harry O. Dayhoff, '24, a member of the club, who described highlights of various collegiate football games at which he officiated this season.

Other new officers elected were: Edwin A. Glover, '30, vice-president; Susanne E. DeVout, '35, secretary; Bruce E. Butt, '16, treasurer; and Harvey S. Bogar, '01, and the Rev. Havard Griffith, '07, members of the executive committee.

The club adopted a constitution and a set of by-laws drafted by a committee headed by Joseph Nissley, '31, and voted unanimously appreciation of the services of Allen F. Jones, '25, president for the past year.

MILTON

Seventy-five alumni from Milton and vicinity attended a dinner meeting of the Milton Alumni Club on November 10 at the Manufacturers' Club.

President Arnaud C. Marts discussed the events on the campus. L. F. Lybarger, Jr., acting alumni secretary, spoke briefly and showed motion pictures of a Bucknell football game. Coach Al Humphreys also gave a short talk. Dr. Carl L. Millward, '06, presided.

PITTSBURGH

On December 16 a number of Pittsburgh alumni gathered at the home of A. R. Mathieson, '20, and spent the evening watching moving pictures of activities on the Bucknell campus and football field. Our local alumni president, George Henggi, has invited Bucknellians to his home sometime in January for another party.

UNIONTOWN

An organization meeting of the Uniontown Alumni Club was held November 2 at 7 p.m. in the Chestnut Lounge of Zed Francis Restaurant. Twenty-one persons were present.

At the session a constitution was adopted, and the following officers elected: Harold C. Marshall, '26, president; Willard L. Lewis, '20, of Connellsville, vice-president; Ann R. Morrow, '38, secretary-treasurer; executive committee, Joe R. McNutt, '24, Jesse K. Spurgeon, '10, Charles L. Steiner, Jr., '23, (one year), Mrs. L. W. Brownfield, '01, (two years), and Judge E. H. Reppert, '77 (three years).

UNION COUNTY

A Union County Alumni Club was organized October 28 as more than 100 alumni from Lewisburg and other sections of the county attended a dinner meeting at the Hotel Lewisburger.

Malcolm Musser, '18, was elected president; Kenneth Bidlack, '29, vice-president; Paul Showalter, '32, treasurer; Mrs. Brown Focht, '26, secretary; Mrs. W. Neil Baker, '11, John S. Gold, '18, and James F. McClure, '13, members of the executive committee.

TRENTON

The Bucknell Alumni Club of Trenton held a dinner meeting Wednesday evening, November 2, at Fischer's Tea Room, River Road. President E. B. Pearce, '28, welcomed the guests, friends, and parents.

President Arnaud C. Marts was the principal speaker, reporting to his alumni "stock-holders" on the progress of the University.

Fifty-five persons attended the meeting.

WASHINGTON

An enthusiastic group of Washington and Baltimore Bucknellians met at the New Colonial Hotel in Washington for dinner November 4 before the Bucknell-Georgetown game.

Coach Al Humphreys spoke briefly on the outlook for the game, and John Plant, Trennie Eisley, and Dr. B. W. Griffith were introduced to the group.

Dr. John Burlew passed on the fine scholarship report sent to him by Mr. Lybarger, and a new scholarship committee of Mrs. Grace Burlew, Marion Davis, and William Leshner was appointed.

It was agreed that the Washington and Baltimore clubs should, in the future, meet together once a year.

METROPOLITAN

Newark, New Jersey! Essex House! Seven o'clock on the evening of December 2. "The room to the left has been reserved for Bucknell alumni. This way, please." And we found ourselves in the midst of a gay and friendly group — old friends and new, alumni of Bucknell and their friends, assembled for the first Jersey meeting of the newly organized Metropolitan Bucknell Alumni Association.

After a social hour, W. Cline Lowther, '14, newly-elected president of the New Jersey division, called the meeting to order. Sixty-one were present, most of whom belonged to the New Jersey division. Bucknell songs during dinner set the stage for the program, which featured Dr. Robert L. Sutherland, dean of men and professor of sociology.

During the business session the president outlined the year's program. Coming events include a Glee Club concert in New York in February, a meeting in New Jersey March 3 with younger New Jersey alumni in charge; a special speaker meeting in New Jersey May 5, and an old-fashioned picnic in New Jersey sometime in June.

The executive committee has many other plans — a placement bureau for graduates is already functioning in a small way and promises to grow; the scholarship fund is increasing and scholarships will soon be available.

In his report Dr. E. C. Kunkle, '97, chairman of the scholarship committee recommended in accordance with sentiment expressed at the meeting of October 21 the membership on the committee be increased to nine, at least two of whom shall be women. He announced that Robert L. Rooke,

Rainey to Head U. of Texas

Dr. Homer P. Rainey, president of Bucknell from 1931 to 1935, has been named president of the University of Texas, and will take over his new duties at the end of the semester in June.

Since leaving Bucknell, Dr. Rainey has been director of the American Youth Commission of the American Council on Education, engaged in making an exhaustive study of the needs of the nation's youth. When Dr. Rainey goes to Texas in June, the Youth Commission investigation will be nearing the end of its fourth year.

At Texas the former Bucknell executive will succeed Dr. H. Y. Benedict, who died in May, 1937. He will also be returning to his native state.

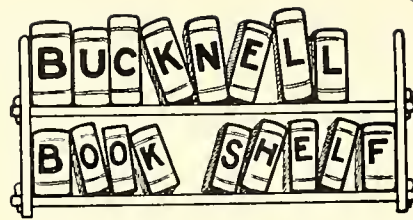

Dr. Rainey was graduated from Austin College at Sherman, Texas, in 1919 and became an instructor at the College in the same year, remaining on the faculty until 1922. In 1923 he obtained his M.A. degree at the University of Chicago and in 1924 the Ph.D. from the same institution. LL.D.'s have been awarded him by Austin College, Dennison University and Washington and Jefferson College.

From 1924 to 1926 he was associate professor of education at the University of Oregon, after which he was appointed president of Franklin College at Franklin, Ind. After serving there for four years, he became president of Bucknell. He is 42 years old.

During his four-year tenure at Bucknell, Dr. Rainey played an important role in shaping the University's curriculum and policies in accord with modern trends in higher education. While he was president the present plan of two years of broad, general education, followed by two years of specialized study, was introduced.

SCHOLARSHIP INCREASED

The Jennie Sassaman Robinson scholarship fund has been increased by $1,000, according to a bequest revealed when the will of the late Mrs. Jennie S. Robinson, of Geneva, N. Y., was admitted to probate. The scholarship was originally established to aid Milton High School graduates.

WINGS OVER THE PACIFIC

Wings Over the Pacific, by Lewis E. Theiss, '02. W. A. Wilde Company, Boston, 1938.

With this volume Dr. Theiss continues his series of boys' books which represent an interesting union of exciting adventure and factual information concerning aviation. Describing a diplomatic mission carried out by intrepid Ginger Hale, senior pilot of Pan-American Airways, the story sets forth the entire technique of trans-Pacific flight, with descriptions of the great clipper ship, the island ports en route, the ocean, its storms, and all the striking characteristics of a flight from America to the Far East.

THE PHILIPPINES

Science and Modern Progress in the Philippines, by Marshall Lloyd Dunn and Gilbert S. Perez, '07. Progressive Schoolbooks, Manila, 1938.

Another picture of the Far East is offered in this book, prepared to give Filipino students an idea of the way in which scientific methods may be utilized to build a "nobler and more progressive civilization" in the Philippine Islands. Mr. Perez, who has a son, Robert C. Perez, '40, at Bucknell now, is superintendent of vocational education for the Bureau of Education, with headquarters at Manila. He and his associate have given Filipino children a handy guide to the promise modern progress holds out to their native land. Especially interesting is the chapter on "Living Well Together".

ADULT EDUCATION

Adult Education Courses of Study: An Appraisal, by Andrew Hendrickson, '25, Bureau of Publications, Teachers College, Columbia University, 1938.

This pamphlet, the first of a series of occasional papers to be published on the subject by Teachers College, is the result of a comprehensive investigation of existing curricula for adult education.

Mr. Hendrickson, head of the English department of Bogota, N. J., High School, has been granted leave of absence from February 1 to July 1 this year, to complete work for a Ph.D. at Columbia. His booklet points out the need for choosing administrators and teachers in adult education projects, not on traditional bases, but on the basis of their aptitude for a task which requires particular qualifications.

MEDICAL STUDIES

Serum Cholesterol Values for Children, by Frederick M. Offenkrantz, '33, and Maxwell Karshan; Serum Cholesterol in Syphilis, by Felix Feraru and F. M. Offenkrantz; A Study of Serum Cholesterol in Patients With Peptic Ulcer, by F. M. Offenkrantz and Felix Feraru; Serum Cholesterol in Patients With Rheumatic Fever and Serum Cholesterol Fluctuations During the Menstrual Cycle, by F. M. Offenkrantz.

In these papers published in medical journals from October, 1936, to September, 1938, Dr. Offenkrantz describes a series of investigations into the relationship of serum cholesterol with various pathological and physiological conditions.

METROPOLITAN CLUB

'13, member of the Board of Trustees and member of this Alumni Association, is to be special treasurer of the fund. He made a plea for immediate contributions and pledges and stated that with an adequate fund it is the aim of the committee to have not one scholarship student, but several in each class.

With seventy active members after its two initial meetings, the Metropolitan Association hopes to enroll all nine hundred alumni in the New York area before the end of the year.

Year's Gifts Total $625,000

Benefactions to Bucknell during 1938 aggregated $625,000. President Arnaud C. Marts said on December 17 as he announced new gifts of $175,000. The announcement was made at the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Trustees in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia, with Judge J. Warren Davis, '96, chairman of the Board, presiding.

William R. White, '26, superintendent of banks in New York state, and John Langdon Jones, of the University of Pennsylvania, were elected to the Board of Trustees for four-year terms at the session.

Mr. White, named last year by the New York Young Men's Board of Trade as "New York's Young Man of the Year", was appointed superintendent of banks in January, 1936. Aged thirty-two at the time, he was the youngest superintendent to take office since the department was organized in 1851. He joined the banking department as assistant counsel in 1930.

Mr. Jones, who teaches Romance languages at Penn, is well known as an authority on American and Pennsylvania poetry.

DEBT CUT IN HALF

The recent gifts of $175,000, all made within the six weeks preceding the December meeting, will be "used towards retiring the University's capital indebtedness, which was incurred from 10 to 15 years ago for the purpose of building our stadium, a women's dormitory, and other college buildings", President Marts explained.

"These gifts cut Bucknell's debt in half and we hope to cancel the entire debt during the next few months," he said. "When that is done, we shall undertake to build a new library, as our present library building is now sadly overcrowded by our collection of 90,000 volumes."

MEN TO HAVE DINING ROOM

A college dining room for about fifty men will be opened on the campus next September, University officials have announced. Decision to establish the new service for men was prompted by requests from many parents of entering freshmen who wish to know in advance that their sons will be privileged to take their meals in a dining room under college supervision.

The new men's commons will not compete with fraternity houses, but will be planned on a scale to provide for only forty to fifty students, the number estimated as necessary to meet the special requests that come regularly from parents.

HONORS WON BY BUCKNELLIAN

Winning one second place and three thirds, The Bucknellian, student weekly newspaper, made a fine showing in the fall competition of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic states. The Bucknellian was the only publication with a circulation of more than 1,050 to receive mention in all four categories of judging.

MARTS URGES AMLUNI CHECK SELF-EDUCATION

Do college graduates and education part company at Commencement?

With this question in mind, President Marts has invited the men and women who received diplomas from the college since he became its head three years ago to evaluate the progress of their self-education since they left the campus.

In a letter which went to 700 graduates in the classes of 1936, 1937, and 1938, Mr. Marts asked this group of recent alumni to make a personal check on the extent to which they have maintained during their post-college years the intellectual interests fostered on the campus.

As an aid to self-education Bucknell's president has offered to send to each recent graduate, as a personal gift, a copy of Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam's book, "The Marks of an Educated Man". Dr. Wiggam, noted writer on scientific topics, has spoken at Bucknell twice during the past year.

Two hundred twenty-five alumni, accepting Mr. Marts' offer, have received copies of the book.

Address by Warfel, '20, Recalls World War Days

A picture of "The Lost Generation Twenty Years Later" was presented at the University chapel service November 10, in an Armistice Day address by Harry R. Warfel, '20, professor of English at the University of Maryland.

Recalling the hectic days when America's entrance into the World War overturned campus routine, Dr. Warfel also set forth the change in the philosophy of youth wrought by the War experience.

Immediately after the United States declared war, Dr. Warfel said, "Drums beat and bugles called. Khaki uniforms dotted the campus. A dozen or more boys, five of them new recruits, left with the National Guard troop. Fifteen men organized the Bucknell Volunteer Company and began to drill daily on the campus."

Dr. Llewellyn Phillips electrified us with an address on 'The Moral Issues of President Wilson's War Message'.

AMBULANCE UNITS ORGANIZED

"In May, 1917, thirty-five students left for Fort Niagara. Later came a call for the organization of ambulance units for service with the army overseas. Not one but two such units were formed, SSU 524 and SSU 525. In the library among the trophies hangs the baton containing the ribbons and the palm of the French Croix de Guerre, symbolical of the heroism of Bucknellians throughout the service . . .

"The new year found a straggling few back at college . . . The girls knitted sweaters, rolled bandages, made clothes for orphaned children. Some of us, led by Guy Payne and Professor W. G. Owens, worked in the Milton munitions factory and tried to carry on in classes, too."

After describing post-War bewilderment and disillusionment, Dr. Warfel concluded, "Today, therefore, 'The Lost Generation' deserves the adjective largely because it was lost and has found itself, because it has learned that mere idealism on the one hand or mere complaint about conditions on the other will get us absolutely nowhere."

Father's Association Proves Active at University this Year

In active cooperation with alumni groups this year is the first Bucknell Fathers' Association, created for the purpose of giving the fathers of present students an opportunity to become acquainted with each other, to become more intimately informed about the educational work and campus life of the University and to collaborate with the University in making the best possible atmosphere for the work and life of their sons and daughters.

Organized by 75 fathers at a special luncheon last Fathers' Day, the Association has two groups of officers, an advisory committee and a group of executive officials. The executive leaders are Joseph D. McKee, Montclair, N. J., president; James Tyson, '11, Philadelphia, vice-president; Charles A. Fryling, '13, Sunbury, secretary; Thomas Wood, '05, Muncy, treasurer.

Advisory committee members are E. A. Snyder, '11, South Orange, N. J.; Fred O. Schnure, '14, Sparrows Point, Md.; Dr. Walter F. Wood, Mickleton, N. J.; Charles F. Askey, Williamsport; C. H. Willich, New York City; Francis Lybarger and Robert L. Sutherland, of Bucknell.

Invitation to join the Association has been sent to the fathers of all students, and there has been a very gratifying response.

Mr. McKee, president of the Association, visited the campus Monday, January 9, to meet with officers of the Lewisburg area. At that meeting arrangements were made for the appointment of special committees to cooperate actively with the University in matters concerning student welfare, to increase the membership of the group, and to take care of arrangements for the Fathers' Day Banquet.

RETIREMENT PENSION PLAN ADOPTED

At the beginning of the second semester the Carnegie system of retirement pensions for college teachers will go into operation at Bucknell. Participation in the plan will be voluntary for the present faculty, but will be compulsory for future teachers.

Adoption of the system came in response to a request from members of the faculty that the Board of Trustees authorize a joint contributory plan whereby each faculty member will contribute five per cent of his salary every month to the retirement fund, with the University supplying a like amount.

The plan will be operated through the Teachers Annuity and Insurance Association of America, an organization made possible through a gift of $25,000,000 by Andrew Carnegie. Bucknell is the 143th leading educational institution to adopt the plan since the Association was established with the aid of the Carnegie Foundation grant.

FACULTY FOOTNOTES

Dean R. H. Rivenburg presided at a convention luncheon held in Harrisburg on December 27 in conjunction with the annual conclave of the Pennsylvania State Education Association. He is vice-president of the College and University section of the Association.

Vincent A. McCrossen, assistant professor of French, discussed "Modern Language as a Tool for Scholarship and a Key for World Citizenship" at a meeting of the Pennsylvania Modern Language Association on December 29.

Attending the annual meetings of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Richmond, Va., during the Christmas holidays, Dr. William H. Eyster, professor of botany, appeared before the American Genetic Society to read a paper entitled "The Interspecific Hybrids of Tagetes erecta and Tagetes patula".

Dr. Cyrus H. Karraker, assistant professor of history, is one of five Pennsylvania historians named to a commission which is entrusted with the task of drawing up a bibliography on state history. The commission met late in December on the campus of Lehigh University.

Early days at Bucknell were described by Dr. William C. Bartol, professor emeritus of mathematics, during a Student Church meeting in the Lewisburg Baptist Church. The students presented a birthday cake to Bartol, who observed his 91st birthday anniversary in November.

Dr. Joseph E. Perry died September 23 in his home on Webster St., Brookline, Mass. He died in the shadow of the church of which he was a member. Dr. Perry received an A.M. degree from Bucknell in 1881, as well as an honorary Ph.D. in 1893 and an honorary D.D. in 1928.

Commenting on Dr. Perry's passing, the Massachusetts Baptist Bulletin said, "From the Baptists in Massachusetts he evoked an extraordinary warmth of affectionate response to his gracious personality. He earned and enjoyed the confidence of a multitude of people. We remember both his wisdom and his wit. He brought joy with him wherever he went. He enjoyed his religion and taught us the Christian art of happiness."

Miss Emma Beaver died November 10 at the Evangelical Hospital in Lewisburg. Aged 92 years, she suffered a broken hip in a fall a week before her death. She had been living at the Evangelical Home, Lewisburg, since 1919.

A pioneer in the growing force of Bucknell airplane pilots is Frederick S. Angstadt, who for the past ten years has been flying air mail for the United Air Lines. On the Newark-Chicago route for seven years, he has been assigned to the Chicago-Cheyenne run more recently. He has flown more than a million miles.

Captain Angstadt — he's a captain of the United Air Lines and also of the United States Marine Corps Reserve — has seen many changes since he entered aviation. "When I first started," he writes, "we had low-flying, slow planes and many times cleared the giant trees of the Bucknell campus by only hundreds of feet; later on, with the coming of higher-powered, larger, supercharged planes, we flew higher and higher, until now we fly ten or twelve thousand feet above the ground."

As a captain on one of the twelve-ton "Mainliners" used by United on its Chicago-Cheyenne division, Captain Angstadt is sure that he occasionally flies Bucknell alumni, and says he'll be happy to make their acquaintance when they board his plane.

Married 13 years, Captain and Mrs. Angstadt have no children. His address is c/o United Air Lines, Municipal Airport, Chicago, Ill.

HOMECOMING HIGHLIGHTS

"Billy" Bartol, '72, University historian and professor emeritus of mathematics, who celebrated his 91st birthday anniversary five days after Homecoming. A basket of flowers was presented to Dr. Bartol, who responded with greetings to the graduates, many of whom were pupils of his over a period of several decades.

In the evening the largest crowd ever to attend a dance at Bucknell assembled in the new gymnasium. With Howard Woods and his orchestra playing, six hundred couples attended the Alumni Ball, bringing the Homecoming program to a brilliant finale.

TEA SERVICE GIVEN BY ALUMNAE GROUP

A number of North Jersey alumnae have presented an attractive tea and coffee service to the Women's College, the formal presentation having been made December 15 at the annual Christmas formal dinner of the Women's Student Government Association.

The committee which directed the project of securing the service for the college included Mrs. Elizabeth Heinsling Lowther, '12, Mrs. Edgar A. Snyder, and Mrs. Helene Diffendafer Bower, '18.

LAWYERS HEAR MARTS

President Arnaud C. Marts made the principal address at the mid-winter meeting of the New Jersey State Bar Association in Newark, N. J., on January 14. He discussed "The Lawyer's Place in the Community".

The New Jersey Bar Association has as its secretary Miss Emma E. Dillon, '15.

BUCKNELL Alumni Monthly

Volume XXIII
No. 3

Editor's Corner

DEMOCRACY may be hard-pressed in some parts of the world, but you can still do your bit for representative government by marking your selection for Alumni Trustees on the ballot included with this issue of the Alumni Monthly and mailing it to the Alumni Trustee Nomination Committee. Make the most of your alumni citizenship by helping to choose the persons who represent you on the Board of Trustees.

HERE'S a hearty hand of welcome to two comparative youngsters in the family of those working for the welfare of Bucknell. Still in their first year, both the Mother's and Father's Associations have shown genuine devotion to the task of building an even better Bucknell. At the moment the Mother's Association is taking the lead in planning the program for Mother's Day, May 12 to 14. At its January executive committee session, the Father's Association adopted a program of action that would do credit to any federation of alumni. We're speaking for all alumni when we express our appreciation for the interest these new groups are taking in Alma Mater.

YOUR College Friends", the streamlined new Alumni Directory which your interest will help to guarantee, comes closer to reality with the arrival of the morning mail each day in the Alumni Office. To date orders representing well over a thousand dollars have been received, together with scores of comments hailing the project. Before the linotype man begins setting the up-to-date information on you and your classmates, however, there must be 2,500 advance orders at one dollar each, 1,250 orders at two dollars each, or enough individual contributions to defray the cost of publication. Take a long look at the preview of "Your College Friends" printed on the back cover of the Alumni Monthly, and let your curiosity be your guide. Incidentally, if you haven't yet filled out and returned the information blank which provides raw material for the new Directory, interview yourself today and send us the data.

WHILE we're in a bookish mood, we'd like to call your attention to a special alumni offer made by 1939 L'Agenda. To alumni the yearbook will be sold for $3.50, the same price as that which students are assessed out of their activities fund. In return for a check or money order made payable to 1939 L'Agenda, a yearbook will be mailed to your home on or about May 15. Oh, yes, we may be giving away trade secrets, but it's whispered that this year's annual will spring something new in the way of complete campus picture coverage.

IF you're like us, you'll do a bit of mental mulling after you read Julius Seebach's comments on the value of a college education. (See page 4.) Taking his cue from remarks he made during a recent radio symposium, Mr. Seebach sets forth his views as to the worthwhileness of college for a person working in the creative arts. The Monthly will be glad to learn how Mr. Seebach's conclusions square with those you've reached in your own vocational field.

Springtime Schedule Crowded With Events

Alumni Day Set
For June 10

AS A guaranteed remedy for cases of spring fever among its alumni, Bucknell presents this year its own panacea—a springtime program studded with events appealing to every shade of alumni taste.

Culminating with Alumni Day on June 10, the University's spring fever "cure" includes a variety of treatments, with at least one suitable for each individual patient.

1. For the graduate with a yen for swing, there's the Junior Prom in April, followed by fraternity House Party week-end May 5 and 6.

2. For the student of contemporary affairs, a Model Assembly of the League of Nations will be held on the campus April 13, 14, and 15.

3. Ex-Cap and Daggerites will be interested in the Artist Course staging of As You Like It March 29, 30, and 31.

4. Sports fans — turn to page 6 for complete information on the doings and didoes of Bucknell athletes.

5. If you're looking for a spectacle and can't see your way clear to making the World's Fair, remember Spring Festival May 12, 13, and 14.

6. Finally, for get-togethers with your classmates and a glimpse of the campus at its best, plan to return for Commencement week-end June 10 to 12.

REUNIONS ON JUNE 10

Reunions on Alumni Day this year will be held by the five-year classes of 1934, 1929, 1924, 1919, 1914, 1909, 1904, 1899, 1894, and by other earlier "4" and "9" groups which have surviving members.

Secretaries of the reunion classes include the following: Mrs. Alfred B. Howe, the former Mildred Davis, 1934; Mrs. James E. Pollack, the former Mary Wagner, 1929; H. Walter Holter, 1924; Franklin D. Jones, 1919; Mrs. H. B. Weaver, the former Dora Hamler, 1914; Mrs. F. E. Shupe, the former Myrtle Walkinshaw, 1909; Miss Elizabeth Reed, 1904; Mrs. J. C. Downs, the former Gertrude Stephens, 1899.

Honored guests at the Commencement will be members of the 50-year Class of 1889. Of those who were graduated from the college half a century ago, four men are still living: Owen E. Abraham, 771 West End Avenue, New York, N. Y.; Oliver B. Finn, Box 627, Colorado Springs, Colo.; Rev. William C. Leinbach, Jackson, Pa., and Joseph M. Wolfe, 219 Market Street, Lewisburg.

Other surviving members of the '89 class are John W. Forster, Aaronsburg, Pa.; S. C. Harry, 1428 Linden Avenue, Baltimore, Md.; John D. Musser, 119 North Second Street, Lewisburg; Rev. J. W. Neyman, 319 East Lincoln Avenue, New Castle, and William E. Williams, 1303 Market Street, Berwick.

Two Institute graduates of 1889 who are still living are Mrs. Alice H. Palms, the former Alice Hassenplug, of Narvon, Pa., and Miss Margaret W. Van Wyck, 26 Forbes Street, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Mrs. W. J. Cole, who was Alice Bush, of 8111 Bell Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif., was a member of 1889's Music class.

Of the 60-year class, 1879, only four Institute graduates remain. They are Miss Margaret W. Arthur, 52 Brookline Boulevard, Brookline, Upper Darby, Pa.; Mrs. J. W. Bethune, the former Emma A. Griffin, of Wyebrooke, Pa.; Miss Lizzie Bell Holliday, of Tipton, Pa., and Miss Eleanor M. Lawshe, 43 South Second Street, Lewisburg.

Mrs. G. S. Matlack, I.'69, of 106 South Second Street, Lewisburg, is the sole 70-year survivor.

In addition to reunions, Alumni Day this year will include its usual complement of activities: Cap and Dagger play, band concert, Alumni Association meeting, and fraternity symposia. The following day will be Baccalaureate Sunday, with Commencement following Monday morning.

SPRING FESTIVAL SET

A month before Commencement the University's annual Spring Festival, combining the pageantry of extracurricular activity with the Mother's Day observance, is expected to attract more than 1,500 visitors to the campus. Highlight of the week-end will be the crowning of the May Queen on Saturday afternoon, May 13, as the climax of the coeds' May Day fete.

Following the Mother's Day banquet Saturday evening will be the presentation of a Cap and Dagger play, Holiday. Church services in Lewisburg Sunday morning will center around the Mother's Day theme. This year for the first time a Bucknell Mother's Association is taking an active part in developing the program for Mother's Day.

Officers of the Mother's Association are Mrs. E. C. Condict, of Trenton, N. J., president; Mrs. Louis A. Naumann, the former Violet Wetterau, '12, of Ridgewood, N. J., vice-president; and Mrs. C. S. Sanders, Shamokin, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Sanders is the wife of C. S. Sanders, '13.

The Spring Festival program, under the general supervision of the Student-Faculty Congress, will also include a number of novelties similar to last year's push-cart derby.

For the Junior Prom on Friday evening, April 21, alumni can dance on the spacious Davis Gymnasium floor to the music of Glen Gray and his Casa Loma orchestra.

ALUMNUS TO SPEAK

Speakers at the assembly of the Model League of Nations Assembly, with student representatives from 31 colleges participating, will be Sir Herbert Ames, former treasurer of the League of Nations; Mrs. Vera Dean, research director of the Foreign Policy Association, and Harry H. Pierson, '28, recently-appointed aide in the Department of State's new division of cultural relations.

More than 200 students and faculty members from Eastern campuses will be in attendance for the three-day conference, which will be devoted to a re-examination of the basic principles of the League. Each college or university at the Assembly will present the views of a nation belonging to the League. Bucknell's delegation will represent Eire, formerly the Irish Free State.

Dear Friends:

It is time again to think about Commencement, and I invite each of you, who can and will, to return to the exercises this June. Alumni Day will be Saturday, June 10, Baccalaureate Day will be Sunday, June 11, and Commencement Day falls on Monday, June 12.

I sincerely hope that great numbers of Bucknellians will return on those days for the double purposes of bringing to Alma Mater the infusion of new vitality and stimulus which your presence on the campus means to us, and of renewing your aspirations toward nobler living which the College-on-the-Hill always awakens in the minds and spirits of her sons and daughters.

I invite you also to the Annual Meeting of the Bucknell Friends of the Library which will be held here on Saturday noon, May 6. The only requirement for membership in this Bucknell society is that you love books. An excellent program for the Annual Meeting is being planned, and you are cordially invited to attend.

You will be interested to know that recently a great friend of Bucknell, when he learned that a thousand new books were needed in the Bucknell Junior College Library, gave a check for the purchase of them all and thus in one generous stroke brought the Junior College's collection of books up to the full requirement of library standards.

On Saturday, May 13, our women students will present their annual Spring Festival and will crown their May Queen. Mother's Day is combined with the program of that week-end and we are expecting hundreds of mothers of our present students on our campus at that time. I invite you, also, to visit Lewisburg for this beautiful and colorful ceremony.

With kindest regards,

Yours for Bucknell,

'Where Two or Three Gather Together'

This is the second in a series of articles chronicling changes which have taken place during the years in fundamental phases of college life.

EIGHTY-NINE years ago this past January a little group of serious-minded students gathered in the Academy Building (now Taylor Hall) of the University at Lewisburg to talk over the part they should play in the religious life of their four-year-old college.

Aware that the University owed its very existence to the religious devotion of a far-seeing band of Northumberland Baptists, these young men formally joined together in a Society for Inquiry, Bucknell's first student Christian organization. This was on January 6, 1850, and since that day the religious spirit has provided the one continuous thread in the shifting tapestry of student activities.

Judged by present-day standards, the work of the early Society for Inquiry does not seem particularly dramatic, as it is recorded in the annals of the period. The members, many of them preparing for the ministry, carried on much correspondence with other colleges and with missionaries. One of the first corresponding secretaries of the Society was Robert Lowry, '54, who attained fame as a hymn-writer.

CHURCH-GOING COMPULSORY

The task of maintaining the proper religious atmosphere on the campus was not left to the devout members of the Society for Inquiry. The college administration took an active, almost militant, interest in fostering the spiritual welfare of its students. In the early days church attendance was compulsory, and students paid an annual pew rent of three dollars. In March, 1868, Dr. George R. Bliss baptized 59 student converts in the Susquehanna River. About the same time Phi Kappa Psi fraternity replaced its regular chapter session with a prayer meeting.

With this heritage it is not surprising that today religion remains a dominant student interest at Bucknell, although it finds its outlet in a score of ways far different from mass conversions and compulsory church attendance.

Logically, if not directly, descended from the old Society for Inquiry is 1939's University Christian Association, formed half a dozen years ago by the merger of the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., and church programs. Known on the campus as the "C. A.", this group has an active membership of more than 450, and serves as a hub around which virtually all Bucknell's religious activities revolve.

FRESHMEN ARE AIDED

Dedicated to developing a high character of campus life, as well as to supplying a channel for spiritual growth, the C. A. sponsors Sunday night Student Church services with outstanding speakers, folk dancing parties, forums on contemporary problems, and outings. It helps "break in" freshmen to college life by publishing the Student Handbook, conducting a Freshman Camp for new students prior to the opening of college, and organizing a Freshman Supper Club.

In its endeavor to enrich campus life through wholesome recreational opportunities, the Christian Association has been aided in the last two years by the development of a 28-acre recreational center at Cowan, eight miles from the campus. Typical scenes at the Cowan center, which is widely used for outings, retreats, and conferences, are pictured on this page. Eventually a lodge is to be built on the tract.

Today's Bucknell students do not confine the work of their religious organizations within the boundaries of the campus. A suave student magician makes eggs disappear to the amazement of a goggle-eyed crowd of Lewisburg children at the C. A.'s regular Saturday morning entertainment for town boys and girls. Other college men and women gather and distribute used clothing for the needy, and act as leaders for community youth clubs and Scout troops.

Heading this broad program — and a dozen other important activities might be added — are a Student Executive Committee and a Faculty Advisory Council. T. Chubb Conduct, son of the Rev. E. Carroll Conduct, '08, and brother of Clinton A. Conduct, '37, is student president of the Association. Dr. C. H. Richardson is chairman of the Advisory Council, while Forrest D. Brown serves as executive secretary.

Does College Prepare For The Arts?

Seebach, '20, Speaks
In Radio Forum

"A sometimes hard-won experience of people is perhaps the greatest thing that remains to me in my profession from my college years."

The speaker: Julius F. Seebach, Jr., '20. His audience: thousands of radio listeners tuned to the University Life symposium of the Mutual Broadcasting System on Saturday afternoon, February 11.

Appearing in an informal broadcast "bull-session" with Ralph Johnston, a Bucknell senior, together with alumnus and undergraduate representatives of Columbia University and Williams College, Mr. Seebach, who is director of program operations for station WOR of the Mutual Broadcasting System, provided his own answer to the old question, "Is college worth while?"

Removed from its context of running-fire conversation, Mr. Seebach's commentary on this question, as expanded at the request of the Alumni Monthly, ran something like this:

"To any question seeking to discover what particular use my college education has been to me in professional life, I am obliged to answer rather vaguely. I think this must always be the case except perhaps in the engineering and other technical courses. I took the classical course of the kind that has practically vanished now. In other words, my A.B. is founded upon Greek, Latin, modern languages, history, and an absolute minimum of mathematics and science. Naturally these things go to form a background of general knowledge and an interest in the Arts rather than in any specific technique or profession.

FOUND JOKES RECURRED

"I should say that a sometimes hard-won experience of people is perhaps the greatest thing that remains to me in my profession from my college years, and even that is mainly in furnishing a point of reference. For example, when I went into the Army, I found certain jokes in constant use with the newcomers, such as sending them to get the key to the parade ground or a bucket of reveille paint. Later, when I worked in shops, I found men sending newcomers out for left-handed monkey wrenches or sky hooks, and realized that each different kind of work has its classic jokes of this kind. I was able to understand that this only repeats the same tendency that causes hazing of freshmen in college. It is a normal and universal habit of any group of men bound together by work or association to try each newcomer to find out what are the limits of his patience and how he bears himself under pressure.

"Now this knowledge in itself is perhaps neither profound nor overwhelmingly important. Certainly it is not the sum total of everything that one can learn about people in college. I cite it only as a single example of the fact that one begins to learn how people react as individuals on their own resources during their college years, and that a person with a memory and the power of analysis can obtain considerable value from such observation, even though at the time it may be subconscious.

TRAINING IS DIFFICULT

"In the last analysis, I believe that it is very difficult to train people to work in the creative arts by means of college courses, and that the capacity to work with ideas, and people with ideas, comes almost exclusively from within, rather than from without. This is primarily true because one is dealing not with hard and cold facts, but with personalities: an interest and curiosity to learn their ideas and viewpoints are the primary requisites. And then, of course, I doubt if anyone can teach judgment and a sense of proportion. These are not factual, they are not positive, they are not absolute. I think that college can furnish people with these qualifications a chance to expand, but I doubt if any of these can be confined within the limits of course or of a textbook."

During his broadcast remarks Mr. Seebach also reminisced concerning the changes ex-soldiers found at Bucknell when they returned from the War. Prior to the War, he recalled, the most important social event of the year was the College Girls' Reception, at which there was no dancing. "Upon our return from France," he said, "the entire viewpoint as to social life had changed. It had assumed the form which, with some modifications, it retains until this day."

Before entering the broadcasting field, Mr. Seebach taught French in high schools at Rochester, N. Y., and Jersey City, N. J. In November, 1925, he joined the staff of Station WOR, Newark, as announcer. Becoming affiliated with the Columbia Broadcasting System in 1928 as a continuity writer, he was made program director of CBS in the fall of that year. Two years later his duties were enlarged, and he became director of program operations. In June, 1935, Mr. Seebach returned to WOR as director of program operations.

(How do Mr. Seebach's comments on the value of a college education square with your experience in your profession? The Alumni Monthly will be glad to receive and to publish viewpoints on that question from Bucknell men and women in other vocational fields.—Editor's Note.)

Friends of the Library To Convene May 6

Author and Critic
To Give Addresses

Heartened by the announcement that a new Library is the next item on Bucknell's construction program following the completion of the Engineering Building, the Friends of the Bucknell Library will convene in Lewisburg Saturday, May 6, for their third annual meeting.

Speakers for the occasion will be Dr. Harry R. Warfel, '20, author and literary historian, and Mrs. George E. Barnes, of Philadelphia, a well-known lecturer and literary critic.

"All alumni and lovers of books who are interested in a bigger and better library for Bucknell are cordially invited to attend this luncheon-meeting." Norman E. Henry, '05, president of the Friends of the Library, announced.

Scheduled for 12:30 P. M., the meeting will be held at the Women's College. Following the luncheon, for which there will be a charge of 75 cents, and a brief business session, Dr. Warfel, who is now teaching at the University of Maryland, will speak on "The Flavor of America", basing his remarks on his forth-coming American Local Color Stories. Mrs. Barnes' lecture topic will be "Current Books".

Gradually developing into an increasingly valuable adjunct of the University Library, the Friends of the Library issue an occasional publication, Bibliotheca Bucknellensis, edited by Mr. Henry. Dr. Robert M. Steele, '08, is secretary-treasurer of the organization, and the executive committee includes Dr. Lester K. Ade, '21, Roy G. Bostwick, '05, Captain Fred A. Godcharles, James P. Harris, '12, Gilbert S. McClintock, Louis W. Robey, '04, John B. Stetson, Jr., and Dr. Warfel.

GIFTS ANNOUNCED

Valuable recent additions to the Library, as reported by Bibliotheca Bucknellensis, have come from Frank W. Dillon, '98, Dr. F. G. Ballentine, '99, E. A. Snyder, '11, Julia A. Olney, Rev. Fred B. Iglar, '12, Henry Wells, Jr., Thirza M. Bromley, '20, and the late Dr. Emory W. Hunt, and Miss Eliza J. Martin.

Another benefaction to the Library has been made by Professor Frank M. Simpson, '95, who, realizing that the Library has insufficient funds for reclaiming unbound magazines, has offered to defray the cost of binding 50 volumes. Numerous other unbound series of periodicals remain in the Library storage rooms.

The January issue of the Bibliotheca was made possible through a gift from Louis W. Robey, '04, assuring money for the publishing costs.

Grow Sugar in the Parlor? Bucknell Graduate Tells How

Now you can grow your own sugar in the parlor or among the window plants, according to a recent discovery by a Bucknell alumna specializing in the field of plant physiology who reported her findings at the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Richmond, Va.

The fact that a variety of sugar can be developed by careful cultivation of impatiens sultana, a common tropical plant better known as sultana, periwinkle, or balsam, was announced by Dr. Miriam G. Groner, '31, daughter of the late Dr. O. S. Groner, professor of chemistry at Bucknell.

The sweet substance which forms on the plant tastes just like the granules you stir into your morning coffee.

In the past the sugar possibilities of the plant have gone unnoticed, because insects, rain, or even dew have removed the sugar before it was fully formed. But nurture the plant carefully, and a sort of sticky sap runs to the under side of stems, particularly the stems of leaves.

If not molested these drops enlarge and turn white, as shown in the accompanying photograph. If they are sheltered from dust, the granules are clean. Dr. Groner's chemical analysis shows that they are composed of sucrose, a form of sugar, with a good possibility that dextrose may also be present. No bad effects from eating them have been found. Production of this sugar would not be sufficient to compete with the commercial product.

Dr. Groner's plant discovery was widely publicized throughout the country in dispatches by Howard W. Lakeslee, Associated Press science editor and other newspapermen covering the A. A. A. S. sessions. Dr. Groner modestly disclaims credit for the discovery, on which she worked for a year in

This photograph of impatiens sultana shows the "sugar" formed on the stems of the plant

Bucknell's botany and chemistry laboratories; her only comment is that she is "surprised nobody ever bothered to report on sultana's sugar potentialities before."

The Battling Bison No Longer Hibernates

Winter, Spring
Sports Revived

THERE have been years when Bucknell's intercollegiate athletic program vanished abruptly, along with the oak foliage and white sport shoes, about the end of November, immediately after the annual scoreless tie with Temple.

It's true that the Bisons patriotically entered teams in basketball, boxing, track, baseball, and tennis, but sports followers palpitating for Orange and Blue victories stoically resigned themselves to the long wait until Labor Day. If winter comes, they consoled themselves as icy gales swept the broad Buffalo Valley, can spring, summer and September be far behind?

Now, however, the winter-spring sports picture is gradually becoming a rosier one. With Davis Gymnasium as an arena for indoor athletic competition, basketball and boxing will have an opportunity to take their place as front-rank sports. Add to this the fact that prospects for successful spring campaigns are better than ever, and you'll see that the battling Bison is a year-round animal, instead of a perverse beast addicted to lengthy intervals of hibernation.

FROSH FIVE CLICKS

Talk of the campus during the winter months has been the talented freshman basketball team. In their first 10 games the Bison yearlings scored 445 points to 276 for their opponents, and apparently nothing short of a court injunction can stop them from annexing the Northeastern Pennsylvania League championship.

The Baby Bisons have bowed twice, dropping a three-point decision to Penn State's frosh at State College, but promptly retaliating when the Nittany Lion Cubs visited Lewisburg. Their other setback was at the hands of Dickinson Junior College in the second game of the season. Sparkplugs of the frosh five, which is coached by Johnny Sitarsky, '36, are Fred Fahringer, Jr., son of Fred Fahringer, '15, and Edwin Glass, son of C. E. Glass, '16.

Meanwhile, May Musser's varsity quintet, after losing seven out of its first nine games, righted itself by snatching six triumphs in two weeks, and ended the campaign at the .500 mark. During the early stages of the season the Bison varsity was handicapped by the absence of George Kiick, rugged guard and one of three lettermen on the squad, who underwent an appendectomy in December. With Kiick's return to action in mid-February the team showed what, in Coach Musser's eyes, appeared to be 50 per cent improvement.

Also above average is this year's crop of boxers, who are the hosts at the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Conference tournament in Lewisburg March 17 and 18. Defeated by Penn State and C. C. N. Y., the Bison belters have downed West Virginia, Temple, and Western Maryland, and gained a 4-4 tie with Lock Haven State Teachers College. Troubled throughout the year by a constantly-changing lineup, Coach Joe Reno hopes to present his strongest array of the year in the tourney.

VETERANS ON HAND

As the baseball, track, and tennis men begin their drills, more than the average quota of seasoned performers is on hand. Missing from last year's nine, which won seven and lost four for Bucknell's best record in several seasons, are outfielder Harold Sager, second baseman John Dill, first baseman Edward Quinn, and pitcher Herb Bowman. Capable replacements are available in most of the spots.

The tennis team, still hoarding the 13-match victory string assembled by last year's undefeated outfit, will be fortified by three veterans, George MacCall and Emmett Steele, Numbers One and Two, respectively, and Charles Dunham, as well as by two able freshmen, Dan Richardson and Bill Carson. In difficulty, however, the 1939

Four Aged Alumni Called by Death

Civil War Veteran
Succumbs at 95

TWO men and two women who were among the oldest of Bucknell's 7,000 alumni have died since the beginning of the year. Three were nonagenarians, while the fourth was 87 years old.

Oldest of the four veteran Bucknellians who passed on within a month's time was John B. Cooke, '73, aged 95, of Philadelphia, believed to have been the last surviving Bucknell Civil War veteran. He died January 14 at his home in Philadelphia.

Early in February he was followed in death by Mrs. Martha E. Wolfe, I.'63, of Laurelton, Pa., who was 91 years old; Mrs. Charles P. Smith, I.'69, of West Pittston, Pa., who died on her 87th birthday anniversary, and Charles E. Sheppard, ex-'70, of Bridgeton, N. J., who was 92 years old last November.

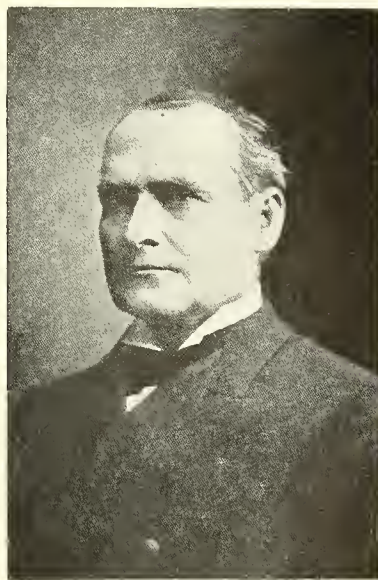

Mr. Cooke is also believed to have been the oldest graduate of the college proper, although Mrs. Harriet Mason Stevens, aged 97, of Hampton, Va., still has more years to her credit than any other Bucknellian. She was graduated from the Institute in 1858.

FORMER ALUMNI HEAD

A former president of the Bucknell Alumni Association, Mr. Cooke had a remarkable career as soldier, clergyman, and lawyer. In recognition of his achievements, the Class of 1906 dedicated to him its edition of L'Agenda, the University yearbook.

Born in Mt. Vernon, Ohio, he enlisted with the 95th Pennsylvania Zouaves, 6th Corps, in 1861 at the outbreak of the Civil War, and served until after Lee's surrender. Fighting in 20 major engagements, including those of the Peninsula, Antietam, Chancellorsville, Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, the Wilderness, Spottsylvania Court House, Cold Harbor, and Petersburg, Mr. Cooke was wounded four times during the war.

At Spottsylvania Court House on May 12, 1864, Mr. Cooke fought during the entire eighteen hours of that sanguinary conflict at the famed "Bloody Angle," and received a slight flesh wound. The following year, during the Confederate retreat from Petersburg, he was again wounded, a bullet passing through his ankle as he attempted to hold up his regimental flag when the color bearer was shot down.

The war over, Mr. Cooke entered Bucknell, receiving his A.B. degree in 1873 and his A.M. in 1876. After being graduated from Crozer Theological Seminary in 1877, he served for nine years in the Baptist ministry, first in Lima, Ohio, and later in Greeley, Colo.

Because of ill health, he withdrew from the ministry and became superintendent of schools in Weld County, Colorado. Then in 1901 he was appointed clerk of the Supreme Court of Colorado and, after taking a law degree at the age of 60, was admitted to practice in both state and federal courts. Since 1904 Mr. Cooke had made his home in Philadelphia. Surviving are his widow, the former Helen Naudain, of Middletown, Del., two daughters, and a brother, Jerome, of Greeley, Colo.

CITED BY L'AGENDA

The first 63 years of Mr. Cooke's life were epitomized in the following dedicatory note published in L'Agenda of 1906:

"Clerk of the Supreme Court of the State of Colorado; President of the Alumni Association of Bucknell University; for more than a quarter of a century a devoted friend and generous contributor to his Alma Mater; a soldier who endured the hardships and perils of field and camp throughout the great Civil War, although four times wounded and stricken down in defense of the stars and stripes, yet he remained an undaunted soldier to the finish of the war; a faithful minister of the Gospel, regretfully withdrawing from abundantly blessed pulpit labors only when cruelly attacked by old time soldier wounds; a citizen whose busy life is worthy of praise and whose example is worthy of emulation."

Mrs. Wolfe, who attended Bucknell 10 years before Mr. Cooke, was the oldest member of a prominent Bucknell family. She was the mother of Dr. Mary Wolfe, '96, Joseph M. Wolfe, '89, and Mrs. Martha W. Kalp, '05, as well as of Katherine Wolfe, I.'90, who died in 1900.

Five years after her graduation from the Institute she married the late Charles S. Wolfe, later State Senator and one-time candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania on the Prohibitionist ticket. Her husband died in Harrisburg in 1891.

ACTIVE IN CIVIC WORK

A pioneer worker in many Union County and Lewisburg civic organizations, Mrs. Wolfe was organizing regent of the Shikellimo Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, past president of the Bucknell Alumnae Club, and a member of the Lewisburg Civic Club, Women's Christian Temperance Union, and many church groups.

At the time of her death on February 12 she was residing with her daughter, Dr. Mary Wolfe, who is director of the Laurelton State Village, west of Lewisburg.

Mrs. Smith, who attended the Institute half a dozen years after Mrs. Wolfe, died February 11 in the Pittston Hospital, where she was taken after suffering an injury

District Clubs

METROPOLITAN

On January 6 at the Town Hall Club in New York City, 66 members attended a dinner meeting for which the program was arranged by a younger alumni committee consisting of graduates from 1930 to 1938. Jack O'Donnell, '37, and Dick Gilbert, '36, deserve especial credit for this work. Charles Gwynne, '36, again was our efficient "orchestra" at the piano, while Red Lowther, '14, led us in Bucknell songs.

The Rev. Edward Kunkle, '97, chairman of the Scholarship Committee, reported that all alumni in our area have received a letter and literature concerning the project with an invitation in the form of a pledge card to cooperate in this worthy undertaking. He and the Committee feel certain that sufficient response and support will come from our alumni to insure that a worthy student will enter Bucknell this fall from this area on a Metropolitan Alumni Scholarship.

In response to a request by Eugene Rohr, '36, for more active alumni help to aid graduates in securing positions, the chairman announced that Walter P. Leland, 580 Fifth Avenue, had been retained by the University to assist our graduates both in vocational guidance and in securing positions, and that Mr. Leland would be glad to see any of our graduates by appointment. The chairman again requested alumni to advise him promptly of any openings coming to their attention, so that he could use them in aiding many who come to him for employment assistance.

Jack O'Donnell then introduced Carl Cannon, of N. B. C., who gave an interesting address on television. After the address Mr. Cannon answered questions from the floor until the chairman was forced to call a halt because of the lateness of the hour.

The next meeting on Friday evening, February 10, was the presentation of the Bucknell Glee Club concert by the combined New York and New Jersey groups of our Association at the Hotel McAlpin ball room. Prior to the concert the 66 members of the Glee Club and about 35 alumni enjoyed dinner in the Marine Grill of the McAlpin, where the hotel orchestra played favorite Bucknell songs which the Glee Club and alumni picked up and sang with gusto.

In spite of inclement weather, more than 425 alumni and guests attended the concert and were greeted at the door and ushered to their seats by ten women graduates. Approximately 100 of our guests were prospective students or parents of prospective students. The highlight of the evening, naturally, was the delightful recital offered by the Glee Club under the direction of Professor Le Mon. After many encores the concert was brought to a close as everyone present joined in singing the Alma Mater.

Interest and support is growing in our Metropolitan Associations. To date 106 of our alumni have sent in their $2.00 dues for the year 1938-39. This is good progress but still a very low percentage of our 1,000 alumni. If support continues to grow as we anticipate, we hope to have in the future sufficient funds to increase our activities and to help out many of the worthy needs of Bucknell.

RHODA LEE COSTER, '33,
Secretary.

BALTIMORE

The Bucknell University Club of Baltimore held a dinner meeting on Monday, January 30, at the Rail Grill. Among the 23 persons at the dinner were three prospective students and several guests. L. Francis Lybarger, Jr., showed motion pictures of college activities at Bucknell and of the Bucknell-Penn State Game.

President J. Fred Moore, '22, presided. This was the first meeting of the second year of our organized club, and, from all reports, we expect to add a number of new members to our list this year.

We were pleased to have Mrs. Charles E. Hay, '83, our oldest member, and Raymond A. Kan-yuck, '36, our youngest member, present at this meeting.

ELEANOR L. BUCHHOLZ, '31,
Secretary.

LEWISBURG

More than 75 members and guests enjoyed the program presented for the Bucknell Alumnae Club of Lewisburg when that organization marked its annual celebration of Guest Night on Tuesday, February 14, with a one-act play presented by the Lewisburg Theatre Guild as the principal feature.

Miss Vera Finkelstein of the Theatre Guild directed the presentation of "Ladies in Moonlight" with a cast of five women, two of them Bucknell alumnae, Miss Lulu Miller, '32, and Mrs. Clyde Burgee, '36. The play was an attractive historical sketch portraying the true personalities of the wives of five famous United States Presidents. Miss Inez Robison, '28, sang two very lovely solos to complete one of the most enjoyable meetings in the memory of club members. Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Mrs. Leiser Johnson, '33.

In a short business meeting preceding the play, Mrs. Earl Moyer, '28, club president, appointed the following committees for the coming year: Nominating, Mrs. Brown Focht, '26, Miss Mary Kunkle, '14, and Mrs. W. S. Galloway, '15; Social, Mrs. Paul Showalter, '33, Mrs. Herbert Grice, '19, and Mrs. David Crossgrove, '28; Program, Mrs. M. L. Drum, '98, Mrs. Martha Kalp, '05, and Miss Anna Judd, '00; and Music, Miss Jessie Pangburn, '23.

Dr. W. H. Eyster, professor of botany, will be the speaker at the club's next meeting on Tuesday, April 11.

TRENNIE E. EISLEY, '31,
Secretary.

PHILADELPHIA

The Bucknell Alumnae Club of Philadelphia held a luncheon meeting Saturday, February 11, at Whitman's Tea Room, Chestnut Street.

Miss Alice Roberts, '23, welcomed the members and their guests.

President Arnaud C. Marts was the speaker and reported on the progress of the University.

Local Notes

Staff Enlarged In Engineering

The instructional work of Bucknell's Engineering departments was strengthened at the beginning of the current semester by the appointment of three men to the departmental staff.

The new appointees are Harmar A. Weeden, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., who is serving as an instructor in civil engineering; Clinton C. Honeywell, of Cornell University, named as a laboratory assistant in electrical engineering, and William J. Crissman, of Williamsport, Pa., engaged as a machinist under the supervision of the mechanical engineering department.

A graduate of Cornell, Weeden has been employed by the Republic Steel Corporation in Youngstown, Ohio. Honeywell has been a research assistant at Cornell. Crissman was employed as a machinist by the Lycoming Manufacturing Company and the Darling Valve Company in Williamsport.

DIESEL ENGINE RECEIVED

Gift of a four-cylinder 75-horsepower Diesel engine to the mechanical engineering department was announced at the same time by President Marts. The engine is the gift of John M. Wilson, of Pittsburgh, a trustee of the University and president of the National Supply Company.

Dr. Richard L. Anthony, professor of mechanical engineering, also announced the recent acquisition by the engineering department of a new 150-horsepower dynamometer to be used for running efficiency and power tests.

Although a number of changes in the design of the new Engineering Building have caused work on that structure to be deferred for several months, it is believed that the proposed alterations will result in maximum usefulness for the completed building. According to present plans, construction will be resumed this spring, with the building ready for use by the start of the second semester next year.

BUCKNELLIAN SUPPORT EIGHT CHINESE STUDENTS

Eight Chinese students will be enabled to attend college for a year, with both room and board provided, as the result of a fund-raising campaign completed by Bucknell students. Nine hundred fifty of the University's 1,300 students aided the project.

COLLEGE ACQUIRES MEN'S DINING ROOM

Bucknell has acquired a Lewisburg home which will be converted into a college-operated dining room to accommodate 40 men students. Located at 321-323 South Sixth Street, the property, formerly owned by Miss Anna Judd, '00, will undergo alterations this spring and be ready for use in the fall.

Decision to establish the new dining room, announced several months ago by University officials, was prompted by requests from many parents of entering freshmen who wish to know in advance that their sons will be privileged to take their meals in a dining room under college supervision.

BUCKNELL SUPPLIES STUDENT SPEAKERS

If central Pennsylvanians want to know what's happening in China, or if they wonder how difficult it is to earn one's way through college, all they need do to find out is to send a hurry call to Bucknell's flourishing Student Speakers Bureau.

Sponsored by the public speaking department, the bureau has provided speakers and entertainers for countless meetings of service clubs, high schools, Parent-Teacher Associations, women's clubs, and other groups.

Student speakers are not talking from mere theoretical knowledge, Dr. Robert T. Oliver, assistant professor of public speaking, points out. For instance, the bureau's expert on the Sino-Japanese conflict is Lloyd Kimm, a native of Korea, while the student who speaks on working his way through college has virtually supported himself since entering Bucknell three years ago.

Alumnae Turn to Home, Schoolroom

Home-making and teaching continue to be the favored occupations of Bucknell's women graduates, a survey conducted by the University among alumnae of the last five years indicates.

More than a score of vocations were listed by the 264 women, representing 65 per cent of the girls graduated from 1934 to 1938, who responded to the questionnaire. An even hundred women are teaching, while 87 checked the title "housewife."

Among the trends noted by the study over a five-year period was a growing interest in business as a career for women graduates. Of 17 recent alumnae working in the field of business, 12 are members of the classes of 1937 and 1938. Seven members of last June's class are taking advanced secretarial training.

Other occupations reported by the graduates include: social work, 7; laboratory technician or nurse, 10; secretary or stenographer, 10; graduate work, 12; Y. W. C. A. work, 2; medical school, 2; librarian, 2; professional model, newspaper work, missionary, art gallery, research chemist, and book salesman, 1 each.

The occupational research project was part of a larger study of Bucknell's feminine population which showed that during the past five years the number of coeds specializing in Commerce and Finance and Education has shown a marked increase.

STUDENTS ORGANIZE FLYING CLUB

Bucknell's extracurricular program went ultra-modern this month with the organization of a Flying Club which will make its headquarters at the Sunbury Airport.

John R. Auten, of Lewisburg, was elected president of the club, which includes two coeds as members.

New Marigold Created By Dr. W. H. Eyster, '14

A new variety of marigold originated in Bucknell's botanical laboratory is being introduced to the general public this spring. Representing a hybrid between the large African marigold and the deep red French marigold, the flower was created on a laboratory scale by Dr. William H. Eyster, professor of botany at Bucknell, and has been developed commercially by the W. Atlee Burpee Company, of Philadelphia.

Described as the Red and Gold Hybrid Marigold, the new bloom was featured in a preview February 28 in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York City. On March 6 it was introduced in Philadelphia at the Bellevue-Stratford; later it will be exhibited at the International Flower Show.

By crossing the African and French species of marigold, Dr.

Eyster secured a quantity of seed which, after further development at the Burpee Company's Floradale, Calif., farms, yielded a flower growing $2\frac{1}{2}$ to 3 inches across, nearly three times the dimension of the little French marigold.

The Red and Gold Hybrids are the earliest of all marigolds, as they come into bloom in less than eight weeks from seed. They are profusely blooming, and have been known to blossom for seven months. In color the hybrids vary from almost pure golden-yellow to bright mahogany-scarlet, while some of the flowers are combinations of red and gold.

In recognition of his work as a creator of new flowers, Dr. Eyster has been invited to address the International Congress of Genetics at Edinburgh, Scotland, August 23-30, 1939.

ALUMNA FOUNDS NEW SCHOLARSHIP

A $6,000 fund to provide scholarships at Bucknell for Lewisburg girls was provided for in the will of Miss Lillian Beale, I.'84, who died recently. Miss Beale also received a baccalaureate degree from Bucknell in 1905 and her M.Litt. three years later.

According to the terms of the bequest, Bucknell receives an outright grant of $6,000 with which to establish four scholarships, one to be awarded each year, to girl graduates of the Lewisburg High School. The awards will be known as the Ella and Lillian Beale Scholarships, with the recipients to be selected by the principal and faculty of the Lewisburg High School.

For many years Miss Beale was a school teacher in Lewisburg.

DR. LOWRY'S 'WIDOW COMMENTS ON HYMN SING

Among the most interesting of the congratulatory messages was one from Mrs. Robert Lowry, widow of the famed hymn-writer, who is still living in Plainfield, N. J. In her letter Mrs. Lowry remarked that the Bucknell alumnus and professor had always considered his hymn-writing as a side issue. "Music with me has always been an efflorescence, while preaching has been my fruitage," Dr. Lowry once said. "I would rather preach a gospel sermon to an appreciative congregation, than write a hymn."

Scores of comments from alumni, churchmen, and musicians have been received during recent weeks by University officials who arranged and presented the Robert Lowry radio hymn sing on January 21.

MARTS GUEST AT DINNER

President Arnaud C. Marts was the guest of The University Club, New York, at a dinner tendered by the members of the Club to the presidents of their Alma Mater. Seventy-two presidents of universities and colleges in the United States, Canada, and England attended.

STUDENTS FROM 24 STATES

Twenty-four states and two foreign countries are represented this year in Bucknell's enrollment of 1,879 regular, summer, and extension students, according to Registrar H. W. Holter.

Recommends Parents Attend Regional Alumni Meetings

A recommendation that parents of Bucknell students be invited, as a general practice, to attend regional alumni meetings was made at the last executive committee session of the newly-organized Father's Association.

Already the Metropolitan Alumni Association has invited the parents on two occasions, and several other alumni groups have also requested copies of the list of fathers and mothers.

In a greeting to the Father's Association, Dr. Carl L. Millward, '06, president of the General Alumni Association, welcomed the group into the "larger circle of interested friends of Bucknell" and urged the parents to attend regional alumni meetings.

Among other recommendations drafted by the executive committee of the Father's Association were the following:

1. That a committee of fathers be appointed to work with the local committee in planning the next Father's Day banquet.
2. That President Joseph D. McKee's generous offer be accepted that he provide a silver cup which shall be given to that fraternity or residence group which has the most attractive house decoration on next Father's Day.

3. That the Father's Association provide an inexpensive prize to be awarded between the halves of the Father's Day football game to that freshman who, being disciplined by the Senior Tribunal, appears in the most outlandish costume.

4. That a committee of fathers living in different geographical centers be appointed for the combined purpose of carrying to the community important news of Bucknell and of assisting President Marts and Bucknell's field representatives in interesting in Bucknell the best qualified students in local high schools.

NEW HONORARIES FORMED

Designed to foster high academic standards among new students, chapters of honorary fraternities for freshman men and women have been installed at Bucknell within the past year.

The men's group, Phi Eta Sigma, made its appearance on the campus two months ago, while the sorority, Alpha Lambda Delta, was introduced late last year. They limit achieving an 85 per cent average.

Mr. Van Fleet, of the United States Secret Service, was the speaker, discussing money and counterfeiting.

SUNBURY

A testimonial dinner to Arnaud C. Marts, Bucknell's president, was held February 17 at the Neff Hotel, Sunbury, by more than 60 alumni from Sunbury and vicinity. At the same time tribute was paid to Mrs. S. W. Pomeroy, '72, of Sunbury.

The alumni club elected the following officers: Charles A. Fryling, '13, president; Reginald P. Merridew, '37, secretary; Paul W. Bogges, '17, treasurer; Miss Katherine Reed, '18, Sterling T. Post, '17, John Hilbish, '11, and Lewis A. Eyster, '17, executive committee.

Flowers were presented to Mrs. Pomeroy, George F. Keefer, of the Class of 1886, President Marts, and L. Francis Lybarger, Jr.

In his address President Marts explained the relationship between the work being done in Bucknell and the work of the world.

The president was introduced by Irwin A. DeWitt, '00, Sunbury attorney, who commented upon the physical expansion, curriculum enrichment, increased enrollment, and spiritual change noted at Bucknell during the Marts administration. "A new hope, a fixed determination is gripping trustees, faculty, student body, alumni, and a friendly public to cooperate in making Bucknell a great institution of learning," Mr. DeWitt declared.

WHERE ARE 1880's
MISSING MEMORIALS?

Where are the missing Memorials of the Class of 1880?

The University has been seeking an answer to this mystery since it became known that the memorial metal plaques originally placed on the columns of Old Main disappeared some time after the fire in 1932.

Since the University desires to place these class memorials on their old locations on the columns, this is an appeal to members of the Class of 1880, or to alumni in general, for information concerning the missing circular plaques.

"If anyone has knowledge of their whereabouts, we should like to have them returned," Treasurer D. L. Ranck, '16, said. "Should anyone know of a photograph that is sufficiently sharp to enable us to have reproductions made, we should like to have the photograph."

Calling All Alumni --

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY'S eighty-ninth annual Commencement will go down in history as an All-Alumni ceremony. In addition to providing the excitement on the campus Saturday, June 10, — the official Alumni Day, — the graduates will be featured in the formal Commencement exercises Monday morning, June 12.

Instead of an address by a single speaker, the highlight of the graduation ceremony will be a panel discussion on "Values of a College Education," participated in by three Bucknell alumni under the chairmanship of President Arnaud C. Marts.

The three speakers who will present in conversational manner their views on how to make best use of a college education will be Dr. Chester P. Higby, '08, professor of history at the University of Wisconsin; Dr. Stanley P. Davies, '12, president of the Family Welfare Association of America, and Dr. Edwin E. Aubrey, '17, professor of Christian theology and ethics at the University of Chicago.

ALUMNI GET-TOGETHER PLANNED

Another innovation on this year's program will be an Alumni Social Hour at 3:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Larison Hall. At the request of many graduates, this time has been set aside to give alumni of all classes a chance to gather socially.

Thirteen classes are scheduled to hold reunions Saturday. Many of them will have special tables at the general alumni luncheon, which, according to advance indications, will be more successful than ever. The usual business meetings of the Alumnae and Alumni Associations will also claim interest this year.

Other important events set for Saturday include the meeting of the Board of Trustees, a musical recital, band concert, fraternity symposia, and the annual Commencement play, "The Torch Bearers", by George Kelly.

The Baccalaureate service will be held in Davis Gymnasium Sunday morning, with President Arnaud C. Marts as the speaker. Mr. Marts will also entertain at the annual President's Reception in the afternoon. Sound motion pictures of Bucknell scenes and activities will be shown three times Sunday afternoon in Bucknell Hall. Musical programs Sunday will include a chamber and vocal music recital in the afternoon and Beethoven's oratorio, "Missa Solemnis", in the evening.

Culminating the week-end, the Commencement ceremony will begin at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning in Davis Gymnasium. Approximately 250 seniors are scheduled to receive diplomas this year. The Corporation dinner in the college dining hall will follow the exercises.

Consult the complete program on page 3 for full details as to times and places. Even in that skeletonized summary, it looks like a grand week-end — so we're Calling All Alumni to Come Back for Commencement.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

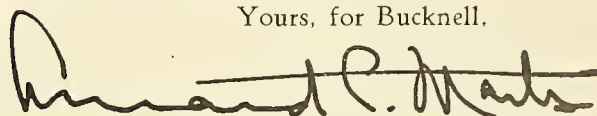

Dear Bucknellians:

I invite you most cordially to the 1939 Commencement Exercises and Alumni Reunion, to be held on June 10, 11, and 12.

The campus is as beautiful as ever, the exercises will be interesting and stimulating, and hundreds of fellow Bucknellians will be here. You will enjoy your visit, I am sure, and your presence here will be an inspiration for us all.

A cordial welcome awaits you.

Yours, for Bucknell,

Editor's Corner

ISN'T there an old saying that it's bad luck to stay home on the 21st of October? Confidentially, we don't know of any such adage, but this year it would hit the proverbial nail right on its proverbial head, because October 21 is your Alumni Homecoming. More of a "must" event every year, this Homecoming will be a really big shouldn't-be-missed time.

THE weather isn't supposed to be a good topic for conversation, editorially or otherwise, but we should like to repeat our assurances that every effort will be made to prevent rain this Homecoming, even if it means hiring a band of Hopi Indian rainmakers to go through their ceremonials backward. After all, the big day this year is in October, and you all remember Helen Hunt Jackson's poem — you probably had to memorize it in the third grade — called "October's Bright Blue Weather".

INCIDENTALLY, the Bison on the cover is George Kiick, co-captain and stellar back on this year's eleven.

REPUBLICANS and Democrats aren't the only people who will have to select candidates next year. This is an advance reminder that nominations for alumni trustee will be received at any time. Names of candidates should be proposed in writing to the Alumni Trustee Nomination Committee, in care of the Bucknell Alumni Association. Ballots will be distributed in a late winter issue of the Monthly.

LAST year's nominations called forth spirited voting, and when the ballots were counted Dr. John C. Hostetter, of West Hartford, Conn., was the new alumni trustee. All alumni join in congratulating Dr. Hostetter, a noted chemist and loyal Bucknellian. Another important election was the naming of Edgar A. Snyder, able president of the New York Alumni Association, as president of the General Association during the Commencement week-end business session. On page 3 you will find a message from the new president. Mr. Snyder succeeds Dr. Carl L. Millward, Milton school executive, who has administered the affairs of the General Association wisely and faithfully for the past several years.

AS a pre-Homecoming thought we submit the following from a letter written to President Marts by Miss Dorothy Kester, '34, head of the speech department at Milligan College:

"I spent four happy, sturdy, exciting years in Hunt Hall, learning to live in the tradition of Bucknell's past, and no doubt helping to create her present. There are some things I can never forget — great evenings of music, Cap and Dagger first nights, trees full of sun and lawns full of shadows, academic processions with familiar classroom figures looking strangely solemn and impressive, the pleasant fatigue of Commencement week. This letter is an expression to you of the loyalty and affection Bucknell inspires in her students. When we meet we talk with shining eyes and hushed voices of the good things that were ours."

See You October 21 At Gala Homecoming

Bisons to Clash
With Georgetown

A jam-packed program and the law of averages are expected to combine forces on October 21 to produce the biggest and best Alumni Homecoming celebration Bucknell has ever held.

Homecoming 1939 will feature the usual potpourri of events concocted to suit the discriminating alumni taste — football game with Georgetown, informal reunions, annual dinner and dance, to list only the standout attractions planned by an alumni-conscious campus.

As for the law of averages, it will do its part merely by seeing to it that this year's Homecoming is not another reunion among the raindrops, as the last two have been. The Alumni Monthly was unable to contact Professor John S. Gold, '18, for an authoritative statement on the mathematics of probability, but the garden variety of instinct, sometimes known as "poker player's hunch," indicates that a fair, sunny day is due this year.

However, Alumni officials have tried to help the law of averages along by moving the Homecoming date from mid-November to October 21. As you all remember, late October is one of the most pleasant seasons of the year in Union County. If all these precautions fail to bring unclouded skies for Homecoming, it will be time to consider proffering an honorary degree to the Weather Man.

CLOSE BATTLE LOOMS

Focal point of the day's activities, of course, will be the football game with Georgetown's Hoyas at two o'clock in the Memorial Stadium. Undefeated last year and reputed to be just as strong this season, the Washington, D. C., eleven will provide a critical test for the Bisons, who will be out to extend their record of nine straight Homecoming victories.

On page 5 you can read Coach Al Humphrey's estimate of the way he sizes up Bison prospects this fall, but in the Homecoming fray you can count on only one thing: a hammer-and-tongs battle with complete disregard for past performances and future hopes. Even if the Bisons run into unexpected trouble in their early-season duels, they will be very much in the game on October 21.

After the final whistle there will be plenty of time for reunions with classmates and reminiscences before the Alumni Dinner begins at 6:30 o'clock in the Women's College Dining Hall. Many of you will be interested in making inspection tours of the rapidly-changing campus, looking into the newer buildings and surveying the progress on the Engineering Building.

The dinner itself will be the usual informal affair, with the emphasis on fellowship rather than on a lengthy and elaborate program. Speakers will be President Arnaud C. Marts and Edgar A. Snyder, of South Orange, N. J., the newly-elected president of the General Alumni Association, who will extend greetings to the alumni.

GLEE CLUB TO SING

Entertainment will be provided by Bucknell's 70-voice Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Professor Melvin LeMon, which will introduce some of the numbers in its 1939-40 repertoire, in addition to singing a few of the catchy arrangements which have delighted alumni in the past. Tickets for the banquet may be secured for 75 cents.

Immediately following the dinner will be the newest fixture on the Homecoming program, the Alumni Ball from 9 until 12 P. M. in the Davis Gymnasium. Since it has taken its place as the official starting-point for Bucknell's social season, the Homecoming dance has gradually assumed greater importance. Last year, as the first dance in the new men's gymnasium, it attracted more than 600 couples.

Although an orchestra has not yet been definitely booked, the Homecoming committee is negotiating to secure a well-known radio band which will compare with the Woody Herman and Howard Woods ensembles of the past two years. The festivities will be available to all Homecomers at the price of $1.50 per couple.

AND THEN—PAGEANTRY

Supplementing the formally-scheduled events will be all the customary pageantry and traditional antics of Homecoming Day. Although the coat of shiny aluminum paint on the Water Tower appears to have blotted out one Homecoming prank, many remain to divert undergraduates and alumni alike.

Already the Bucknell Band is polishing new maneuvers for its climatic October 21 appearance. Like Coach Humphreys, Director Le Mon has a grievous replacement problem caused by the graduation of Bernice Henry, '38, drum major par excellence for the past four years. But the band will carry on.

Golf-minded alumni, both men and women, should bring along the clubs for the annual tournament under the direction of Malcolm E. Musser, '18.

For advance reservations of any kind — football seats, rooms, dinner and dance tickets — write the Alumni Office. And when you arrive on the campus, don't forget to register at alumni headquarters which will be established in the main lobby of Daniel C. Roberts Hall.

That's the calendar for 1939's Homecoming, a blend of football and frivolity, reunion and reminiscence, dining and dancing. For further details, come and see for yourself.

FATHER'S DAY

November 4 will be the date this year of the Father's Day observance, which will feature a varsity football game between Bucknell and Western Maryland, a banquet in the Davis Gymnasium and a luncheon meeting of the Bucknell Father's Association.

The Father's Association luncheon will be held in the Women's College Dining Room.

September 15, 1939.

Dear Bucknellians:

As I write this, members of Bucknell's 94th Freshman Class are climbing up the hill you love so well to enroll as Bucknellians. It seems to be an excellent class. It should be, for our Admissions Committee has had a record number of applicants from which to select this class of 1943. Paid applications for admission were received from about 650 young men and women, half of whom were admitted. Our total enrollment is at full capacity again—about 1,300—and we trust we will have a year of unusual inspiration and growth for each of these splendid young men and women.

Homecoming this year will be on Saturday, October 21. The autumn beauty of Central Pennsylvania will be at its peak at that time. I invite you most cordially to come to Alma Mater on October 21 and to make the 1939 Homecoming a day of great enjoyment.

The outbreak of the war in Europe is a fact which a college cannot ignore, for it is bound to have a profound effect upon the thoughts and lives of our young people. Some of them are already wondering why they should make the effort to grow and to learn, in the face of what may lie ahead of them. Others are wondering if there is any use in hoping and planning for a better world.

We at Bucknell still believe with all our hearts in the better world and are resolved to redouble our efforts to help to bring it into being. It is quite likely that the leadership for that better world of civilized living has shifted now, permanently, to the Western Hemisphere, for the nations of Europe, from whom we have heretofore drawn our cultural and spiritual leadership, are stricken and crippled. Does this not challenge us, in this western world, to assume new responsibilities for working out new patterns for civilized life?

The better world must be a world of intelligence, of moral integrity, of Christian brotherhood. This is precisely the way of life which Bucknell has always taught. Let Bucknellians, therefore, at this time of crisis and challenge, lift our banner still higher and carry on with renewed consecration and vigor.

With best wishes to each of you,

Yours cordially,

A Message to the Alumni

By EDGAR A. SNYDER

President, General Alumni Association

For ninety-three years Bucknell has given her life and labors to you and to many who have preceded you. Through good years and bad years, through times of want and seasons of plenty, she has unflinchingly stuck to her task of educating men and women, creating in them enlightened ideals in order that their own lives might be fuller and that they might aid in making this good old world a still better place for all of us. What you and I received from her can in no way be fully repaid. It cannot be evaluated in worldly measures of wealth. For ninety-three years she has labored and, directly or indirectly, poured her own life blood into our lives. It is our moral obligation and duty as alumni and former students to see to it that she loses none of her vitality. We can accomplish this by giving back to her some portion of our own energy and there are so many, many ways in which we can do it. If we Alumni all resolve to do at least one good thing for Bucknell this year and really do it, think of the great good and inspiration that will materialize from such mass effect of over 8,000 of us.

In this message of greeting to all Alumni of Bucknell this year, I earnestly ask for your continued cooperation and support in the work of the General Alumni Association and in that of your local associations. The aid and inspiration you can give to the work of your local Alumni Association is probably one of the best ways in which you can help Bucknell. May I also ask that each one of you do at least one good thing for Bucknell this year. Every one can find something to do, commensurate with his means, that will help grand old Bucknell. There are hundreds of things we can do, many of them not connected with money. Rich or poor, we can all help. If you need suggestions, your Board of Trustees, your President or your Alumni Association officers will gladly make them.

Furthermore, I earnestly solicit your suggestions as to ways and means by which the General Alumni Association can be of greater service to Bucknell and her alumni. In our local district alumni club meetings we frequently receive from the members constructive suggestions for worthwhile new undertakings or for making our work more effective. As president of your General Alumni Association I bespeak your similar consideration of and suggestions for making that body a more potent and effective instrument, in consolidating the efforts of all the local associations, in originating and suggesting new activities to the local associations, and in improving its own work in general for the greater good to Bucknell. Please write me your suggestions. I assure you they will be given careful consideration by your officers and presented to the Association for action.

Our Board of Trustees, our fine faculty and our grand President are doing a splendid work at Bucknell. Let us not just sit and admire and feel pleased, but let us as real alumni, look around and find something we can do, and then—Let's Do It! Let us remember that it is the Alumni who make the university either great or small. Let's keep on making ours greater.

New Alumni Directory Will Appear Soon

3,000 Copies
To Be Printed

The complete "low-down" on all Bucknell alumni will become available for the first time in nine years within the next few weeks, when "Your College Friends," the new alumni directory, is scheduled to come off the press.

Since the last inventory of Bucknell's alumni personnel was taken in 1930, 2,000 more persons have become eligible for listing. In addition to the addresses and vital statistics on these younger alumni, the new directory will contain up-to-the-minute information on the more than 5,000 men and women who preceded them at Bucknell.

For the past five months an augmented Alumni Office staff has been working overtime to insure all possible accuracy and completeness in this thorough round-up of salient facts concerning the Bucknell family. Early this month copy began to flow to the printer, and it is hoped that copies will be available sometime around Homecoming. As the copies are printed, they will be mailed prepaid to those who have made payment in cash to the Alumni Office.

As the Alumni Monthly went to press, approximately 2,700 orders had been received from alumni eager to learn the who, what and where about their classmates. It is expected that the printing will run eventually to 3,000 copies.

MANY "STRAYS" FOUND

In the work of corraling, through the mails, 7,000 Bucknellians for purposes of registration, the Alumni Office also brought into the herd again many "strays" — persons whose addresses, for some reason or other, had been unknown, in a number of cases for many years. By circulating lists of "lost" alumni among the various district club members, the directory researchers managed to contact many of the missing. Their addresses and biographies will be in the directory.

No drab recital of names and addresses, "Your College Friends" will be an artistically arranged and well bound volume, prepared to be enjoyed as well as referred to for latest addresses. Memories of college days will be stirred by photographs of campus scenes, as well as by the names of undergraduate friends.

Opening with a foreword by President Marts, the directory will feature a brief history of Bucknell and a complete listing of the trustees, administration, faculty and Alumni Council.

CONVENIENT REFERENCE

The statistical data which, after all, will form the heart of the directory has been arranged with an eye for convenient reference. First will come an alphabetical tabulation, covering the following points: full name, class, degree (if any); other colleges attended, degree, year; present occupation, name of business and official title; home and business address. Women will be listed under both single and married names.

Supplementing this central listing will be one prepared according to classes and a third arranged on a geographical basis, according to states and towns throughout the United States and foreign countries.

L. Francis Lybarger, Jr., and his aides are confident the publication date of "Your College Friends" will mark the start of the greatest open season for reminiscing in recent Bucknell history.

The Problem of Religion, by Charles F. McMann, '94. Bruce Humphries, Inc., Boston, 1939.

In this book Dr. McMann, who retired from the Baptist ministry 20 years ago after 25 years of service, attempts to investigate the bases of that force in human life which is called religion — how it began and grew, what its functions are and should be.

Dr. McMann's study, subtitled "An Objective View," has been prepared through a scientific inquiry into the accepted sources of history, science, philosophy and reason. Writing with complete tolerance, he makes clear how the moving force of religion originated and developed.

Citing the difficulties under which religion is laboring in many parts of the world today, the author has no patience with such remedies as the creation of new sects or inter-denominational alliances. "A great change is needed in the character, the teachings, the organization and in the entire modus operandi of religion," he writes.

A coast-to-coast broadcast direct from the Bucknell campus over the Mutual Broadcasting System network has been arranged for Thursday morning, October 5, from 11 to 11:30 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time.

Aired from the weekly college chapel in the Davis Gymnasium, the program will be a cross-section of college life, music, dramatics and other campus activities will be represented during the half hour.

The Outlook In Football

By Al Humphreys, Head Coach

Making predictions about our football season this fall is just about as risky a business as announcing that you know which way the military scrimmages over in Europe are going to turn out, but there have been a few things which stood out as the boys moved through their pre-season practices.

First of all, we have a number of men who are capable of providing an interesting afternoon for any team on the schedule. Although we lost 10 lettermen, including six regulars, from the 1938 eleven, we still have a handy nucleus of 10 men who earned their letters. There are also some valuable men coming up from last year's freshman club.

The main difficulty, though, is that we lack depth in virtually every position. With our squad of 30, we can place dependable performers at each post, but in present-day football it's often the calibre of the second or even third-string reinforcements which counts.

Forgetting about our lack of replacements — as much as we can —, it looks as if the first team this year will be about on a par with the 1938 eleven, which won five and lost three, if we can uncover a running and passing back to fill the shoes of Lou Tomasetti.

WILL MISS TOMASETTI

To fill Tomasetti's left half-back post, we've been experimenting with both George Kiick, our 197-pound fullback, and Frank Funair, who made the 94-yard run in the Penn State game last fall. If Kiick lands the job, Funair will probably stay at right halfback, while either Frank Ser-rao, a junior, or George Boner, a sophomore, will play fullback. Our most experienced candidate for the quarterback berth vacated by Bill Lane is Laverne "Dukes" Dueger, a junior who played good ball in the Georgetown game last year after Lane was injured in the first play of the game.

In the line there are lettermen available for all the positions except right end, where two sophomores, Willard Gore and Ed Glass, are competing for the assignment.

At the other wing is a two-year veteran, rugged Harry Wenner.

The holdover tackles are Frank Pocius, a six-foot one 220-pounder, and Harry Sitarsky, both of whom are younger brothers of former Bison gridiron stars. At guard three lettermen are on hand: John Plewak, so aggressive and fast that he plays first-string ball despite the fact he weighs only 145 pounds; Nicholas Priore, another comparatively light man at 170 pounds, and Joe Grieco. In the center of the line we have Mike Pegg, who has been a 60-minute man in almost every contest of the past two campaigns.

FOES ARE FORMIDABLE

In the last analysis, the success of our season may be determined, not by what we do, but by the strength of the opposition. At this writing, our foemen really look formidable. For instance, Jim Crowley, the Fordham coach, predicts that Syracuse and Penn State will be the two most improved teams in the East this year. Georgetown, our Homecoming rival, went through undefeated last year, and is reputed to be even more powerful this fall. Under a new and hustling coach, Fred Swan, Temple should be tougher than usual. And among George Washington Muhlenberg, Gettysburg, Albright and Western Maryland, we'll find no pushovers.

Facing this lineup, we are fortunate again this year in having co-captains who are not only good football players, but also responsible leaders. They are Mike Pegg and George Kiick, a pair of 200-pound stalwarts who remind one of the old Greek legend of Damon and Pythias.

Mike and George have been buddies on and off the gridiron for the past three seasons. On the playing field they have teamed up to give us a rugged line-backing duo, Pegg at center and Kiick at fullback. Away from the stadium they have been roommates, taking the same course of study in preparation for teaching careers.

The brand of indomitable spirit that Pegg and Kiick have shown is not restricted to them alone; other men on the squad have it, too. And that's why we may sometime take a game which, on the basis of manpower alone, we'd have no right to win. And that's why forecasting a football season comes under the heading of "precarious occupations".

Largest Class Graduated At June Commencement

Honorary Degrees For Three Alumni

The largest number of persons ever to enter Bucknell's alumni ranks at one time received diplomas June 12 at the 89th annual Commencement exercises in Davis Gymnasium. When the ceremony had concluded, the alumni body had increased by 247.

Even Commencement-seasoned old-timers agreed that this year's graduation was in many ways the finest ever held at Bucknell. With two thousand persons looking on in the brilliantly-decorated gymnasium, the ceremony was a fitting farewell for the largest senior class in history.

It was an all-alumni Commencement, since the traditional address was replaced by a panel discussion on "Values of a College Education" by three prominent alumni, two educators and a social worker. These speakers received honorary degrees during the exercises.

In the discussion Dr. Edwin E. Aubrey, '17, professor of Christian theology and ethics at the University of Chicago; Dr. Stanley P. Davies, '12, executive director of New York City's Community Service Society, and Dr. Chester P. Higby, '08, professor of history at the University of Wisconsin, answered questions put to them by President Arnaud C. Marts.

"Evaluate every person whom you meet as an individual in his own right, avoiding lazy generalizations," advised Dr. Davies.

In a plea for the formation of a philosophy of life, Dr. Aubrey declared, "An abandonment of co-ordinated thinking paves the way for fascism and revolution. The man or woman who has no philosophy of life is a prey to every fad; he is grist for the mill of the next demagogue who knows where to go and which educated fools to use."

Giving hints for efforts at self-education, Dr. Higby told the post-college student "to select books carefully, to read intelligently and to use taste and discrimination. One should be as careful about what he reads as about what he eats."

Following the question-answer session Bucknell conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws upon Dr. Higby and also upon Dr. Francis B. Haas, president of the Bloomsburg, Pa., State Teachers College since 1927. Dr. Davies received the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, while Dr. Aubrey was honored with the Doctor of Divinity degree.

ROBERTS HONORED

Another highlight of the graduation ceremony was the naming of Dr. Daniel C. Roberts, Wilkes-Barre philanthropist and honorary chairman of the Board of Trustees, as Bucknell's "Man of the Year."

Describing Dr. Roberts as "an outstanding leader of Bucknell's destiny," President Marts presented an inscribed wristwatch to him and told of his benefactions during the past twelve months to the engineering building, Junior College, debt reduction and new library funds.

In addition to the 247 baccalaureate and four honorary degrees, 23 Master's degrees were also conferred. Highest student honors went to Miss Adelaide Delluva, Bethlehem, and Robert Griesemer, Reading, who received their Bachelor of Science degrees with the distinction, "Summa Cum Laude." Three academic prizes also went to Miss Delluva.

Commencement was the climax of a crowded week-end that opened with a Trustee-Faculty dinner Friday night and gained full momentum Saturday with Alumni Day festivities.

HOSTETTER ELECTED

The name of Bucknell's new alumni trustee was announced Saturday morning as the Board assembled for its semi-annual session. He is Dr. John C. Hostetter, '08, of West Hartford, Conn., who was elected to the Board through an alumni mail ballot.

Dr. Hostetter is vice-president in charge of research and development for the Hartford-Empire Company, producers of glass-making machinery. While working as director of development and research for the Corning Glass Company, he supervised the manufacture of the largest of all telescope reflectors, the 200-inch giant now being prepared for installation in the Mount Palomar, Cal., observatory.

At the same time Alfred C. Howell, of New York City, vice-president of the Guaranty Trust Company, was also named to the Board. He is president of the Annuity Fund for Congregational Ministers and the Retirement Fund for Lay Workers.

450 AT LUNCHEON

Later in the day 450 persons attended the annual alumni luncheon in the College Dining Hall. All but two of the reunion classes were united for this affair, at which the principal speaker was President Marts. Other speakers included Dr. Carl L. Millward, of Milton, retiring president of the General Alumni Association, and L. Francis Lybarger, Jr., acting alumni secretary. Miss Trennie E. Eisley, retiring president of the General Alumnae Association, was toastmistress.

The Alumni Association, at its annual business meeting shortly after the luncheon, elected as its president Edgar A. Snyder, '11, of South Orange, N. J. Andrew R. Mathieson, '20, of Pittsburgh, was named vice-president, and L. F. Lybarger, Jr., '28, of Mifflinburg, and Dayton L. Ranck, '16, of Lewisburg, were re-elected to the posts of secretary and treasurer, respectively. Dr. Millward was elected to the executive committee.

New president of the General Alumnae Association will be Miss Nancy L. Griffith, '31. Other officers include: Mrs. M. L. Drum '98, vice-president; Mrs. Fred Zeller, '15, recording secretary; Mrs. Zelman Sleighter, '31, corresponding secretary and Miss Catherine Stahl, '22, treasurer. Mrs. Elizabeth Bates Hoffman, '94, and Miss Mary Kunkle, '11, were elected to the Board of Managers.

Other features of the gala Commencement week-end were the baccalaureate service Sunday morning and the presentation of Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis" Sunday evening, both in the Davis Gymnasium. "Facing the World of Tomorrow" was the topic of President Marts' baccalaureate address.

The Academic Procession

'Matty' Honored During Baseball's Centennial

Main Observance
At Cooperstown, N. Y.

Throughout Baseball's Centennial Year, which is now drawing toward its close, the memory of Christy Mathewson, '02, one of the immortals of the game, has been honored in countless celebrations throughout the land.

Wherever fans and players assembled to review the 100-year history of the national pastime, the feats of the great "Big Six" were bound to play a part in the pageantry. Heart of the national observance was Cooperstown, N. Y., the cradle of baseball, and there on May 27 the population of the central New York state town, together with hundreds of visitors, turned out to mark Christy Mathewson Day.

The celebration centered around the unveiling by Mrs. Mathewson of a bust of the famed pitcher in Cooperstown's National Baseball Museum, a neat little building in which the relics and trophies of the game's past are housed. A work of the late Gertrude Boyle Kanno, the bust shows Mathewson's face as it might have appeared during the stress of a World Series encounter. In the Museum it will stand opposite a bust of Major General Abner Doubleday, who is credited with inventing the game of baseball.

Speaking for Factoryville, Pa., and Keystone Academy, which Mathewson attended before coming to Bucknell, Byron S. Hollinshead, A. M. '30, president of Scranton-Keystone Junior College, described the former New York Giant hurler as a "great national hero honored for what he was, not for technical skill".

Dr. Laurens Seelye, president of St. Lawrence University, said that Mathewson was "a vindication of our love of sport". The Bucknell speaker was L. Francis Lybarger, Jr., acting alumni secretary, who described outstanding events in Mathewson's career.

Other highlights of the day were a parade, as well as an attractive pageant presented by 400 Otsego County Girl Scouts.

Presiding at the ceremony was the Rev. Wilbur S. Sheriff, '28, ville, the baseball hero's home town. A game between Scranton-Keystone Junior College and Bucknell Junior College featured this observance. At a memorial dinner at Scranton-Keystone the toastmaster was Major A. F. Dersheimer, '03.

At nearby Sunbury a Baseball Centennial program included a moonlight tableau showing Christy's remarkable "fadeaway" delivery.

pastor of the Cooperstown Baptist Church.

The only flaw in the gala program came later when St. Lawrence University's baseball men handed Bucknell's Bisons a 9-5 setback in a contest played on historic Doubleday Field.

TRIBUTE BY MARTS

The following morning, in an address at the Cooperstown Baptist Church, President Arnaud C. Marts paid a final tribute to "Matty." "His influence for good upon millions of boys of his generation is still a vital factor in the character of our present life in America," President Marts declared.

Another "Mathewson Day" was celebrated this year at Factory-

College Acquires Martin House

A Lewisburg house occupied for more than 40 years by a family noted in Bucknell history has been acquired by the University, which has remodelled it for use as an auxiliary dormitory for women students.

The new college property is the Martin house on St. George Street. It was the residence of the late Professor and Mrs. William E. Martin and their daughter, Professor Eliza J. Martin, '00, late librarian of the University, who died a year ago. William E. Martin was a Bucknell graduate, class of 1871, while Mrs. Martin was Institute '62.

ELMIRA

Coach Albert E. Humphreys discussed Bucknell's football prospects at the most recent meeting of the Elmira Alumni Club at the Hotel Rathbun. He also showed motion pictures of several Bucknell games.

The Bison leader was introduced by Coach Carl Snively of Cornell, former Bucknell mentor, who presented the Big Red coaching staff: Max Reed, '24, line coach; Mose Quinn, '34, freshman coach, and George K. "Lefty" James, '30, end coach.

Lloyd Trimmer, '28, Towanda High School coach and president of the Bradford County Bucknell Alumni Association, also was among the speakers. Sanford L. Barcus, '34, president of the Elmira alumni chapter, welcomed the 70 guests, as did William P. Hurley, '27, secretary.

The club has been instrumental in arranging for at least six Elmira boys to enter Bucknell this fall. The next meeting of the organization is scheduled for late October.

Present officers of the club, in addition to Barcus and Hurley, are Grover Foresman, '19, vice-president, and Anthony Schwenkler, '21, treasurer.

METROPOLITAN

Since our last report in these pages we have had two rousing meetings, the first on April 14 at Beekman Towers in New York City, attended by 55 alumni, and the second on June 10, a joint basket picnic at Liberty Corners, N. J., attended by 110 alumni.

At the New York meeting we listened to an excellent address by William R. White, '26, commissioner of banking of New York state. He gave us an intimate and entertaining glimpse of the work of bank supervision. We were also honored by the presence of Professor Walter S. Harley, '87, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who gave an intimate picture of the Bucknell of 52 years ago. He was in college when the first Bucknell football game was played, and his class was the first in which women were graduated.

Rev. Edward C. Kunkle, '97, chairman of the scholarship committee, reported that 16 boys and girls had applied for the Metropolitan scholarship, with 14 scheduled to take the examinations on April 22. Since then the examinations have been held and a young man from the metropolitan area has received the scholarship.

The association took note of the anniversary on April 7 of Dr. Marts' appointment as full-time president of Bucknell, expressing unanimous appreciation of his fine work and our whole-hearted support in all his undertakings.

LEWISBURG ALUMNAE

Mrs. Earle L. Moyer, '28, was re-elected president of the Alumnae Club of Lewisburg at the final spring meeting of the group. Other officers named were: Mrs. Paul M. Showalter, '33, vice-president; Miss Trennie Easley, '31, secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Bates Hoffman, '94, treasurer.

Officers and members of the program and social committees acted as hostesses at the alumni get-together Saturday afternoon of Commencement week-end.

Fall activities of the club will begin with a tureen supper on Tuesday evening, October 10.

ROCHESTER

Twenty-six Bucknellians and their guests attended a dinner meeting at the University of Rochester Faculty Club on June 1. Through the efforts of Mr. Lybarger we were privileged to have as our guests Dr. and Mrs. Norman H. Stewart. Dr. Stewart gave an interesting talk on the subject, "Taking the Pulse of Bucknell."

Plans are being made for the first fall meeting which is to be held shortly.

ALEXANDER ROLLER, '21,
Secretary.

UNION COUNTY

Under the capable leadership of our president, Malcolm Musser, the Bucknell University Alumni Club of Union County has been increasingly active during the past few months. An executive board meeting was held at the Lewisburg Inn on May 29 to arrange for a pre-Commencement get-together of club members at a dinner meeting June 6 at the Hotel Lewisburger.

Dr. Norman H. Stewart was guest speaker at the meeting, de-lighting the 67 members and guests with a discourse on "Taking the Pulse of Bucknell."

A set of resolutions was read and adopted to the memory of the late Christy Mathewson on the hundredth anniversary of baseball and another set was presented favoring the continuance of the diamond sport here on the campus at Bucknell.

The club had originally planned to hold a picnic in July at the Christian Association Recreation Cabin at Cowan, but upon learning that the Summer Session students were sponsoring a huge ox-roast on the same date, decided to cooperate with that group and become better acquainted with summer school students and faculty members.

With the date yet to be announced, it is planned to hold a pre-Homecoming meeting early in October. At that time the club will celebrate the first anniversary of its founding. There will be a business session and election of officers. The club voted to assist the Alumni Secretary, L. Francis Lybarger, and his committee, in staging the second annual Homecoming dance on October 21 following the Bison clash with Georgetown.

We'll look for you at Homecoming!

FLORENCE UTT FOCHT, '26,
Secretary.

PITTSBURGH

The Bucknell Women's Association of Pittsburgh, which is only one year old, already has 130 members. A luncheon-meeting is held regularly on the second Wednesday of each month at the Congress of Clubs, Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh.

Officers for the current year are as follows: Mrs. T. A. O'Leary, president; Mrs. Earl A. Morton, vice-president; Mrs. George H. Jones, recording secretary; Mrs. Norman E. Henry and Mrs. Edward C. Myers, corresponding secretaries; Miss Jane Shrum and Mrs. B. R. Seeman, treasurers.

Interesting programs have featured every meeting. The officers are planning to extend the membership so as to include, if possible,

College Receives Five Class Gifts

Five classes — 1899, 1914, 1928, 1929 and 1939 — have recently presented to the University valuable gifts which will make possible a lighting system for the Stadium roadway, a new scholarship, books for the library, a plaque on which the name of Bucknell's "Man of the Year" will be inscribed annually and a portrait of President Arnaud C. Marts.

Members of the Class of 1928 voted to provide funds for illuminating the road which leads from the Sigma Chi house to the Stadium and Davis Gymnasium. The metal standards and cables purchased by the class are to be in place this fall. As part of the general program for improving this section of the campus, the University also plans to construct a sidewalk alongside the Stadium lane.

As its benefaction, the 10-year reunion Class of 1929 turned over its memorial fund, which had mounted to $2,100, to the University for the establishment of a scholarship.

The Class of 1914, meeting in its 25th reunion, decided to give the "Man of the Year" plaque, which is expected to be placed in the lobby of Daniel C. Roberts Hall.

The 40-year class of 1899 provided $50 for the purchase of books for the Library, with the stipulation that the volumes should be added to the foreign language collections. The class decided upon this appropriate gift since two of its members are Dr. B. W. Griffith, professor of Romance languages, and Dr. F. G. Ballentine, professor of Latin.

Two New Records Set By Summer School

Two new records were set by the Bucknell Summer School which ended August 4. The enrollment of 573 was one all-time high, while the 64 persons upon whom degrees were conferred at the August convocation formed the largest contingent of Summer degree candidates in history.

Master's degrees went to 45 students at the end of the six-week session, and 19 men and women received bachelor's degrees.

300 Bucknellians Entertained At Estate of Rush Kress, '00

Three hundred Bucknellians were entertained for supper on the evening of September 8 by Rush H. Kress, '00, at his beautiful estate, Rockhill, at Ossining-on-the-Hudson. Mr. Kress entertained his guests in a large tent set up in his gardens for the occasion.

Guests of honor were President Marts, Judge J. Warren Davis, from the trustees, William C. Walls, Joseph W. Henderson, John C. Hostetter, and William R. White, and four members of the Bucknell faculty and administration, Prof. Benjamin Griffith, Prof. Frank Burpee, Prof. Malcolm Musser, and L. Francis Lybarger, Jr., alumni secretary. Edgar A. Snyder, retiring president of the New York Alumni Association and new president of the General Alumni Association, presided.

Mr. Marts paid tribute to the loyal services Mr. Kress has rendered to Bucknell in the past and especially to the constant assistance Mr. Kress has given to his administration. He said that he and Judge Davis had repeatedly urged Mr. Kress to accept re-election on Bucknell's board of trustees, but that Mr. Kress' health and business activity had prevented him from accepting. He reported, however, that Mr. Kress had agreed to serve on the Bucknell Athletic Council and that he was happy to announce the election of Mr. Kress to that important council for a period of three years.

Judge Davis, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, spoke of his great pleasure that Mr. Kress had agreed to serve in this capacity and referred to him as an alumnus of outstanding success, calling him "Bucknell's Exhibit A."

Mr. Kress told of his desire to be of service to Bucknell and suggested that all Bucknellians join in an effort during the next three or four years to wipe out the accumulated deficit of the Athletic Council which had been carried along for many years, now amounting to $37,000. He offered to pay off one-third of this debt if others would join him.

During the program those present stood in silence for a moment in memory of President Harris, President Hunt, Dr. Swartz, and other great Bucknellians who have passed on.

Officers of the New York Alumni Association for the coming year were elected as follows: Julius F. Seebach, '20, president; Charles T. Farrow, '26, vice-president; Joseph D. Dent, '20, treasurer; and Mary J. Harrar, '26, secretary.

1880's Memorial Returned to Old Main

The missing memorial plaque of the Class of 1880 is back in place on one of the columns of Old Main.

Shortly after the March Alumni Monthly carried a story telling of the disappearance of the plaque, Treasurer D. L. Ranck, '16, received a package containing the circular metal disk bearing the motto, "Post Proelium Praemium."

The plaque was returned by an alumnus who had picked it up after the Old Main fire in 1932, not realizing its historical value. He was glad to return it when he learned, through the Monthly, that the University wanted to restore it to its place on the column.

At first it was believed that identical plaques were affixed to the columns on each side of the entrance to Old Main, but further investigation has disclosed that there was only one memorial.

ble, all Bucknell women and wives of Bucknell men of Pittsburgh and vicinity.

The purpose of this young and growing organization is to foster an interest in Bucknell and establish if possible a scholarship to be awarded to a worthy and qualified girl from this district.

The September meeting was held September 20 at the Congress of Women's Clubs as a business luncheon. A committee from the association headed by Mrs. James S. Replogle and Mrs. David England worked at the Tuberculosis Hospital September 12 in preparation for the annual Christmas seal sale.

MRS. NORMAN E. HENRY.

Thomas J. Philips, 93, of Atglen, the oldest person holding a degree from Bucknell University, died April 9 at his home. A former Pennsylvania state legislator, he also served as president of the Atglen National Bank, the Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Chester County and the Atglen Water Company. He was a director of the Chester County Trust Company.

Several years ago Mr. Philips contributed an interesting series of reminiscences to the Alumni Monthly telling of his student days three-quarters of a century ago. He arrived on the campus shortly after the battle of Gettysburg, when Old Main and the Academy were the only buildings on the "Hill", the faculty numbered five men and board could be secured for three dollars a week.

Philips, a member of Sigma Chi, was one of "The Boys Who Voted No" by deciding to continue the fraternity as a secret society despite President Loomis's ban on the organizations.

According to word received last month, the Rev. Jonathan J. Nicholas, of Madera, Cal., has died. He also received the Master of Arts degree from Bucknell in 1874.

1873

Guest of honor at a dinner held last spring by members of Kappa chapter of Sigma Chi was William C. Walls, Lewisburg banker. The affair was held by Rush H. Kress, '00, at his estate, Rockhill, at Ossining, N. Y.

1877

A six months' illness proved fatal August 23 to Miss Alverda F. Billmeyer, of Lewisburg, who was in her 84th year. Miss Billmeyer had been living at the home of her sister, Mrs. George S. Matlack, '69, for the past 13 years, following the death of another sister, Mrs. Mary Ellen Linn, in 1926. She had been an active member of the Presbyterian Church and of other civic and Christian organizations.

1883

The Rev. Dr. Spenser Byron Meeser, 80, widely known theologian and former president of the American Baptist Historical Society, died May 7 at his home in Pittsburgh.

A native of Philadelphia, Dr. Meeser attended Crozer Theological Seminary after leaving Bucknell, and was ordained to the Baptist ministry in 1886. After serving pastorates in New Jersey, Delaware, Massachusetts, Michigan and New York, he joined the faculty of the Crozer seminary.

From 1916 to 1931 he was president of the historical society. He also was secretary of the Citizens State League of New Jersey and corresponding secretary of the General Convention, Baptists of North America, in 1907. He served as a delegate to many conventions and religious congresses and was editor of the Crozer Quarterly.

Mrs. Thomas S. Franklin, the former Luella Lindell, who was one of the outstanding citizens of Charlotte, N. C., died March 14 following a heart attack. A native of Erie, she had lived in the North Carolina city since her parents moved there 50 years ago.

A member of the First Baptist Church of Charlotte for many years, she was president of the Woman's Missionary Society and organized the first Philathea Sunday School class in the South. Especially interested in the campaign to encourage production of better motion pictures, she served as president of the Charlotte Motion Picture Council.

Among the relatives surviving Mrs. Franklin is Walter L. Hill, '98, of Scranton.

Miss Ida R. Bowen is principal of the Bowen School, 425 East State St., Trenton, N. J.

1888

Miss Edith R. Cornelius is now living at 2215 Roslyn Ave., Baltimore, Md.

1889

Retired from the ministry, the Rev. J. W. Neyman resides at 319 East Lincoln Avenue, New Castle. After leaving theological seminary he served as pastor for 42 years at churches in Iowa, Terre Haute, Ind., Chicago and Joliet, Ill.

After more than a half century of teaching, including several years before he entered college, Dr. John I. Woodruff has announced his retirement as head of the philosophy department at Susquehanna University, which he had served as a faculty member since 1892.

He was graduated from Missionary Institute, now Susquehanna University, before entering Bucknell. Following the completion of his college course he took charge of the Friend's Normal Institute at Rising Sun, Md., and then served two years as principal of the Mifflin Academy. He started his work at Susquehanna as professor of Latin, English and rhetoric.

For a short time in 1894 his work at Susquehanna was interrupted as he became president of Palatinate College at Myers-town. From 1901 to 1904 he was acting president of Susquehanna. As a member of the Pennsylvania legislature in the sessions of 1919 and 1921, Dr. Woodruff sponsored many important educational measures.

Miss Ellen Church, of Washington, D. C., was a visitor in Union County during the summer.

1894

Dr. Harvey F. Smith, Harrisburg surgeon, has taken a leading part in the "Cancer Is Curable, Fight It With Knowledge" campaign being carried out this year by the American Society for the Control of Cancer. He has given addresses on cancer control in several central Pennsylvania communities.

1895

Group Four, Pennsylvania Bankers Association, re-elected Dr. Frank M. Simpson, president of the Union National Bank, as a member of the executive committee at the group's annual meeting on the Bucknell campus. At the same time LeRoy T. Butler, '97, cashier of the Union National Bank, was re-named to the committee on relations with the Federal Reserve Bank. Members of the host committee for the bankers' meeting included C. C. Leshner, '04, Dayton L. Ranck, '16, and Dr. Frank E. Burpee, '01.

Dr. Edgar G. Kendall, 61, died April 28 at his home in Concord, N. H. From 1916 until his retirement in 1937 he was master of St. Paul's School. After leaving Bucknell, he matriculated at Yale University. Surviving is his widow, Mrs. Grace Weymouth Kendall.

Re-elected at the June meeting of the board of trustees, Dr. Mary Wolfe is continuing as head of the Laurelton State Village, where she has been superintendent since the institution was opened in 1919.

Dr. Wolfe's annual report revealed that there were 693 girls in the institution, with 115 on parole, on June 1. On the waiting list are 750, together with 1,000 on the reserve waiting list, but no facilities are available for these girls.

The big building project at the Village is nearing completion, with the erection of two new cottages, recreation hall, hospital and administration building which have been accepted by the Department of Welfare.

John M. Gundy, '97, of Lewisburg, is a trustee of the Village.

The address of the Rev. Abram S. Barner is 245 Dodd Street, East Orange, N. J. He can also be located in New York City at 356 West 34th Street.

1898

When the University of Otago, New Zealand, opened its first — yes, that's right, first — semester on February 27, the inaugural address was delivered by Professor Ann Gilchrist Strong, dean of the home science faculty at the University. She attributed the troubles in Europe to training children to obey and not to think and act for themselves, as well as to infusing hate instead of love.

President of the Lyscoming County Historical Society during the coming year will be Oliver J. Decker, Williamsport attorney. The society has a membership of 503.

A series of travel articles written by I. A. Dewitt, Sunbury attorney, have appeared this summer in the Sunbury Daily Item. They describe points of interest seen during a tour of the United States.

Dr. Samuel Calvin Smith, 58, of Philadelphia, heart specialist and author of several medical texts, died July 31 of injuries suffered 10 days earlier in an automobile accident near Bartonville.

Seeking better methods of diagnosis than those prevailing, Dr. Smith was one of the first American physicians to use the electrocardiogram. Two of his books, "How Is Your Heart?" and "That Heart of Yours", were written for the general public. He also wrote two books and many professional articles dealing chiefly with cardiology.

A native of Hollidaysburg, he received the Bachelor of Science degree from Bucknell in 1901, and received the Master of Science degree in 1905, the same year he received his medical degree at Jefferson Medical College. For 10 years he engaged in general practice at Hollidaysburg, and then, after a year devoted to special study of the heart, established a practice in Philadelphia as a heart specialist. During the World War he served as a major in the Army Medical Corps.

From 1920 to 1922 he was an instructor at Jefferson Medical College. He also taught at the University of Pennsylvania. Bucknell bestowed an Sc. D. degree on him in 1928. Surviving is his widow, the former Louise Warriner, '00.

The marriage of Mrs. Anna Jackson Branson, of Germantown, executive secretary of the Green Street Friends Meeting, Philadelphia, and Dr. Lewis E. Theiss, head of Bucknell's journalism department, was announced June 20.

Mrs. Theiss is a graduate of Columbia University, studied at Swarthmore for three years, and at Temple University, University of Pittsburgh and Pendle Hill, Quaker graduate school. The daughter of a prominent Quaker educator and manufacturer, she has taken an active part in the Friends' religious and social welfare program. She is a vice-president of Pi Beta Phi and was the first treasurer of the organization's Settlement School at Gatlinburg, Tenn.

His 33rd anniversary as pastor of Alpha Baptist Church, Philadelphia, was celebrated March 5 by the Rev. Dr. Howard K. Williams, who has seen the congregation grow from 124 members in 1906, when he assumed the pastorate, to almost 1,000. The Alpha Sunday school is also one of the largest in the city of Philadelphia, with an average attendance of 1,000.

Dr. Winfield S. Booth, '08, Alpha's first ministerial student and now secretary of the Newark, N. J., City Mission Society, spoke at the afternoon services on the anniversary day.

Stricken with a heart attack just after concluding a hearing, William M. Martz, justice of the peace at Elysburg, fell dead in his office late in July. He was 58 years old.

Justice Martz was engaged professionally in Chicago and the Mid-west following his graduation until 1921, when he returned to Elysburg. He was active in Republican politics for many years and had been a candidate for State committeeman. Elected justice of the peace in 1923, he was serving his fourth term at the time of his death.

Surviving are his wife, the former Carrie Gilbert, a brother and three sisters.

C. Dale Wolfe, attorney, of Wewoka, Okla., died in April at his home. After leaving Bucknell, he was graduated from Michigan Law School and then began practice in Wewoka. He was active in conservation work and was known as an expert marksman.

Mr. Wolfe was 61 years old. Surviving, in addition to his widow, are three children.

Dr. Carl L. Millward, superintendent of the Milton schools, has been appointed a member of the youth committee of Rotary International. A former governor of the 177th district, he is one of only two Pennsylvanians named to a standing committee.

Mrs. Reginald W. Kauffman, the former Ruth Hammett, is busy writing at the Sebasco Estates, Bath, Me.

Clark H. W. Snyder, 52, Lewisburg attorney, died suddenly on May 6 when he was stricken while walking along Second Street in Lewisburg. He was dead before medical aid could be summoned.

A native of Numidia, Columbia County, Mr. Snyder attended the University of Michigan Law School, receiving a degree in 1910. For many years he practiced law in Detroit, Mich., coming to Lewisburg in 1932. Ill health prevented him from continuing an active law practice.

On June 5 Miss Sarah Jane Penrod, daughter of William E. Penrod, became the bride of David H. Binns, of Fayette City, who is a member of Kappa Sigma. Mr. and Mrs. Binns are making their home in Fayette City.

In charge of the successful Lewisburg Demonstration School this summer was Mrs. Margaret Pangburn Mathias, who during the winter is dean of girls and teacher of French and Latin at the Lewisburg High School. Her appointment marked the first time that a woman had served as principal of one of Bucknell's summer Demonstration Schools. Mrs. Mathias had been a member of the Demonstration School faculty for the two preceding years.

A tribute to Dr. Paul G. Stolz, head of Bucknell's music department, was paid by the Susquehanna Valley Music Club, which Dr. Stolz has served as president for the past two years. Members of the group presented two music books to their retiring president.

Miss Beatrice R. Richards is a teacher in Philadelphia, where she lives at 1421 Arch Street.

1911

George W. Lawrence is pastor of the Community Church of Ventnor, N. J. After leaving Bucknell, Mr. Lawrence was graduated from Princeton and from Crozer Seminary, and has served as pastor of churches in New York and Michigan. He is taking an active part in the community life of Atlantic City.

1912

John H. R. Roberts, 51, of Merion, died August 3 in Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia. A Pennsylvania Indemnity Corporation vice-president, he was also an attorney.

Mr. Roberts, a native of Hanover Green in Luzerne County, had a summer home at Geigertown near Reading, where he was buried. He was a member of the Shrine, the Lawyers' Club and the Reading Country Club.

The most recent readjustment of pastorates in the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical Church resulted in the transferring of the Rev. J. H. Fleckenstine from St. Paul's Evangelical Church, Lewisburg, to Trinity Evangelical Church, York.

At the conference sessions the Rev. Mr. Fleckenstine, who had been stationed at Lewisburg for the past five years, was elected general conference secretary for the ninth consecutive year.

Newly returned from India, where she attended the great World Council on Missions at Madras, Miss Sue E. Weddell gave a vivid picture of her first-hand experiences with the spread of Christianity in the Orient, as she delivered two addresses in Lewisburg April 30. Christianity has brought joy to the Eastern peoples who have adopted it, said Miss Weddell, who is executive secretary of the Women's Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed Church in America, with headquarters in New York.

Miss Ruth Heinsling died June 1 at Baker Memorial Hospital, Boston, Mass. Funeral services were conducted in Cambridge, Mass., by Dr. Newton C. Fetter, '09. Interment was made at Altoona, Pa.

A recent speaker before the Sunbury Rotary Club was C. A. Fryling, Sunbury merchant, who discussed "The Value of Good Books". In an earlier talk Mr. Fryling had considered the influence of bad books. He is a past president of the club.

Blood poisoning which followed a severe burn of the leg caused the death of William D. Reading, 48, former Bison football player, at the Clearfield Hospital on April 15.

At the time of his death Mr. Reading was engaged in the insurance business, having set up his own firm six months previously. Before that he had been affiliated with the firms of Helmbold and Stewart, and later of Moore, Wilson and Reading. He went to Clearfield 25 years ago as football coach and an instructor in the Clearfield High School. He was widely known, also, as a gridiron referee.

Surviving are his widow and two sons, William D. Reading, Jr., Bucknell '40, and Edward.

The seventh International Congress on Genetics invited Dr. William H. Eyster, professor of botany at Bucknell, to address them in their annual meeting at Edinburgh, Scotland, last month. Although the Bucknell professor was unable to go to Edinburgh, the invitation represented signal recognition of his outstanding work in connection with the genus tagetes (marigold).

J. Fred McMurray has been appointed Williamsport district examiner for the Employment Board of the Pennsylvania Department of Public Assistance, entrusted with the responsibility of conducting civil service examinations for applicants seeking public assistance jobs. Mr. McMurray is principal of the Theodore Roosevelt Junior High School and chairman of the Williamsport Civil Service Board.

A daughter was born July 25 to Mr. and Mrs. William T. Windsor, of Walnut Dell, on the Broadway Road, Milton. Mr. Windsor is assistant district attorney of Northumberland County, and Milton borough solicitor.

New president of the Pennsylvania District Attorney's Association is William L. Showers, of Lewisburg, who also has the distinction of being unopposed for a third term as district attorney of Union County.

Mr. Showers was elected state president of the district attorneys at their annual convention at Erie during July. Last year he was vice-president of the association, with his elevation to the presidency coming by a unanimous vote.

The attorney is well known throughout central Pennsylvania for civic as well as legal activities. He is solicitor for the Kelly-White Deer Motor Club and is active in various fraternal organizations, including the P. O. S. of A. After being graduated from Bucknell, he attended the Dickinson School of Law.

Mrs. Arthur L. Brandon, the former Margaret Weddell, has moved to Austin, Texas, where her husband has accepted a position as director of publicity for the University of Texas.

In recognition of his long research in the field of archaeology, George H. Neff, of Sunbury, has been named to the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Archaeological Society. Mr. Neff will fill the unexpired term left by elevation of F. S.

Huber to the vice-presidency. He will serve until next year.

Eugene P. Bertin has joined the staff of the Mansfield State Teachers College as instructor in education and psychology. A native of Lycoming County, Mr. Bertin prepared for the profession of education at Bucknell, Texas A. and M. College and Harvard, receiving an M.A. degree from the latter institution in 1925.

Since heading a small school in Lime-stone Township, Lycoming County, he has served as instructor in English in Williamsport High School, supervising principal of the Muncy schools and public information editor of the State Department of Public Instruction. For eight successive summers he was assistant principal and instructor in English and psychology at the Muncy Normal School, then a branch of the Mansfield Teachers College.

Numerous articles on various phases of education from the pen of Mr. Bertin have appeared in a half dozen professional magazines. He is also affiliated, as officer or member, with several education organizations.

Mrs. Carl A. Schug, of Williamsport, the former Alice Johnson, is the newly-elected regent of the Lycoming County chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Michael Sacharoff, who was Helen E. Krouse, lives at 20½ Home Street, Beverly, Mass.

Miss Miriam O. Newman and Charles E. Hauck, of Lewisburg, were married April 9 in the Evangelical parsonage, Lewisburg, with the Rev. E. C. Basom officiating.

Miss Mary Kathryn Crabb, Lewisburg, became the bride of Reuben Brouse, Northumberland, in a ceremony performed August 31 at Northumberland.

A daughter was born in May to Mr. and Mrs. Reginald P. Merridew, of Sunbury, at Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville. She has been named Carol Mac. Mr. Merridew is announcer for Radio Station WKOK, Sunbury.

Miss Ruth E. Walter, Lewisburg, R. D. 1, and Leiser R. Spotts, were wed August 27 in a ceremony performed at Dreisbach Church, west of Lewisburg. Mr. Spotts is manager of the American store at Mifflinburg.

H. Joseph Merriion, of Berwick, was recently appointed assistant instructor in chemistry and biology at Scranton-Keystone Junior College, LaPlume. He received the Master of Science degree from Bucknell in June.

Thelma Slack Duck, '38

The degree of Master of Science in Journalism was conferred upon Willard W. Jenkins by the Pulitzer School of Journalism, Columbia University, last June.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Magdalyn J. Jones to Llewellyn Baer, of Wyoming, an instructor in languages at Wyoming Memorial High School. Miss Jones is a Penn State graduate.

Miss Alma M. Bloecker is teaching English and French in the new Lower Camden County Regional High School, Lincolnton, N. J.

Miss Geraldine Chimock, Mt. Carmel, has been elected teacher in the commercial department of Ralston High School.

Ira G. Fox has changed his address to 218 North Metcalf Street, Lima, Ohio, where he is assistant purchasing agent, Lima Works, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

Two former Milton men and Sigma Chi fraternity brothers were married this summer. Robert L. Summers, who is employed by the Bethlehem Steel Company in Steelton, wed Miss Ruth E. Nichols, of South Williamsport, in a ceremony performed June 16 in South Williamsport. Mrs. Summers, a graduate of Lock Haven

State Teachers College, had been teaching in South Williamsport. Mr. and Mrs. Summers will live at Second and Swatara Streets, Steelton.

On July 1 Cecil Ranch, who was best man at Mr. Summers' wedding, was married to Miss Wilma Richardson, of Lincoln, Nebraska, in a ceremony at Grand Island, Neb.

C. H. Richardson, Jr., of Lewisburg, has been granted a scholarship in the Law School of Duke University for the coming year. He received his M.A. degree in political science from Bucknell in June.

After completing a three-year course in nursing at Danville State Hospital, Franklin Reaser, Montgomery, was graduated this spring.

Charlotte Blue Owl is now Mrs. Clarence Williams, of Yuma, Arizona, where she and her husband are in the Government Indian Service. Mrs. Williams' brother, David Owl, is the one fully trained Indian in the Indian mission work of the Baptist Home Mission Society.

Miss Ruth Nadine Miller, Williamsport, and Mahlon R. Thomas, Montgomery, were married June 2 in East End Baptist Church, Williamsport. Mr. Thomas is associated with his father in the Ideal Upholstery Company, Montgomery.

Secretary to the dean of women at Bucknell this year is Miss Bernice Henry, who succeeded Miss Elizabeth Lawson on July 1.

Miss Jeanne Brozman, Williamsport, has secured a position as reporter in the social department of the Courier-Express, Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Arlene C. Wilkinson, of Summit, N. J., and Joseph Bowman, '38, were married July 15 in the Central Presbyterian Church, Summit.

Stationed on the island of Aruba, Standard Oil Company headquarters off the coast of Venezuela, is John R. Auten, who has a two-year assignment as an engineer at the Caribbean oil depot.

The same day that he received a Bucknell diploma James R. Frith was elected to teach French and Latin in the Danville High School. Later in the summer Willis Jones was also named to the Danville faculty.

John N. Greene, Lewisburg, and Herbert A. Lesher, Northumberland, have taken positions with the DuPont Company, Greene at Penns Grove, N. J., and Lesher at Buffalo, N. Y.

The marriage on April 9 of Miss Anna Jane Stover, Lewisburg, and Edward T. McFate, Ridley Park, has been announced. The ceremony was performed at the Ridley Park Baptist Church. Mrs. McFate, a graduate of Lock Haven State Teachers College, had taught in Union County last year.

The betrothal of Miss Dorothy E. Millward, of Milton, to Joseph Weightman, III, '37, of Reading, was announced July 1. Mr. Weightman will be a junior at Hahnemann Medical College, Philadelphia, this fall.

Robert Rishel is employed by the United States Steel Company in Pittsburgh.

Accepting a fellowship from the Chicago Central Y. M. C. A., Robert M. Savidge is now located in Chicago after having spent the summer months at a Wisconsin camp operated by the "Y".

Robert H. Shipman reported July 1 to Proctor and Gamble's Pittsburgh office, where he is employed in the administrative and accounting department.

MONTHLY

DEAR BUCKNELLIAN:

On February 5th, Bucknell passed its 94th birthday. We had no formal celebration for the college was on a half holiday between the semesters, but many of us remembered the day with a thought of appreciation for the service your Alma Mater has rendered to civilization in its long span of years.

There are four matters of especial interest on which I wish to report to you briefly in this issue.

First: Three trustees have given us $100,000 more toward our new Library, bringing our Library Fund now to a total of $150,000. Thus, we are making rapid progress toward our dream of a beautiful and roomy Library which we hope will be built in the not too distant future on the plateau between the Engineering Building and the Stadium.

This Library will contain space for over two hundred treasured books and will cost about $350,000. Reading and studying should take on new dignity and zest on our campus when this building is erected. We are eternally grateful to these three gentlemen.

I presume I should not mention names, but you doubtless know, without my saying so, that one of them is the Honorary Chairman of our Board, Dr. Daniel C. Roberts. Though he has been confined to his house with illness for many weeks this winter, he has not permitted his own suffering to interfere with his thoughtfulness for others nor with his keen interest in Bucknell. We are proud of him, and of his spirit, and are honored at being able to call him a Bucknellian.

Second: The contractors are rapidly completing the Engineering Building, thanks again very largely to Dr. Roberts, and it will be ready for occupancy this summer. As a consequence, three of our four Departments of Engineering have been given full accreditation by the Engineering Council for Professional Development, and the fourth Department doubtless will be as soon as it actually moves into its new laboratory. This new equipment and new accreditation have brought new life to our splendid Engineering Faculty.

Third: The Senate of Phi Beta Kappa has nominated Bucknell for a chapter in this honorary fraternity. This nomination goes to the Council of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa at its Triennial Meeting to be held next September. It is customary for the Council to approve the Senate's nominations. This is, perhaps, the highest recognition that can come to a college of the liberal arts and sciences. Of over 1400 institutions of higher education in the United States, only 132 have Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa. We are, of course, gratified and stimulated by this recognition of Bucknell.

Finally: For the first time in several years we are planning this year a "Religion in Life" program on our Campus during the days February 18th to 22nd. The war in Europe has brought to college students a haunting uncertainty, a deep desire to take hold of some fixed and eternal value in life to which they can cling in a world of hate and disorder. I hope that our "Religion in Life" program will help many of our young men and women to find deep and abiding foundations on which they can build lines of strength and beauty.

To each of you, Bucknellians, Alma Mater sends greetings wherever you may be, and reminds you to be loyal citizens of that better world-to-be of which Bucknell is a small section, a world of intelligence, integrity, and brotherhood.

Cordially yours,

BUCKNELL

Bucknell Nominated For Phi Beta Kappa

CHRISTMAS 1939 brought Bucknell a gift which she will long prize — nomination into the United chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society. President Marts announced the nomination at the annual Christmas party which was given by the Women's Student Government Association for the faculty and members of the administration on Thursday, December 14.

In a telegram received that morning by President Marts, Dr. Shimer, secretary of the organization said, "The Senate voted to recommend to the Council next September that Bucknell University be granted a chapter in Phi Beta Kappa." Nomination was accorded to Bucknell and eight other colleges and universities by the society's Senate at the annual meeting in the Carnegie Corporation in New York City.

As was explained, nominations are tantamount to the final election by the tri-annual meeting of the council of Phi Beta Kappa at San Francisco in September.

It was announced by the Senate that this was one of the largest groups admitted since the founding of the organization in 1766. The colleges and universities voted approval were: Albion College, Bucknell University, Catholic University of America in Washington, Elmira College, Milwaukee-Downer College, Wake Forest, Wofford College, University of Denver, and University of Wyoming.

President Marts Speaks on Phi Beta Kappa Program

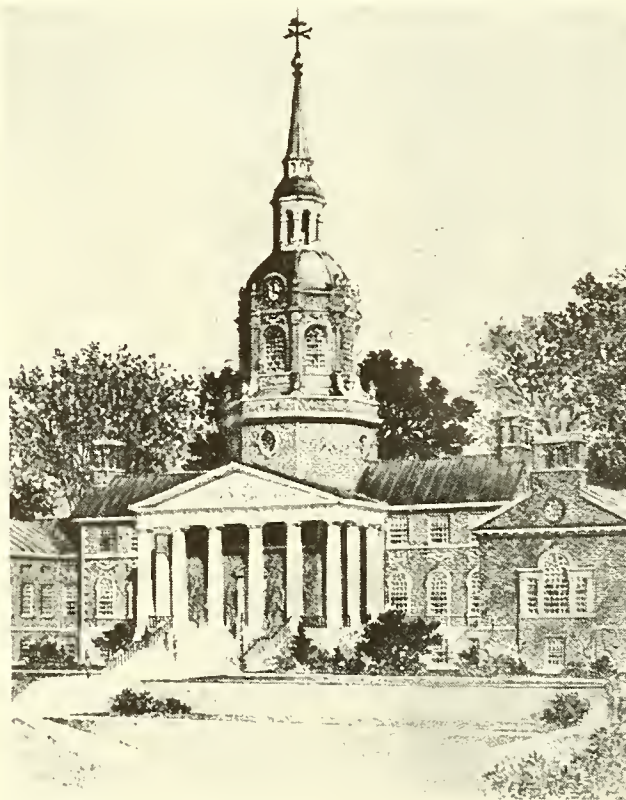

On Sunday night, November 12th, Dr. Marts and five other leading college presidents spoke on the "American Forum of the Air," a program sponsored by the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa and broadcast over WOR. The forum proposed plans for the continuation of peace in the United States. The following speakers presented their solutions to the problem: Dr. John J. Tigert of the University of Florida; Dr. Daniel L. Marsh of Boston University; Dr. Arnaud C. Marts of Bucknell University; Dr. Gordon K. Chalmers of Kenyon College, Gambier, O.; Dr. Franklin W. Johnson of Colby College, Waterville, Me.; and Dr. Thurston J. Davies of Colorado College, Colorado Springs, Colo.

According to that Sunday evening analysis of present world affairs, this war will have to be one for the United States to take the attitude of Give and not Get. To preserve peace the general American public will have to take a reduction in their personal incomes and not have a greedy outlook on the economic situation.

Dr. Marts was convinced that we could not take steps immediately to effect peace but that the best way to preserve it was to follow a few simple rules:

1. Keep the United States out of war.
2. Begin a movement toward world cooperation.
3. Improve the democracy in the United States.
4. Place religion on a higher plane.

That one of the greatest factors toward peace and neutrality is an honest and open-minded opinion of the whole situation was the agreement of the speakers.

$100,000 Given for New Library

President Marts recently announced that he had received new gifts amounting to $100,000 which are to be added to the fund for building the new library. This makes the total contributions to date $150,000, over a third of the $350,000 which the building is to cost. The money was donated by three trustees of the University who prefer to remain anonymous.

The new library, the architect's drawing of which is shown above, will be the center point and heart of the Bucknell campus of the future. It will stand on the high plateau between the Engineering Building and the Memorial Stadium, facing north. The building itself will house well over 200,000 volumes and will have a seating capacity which totals 500.

On the first floor will be the Delivery Desk Hall, this delivery desk being in control of the card catalogues and adjacent to the cataloguing room. All services which necessitate any noise and confusion will be taken care of on the first floor so that the second floor can be a quiet, retired area for reading and study. Two main staircases will lead to the second floor. Between them will be the large Lounge Reading Hall. To the right of the Lounge will be the librarian's office, and the Periodical Reference and Periodical Libraries. Opening off the lobby to the left of the Lounge will be the Bucknell History and Art Room, a curator's office, a Museum, a Records and Print Room, and a Treasure Room.

The New Engineering Building

By GEORGE A. IRLAND, '14

Professor of Electrical Engineering and Co-ordinator of Engineering Departments

When the first engineering degree was granted by Bucknell back in 1905, the engineering department offered only one course, Civil Engineering. Since that time, like the engineering profession itself, our curricula have expanded by leaps and bounds. One of the biggest "bounds" is now nearing completion — the erection of the center portion and new wing of the engineering building.

During these thirty-five years of development, three other engineering curricula have been added, the first degree in Electrical Engineering being granted in 1908, Chemical Engineering five years later, and Mechanical Engineering in 1914. Altogether we have had 974 graduates.

We are on the approved list of engineering colleges for civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering. What does being on the accredited list mean? Well, in order to promote the professional status of engineering, seven years ago representatives of the five professional engineering societies, the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, and the National Council of State Boards of Engineering Examiners formed an Engineers' Council for Professional Development. Later this Council decided that it was necessary to have some rating of the various schools which offer engineering courses. An accrediting committee was formed, and it has been the duty of this group to visit and inspect all those schools which apply for a place on the approved list. Accrediting is done by curricula not by schools, in other words, the civil engineering curriculum of one school may be accredited although the mechanical and electrical are not. As of October 1938, 678 curricula had been submitted to the committee. Of these 499 have been accredited and 197 rejected. Of the 155 schools in the United States which grant engineering degrees, 136 were inspected. 112 passed the examinations in one or more curricula. In civil engineering 135 were submitted, and 110 accredited. In electrical engineering 128 were submitted, and 107 accredited. In mechanical engineering 123 were submitted, and 102 accredited. Bucknell has the curricula in civil engineering, electrical engineering, and mechanical engineering accredited. The Engineers' Council for Professional Development does not inspect curricula in chemical engineering. These departments are accredited by the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and the E. C. P. D. then accepts the decision of the Institute for placing them on their own list of accredited curricula. This society does not wish to visit the campus until the completion of our new laboratories. However, at that time we are confidently expecting to be placed on the accredited list in this field.

The new portion of the building is scheduled to be finished by April 15, and the alterations in the present wing will be completed by the first of September. By the opening of the 1940 fall term, we shall have tripled the floor space of the present engineering wing, and have added over $50,000 worth of new equipment in the laboratories and drawing rooms.

The building itself is of fireproof construction with reinforced concrete floors and terra cotta partitions. Walls are so erected that the partitions may be moved without requiring any essential changes in the construction of the building.

Donald B. Gillies Elected Trustee

Newest member of the Bucknell University Board of Trustees is Donald B. Gillies of Cleveland, Ohio, vice-president of the Republic Steel Corporation, who was elected to the Board at the semi-annual meeting of that organization held in Philadelphia on Saturday, December 16th.

Election of Mr. Gillies, as announced by President Marts, places on the Board one of the country's foremost mining engineers and the president of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. A graduate of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton, Michigan, where he was recently awarded the degree of Doctor of Engineering, Mr. Gillies has long been associated with important mining interests in this country and Mexico.

For many years his principal interest was in the Corri-gan, McKinney Steel Company of which he became president. When this company was absorbed by Republic Steel in 1935, Mr. Gillies was made vice-president of the latter company.

More than 35 trustees attended the meeting in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel at which routine business was discussed.

CAMPUS NEWS

By JAMES DUCHINE, '40
Bucknellian Editor

Another year reaches the halfway mark, and another link is forged in the life of the undergraduate. This past year saw some four hundred young people enter the por-als of Bucknell as Freshmen. In the spring of 1943, the best of that number will walk up the aisle to get their diplomas.

Many of the class of 1940 look ahead to the spring with heavy hearts. During their four year stay at Bucknell, a great many things have come to pass. Old Main has been rebuilt; the new Davis gym has been built; the remainder of the engineering building has been put up; and the campaign for the new library has been opened. The classic Bucknell traditions of painting the water tower and the water parade have passed into oblivion.

This year's Bucknell social season is just well underway. The Sophomore Cotillion with Les Brown is just another memory, and everyone is looking forward to the Junior prom which will be held on February 23rd. Tails, tuxedos, and evening gowns hold sway on the campus every Saturday night. With the new Davis gym available, a much larger crowd can be accommodated.

Bucknell play-goers have been treated to two fine performances, HIGH TOR and NIGHT MUST FALL. The latter play with superb acting was the best play seen on the Bucknell stage in recent years.

Student activity for the first semester reached a new high, and already the calendar for second semester is jammed to the limit with all sorts of events. The students look forward to a very busy spring which includes among other things — Spring Festival, house party, the Inter-collegiate boxing finals, another Cap and Dagger play, and a GOP mock model national convention.

FACULTY NEWS

By F. H. BALLENTINE, '99
Secretary of the Faculty

Some of the recent or prospective activities of members of the faculty follow. The new catalogue lists Professor Lawson as "Emeritus." He will be retired at the end of the present school year. Professor Burgee is at Johns Hopkins this year continuing his graduate work. Professor Nimkoff, who will be away during the second semester, accompanied by Mrs. Nimkoff will spend some time in Mexico investigating social conditions, and will then go to the University of Southern California for further work. During the summer he will teach in the Summer School of the University of Oregon.

Dr. McCrossen addressed the State College chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at their annual dinner in December. The speaker at an October Sunday Chapel service at State College was Professor Sutherland. Articles by Professor Oliver have appeared recently in Speech Magazine, Christian Education, Education, and the Bulletin of the Debating Association of Pennsylvania Colleges. Professor Oliphant has had book reviews in Church History and Pennsylvania History.

Professor Robbins was the official representative of Bucknell University at the inauguration on December 9th of Homer P. Rainey as president of the University of Texas, and with Mrs. Robbins spent several days in and around Mexico City and attended the meeting of the Modern Language Association at New Orleans before returning to Lewisburg.

President Marts has been frequently quoted in newspapers and magazines since he stated in Philadelphia on January 9th, before the Methodist Section of the Association of American Colleges, his belief that the private college is not going to disappear but will continue to receive financial support and to hold an important place in our educational system.

Dr. Bartol Celebrates Birthday

Miss Eleanor Geil, youngest faculty member of Bucknell University, lights the candles on the birthday cake for Dr. William G. Bartol, '72, University historian and professor emeritus of mathematics and astronomy, celebrating his 92nd birthday anniversary on Friday, November 24th.

Rush Kress, '00 Entertains Athletic Council

Rush Kress, '00, president of the Bucknell University Athletic Council, entertained the council members and a number of trustees and alumni at dinner in the Hotel Wellington, Philadelphia, on Friday evening, December 15th.

The regular meeting of the Council, which was open to all present, followed the dinner. A. R. Mathieson, '20, chairman of the committee on athletic policy, made a detailed report compiled from questionnaires returned by interested alumni. The Council completed plans to raise approximately $50,000 to eliminate the debt of the Athletic Council. A loyal alumnus who prefers to remain anonymous has agreed to pay one-third of this amount.

This plan is in accord with President Marts' program of "pay as you go" in the operation of college activities. Harald E. Kenseth, '33, has been employed by the Council to assist in securing funds to pay the balance of the debt. Steps were taken to form a Bison club and plans will be completed in June.

Rush H. Kress, '00

for the first time since 1926. Altogether, the numerically-small Bison football squad won three games and lost five.

A 26-3 victory over powerful Muhlenberg College featured an otherwise drab season for the Humphreys-coached Bison footballers. Co-Captains Kiick and Harold Pegg, plus six other seasoned veterans, will graduate next Spring.

SPORTS REVIEW

By BILL TOLAND, '39

Eight Bucknell University athletic squads compiled an aggregate .577 won-and-lost average for the 1939 sports season, a final check on the records revealed recently. The Balentine-coached tennis team produced the best individual team record, winning 10 matches and losing only three.

The Bucknell football team, 1939 edition, finished below the .500 mark

For the second successive season, the Bucknell baseball team finished above the .500 mark, winning eight games and dropping five. The '39 boxing team climaxed a successful dual-meet campaign by annexing the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Conference team title.

The soccer, track, and basketball teams all posted .500 won-and-lost marks for the recently completed '39 season. Altogether, the Bucknell sports squads won 41 contests and lost 30 throughout the '39 season.

BASKETBALL

By Mal Musser, '18

GREETINGS TO ALL ALUMNI:

I had the pleasure of seeing some of you in Washington, Baltimore, Carlisle, and Reading during December and January. At Baltimore the squad was supported by quite an alumni group attending the game, and incidentally a former Bucknell football captain and athlete, Victor Schmid, '12, was one of the officials in the Baltimore game. "Vic" has been officiating basketball for years and is an excellent official.

The State win was the first Bucknell basketball victory over Penn State in a quarter of a century.

You will observe by the schedule that we are entering the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate League this year for the first time. The other League members are noted annually for their strong basketball teams. For instance, last year Gettysburg College, the League winner, defeated among other teams Navy and University of Pennsylvania. Where Bucknell will finish this year in the League standing I cannot predict. Years of coaching have taught me that basketball is unpredictable and full of uncertainties.

As you know, when the human element enters into consideration it is sometimes difficult to measure results accurately. There are many human and intangible factors which characterize successful basketball players and yet are not easy to estimate in exact quantity or dimension.

Probably some of you will be able to meet us at one or more of our remaining games. We may look terrible the particular night you see us play, but we cannot help but think, in this present time, as we step into 1940 with the world conditions as they are, that there are just a few matters in this life of more importance than winning or losing a basketball game. So we attempt to keep in mind in all our work that an education through the physical is a higher type of education and a finer goal toward which to aim than just an educational of the physical.

And in the last analysis, I am of course concerned with when these men play, where they play, what they play, but I am primarily and principally concerned with HOW they play. The moment we begin to reflect upon the significance of life we realize, do we not, that quality is vastly more important than duration. Probably it is true that quality is the greatest lack in life. This lack marks our education, our business life, our ethics, our professional standards, our family relationships, and our religion. This is one reason why my supreme emphasis is not on merely winning or losing but on playing each game hard, to the end, and always playing it clean.

We feel that when we play this way we are attempting to live up to the "Bucknell way of life," which is, in the words of President Marts, "the way of intelligence, of integrity, and of brotherhood."

1940 ENROLLMENT

At the present time there are more applications for admission to Bucknell than there were last year, or two years ago, although both of those years were record ones for applications. This is just a suggestion that sons and daughters and friends should file their applications early to be assured of admission in September.

The largest Homecoming crowd in several years gathered last October 21st to celebrate the occasion and renew old acquaintances. A day packed with entertainment had as its climax the annual alumni banquet and dance.

President Marts was the speaker of the evening at the dinner with E. A. Snyder, '11, president of the General Alumni Association, as toastmaster. William C. Walls '73, and Dr. Sam Bolton, '82, were the two oldest Bucknellians present and were introduced as such by Mr. Marts. Mrs. Chester R. Leaber, nee Evelyn McGann, '18, from India; C. O. Long, '09, from Fort Wayne, Indiana; and Morris C. Van Gundy, '98, of Houston, Texas, traveled the greatest distance in order to be present. Announcement of the placing of the lights along the stadium road, a gift of the class of '28, was made by Mr. Marts. The Men's Glee Club sang several numbers.

During the morning the annual Homecoming parade was held, with Phi Gamma Delta winning the prize for the best fraternity float. The cup awarded by the Interfraternity Council for the best chapter house decorations was captured by Delta Sigma.

In the afternoon 10,000 watched Georgetown defeat a scrappy Bison eleven 13 to 7. Paul Burton's Orchestra played for the dance in the Davis Gymnasium which followed the banquet.

VIEW BOOK RECEIVES AWARD

The 1939 edition of the booklet "Fall In For Bucknell" has just been awarded first place in the Martin Cantine Contest as the finest piece of college promotional printing produced during that year. The University and the Williamsport Printing and Binding Company, printers of the booklet, have received certificates of the award, which is receiving a great deal of publicity in advertising circles.

CLUB NEWS.....

NEW YORK METROPOLITAN

Transported by the magic of words to the old campus at Lewisburg again eighty-five Bucknellians thrilled to memories stirred by Dr. Harry R. Warfel in an address here on January 12th to the Bucknell Alumni Club of the Metropolitan area. Dr. Warfel, the biographer of Noah Webster, sometime student and professor at Bucknell and now of the faculty of the University of Maryland, spoke of the place of the free, small college in American education in an address entitled "What's In Your Attic." His plea for tolerance of new ideas and the shaking of old superstitions from out the accumulation of junk in our mental attics, if freedom of thought in music, art, and literature are to survive, moved his audience to thunderous applause in one of the finest alumni meetings of this club in years.

References by the speaker to old Pennsylvania Dutch idioms, familiar names such as Montandon, Mazeppa, and Mifflinburg, and the terrors of "hazing parties" struck resonant chords in his audience. An especially sympathetic listener to the "Dutch" stories was alumnus Paul Althouse, Metropolitan tenor. Both Althouse and Warfel are natives of Reading, Pa.

Club President Julius F. Seebach, Jr., introduced the great Wagnerian tenor for a bow with the promise of some songs at a later party. Rev. Edward C. Kunkle, Chairman of the club's scholarship committee gave a brief report and urged for more candidates for committee selection this year.

The showing of the superb new full color sound movies of Bucknell by Alumni Secretary Lybarger climaxed a most memorable evening. Exclamations of delight at the excellence of the pictures were voiced on every side.

Many renewals of old campus friendships kept the record crowd "in session" hours after the formal meeting had been adjourned. Snatches of overheard conversations: "Bill Rinebold I've not seen you since '18 in France" — "Tom Mangan you old soldier" — "Why Billie Dakin you're prettier than ever" — "Nan Kennedy I'd know you anywhere" — "Am Sessinger is this your husband Charlie Copeland?" — "Charlie Gynne you piano playin' fool" — "Hugo Riemer where did you ever get a wife?" — "Now look Heim, just 'cause you're a father" — "Charlie Loveland — you still look like a baseball player" — "Don't kid us Weymouth, you can't go that far back" — "Mr. Dent this is Mr. Catterall" — and both together "Joe!" — "Come on Red Lowther, lead another Bucknell song" — "Sanders that boy of yours needs Bucknell" — "Smith and Steinhilper will collect" — "Polly Biery and Lorene Martin and Mrs. Bill Evans and Mrs. Gummy Marsh?" — "Who's Til Woodring's guest? Don't you remember Hank Hangardner our line coach in '27?" — "That pretty little red head is Crossett—just graduated" — "That husky guy over there is Muggsy MacGraw"—"I haven't seen Cort Williams in twenty years" — and so on far into the night!

UNION COUNTY

More than 50 alumni attended the dinner at the Hotel Lewisburger in October which marked the first anniversary of the founding of the Bucknell Alumni Club of Union County. President Marts was the speaker and his subject was "Town and Gown Co-operating."

He expressed his appreciation for the excellent cooperation between Lewisburg and the University. He said, "As Lewisburg grows, so grows Bucknell, and as Bucknell grows, so grows Lewisburg."

Attorney Kenneth Bidlack, '29, of Mifflinburg was elected president of the club; other officers are Weber Gerhart, Jr., '19, of Lewisburg, vice-president; Mrs. William Sleighter, '31, of Mifflinburg, secretary; and William Smith, '33, of Lewisburg, treasurer. Mrs. Anne Kaler Marsh, '87, was elected director for a three year term.

As the final feature of the evening, Francis Lybarger, Jr., Alumni Secretary, showed the new colored movies of life on the Bucknell campus.

HARRISBURG ALUMNI MEET

Thirty Harrisburg Bucknellians and their guests attended a dinner meeting at the Central Y. M. C. A. in Harrisburg on January 11th.

Officers for the current year are as follows: Bruce E. Butt, '16, president; Robert H. Bogar, '31, vice-president; Mrs. Frank E. Williams, '12, secretary; and Dr. John K. Eby, '34, treasurer.

The executive committee which is composed of Bruce E. Butt, '16; Allen Jones, '25; and Harvey Bogar, '01, is planning an early drive for the Scholarship Fund of the Club.

Pearl R. Williams, '12.

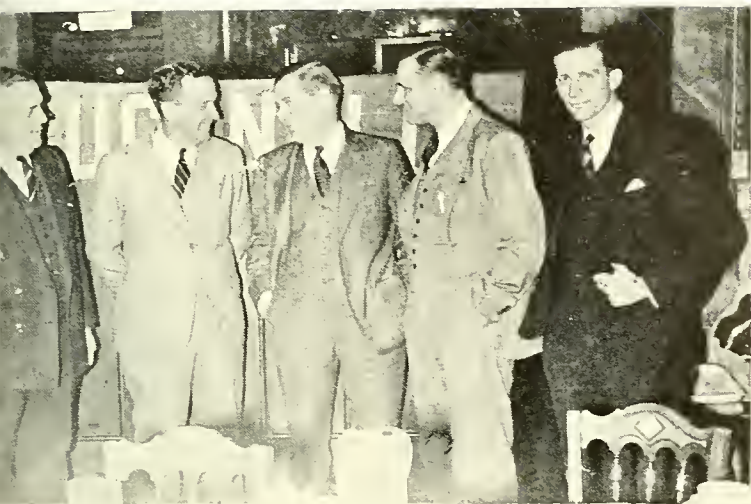

CHICAGO

Because they couldn't get back, Bucknellians who live around Chicago celebrated their Homecoming the night before October 21st by having a get-together and dinner at the Old Cathay restaurant in Chicago.

Thomas J. Morris, '00, president of the Chicago Alumni Association was in charge of the affair.

Seventy-eight persons attended the Silver Anniversary reunion of the class of 1914 which was held June 10 on the sun porch of the Women's Dining Hall.

Snyder, '11, general association president; George "Potsy" Clark, former coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers; Stan Lomax, sports announcer; Julius Seebach Jr., '20, president of the New York Alumni; and H. Montgomery Marsh, Jr., '28, secretary.

PHILADELPHIA ALUMNAE

On November 7th, twenty-five Bucknellians attended the regular meeting of the Philadelphia Alumnae Club which was held at Whitman's.

Alice Roberts, '24, president of the organization, presided at the business meeting which preceded the showing of colored movies of campus life by the Alumni Secretary.

NEW JERSEY METROPOLITAN

An enthusiastic dinner meeting of the Bucknell Metropolitan Alumni was held on Friday evening, October 6th, at the Essex House in Newark, N. J.

Dr. Vincent A. McCrossen, French professor at the University who was the speaker of the evening, told of his summer in war-torn Europe and of his difficulty in returning to America. Up to the minute alumni activities were reported by E. A. Snyder, president of the General Alumni Association; Joseph McKee, president of the Fathers' Association; and Francis Lybarger, Jr., Alumni Secretary.

The following officers were elected for the New Jersey division of the association: president, Harold MacGraw; vice-president, Dr. F. M. Offenkrantz; treasurer, M. J. Bower; and secretary, Mildred Cathers.

Seventy-nine Metropolitan Bucknellians and friends met at Essex House in Newark on Friday evening, December 8th, for dinner.

During the business meeting at which Harold MacGraw presided, there was confirmation of the New York Division's action in creating an executive committee to handle all routine business. The Reverend Edward C. Kunkle gave a report for the Scholarship Committee — accomplishment, one boy already in college; aim, one student in each class on a Metropolitan Alumni Association Scholarship. Former glee club member, Leonard Kachel, '35, who is now a radio singer, sang for the group.

The remainder of the program was devoted to a review of the recent football season and a preview of the basketball prospects. Professor Griffith told of the difficulties of making a football schedule that would suit everyone; Andy Mathieson, '20, chairman of the committee to make recommendations to the Athletic Council, made some statements concerning the committee's work. Coaches Al Humphreys, Bus Blum, and Johnny Sitarisky related the problems particular to their own part of the work of producing a football team. Movies of some recent games were shown and discussed by Coach Humphreys at the close of the evening.

Mildred B. Cathers.

WASHINGTON

At the last meeting of the Bucknell Alumni Club of Greater Washington, the following officers were elected: president, Linn C. Drake, '06, executive director for the Washington area of the Boy Scouts of America; vice-president and treasurer, Dr. John S. Burlew, '30; secretary, Harry H. Pierson, '28, divisional assistant, Division of Cultural Relations, Department of State.

President Arnaud C. Marts was the speaker of the evening.

Harry H. Pierson, '28.

WILMINGTON

Twenty-three Wilmington alumni and their guests attended a dinner meeting of the Wilmington Bucknell Alumni Association at the University Club, Wednesday, October 25th.

A short business meeting preceded the dinner. "Assets Unseen" was the subject of the talk given by Clyde E. Burgee, associate professor of economics at the University, who was the speaker of the evening.

Colored movies of life on the campus were shown by the Alumni Secretary, Francis Lybarger, Jr.

MONMOUTH

On December 11, 1939, a group of Bucknell alumni from Monmouth and Ocean counties in New Jersey met at the Molly Pitcher Hotel, Red Bank, Dr. Robert T. Oliver of Bucknell University was the guest speaker. Other guests at the organization meeting were Mrs. Oliver and Mr. and Mrs. L. Francis Lybarger, Jr.

During the business meeting which preceded the showing of a very splendid moving picture of Bucknell activities the following officers were elected: president, William M. Lybarger, '25; vice-president, H. Harry Posten, '09; secretary, Katherine J. Dowd, '20; and treasurer, Lewis F. Lyne, '14.

An executive committee composed of the following alumni was also elected: Eva M. Folsom, '32; Ira Sheppard, '04; Jonas Tumen, '11; and Isadore Zlotkin, '34.

The organization will be known as the Bucknell Alumni Club of Bucknell University. Several meetings have been planned for the winter, the first of which will be held at the Berkeley Carteret, Asbury Park, N. J.

Katherine J. Dowd, '20.

PITTSBURGH ALUMNAE

The Bucknell Women's Association, which was organized in May 1938, has become an active interest of the Bucknell women in the Pittsburgh area.

Luncheons are held the second Wednesday of each month in the Congress of Clubs House, Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh.

The scheduled meeting for February will not be held. Instead of this meeting we are having a Benefit Bridge in Utility Hall, Philadelphia Company Building.

The bridge is in charge of Mrs. Andrew R. Mathieson, who is chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. The proceeds of the bridge will be added to the cumulative scholarship fund. The Scholarship Fund has as its chairman, Mrs. T. Jefferson Miers.

Mrs. Thomas A. O'Leary, President.

1909 REUNION

The thirtieth reunion of the class of '09 was held on June 10th in the Women's College along with the luncheon of the General Alumni Association and other reunions. Fifteen members of the class and one graduate of the Institute in '09 were present.

At the conclusion of the regular program, a special meeting was held by '09 in Roberts Hall. The officers who were elected at that time are Rev. Earl Guyer, president; Mrs. Helen Cliber Stone, vice-president; and Mrs. Walter D. Evans, secretary-treasurer. Roll call brought forth many interesting responses.

The following members of the class returned for their thirtieth reunion: Mary M. Abbott, George F. Bailets, Myra M. Chaffee, Frances C. Evans, Newton C. Fetter, Charles C. Fries, Earl G. Guyer, Hazel Craig Jackson, C. O. Long, Guy Payne, Paul J. Sanders, Myrtle Walkinshaw Shupe, Helen Cliber Stone, Eugene Van Why, Ida Sames Yeager, and Mrs. Leon Crandell.

Frances Chaffee Evans.

1914 REUNION

Seventy-eight persons represented the class of 1914 at their Silver Anniversary reunion which was held June 10th in the sun parlor of the Women's Dining Room. At a brief business meeting following the turkey dinner, it was voted that the members who served as senior class officers should continue in that capacity. These persons are Jesse E. Riley, president; H. Walter Baker, vice-president; K. W. Ripple, treasurer; and J. W. Rice, secretary. Dora Hamler Weaver was elected historian. When Mr. Riley called the names of the 95 members listed on the class roll, forty-seven answers were received. Some of these were given in person and the others were read from questionnaires which had been sent in. It was also decided to prepare the class history in printed form for distribution.

Members of the class who have passed on were honored by their classmates standing with bowed heads. During the course of the dinner, President Marts gave his personal greetings to the class.

IN MEMORIAM.....

1859 Mrs. George S. Matlack, the former Emma J. Billmeyer, died in the Hahnemann Hospital, Philadelphia, on January 24. Death was caused by the infirmities of old age.

Having graduated from the Institute in 1859, Mrs. Matlack was one of the oldest alumnae of the school, and last June on the occasion of the seventieth graduation anniversary of her class, she was the last surviving member. As guest of honor, Mrs. Matlack attended the annual alumni luncheon and meeting of the Alumni Association.

Mrs. Matlack was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, of Shikellimo Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and of the Civic Club.

One daughter, Mrs. George E. Raiguel of Philadelphia, and a granddaughter, Mrs. John Downer of Villanova, survive her.

1871 George T. Bailey, La Plume, a member of the Board of Trustees at Keystone for 64 years, died at his home September 20, after an illness. He attended Wyoming Seminary and later transferred to the preparatory department of Bucknell, being graduated in 1871. For 14 years he served as manager of the first power plant to serve the Abingtons, and when the Abington Electric Company was organized he was elected manager of that firm, a position which he held until the firm was sold a few years ago.

1877 A law career of more than 61 years duration ended last September 16 when Federal Judge Oliver B. Dickinson died in the Crozer Hospital at Chester following an operation for a kidney ailment. Dickinson had been appointed to the United States District Court of Eastern Pennsylvania by President Wilson in 1914.

The veteran jurist was born in Dayton, Ohio, the son of a Baptist minister. His family having moved to Marcus Hook, Pa., when he was five, he was educated at private schools and at the University of Lewisburg where he enrolled as a member of the class of 1877. In 1902 he was given an honorary master of arts degree by his alma mater, and in 1919 she granted him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws in recognition of his scholastic attainment in his profession.

Judge Dickinson was a member of many legal and historical societies and a trustee of Pennsylvania Military College, the Chester Y. M. C. A., Crozer Theological Seminary, and the J. Lewis Crozer Home and Hospital.

1882 Over sixty years of devotion and service to Bucknell as a student, graduate, and trustee were ended when Dr. Milton G. Evans, emeritus, president of Crozer Theological Seminary, died in the Carbondale Hospital on September 17, 1939.

Born in Ebensburg, Dr. Evans attended Bucknell Academy and graduated from the University in 1882. After receiving his degree from Crozer Theological Seminary, he taught at Keystone Academy and then at Crozer. In 1909 he was elected president of that institution, holding that position until his retirement from public life in 1934. Dr. Evans had acted as a trustee of Bucknell since 1909.

Dr. J. H. Franklin, president of Crozer Theological Seminary, was in charge of the funeral service which was held in the First Baptist Church at Clifford. Dr. Arnaud C. Marts, president of Bucknell, and Professor Rittenhouse Neisser of the Crozer faculty spoke for their respective institutions.

Dr. Evans is survived by his wife, the former Josephine Rivenburg, sister of Dean R. H. Rivenburg.

1884 Milton W. Shreve, prominent attorney of Erie, died December 23rd in the Hamot Hospital, Erie, following a week's illness. He was 81 years of age.

In 1899 Mr. Shreve was elected District Attorney of Erie County and in 1900 served as chairman of the Republican County Committee. He was elected to the State Legislature in 1906 and 1908, serving in both sessions as a member of the committee on appropriations. In 1909 he was chosen as chairman of the committee on mines and mining and upon the death of John M. Cox, was made speaker. He was elected to Congress in 1920 and served eight terms. For the last few years he practiced law with his son, Attorney Lyman C. Shreve, '11.

Dr. Nelson F. Davis

1888 E. T. Derr of Seattle, Washington, died on August 9, according to word received by his brother-in-law, L. B. Crandell of Williamsport. Mrs. Derr was formerly Minnie Crandell, 186.

1889 According to a letter which was received from her niece, Margaret W. Van Wyck, 189, passed away on the 11th of July, 1939, following a long illness.

Clifford A. Rodenbaugh died at the home of his step-daughter in Green Lake, Wisconsin, early in December. Mr. Rodenbaugh was a native of Lewisburg, having been born there in June, 1868.

1891 W. Norman Morris, 71, prominent Philadelphia attorney and past president of the Manufacturers and Bankers Club, died in the Hahnemann Hospital early in September after an illness of about two weeks.

For nearly a half century, Mr. Morris took an active part in civic affairs in Philadelphia and Germantown. For several years he was treasurer of the Zoning Federation of Philadelphia and also vice-president of the Germantown Horticultural Society. Mr. Morris received his law degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1894 after graduation from West Chester State Teachers College and Bucknell. He was senior member of the law firm of Morris & Kirby until it was dissolved about a year ago.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Rebekah McDowell Morris, and a son, Charles McDowell Morris, '31, former Alumni Secretary.

1895 One of Bucknell's oldest professors and staunchest supporters, Nelson F. Davis, '95, died at his home in Lewisburg on Saturday, November 11, after an illness of several years. Although Dr. Davis had been confined to his home for nearly a year and his condition had been regarded as critical for two weeks, his death came as a shock to the thousands of Bucknellians who had known him during his 43 years of teaching.

Dr. Davis is the man to whom much of the credit must be given for building at Bucknell a nationally famous biology department. Born in Seeley, N. J., August 10, 1872, Dr. Davis received his early education in the public schools of New Jersey. He prepared for Bucknell at the South Jersey Institute at Bridgeton, N. J., and entered the University in 1891. His alma mater conferred three degrees upon him: Bachelor of Science in 1895, Master of Science in 1896, and Doctor of Science in 1902. Beginning his teaching career at Bucknell in 1896, he served first as an instructor in Organic Science, then Assistant Professor of Biology, and since 1910, as Professor of Biology and head of the Biology Department.

A member of the Presbyterian Church, the Sigma Chi fraternity, and the Masons, he also belonged to numerous honorary scientific organizations.

He is survived by his wife, the former Jessie Palmer, and by two children, Nelson F. Davis, Jr., '22, of San Mateo, California, and Miss Frances M. Davis, '25, of Swiftwater, Pa.

1897 Word has been received of the death of James Alexis Guie, noted Seattle, Washington, attorney, which occurred on Monday, November 13, at his home. He was ill only a short time. Mr. Guie was a native of Catawissa and while at Bucknell was an active member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Admitted to the bar in 1905, he served continuously in the legal profession until his death, being associated with his brother a large percentage of the time.

1898 Dr. Frederick William Robbins, superintendent of Williamsport schools from 1914 to 1926, died September 6th in San Diego, California. He was 70 years of age.

A graduate of Muncy Normal School in 1885, Dr. Robbins afterwards attended Bucknell. He held degrees from several universities and had filled educational positions in Montoursville, Bethlehem, and Lebanon as well as Williamsport, and was at one time head of the Muncy Normal School.

1901 Creighton M. Konkle, former president of the Bucknell Alumni Association of New York and of the Bucknell Athletic Council, died suddenly at his home in Birmingham, Alabama, on Sunday afternoon, September 24. At the time of his death, Mr. Konkle was associated with the United States Steel Company, having served in recent years as controller for the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company.

Mrs. Konkle, the former Laura L. Allen, '01, is now living in Florida where her address is R. D. 2, Box 91-A, DeLand, Florida.

1905 Earl A. Morton, Bucknell graduate and trustee, died at his home in Pittsburgh on Monday, November 13. Death was due to complications developing from a fall which he suffered several months before. He was 55 years old.

In 1905, Mr. Morton was graduated from Bucknell, Summa Cum Laude, the highest student honor which the University grants. Three years later he received his Master of Arts degree. A member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, he had been a member of the Bucknell board of trustees since 1931.

At the time of his death, Mr. Morton was vice-president in charge of trusts of the Commonwealth Trust Company of Pittsburgh, having been associated with that firm since 1922. Before that time he engaged in the general practice of law, being a member of the law firm of Boyer, Jones, and Morton, and acted as principal of the Brad-dock High School for three years.

Active in State Banking circles, Mr. Morton was Chairman of the Trust Company section, Pennsylvania Bankers Association for two years. At the time of his death he was a trustee of the Addison H. Gibson Foundation. He made it a point to continue to keep in touch with his alma mater after graduation, and served as president of the Western Pennsylvania Alumni Association, vice-president of the General Alumni Association, and director of the Alumni Association in addition to being a trustee.

Dr. Lee Russell Ranck, prominent Milton physician, died of uremic poisoning on November 14 in the Williamsport Hospital. Following his graduation from Bucknell, Mr. Ranck received his M.D. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1908.

That same year he located in Milton and continued his practice there until the time of his death. In addition to belonging to many medical associations, Dr. Ranck was a member of Milton Lodge No. 156, F. and A. M., Williamsport Consistory, Milton Chapter No. 298, Royal Arch Masons, and Irem Temple Shrine at Wilkes-Barre. He saw duty with Company H, Twelfth Regiment, P. V. T., during the Spanish-American War, and was a member of the Volunteer Service Corps during the World War.

He is survived by his wife and three sons, S. Graydon, '32, Harold D., and Cecil L., '38, all of Milton.

Mrs. Carrie Grugan Moore of Denver, Colorado, died October 21 in a Denver hospital following an operation. Mrs. Moore lived for many years in West Milton, her father being active in Democratic political circles in Union County. Soon after her graduation from the Conservatory of Music as well as the University, the Grugan family moved to Denver. There she married Robert M. Moore and continued her interest in music by playing in many churches and giving recitals. Her husband survives.

1925 Word has been received of the death of Helen E. Glass on March 9, 1939.

Mrs. Decker, wife of Oliver J. Decker, '99, Bucknell trustee, and mother of John C., '36, died suddenly at her home in South Williamsport on Saturday afternoon, January 13.

informing the reader, the style of the book is such that it also entertains.

THE MOUNTAIN ROAD by Henry Sprague, '97. Hollywood, Florida.

In this short collection of poems the author conveys to his reader the fact that he has found through the small tasks of life the path to God. A life of service to man is the goal which he sets for himself.

"God manifests Himself within

The hearts of those who yearn

The Spirit of the Christ to win,

His way of life to learn."

WINGS OVER THE ANDES by Lewis E. Theiss, '02. W. A. Wilde Company, Boston, 1939.

The latest Ginger Hale story lives up to its predecessors by being a good adventure yarn in addition to being educational, a combination which is seldom found. Descriptions of the places Ginger sees as he "ferries" an empty plane from Seattle, Washington, to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and the accurate use of aviation details furnish information to the reader in a pleasing, sugar-coated form.

FATHER'S ASSOCIATION

Active interest in campus affairs has been shown by two recent decisions of the Father's Association announced by President James Tyson, '11, of Philadelphia.

The first is the purchase of a $50 scholarship cup to be awarded on a semester basis to the men's residence group having the highest average. This cup will be one of the finest in competition on the Bucknell campus.

The second contribution of $75 will be applied toward the beginning of an Emergency Loan Fund for students. Small amounts can be secured through the Student Counseling office for thirty and sixty day loans, without interest. From time to time, the Father's Association hopes to add additional sums to this fund.

The Father's Association at its Executive Committee meeting in Philadelphia during the Christmas holidays reached these decisions and made many other plans for the work during the coming year. Within a short time, Mr. Tyson will announce these plans to all fathers who are interested in the Association.

NEW ENGINEERING BUILDING

Under the old set-up only the mechanical and civil engineering departments were housed in the engineering building. Moving the other laboratories will provide additional space for the chemistry, physics, and commerce and finance departments, as well as center all the branches of engineering under one roof.

At present the chemical engineering laboratory is in the Chemistry Building. Under the new set-up part of the basement and main floor of the new wing of the Engineering Building will be occupied by the laboratories of the Chemical Engineering Department. In addition to that space, they will have metallurgic, metallographic, and project laboratories on the top floor of the new wing.

The mechanical engineering laboratory and shops will be moved from the old wing, where they are now, to the new wing, with the steam and internal combustion laboratory in the basement and the shop on the main floor. The civil engineering laboratory will utilize some of the space which it now does for a new laboratory in soil analysis and a cement and concrete laboratory. In the basement of the center section, civil engineers will have testing materials and hydraulics laboratories.

The electrical engineering laboratory will be moved from the basement of East College to the old wing. The machinery laboratory of the electrical engineers will be in the basement, with a laboratory for communications, electronics, and transients, and a dark room to be used in connection with it, on the main floor. A small calibration laboratory will also be located on the main floor. A lecture room with adjoining preparation room, a reading room, offices, class room, and a room for short wave amateur radio will complete the set-up.

SUNBURY LUNCHEONS

The newest undertaking of the Sunbury Bucknell Alumni Club is to hold a luncheon each Monday at the Hotel Edison in Sunbury. The meeting lasts from 12:15 to 1:00 and is informal with no solicitations or speeches; each person orders what he personally wants to eat.

Seventeen Bucknellians were present at the first luncheon which was held on October 23rd and since then the luncheons have been well attended.

MAIL TRUSTEE NOMINATIONS

Nominations are now being received for the alumni trustee who is to be elected to the Board of Trustees in June. Names of nominees should be sent to Alumni Trustee Nomination Committee, Alumni Office, before April 1st. Petitions are not required; endorsement in writing is considered a nomination. Nominations are open to both men and women.

REUNIONS IN JUNE

All indications are that a large number of Bucknellians are going to return to the campus in June for class reunions and the commencement week program.

It is suggested that members of re-unioning classes respond to the notices from their class secretaries and assist in making the reunions a big success. The following classes will be holding reunions on June 8, 1940: 1870, 1875, 1880, 1885, 1890, 1895, 1900, 1905, 1910, 1915, 1920, 1925, 1930, and 1935.

Class officers in charge of reunions should write to the Alumni Office for class lists and assistance in making reservations and plans.

NEW DIRECTORY NEARING COMPLETION

Unexpected difficulties have arisen in the editing of Your College Friends, the new alumni directory, and it has been necessary to postpone the date of publication. The final page proof is now being corrected, and it is expected that the book will be ready for distribution in a short time. More than 2500 copies of the 350-page volume have been ordered.

GIVE — AND SAVE

It is reported that a citizen of Philadelphia who died recently, left an estate of $93,000,000 and that inheritance and estate taxes cost the heirs $35,000,000!

Bucknellians are reminded that there is no tax on a gift to Bucknell while you are alive! Nor is there any Federal Inheritance tax on a bequest to Bucknell in your will.

Moral: Make a gift or bequest to Bucknell — and save money!

Bucknell will close its 94th year of educational service with the Commencement Exercises to be held Monday morning, June 10th, and I give a most cordial invitation to every Bucknellian to attend. The feature of the Commencement program will be the dedication of the new Engineering Building. This will be an important mile-stone in Bucknell's long history, and I trust many Bucknellians will participate. We are hoping the two donors will be present.

Some months ago, when we turned the first dirt for this building, Professor Charles A. Lindemann touched the button that set off the explosion. Dr. Lindemann was the first teacher of engineering at Bucknell, having been selected by President Harris to inaugurate the courses that were to lead to our present Engineering Departments.

On Sunday, April 28th, Dr. Lindemann passed away, after an illness of several months. Bucknell mourns his passing with a heart full of gratitude for the sound standards of scientific truth, of teaching, and of achievement which he put at the very corner-stone of our Engineering education. All over the world, former students of "Lindy" are thinking, and speaking to one another, of the lessons of life which they learned from him. He was one of the truly great teachers of his generation.

Bucknell will celebrate its 100th Anniversary in 1946. We have been looking forward for some years to this Centennial Celebration, and now that we have turned the corner of the 1940 decade, the 100th birthday begins to loom before us with increasing challenge. We are hoping that many Bucknellians will show a special zeal in strengthening various aspects of the work of the college within the next six years so that when the 100th Anniversary arrives, we will be able to celebrate it with full pride and thanksgiving for the achievements of Alma Mater's first century of service to youth, and with confidence in her future service.

Since my last message to you, a trustee of Bucknell has sent us $80,000 more toward our new Library Building Fund. He prefers that I should not announce his name publicly, but I know all of you join me in sending him our united "God Bless You," from the very depths of our grateful hearts.

With best wishes to each of you and all of you,

Meet Old Friends See Old Scenes Come Back for Commencement

THE Ninetieth Annual Commencement! It's going to be a gala time—a brimful Alumni Day, a Baccalaureate Sunday with time to visit old scenes and old friends, and an open-air commencement in front of the Engineering Building.

When June 8th—that's Alumni Day—comes around, you members of the classes of '75, '80, '85, '90, '95, '00, '05, '10, '15, '20, '25, '30, and '35 will gather for reunions. And you of the other fifty-one classes will come back just because there is too much to miss. There will be meetings of the General Alumnae and Alumni Associations, and a general luncheon in the Women's Dining Hall. In the afternoon you will want to attend the Alumni social hour, a recital by the Department of Music, and a concert by the Bucknell Band. As usual, Fraternity Symposia and a Cap and Dagger play will fill the evening. This year the play is George Abbott's What A Life.

Mr. Marts will give the Baccalaureate address on Sunday morning in the Davis Gymnasium. As an added attraction the Bucknell movies will be shown three times that afternoon in Bucknell Hall so that those of you who have not yet had a chance to see these colored recordings of life on the campus will have an opportunity to see them. Other events of the day are the President's Reception, chamber and vocal music in Hunt Hall, and the oratorio, Haydn's Theresian Mass, in the Davis Gymnasium.

Of course, you will want to attend the Commencement exercises at 9:30

Remember the day YOU got YOUR sheepskin?

Monday morning on the lawn in front of the Engineering Building and see approximately 255 seniors receive their degrees. The academic procession forms half an hour earlier. And as the grand finale, there is the annual Corporation Dinner which will follow the exercises and bring to a close the three-day celebration.

Yes, June 8th, 9th, and 10th will be big days for Bucknellians. You alumni are urged to mail your luncheon reservations—the price is seventy-five cents—to the Alumni Office at once. A number of the reunion luncheons will be held in the Women's Dining Hall where special tables will be provided so that classmates may sit together. All of you are cordially invited to attend the luncheon even though your classes are not having reunions this year. The only requirement is to send your name and number of places which you wish to reserve to the Alumni Office.

A few rooms in the dormitories will be available for Commencement visitors. Also, the Alumni Office will be glad to reserve rooms in town for persons who request them. All alumni are requested to register in Roberts Hall as soon as possible after they reach the campus.

— o —

Don't put it off another minute. Mail your reservations for the luncheon at once. Alumni Day 1940 is too good to miss. Arrange now to meet your friends at Lewisburg on June 8th.

A SPECIAL MESSAGE

By E. A. SNYDER, '11

President, General Alumni Association

WE are approaching the close of another scholastic year at Bucknell — a year crowned with epic achievements that fill our hearts with pride and joy for Alma Mater and again great appreciation for our worthy and beloved President Arnaud C. Marts and his able and cooperative Board of Trustees. The achievements are too many to tell about in this short space but do come back to Commencement this June and see for yourself and hear President Marts tell you about them. I am sure you will be glad you came.

Increased Alumni Activities

The year was also marked by most gratifying increased activities of most of our Alumni Associations each of which are accomplishing much good for Bucknell. A number of them have been supporting already established, and others establishing new Bucknell Scholarship Funds for worthy students from their areas. More and more Alumni are thinking and acting along the lines of "What can we do to help Bucknell?" The concrete results of such activity are apparent in the higher scholastic caliber of our new enrollment of students and the marked increase in the number of students from areas where alumni activity is greatest. Quite a few new Alumni Associations with the help and guidance of our Alumni Secretary, Francis Lybarger, Jr., have been organized in localities where none have been before. I would like to urge that many more such associations be formed. Our constitution requires only a nucleus of six alumni to start an association and the Alumni Office at Lewisburg is always ready to render assistance in the organization of such groups and to prepare and mail out all literature and meeting notices. Still another achievement of the year was the reorganization of the Monthly. The previous issue is an example of what we want to make it — a bigger, newsier, more colorful magazine with more alumni news.

In closing let me again bespeak a large attendance of Alumni at our annual dinner and meeting this Commencement. Immediately after the dinner we will hold a short business session. This is our one and only joint meeting of the year and we are hoping for a large attendance. So many interesting and worthwhile activities are being carried on by many of our associations that I feel sure all of us can profit by an exchange of ideas. Furthermore, there will be an annual report of our Secretary touching on alumni activities during the year which you should hear. Also, election of new officers for next year must be attended to. All of you who return for Commencement please attend this short but very necessary business session. If you have the welfare of Bucknell at heart you cannot afford to miss it.

Thank you for your loyal support of the General Alumni Association during the past year, and I'm hoping to see you all at Lewisburg this June.

The old Susquehanna hasn't changed—come see for yourself.

You'll get a thrill when you travel the paths again!

$80,000 MORE FOR LIBRARY

At the annual Mother's Banquet which was held in the Davis Gymnasium on May 11th, President Marts announced that he had received recently a gift of $80,000 toward the new Library. The donor was a generous trustee of the University who prefers to remain anonymous. This gift brings the Library Fund to $230,000; it is estimated that $350,000 will be necessary to build and equip the proposed structure.

BUCKNELL OBSERVES RELIGION IN LIFE WEEK

Alumni, students, and faculty cooperated to make a success of Bucknell's first Religion in Life Week which was held February 18th to 22nd.

With President Arnaud C. Marts as general chairman, the Committee of 150 planned a five-day program which included addresses by outstanding men and women, forums, and individual informal conferences.

Four types of leaders were secured, representing divergent interests and wide experience. There were those persons who were primarily speakers and forum leaders, and those who were experts in the field of promotional, administrative, and personal counseling activities in the college student world. Eighteen alumni members of fraternities and sororities made up the third group, and graduate or "near-graduate" students from other universities composed the fourth.

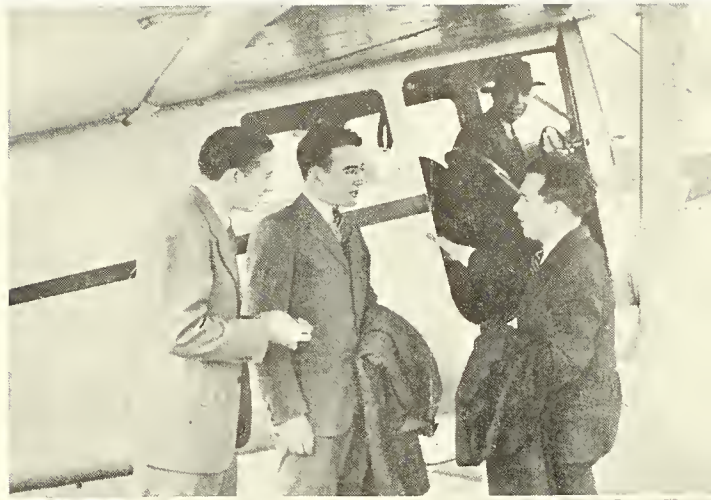

Alumni who returned to the campus for the week are as follows: Rev. Frederick B. Igler, '12, Wilmer Greulich, '34, Edward Myers, '34, Dr. W. C. MacNaul, '90, Rev. Eric Oesterle, '16, Thomas B. Richards, '37, Rev. John D. Fetter, '13, Vincent Wayland, '34, Lieut. C. Irving Carpenter, '27, Rev. Alfred B. Haas, '33, Dr. Robert M. Lindner, '35, Dr. Malcolm Mussina, '24, Dr. Mary Wolfe, '96, Mrs. Thelora Smith Musser, '17, Martha Knights, '37, Marjorie Nicholls, '38, Mrs. Emily Devine Kelly, '21, Inez Crossett, '39, and Jeanne Kurtz, '38.

Fathers Award Scholarship Trophy

At the Greek Scholarship Chapel which was held recently, Thomas Wood, '07, presented the Father's Association Scholarship Trophy to the Kappa Delta Rho fraternity for attaining the highest average during the past semester. A second trophy, the Pan-Hellenic Women's Scholarship Cup, was given to the Alpha Chi Omega sorority for having the highest average among the sororities.

Five individual awards were given to the boys in school who registered the most improvement in their work this past semester. The Phi Gamma Delta and Delta Zeta pledge groups received achievement cups for the highest pledge averages. Thomas Richards, '37, a student at the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, gave the chapel address.

BUCKNELLIAN DEBATE FOR TELEVISION AUDIENCE

Bucknell made history in the fields of television, forensic audiences, and collegiate travel when its Varsity Intercollegiate Debate Team was flown to New York to present before RCA television cameras and boom microphones the topic of "Emergency Improvement for the Dust Bowl" against the challenged "worthy adversaries," the negative, Columbia University. NBC station W2XBS signed on the telegraphic orators April 3rd at 8:30 p.m.

George V. Denny, Jr., Director of America's Town Hall, served as chairman, and Lowell Thomas was guest commentator. Chief check pilot of Eastern Air Lines, Captain F. E. Davis, flew Ray Underwood, '41, and John J. McKenna, Jr., '42, with their coach, Dr. R. T. Oliver, in a special Stinson plane to New York where they were guests of Manager R. K. Christenberry at the Hotel Astor.

The press throughout the country commented upon the debate's import. To support the persuasive speaking, diagrams, photos, courtesy of Acme Newspictures, and "cinematic evidence" were broadcast.

PAUL S. ALTHOUSE, '12

Paul S. Althouse, '12, noted Wagnerian tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Association, was the featured attraction at the March 8th meeting of the New York branch of the Metropolitan Alumni Association which was held at the Wentworth Hotel in New York City.

In addition to singing a number of songs in German and English, Mr. Althouse related some of his experiences in connection with his work in opera. He spoke especially of his association with Caruso, whom he regarded as the greatest colleague anyone could have.

Sixty Bucknellians and friends were present to hear the concert and attend the business meeting at which the president, Julius F. Seebach, Jr., presided. Mr. Seebach announced the appointment of Robert C. Heim, '24, and Hazel M. Farquhar, '23, as new members of the Scholarship Committee. Dr. John C. Hostetter, '08, who was elected Alumni Trustee last year, was present and was introduced by Mr. Seebach.

Professor Lindemann, '98 Dies In Hospital

Dr. Charles A. Lindemann, '98, veteran Bucknell professor, died in the Williamsport Hospital on Sunday, April 28th. He had been in poor health for a long time.

After graduating from Bucknell in 1898, Professor Lindemann continued his schooling and received his Master's degree the following year. He returned to the campus as an instructor in mathematics in 1902 after having taught elsewhere for several years. In 1905 he was made assistant professor of mathematics and in 1907 professor of pure mathematics. John B. Stetson University paid tribute to his ability by awarding him the honorary degree of Doctor of Science in 1927. "Lindy," as he was affectionately known to his students, was forced to retire in 1938 because of ill health.

During his long association with Bucknell, Professor Lindemann held numerous important offices. He was one of the pioneers and creators of the Engineering Department and chairman of the committee that built the North playing fields and did the preliminary work on the stadium. He also served for a number of years as secretary of the faculty.

In his will, Professor Lindemann stated that half of his estate, or $7500, should be given to Bucknell.

Ballot to Select Candidate of The General Alumni Association for Bucknell's Board of Trustees

Two alumni have been nominated. Following are brief biographies of each of the nominees:

FRED O. SCHNURE

Fred O. Schnure, a member of the class of 1914, is now Electrical Superintendent of the Maryland plant of the Bethlehem Steel Company, topping his many years of service which started in 1916. The Schnure family — Mrs. Schnure is Dorothy E. Bunnell, '16 — lives at 819 C Street, Sparrows Point, Md. Two of their sons, Bob and Fred, Jr., are now at Bucknell and a third, Bill, will be a member of this fall's freshman class.

Last fall he was appointed by Governor O'Connor of Maryland to serve on the State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors. He has been active for many years in engineering societies, and is the author of several papers on the application of electricity to the manufacture of iron and steel. In 1930 he was president of the Association of Iron and Steel Engineers. At present he is a member of the Committee of Visiting Engineers at Bucknell.

JULIUS F. SEEBACH, Jr.

Julius F. Seebach, Jr., member of the class of 1920, is Vice-President in Charge of Programs for radio station WOR. His home address is 142 East 18th Street, New York City. For a number of years his father, Rev. Julius F. Seebach, was the minister of the Lewisburg Lutheran Church.

For the past year he has been president of the Metropolitan New York Alumni Club. His connection with radio work has been long and varied, Mr. Seebach having started in November, 1925, as an announcer for WOR. Since then he has served as Assistant Program Director of WOR; Continuity Writer, Production Manager, Program Director, and Director of Program Operations for the Columbia Broadcasting System; and Director of Program Operations for WOR.

Place a cross (X) in the square immediately to the left of the name of the person whom you favor for the position of Alumni Trustee of Bucknell University. All ballots must be signed and returned before June 5, 1940.

PRESIDENT'S PAGE

Dear Bucknellians:

We are just about to start the new academic year, as I write this message, and we are anxious, of course, to see our incoming freshmen, and to renew friendships with our older returning students.

Never within our memory have so many new students applied for admission to Bucknell, and we are gratified that they want to come here in such numbers. We have been concerned lest some of our twenty-one year old men students might not return this fall, in anticipation of the draft, but we have urged them to return with the promise that if they are drafted in the semester, their tuition will be refunded to them. Present indications are that few, if any, of our students will fail to return because of the draft.

Certain familiar personalities are missing from the campus this fall—Dean Robert L. Sutherland who has accepted a position at the University of Texas, Dr. George B. Lawson and Mrs. Jennie Phillips who retire at the age limit, and others who have served former generations of Bucknellians. We miss them, and send them our deep appreciation for the services they have rendered on this campus. News of their successors is given elsewhere in this issue.

Probably the most significant item of news since our last issue is the Charter of Phi Beta Kappa which was voted to Bucknell on August 30th. The details of this story are given on another page in this magazine. I wish here to record my keen personal pleasure at this well-deserved and belated recognition of Bucknell. I am sure each of you will feel just a bit more pride in your Alma Mater in consequence of this action.

Another Homecoming Day will soon be here. Saturday, November 2nd, is the day. I invite you to come back to Alma Mater on that day, and renew your friendships and refreshen your memories of the glad days of college years.

With kindest regards,

Yours for Bucknell,

Bucknell Alumni Monthly

Vol. XXV No. 1

October, 1940

Bucknell Elected To Phi Beta Kappa With Largest Number of Votes

THE United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity, voted a charter to Bucknell University at their Triennial Council held in San Francisco on August 30, 1940. Bucknell received the largest number of votes of any of the nine colleges granted charters at this Triennial Council meeting. Representatives of 122 chapters were present and voting. Of this number, eighty-three affirmative votes were necessary to grant a charter. Bucknell received 118 votes.

The Phi Beta Kappa key is perhaps the most coveted recognition for scholarship and all-around achievement that is granted to American college students. And the possession of a Phi Beta Kappa Charter is one of the most prized accreditments that can be given to an American college. There are approximately 1700 institutions of higher education in the United States of which 669 are colleges and universities. Of this number only 141 have been granted chapters of Phi Beta Kappa. Every chapter that has ever been chartered by the Phi Beta Kappa in its 164 years of existence is still active.

Phi Beta Kappa was founded in 1776 at William and Mary College in Virginia. It was America's first Greek letter secret fraternity, but in 1831 it relinquished secrecy and thus ceased to be a rival of the secret social fraternities that began to be organized in colleges about that time. Following 1831, Phi Beta Kappa put its chief emphasis upon scholarship and upon interest in cultural and intellectual values.

The motto of Phi Beta Kappa is comprised of three Greek words, whose initial letters give the fraternity its name
Philosophia Biou Kubernetes
Translated, these words mean "Love of wisdom the helmsman of life."

About one hundred colleges apply to the United Chapters each triennium for consideration for Charters of Phi Beta Kappa. Certain ones are asked to submit full data in regard to themselves, and members of the Phi Beta Kappa Senate are delegated to visit and examine these applicants. During the past Triennium in which Bucknell's application has been before the Senate, Dr. Frank P. Graves, President of the University of the State of New York and Commissioner of Education of New York State, was the Phi Beta Kappa senator assigned to report on Bucknell, and it was due, in no small degree, to his favorable and enthusiastic reports upon the quality of Bucknell's education that the Charter has now been granted to us. We are also indebted greatly to Dr. William A. Shimer, Secretary of the United Chapters, who has visited Bucknell annually for the past four years and who has reported most favorably to the Senate in regard to Bucknell's qualification for the Charter.

The Bucknell Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa will be officially installed by the officers of the United Chapters at a ceremony which is to be held on November 7th. The President, Miss Marjorie Nicolson, Dean of Smith College, will preside at the installation exercises, and other Senators will take part, including Dr. Graves.

Beginning with the graduating class of 1941, approximately one-tenth of those receiving bachelor of arts degrees at Bucknell hereafter will be eligible for election to Phi Beta Kappa. These eligibles will also include some graduates receiving bachelor of science degrees, provided their major is in the pure sciences, rather than in the sciences that are vocational or technical. These conditions of membership are prescribed by the United Chapters.

These graduates will be elected by vote of the active members of the Bucknell chapter. New members will be considered not simply because of high grades, but also from the standpoint of cultural interests and sound character. "Grade-getting" does not suffice for election to membership. There was a time when all eligible alumni could be voted retroactively into Phi Beta Kappa upon the installation of a new chapter, but some years ago the United Chapters passed legislation against this practice. Retroactive election to Phi Beta Kappa has now been reduced to a minimum. Only alumni who have been out of college for ten years or more, and who in addition to splendid records while in college, have given evidence of real achievements in cultural fields are eligible for election, and only one or two of these per year are permitted.

The Phi Beta Kappas now on the Bucknell faculty who will provide the nucleus of the Bucknell Chapter are: Professor Alvin Biscoe, Dickinson; Dr. Charles M. Bond, Colgate; Miss Gladys Calkins, William and Mary; Miss Mary Hunt, Denison; Professor V. A. McCrossen, Dickinson; Mr. William McRae, Oberlin; Miss Mildred Martin, University of Illinois; President A. C. Marts, Oberlin; Professor Meyer Nimkoff, Boston University; Professor J. Orin Oliphant, University of Washington; Dr. H. W. Robbins, Brown University; and Dr. David Brown, Williams College.

There are approximately 90,000 living Phi Beta Kappas. Their achievements in life are suggested by the interesting fact that, while there is only one Phi Beta Kappa for each 15,000 persons in the United States, yet there is one Phi Beta Kappa listed in Who's Who for each six persons listed there. Among living Phi Beta Kappas are seven of the nine members of the Supreme Court.

The national offices of the fraternity are in New York City in charge of Dr. William A. Shimer, now a member of the Bucknell faculty. From this office go out many streams of influence by which this important body makes itself felt in support of the humanities in American education, and in defense of that intellectual freedom which is being destroyed by ignorant and "short-cutting" statesmen in many parts of the world.

Bucknell is proud to be able to offer certain of its future graduates membership and fellowship in this world-wide fraternity of distinguished college men and women.

Dr. William A. Shimer

Dr. William A. Shimer of New York, secretary of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa and editor of The American Scholar, has assumed his duties as John Howard Harris Professor of Philosophy and Dean of the Faculty.

At its recent meeting in San Francisco, the Twentieth Triennial Council of Phi Beta Kappa re-elected Dr. Shimer as secretary, an office which he has held since 1931, and confirmed the arrangement whereby he came to Bucknell. His schedule calls for him to spend the first four days of each week at Bucknell and the last three days in New York.

In his capacity as Dean of the Faculty, Dr. Shimer is able to bring to his colleagues on the faculty the advantages of his wide observation of educational techniques in other colleges. As secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, he is in close contact with the 140 superior colleges in America which have been granted charters of this top-ranking scholarship fraternity.

A noted scholar and educator, Dr. Shimer comes to Bucknell with a most unusual record. After teaching in the rural schools of West Virginia for a year, he attended Glenville Normal School at Glenville, West Virginia. Entering Harvard, he completed the regular four-year course in three years and was graduated with honors. He then studied in the Harvard Divinity School and at the University of Rochester.

Returning to Harvard for graduate study, he was awarded his Doctor of Philosophy degree in 1925. He was then named a Harvard Fellow at the University of Paris, where he received the degree of Doctor of Laws in 1926.

In the course of his studies at Harvard, Dr. Shimer was awarded numerous scholarships for scholastic excellence. His election to Phi Beta Kappa at Harvard occurred while he was in France during the World War. He was appointed in 1926 to the faculty of Ohio State University and taught philosophy there until 1930, when he went to New York to become secretary of the Foundation for Moral Leadership. He was elected secretary of Phi Beta Kappa in 1931 and editor of The American Scholar in 1932. Since 1935, he has also edited The Key Reporter, a quarterly for Phi Beta Kappa members.

Dr. Shimer belongs to many important educational organizations, including the American Philosophy Association, the American Association of University Professors, and the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

He is married and the father of two children, a boy and a girl.

Holton, Schnure, and Weckesser Named to Board of Trustees

Charles R. Holton

Three new members were elected to the Board of Trustees when that body held its annual commencement meeting in Lewisburg last June. The new members are: Charles R. Holton of Bethlehem, vice-president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation; Fred O. Schnure, '14, of Sparrows Point, Maryland, electrical superintendent of the Maryland plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation; and Frederick J. Weckesser of Wilkes-Barre, a member of the board of directors of the F. W. Woolworth Company.

Mr. Schnure was nominated for the position of trustee by the Alumni.

The Board at the same meeting authorized the appointment of four new faculty members. These members are: Dr. Mildred A. Martin, University of Illinois, to teach English; Harold D. Flinsch, University of Minnesota, to teach civil engineering; Louis C. Peltier, Columbia University, to teach geology; and Miss Margarida S. Reno, '27, to teach French for one year.

One-year leaves of absence were granted by the Board to Miss Gladys Calkins, Professor Frederick Parker, Professor Melvin Le Mon, and Professor J. Orin Oliphant.

Three promotions were made: Kenneth F. Herrold, '36, to instructor in hygiene; John B. Miller, '26, to assistant professor of electrical engineering; and Voris Blaine Hall, '19, to associate professor of physics.

Homecoming Day Features

Parade, Bison Club Luncheon, Football Game,
Alumni Dinner and Dance

AS the zero hour approaches for the great exodus of Bucknell Alumni from the surrounding country towards their beloved center of educational achievement, plans are being made far and wide. A double red circle has been placed around November 2nd. Telephone calls and letters are being exchanged as preliminary arrangements are completed for a real alumni celebration. The old college is feeling the repercussions of this increased alumni enthusiasm. We have been informed by proper authorities that even the old oaks are showing signs of a quickened heart-beat as they anticipate the sound of familiar voices and of former footsteps up the hill.

The unusual interest in Homecoming this year has resulted from the constantly increasing pride of Bucknellians everywhere in their Alma Mater. They long to return to see her new raiments of progress as well as to meet old friends.

The night before Homecoming will be devoted to long sessions of reminiscing with sparkling stories of how it used

Homecoming Parade

Alex Bartha and his Orchestra

There will be a big Homecoming Parade at eleven o'clock with a prize to be awarded for the best fraternity float. At 2:15 in the afternoon, Bucknell's thundering herd will ruffle the feathers of the Temple owls in the Memorial Stadium. The Alumni Dinner will be held in the Women's Dining Hall at 6:30 p.m. President Marts will be the speaker and E. A. Snyder, President of the General Alumni Association, toastmaster. The Alumni Dance will follow at 9:00 o'clock in the Davis Gymnasium with music by Alex Bartha and his Orchestra, an outstanding musical organization. This concludes the day and Bucknellians may feel slightly tired but their spirit and enthusiasm for Bucknell and old friends will have reached an unanticipated height.

On Sunday morning, Dr. Newton C. Fetter, '09, will be the speaker at an All College Church Service in the Presbyterian Church.

The Alumni Office would welcome the opportunity of assisting you in completing your arrangements for Homecoming. We can reserve tickets for the Game, the Alumni Dinner, the Dance, and arrange for sleeping accommodations.

to be at Bucknell. We can hear them now: "It's great to be back! The old place is still the same even though some new buildings have been added! . . ." "Hello Jack! I haven't seen you for years, remember when we lived in 419 West College? . . . How about the time you were asleep in Prof. _____'s class and he called on you for the philosophy of Plato?" And the tall stories become taller as constant repetition improves the imagination.

Homecoming Day will open with the golden rays of the sun shining over the quadrangle as it prepares the Bucknellians for the kind of Homecoming weather they have been dreaming about since the first Homecoming.

All Bucknellians should go to Old Main to register and make ticket reservations for the different events. There will be a large board in Old Main containing the names of all who register, listed by classes, so that former friends can be located.

The Athletic Council and Bison Club will be entertained by Mr. Rush H. Kress, '00, in the morning. The Athletic Council breakfast will be at eight o'clock at the Lewistown Inn followed by a business meeting. The business meeting and luncheon of the Bison Club will be at 11:30 at the Lewistown Inn.

Many Alumni Attend 90th Commencement

President Marts and Seven Honorary Degree Recipients

AT the ninetieth annual commencement exercises which were held in the Davis Gymnasium on June 10, 262 seniors received their bachelor's degrees, twenty-three persons received advanced degrees, two men received professional degrees, and seven noted Americans were awarded honorary degrees in recognition of their services to humanity.

Those who received honorary degrees, shown in the picture above, were William VanValzah Hayes, '88, consulting physician at St. John's Hospital, Yonkers, N. Y.; Dr. George S. Stevenson, '15, New York City psychiatrist; Irving Berlin, famous song writer; Dr. Marts, Michael L. Benedum, noted oil engineer; the Rev. Louis J. Velte, '10, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Chester; Dr. Joseph W. Barker, dean of the school of engineering at Columbia University; and Dr. G. Morris Smith, president of Susquehanna University.

The largest Alumni Day in the history of the University was held on Saturday, June 8. More alumni than ever before returned to the campus, bringing with them their friends and families, for a day crowded with events. At the General Alumni Luncheon which was held in the Women's Dining Hall at noon, Nancy Griffith, '31, was toastmistress. E. A. Snyder, '11, president of the General Alumni Association, President Arnaud C. Marts, and L. Francis Lybarger, Jr., '28, Alumni Secretary, were the speakers. Mr. Marts presented and greeted members of the reunioning classes. He mentioned that a committee composed of G. Grant Painter, '17, chairman; Fred O. Schnure, '14, Harold Stuart, '20, Kenneth Slifer, '26, Paul D. Schreiber, '17, John W. Rice, '14, and Frank G. Davis, '11, had been named to formulate and bring into execution plans for the selection of the man who is to be the "Bucknell Man of the Year" at the 1941 Commencement. The class of 1914 has proposed to provide and give to the University a bronze plaque upon which is to be inscribed each year the name of the "Bucknell Man of the Year."

Fifty-Year Class

Members of the Athletic Council attended the luncheon and sat together at a special table provided for them.

Class reunions were well attended. Several members of the fifty-year class returned and were guests of honor for the commencement period. The picture above shows William C. MacNaul, Mrs. C. A. Gundy, nee Eveline J. Stanton, and Dr. John I. Woodruff, all members of the class of 1890. Opposite is a picture which was taken of the class of 1915 at its twenty-fifth reunion.

1915 Reunion

Daniel C. Roberts

By Arnaud C. Marts

A FEW years ago, Senator Andrew J. Sordani, a Trustee of Bucknell University, introduced Judge Davis, Chairman of the Board, to a friend and neighbor of his, Mr. Daniel C. Roberts, with these words: "If you could interest Mr. Roberts in becoming a Trustee of Bucknell University it would be a great thing for Bucknell." Later he introduced him to me also, and from these beginnings Mr. Roberts' interest in Bucknell University grew from month to month, and year to year. Finally, in the fall of 1935, he agreed to serve on the Board if elected. He was elected promptly for a term of five years, and from that point on became one of the most loyal and useful Trustees whom this college has ever had. His five-year term on the Board would have expired at the last annual meeting held in Lewisburg on June 8, 1940, and on June 10 he had hoped to make one of his infrequent trips to the campus in connection with the dedication of the new Engineering Building. But on the Monday prior, his tired body laid down to sleep and did not awaken.

During his lifetime it was impossible for us to speak publicly of Daniel C. Roberts' many and generous gifts to Bucknell, for he was a very modest man who did not like to hear his own praises sung. Now that his ears have been sealed by gentle death, we are free to speak of his good deeds and to let all Bucknellians know of them.

During the almost five years in which he served on our Board of Trustees, Daniel Roberts gave Bucknell more money than any other person, living or dead, in the 94-year history of our beloved college. He gave the funds for Roberts Hall; a large proportion of the funds for the Davis Gymnasium; ten-elevenths of the cost of the new Engineering Building; a large fund for the reduction of the University's old capital debt; generous gifts to the Junior College at Wilkes-Barre; and in addition to his gifts during his lifetime, remembered Bucknell in his will. Of all his many gifts to Bucknell, I think the ones he enjoyed most were his most recent gifts toward the fund with which we hope some day to build a new library. Although he was not a college-trained man himself, he intuitively knew how vital a library is to the life and service of a college, and was very anxious that Bucknell should have a new library adequate to the needs of our present faculty and student body. Had he lived a few months longer he would have completed the Library Fund, for he longed to see the work started on that building in the fall of 1940. Now others must finish this task he started so generously.

Daniel C. Roberts was born in northern New York State at the little village of Felt's Mill, nine miles from Watertown, N. Y., in August, 1858. He left his father's farm in his teens and got a job as a clerk in a general store in Watertown. His beginning wage was $3 a week. He was proud of this job, and when he got a raise of fifty cents a week he was so happy that he hired a livery rig for a dollar to drive out to his father's farm and tell him the good news.

There were other clerks in this same store whose names have become nationally known because they were pioneers in the new system of chain merchandising, — Frank Woolworth, Charles Woolworth, and Fred Kirby. They remembered Daniel Roberts' ability and industry in his work, and later they took him into the great system of five and ten cent stores they had created. He became an important factor in the F. W. Woolworth Company, which he served as an officer and executive until his retirement over twenty years ago.

Daniel C. Roberts helped, to a degree no other man has ever done, to put new courage and confidence into the hearts of those who are trying to gain recognition for Bucknell as one of America's great little colleges. Each Bucknellian owes his memory a tribute of gratitude and appreciation for the long strides which he helped Bucknell take during the short five years in which he served on our Board. In your behalf, I have on more than one occasion tried to express to him the appreciation we all have felt toward him. It was characteristic of his modesty that he would always reply to my expression about as follows: "Don't thank me. Bucknell has done just as much for me in giving me happiness and satisfaction as I have done for it in giving money."

We have lost a noble friend, and I shall remember him with affectionate gratitude all the rest of the days of my life.

The Bison Club of Bucknell Alumni Organized

New Organization Will Give Active Cooperation to Athletic Council

By G. Grant Paniter, '17, Secretary

AFTER many preliminary conferences covering months of careful planning, The Bison Club was organized officially in Lewisburg on June 8, 1940, when over one hundred Bucknellians were guests of R. H. Kress, '00, at breakfast.

Officers were nominated and elected as follows:

President—Boyd L. Newcomb, '18
Vice-Pres.—Erle M. Topham, '15
Treasurer—Warren S. Reed, '20
Secretary—Grant Painter, '17

Executive Committee:

Pittsburgh—Edward C. Myers, '34
New York—Paul D. Schreiber, '12
Harrisburg—Harvey S. Bogar, '01
Washington—Joseph P. Shearer, '13
Lewisburg—W. J. Busser, Jr.

The general purpose of this organization is given in the box on this page. For many years it has been apparent that there was desperate need for some agency to fill the gap existing between the Athletic Council and Bucknell Alumni. The Bison Club was organized specifically as the "gap filler."

A survey of the problems confronting the Athletic Council revealed that the first and immediate undertaking of The Bison Club must be to find a means of paying off a long standing debt. For this purpose it was determined that $50,000 had to be raised, allowing for a very small surplus. For years this debt has been a severe handicap to the Athletic Council and has played an important part in setting up our athletic policies and schedules—with both of which many Bucknell Alumni have shown great concern.

This debt problem will be solved, but we are by no means "over the hill" at this date. Rush H. Kress, '00, a patron and benefactor of Bucknell in many ways, provided a possible solution, by offering to pay one-third of the debt. The remaining two-thirds of the indebtedness is to be raised by the Bison Club. This generous offer was accepted and a quiet movement was carried out in the Spring of 1940 among Alumni to secure subscriptions for this debt, payable over a three year period.

THE PURPOSE OF THE BISON CLUB

"To stimulate interest in the intercollegiate program of the University among the Alumni and friends of Bucknell and to secure from them active support and aid in its further development and in carrying it into and through successful operation."

The response to this effort, carried out only in the larger Alumni centers, was most encouraging, as reported at the June meeting. A total of $38,932 was subscribed ($8,000 paid in cash) by a Bison Club membership of 140. Since that time subscriptions and memberships have been increased, but the goal line has not yet been crossed.

The Bison Club aims to have 300 members by Homecoming and 500 members by Commencement, 1941. Every Bison Club member is asked to secure at least one new member, as one Bucknellian to another—this plan has been tried out and it will work. So much for financial plans.

Already the club has representation on the Athletic Council, actively interested in meeting problems, in which Alumni can be helpful. Committees are working now, calling attention of proper authorities to promising athletes who can meet our scholastic standards. Former athletes, over a period of many years, have been contacted and are giving their support, in spirit and financially.

The officers of The Bison Club would like every interested Alumnus to become a member—now. If you are concerned about athletics at Bucknell, in securing schedules for her teams in keeping with her scholastic standards and the size of her student body, you should be a member of The Bison Club. If your local club President cannot give you complete details, please write to the Alumni Office at Lewisburg.

On Homecoming Day, Saturday, November 2, the Bison Club will parade with other organizations. Members are asked to report at the Lewisburg High School at 10:45. A meeting and luncheon at The Lewisburg Inn, given by Mr. Kress, will follow at 11:30. Every Bison Club member — and all Alumni interested in becoming Bison Club members (we can fix up your eligibility in short order) — will be most welcome.

The Bison Club has made definite progress along one of Bucknell's most troubled highways. They have determined where they want to go and how to get there. And beyond a doubt they are on their way to some real accomplishments for Bucknell.

A MESSAGE TO THE ALUMNI

By E. A. Snyder, '11,

President, General Alumni Association

ONCE more Bucknell is opening wide her welcoming doors to youth and starting her ninety-fifth year of instructing them in the way of life. In these grim times this is no easy task. Dictatorial might in a war-ravaged world has assailed our fundamental Christian ideals with terrific force and often seeming success. Its sneering contempt of decency, right and justice in our way of living and its ideology of ruthless force has unfortunately created temporary doubts and confused thinking in many minds.

To dispel such devastating doubts and to instill firmly the conviction that truth, decency, Christian justice and moral right will prevail is today's firm task faced by all colleges. Bucknell, our beloved Alma Mater, with her able faculty and beloved President Arnaud C. Marts—than whom there is no finer—is ready and eager to face it. Are we Alumni going to allow her to face it alone or will we rally to her support? Will we be "talking" or "doing" Alumni? There are so many ways in which we all can aid her in the good work. Nothing worthwhile can be too trivial to be helpful or too big to be most advantageously utilized.

All assistance to Bucknell in any of her activities is just so much extra ammunition that will be used in her fight against the world's "isms" founded on greed and might, and will help to replace them with a really worth-while—"ism"—Americanism, the "ism" of freedom, liberty, and equality based on decency and Christian ideals.

You Alumni of Bucknell are doing more and more each year for her. Alumni activity was never greater. Let us intensify our efforts this year. Copies of the minutes of the meeting of the General Alumni Association held last June in Lewisburg were sent to the presidents of the thirty-six local alumni associations for distribution. Extra copies are available at the Alumni Office and will gladly be mailed to any one who writes in for them. It was the best attended and most enthusiastic business meeting of the Association that we have had for years. We hope these minutes will be helpful and suggestive for your local meetings. Let us make them bigger and better.

I hope that each local Alumni Association (as many did last year) will decide on some specific project for the good of Bucknell and carry it through to a successful conclusion by June. Let your Alumni Office at Lewisburg and the officers of your General Alumni Association help you make your local meetings better if possible. Call on them for aid and suggestions. They will appreciate the opportunity of serving you and Bucknell.

Also, let us keep up the good work of forming more new local alumni associations. There is strength in numbers and greater strength in organized effort. It is not a difficult undertaking to start a new active association or to keep an old one enthusiastic. Your Alumni Office is preparing a handbook for Alumni Club Officers which we believe will be helpful along these lines. Write for a copy if you feel the urge to do something for Bucknell. Write for it if you don't—maybe it will produce the urge.

The world has hurled a challenge on the doorstep of all good Americans. Let us meet it by doing our utmost to support the three things that can defy and conquer the challengers, our God, our Country, and our Colleges. Real Christianity, true Americanism and Education in real living inculcated in our youth will produce the men and women of tomorrow who will preserve for us the ideals of true democracy. All of us loyal Bucknellians owe it to ourselves and each other to aid this work. Let us aid it in one good way by working for one of the big things in our life, our Alma Mater—Our Bucknell.

On The Campus

Dr. Page Named Dean of Men

by WILLIAM CRUM, '41
Bucknellian Editor

Dr. Robert L. Sutherland resigned during the summer as dean of men and head of the department of sociology, to accept an important post at the University of Texas. Dr. Ralph E. Page, professor of political science, a person exceptionally well qualified, has been appointed his successor as Dean of Men.

On September 1st, Dr. Sutherland became Director of the Hogg Foundation and professor of sociology at the University of Texas. The Hogg Foundation, created from a fund of $2,500,000 in the estate of the late Will C. Hogg, Houston, Texas, philanthropist, provides for a wide program of mental health for the entire state.

By going to Texas, Dr. Sutherland concluded ten years of service on the Bucknell faculty.

To succeed Dr. Sutherland, President Marts chose a faculty member who had already had considerable experience in student activities and in student guidance. Dr. Ralph E. Page is a native of Indiana and was graduated from Bluffton College at Bluffton, Ohio, in 1926. He then attended Syracuse University, receiving from that school the Master of Arts degree and later the Doctor of Philosophy degree. From 1928 until 1930 he was an instructor on the Syracuse faculty.

In addition to his teaching duties at Bucknell, Dr. Page has served as adviser to several important student organizations. In 1936 he was president of the Bucknell Chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Trudging footsteps on gravel paths --- dinks and black ties --- freshmen wandering about like lost sheep, searching for new class rooms --- football in the air --- professors smiling with satisfaction at this season's "bumper crop" of scholastic raw material --- Bucknell University has started her ninety-fifth year of academic existence!

This is truly a season of beginnings, when campus organizations survey and take stock of their resources, making plans for activities during the winter months, when professors start laying the groundwork for semester courses, when the college bookstore revels in its sale of new tomes, and when Mr. Joseph College, and his co-ed sister Sue, start wearing the newness from fall ensembles in class room, sorority suite, and fraternity "den".

It is indeed a magnificent beginning for Bucknell's "infants", the class of '44. The vista opening before their eyes is the product of ninety-four years of academic growth and expansion. The new wing of the Engineering Building, with its innovations in architecture and teaching facilities, is housing its first classes this fall. This year's freshmen are enjoying an enlarged and more complete sports program, because the erection of Davis Gymnasium has made available many new recreation facilities. Freshman men have been afforded the opportunity of an increased spirit of fellowship, through the establishment of a Men's Dining Hall by the University. Larison Hall has been converted into a dormitory for freshman women exclusively, in order that the first-year co-eds may share a community of interests.

The Homecoming program for this year promises to be a fine keynote for the ushering in of Bucknell's winter social activities. Coach Al Humphreys' Bisons meet Temple in the Mathewson Memorial Stadium Saturday afternoon, November 2. Fraternities and sororities are planning hearty receptions for their alumni.

Thus has Bucknell University made her ninety-fifth beginning, one which, at the outset, is filled with promise of a splendid year.

DR. MEYER COMES TO BUCKNELL

Dr. Ernst W. Meyer, well-known lecturer on international relations and a member of the faculty of Adelphia College, has been named to the faculty as a visiting professor for the present year.

From 1931 until 1937, Dr. Meyer was First Secretary of the German Embassy in Washington. He resigned from that position in May, 1937, in protest against the Nazis.

One of the leading laymen in the Lurheran Church in Germany, Dr. Meyer, during the past two years, has lectured widely in the United States under the auspices of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

At Bucknell, Dr. Meyer is teaching courses in political science, economics, and history.

Mr. F. Albert Matsen was named to the faculty recently as an instructor in chemistry.

FOOTBALL AND PREPAREDNESS

Develop Men Physically, Mentally and Morally for War and for Life

By A. R. E. WYANT, Ph.D., B.D., M.D.

Foreword

This timely address on football was published nearly twenty-five years ago after Coach Stagg had said, "Andy, you have it all there." It was reprinted in part in the University of Chicago Magazine before any president there had foolishly imagined football to be "a major handicap to education." Believing that lack of self-discipline is a major handicap in preserving our American way of life, we need an all-round education, physical, mental and moral, that will not fail us when it is necessary to stand up and take it on the chin; for the depression following a second world war is likely to make the last depression look like "boom days."

After an experience of ten years of university life, four years as a teacher, fifteen years as a minister and over thirty years as a Chicago physician, specializing somewhat in versatility, and without losing a day of work or play from illness or injury, I retired with the abiding conviction that what I learned from intercollegiate football was of vital importance in my life's success.

To a younger generation who may be called upon to face the same conditions or even worse in a second world war, I raise this call to preparedness in words as timely as if written only yesterday. To them also it will visualize the German menace to our freedom in 1917 as well as today.

A. R. E. WYANT,

Reprint from Commencement News, June 20, 1917.

The Secretary of the Bucknell Alumni Association (in 1917), in extending to me the invitation to be the orator of this occasion, suggested that I discuss a popular subject rather than give an exhaustive dissertation on some scholarly theme. For that and other good and sufficient reasons, I gladly accede to the request. With the class of '92 football has always been a popular subject since as freshmen we defeated the combined upper classes of the University, and practically introduced football at Bucknell.

Your orator, in common with other members of his class, now measures his life by quarter-centuries; and as one who played football four years here and three years at the University of Chicago, against representative teams from the Atlantic to the Pacific, he can speak from more than the average experience. During these years I have been a firm believer in the game as a means of developing not only the body but also the mind and character for greater efficiency in life, thus helping to realize a college man's ideal: "Mens Sana in Corpore Sano." And in view of the special physical, mental and moral requirements needed for the great conflict in which we are now engaged, I champion football as a valuable means of preparedness.

ATHLETICS IN WAR TIME

A number of colleges have suspended all their athletic contests during the war, but we hope that athletics will be maintained at Bucknell, as at the University of Chicago where Coach Stagg has declared that the best means of getting our college men into shape for warfare will not be by mere military drill and tactical maneuvers, but also by steady physical development which enables them to meet the rigor of modern warfare. He is personally no less interested in the preparedness idea than its warmest advocates and believes that our country's best interests will be served not by canceling all athletics, but by enlisting a much larger number of students in intramural games, even if intercollegiate contests are suspended. Trench fighting demands the maximum of physical strength, ability to withstand the severest hardships and stamina in the face of gruelling bodily discomforts. For modern warfare what discipline is better than that of the football field where practically every factor, needed on the battlefield, is found? At Chicago every man in competitive athletics is now engaged in military drill, but his physical conditioning, which is the aim of athletics, is a matter of as much importance as anything else in connection with his preparation. It is worthy of note that in Canadian and English training camps and even back of the lines in France great emphasis is laid on football and other athletic contests between squads, companies, regiments and even brigades and divisions; the officers also taking part with the men, thereby fostering a democratic spirit in the army. This same system of athletics will surely be established in our great American training camps. Football gives not only the requisite physical development for war, but also cultivates those qualities of character that make a good soldier and are needed in the army of this nation.

President Wilson has recently expressed his firm conviction that athletic sports should be maintained in time of war, saying: "I would be sincerely sorry to see the men and boys in our colleges and schools give up their athletic sports, and I hope most sincerely that the normal course of college sports will be continued as far as possible, not only to afford a diversion to the American people in the days to come when we shall no doubt have our share of mental depression, but as a real contribution to the national defense, for our young men must be made physically fit in order that later they may take the place of those who are now of military age and exhibit the vigor and alertness which we are proud to believe to be characteristic of our young men."

First, however, let us recognize that there are those who are as rabid against football as they or others are against war. During the past twenty-five years no other game has been so

With The Clubs...

METROPOLITAN ALUMNI—

Rush H. Kress, '00, entertained five hundred Metropolitan Bucknellians and their families on May 18 at his estate, "Rockhill".

The annual picnic was held on July 13 at Otto Lang's picnic grounds, Liberty Corners, N. J. About 135 alumni and their families attended and enjoyed the day of sports, fun-making, and picnic dinners.

The first meeting of the 1940-41 season was held at the Hotel Wentworth in New York City. Dr. William A. Shimer, secretary of Phi Beta Kappa and newly appointed dean of the Bucknell faculty, was the speaker of the evening. This October 5th meeting was well attended.

LYCOMING COUNTY—

The first annual picnic of Lycoming County Bucknellians was held at Waterdale on August 13. About sixty Bucknellians and guests were present. Officers who were elected for the coming year are as follows: president, Dr. Merl G. Colvin, '24; vice-president, Paul B. Cooley, '23; secretary, Marion E. Maynard, '36; and treasurer, Grace L. Fithian, '32.

TRENTON—

Central New Jersey Bucknell Club Outing, June 29th, 1940, by W. J. Irvin, '22.

Softball, volleyball, quoits, hamburgs, hot dogs, and twenty pounds of Elmer Dietz's jumbo peanuts were all a part of the day's program of Saturday, June 29th, when members of the Central New Jersey Alumni Club held their Annual Outing on Rotary Island, opposite Trenton.

The first ferry trip across the Delaware was a little rough — 'Peg' Farnsworth and her mother got soaked — but all of the sixty-two picnickers reached the island without suffering from any serious seasickness.

While the ladies visited, the men played softball, volleyball, and quoits. The shortstopping of senior 'Jack' Duffy was something for the younger and less agile members to envy, while the second base play of Guest Ewing from Lehigh was outstanding.

Chief Chef "Fos" Jemison and Assistant Chef "Lou" Russo prepared the hamburgs and hot dogs over a blazing grill to the satisfaction of all, and "Ken" Murphy and "Ray" Apgar were exceptionally popular with favors for the youngsters.

A general get-together was held the night before the Penn State Game, October 4, at the Mary Gray Tea Room in Trenton. In addition to the usual reminiscing, plans were made for the coming year.

WASHINGTON—

The fourth meeting of the Bucknell Alumni Club of Greater Washington was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Rosenberger, June 4, 1940. At this time the election of officers for the coming year was held. They are as follows: president, Dr. John S. Burlew, '30; vice-president and treasurer, Harry H. Pierson, '28; secretary, Marion M. Davis, '36.

Mr. L. O. Manley was nominated to the Executive Committee for the term 1940-43, and Mr. A. M. Sherwood replaced Mrs. Davis on the Executive Committee for the term 1939-42.

UNIONTOWN—

Bucknellians and friends held a dinner meeting at the Uniontown Country Club on July 9. Dr. B. W. Griffith, '99, graduate manager of athletics, was the guest speaker.

HARRISBURG—

The first of the regular monthly dinner meetings for the year 1940-41 was held September 5 in the Harrisburg Y. M. C. A. Dr. C. D. Koch, '98, speaker of the evening, presented interesting facts about the early history of Bucknell.

* * *

The second meeting of the year was held on October 2 at the same time and place.

BALTIMORE—

A meeting of the Club was held at the Sparrows Point Country Club on June 18. The guest speaker of the evening was Coach Al Humphreys.

PHILADELPHIA—

The formal dance at the Merion Country Club on May 18 was a big success. Over two hundred Bucknellians and friends attended, and for the first time the dance was a success financially as well as socially.

PITTSBURGH—

The annual formal dinner and dance was held at the University Club on April 27, 1940.

A picnic was held at Faust's Farm on July 21.

The Association of Bucknell Women met for luncheon in the Congress of Clubs House, Tuesday, September 10. Students and prospective students were guests at the meeting. At that time, final arrangements were completed for a Supper Dance which was given at the Jacktown Hotel, Saturday evening, September 21. One hundred and fifty Bucknellians and friends attended the dance.

On October 8, the Association again held a luncheon meeting at the Congress House. The next big event which the Association is sponsoring is a Fashion Show which is to be held in the Municipal Building of Wilkesburg on October 18. Women of the organization will be models. All proceeds from the dance and fashion show will be placed in the Scholarship Fund.

POCONO MOUNTAINS—

Mrs. P. A. Rockefeller, nee Ruth Bachman, '17, entertained the club at her home in May. The Bucknell movies were shown by the Alumni Secretary.

A summer party was held at the Mt. Tom Restaurant near East Stroudsburg on June 17. Dr. Ralph E. Page, professor of political science, was the speaker of the evening. About thirty Bucknellians and friends were present.

CHICAGO—

Bucknellians from Chicago, Southern Wisconsin, and Northern Indiana combined to hold a dinner meeting at the Old Cathay Restaurant in Chicago on October 4. The main pastime of the evening was the rehashing of old times.

UNION COUNTY—

Union County Bucknellians held a picnic at the Christian Association Lodge at Cowan on July 25. Despite the terrific heat, a large number of alumni and their families enjoyed an afternoon of fun and a picnic supper.

In Memoriam...

Mrs. Judson W. Sagebeer, the former Ella P. Hallowell, died in February.

1877

The Rev. T. P. Morgan, retired Baptist clergyman, died at his home in Scranton on August 5. He had served pastorates in Birchardsville, Worchester, (N. Y.), and Mahanoy City before going to Scranton. Two children survive him.

Dr. Charles Lose, prominent educator and former member of the state assembly, died March 4, 1940, at his home in Montoursville.

From the age of 17 he was actively engaged in educational activities, serving his ninth consecutive year as president of the Montoursville School Board at the time of his death. Among the positions he filled were superintendent of Lycoming County and Williamsport schools, president of the Pennsylvania Educational Association, principal of the Central State Normal School, Lock Haven, and principal of the former Muncy Normal School. In 1919 he lost his sight and was forced to retire from his position at Lock Haven. After his retirement, he started writing educational and outdoor articles. He was elected to the state assembly in 1928 by the Republican party and served until 1934, gaining re-election in 1930 and 1932.

One of Williamsport's schools, the Charles Lose School, was named in honor of Dr. Lose. He was the only living person after whom a school was named in that city.

In 1882, he was married to Rebecca Johnson, oldest daughter of Judge Henry Johnson of Williamsport. Four sons and three daughters survive him.

Miss Anna E. VanGundy died April 10th at her home in Lewisburg after a prolonged illness. She was aged about 70 years.

Miss VanGundy was the daughter of Christian VanGundy, a well-known Union County school teacher. For many years the father and daughter conducted a private school in Lewisburg; Miss VanGundy later accepted a teaching position in Virginia before she retired and came back to Lewisburg to live.

She was a faithful member of the Lutheran Church. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. A. A. Johnson, and a brother, Morris C. VanGundy, '98, of Houston, Texas.

George E. Deppen, member of the Northumberland County bar and a U. S. referee in bankruptcy, died in the Geisinger Memorial Hospital at Danville on March 18th after an illness of two days.

His death ended a legal career of 43 years, more than half of which was devoted to his special work as referee in bankruptcy. A native of Herndon, he was educated in the Herndon schools, then the Freeburg Academy. In 1890 he entered Ursinus College and in 1893 he became a student at Bucknell University. Following his graduation from Bucknell, he entered the study of law with Harry S. Knight, Esq., and was admitted to the bar in 1897.

Mr. Deppen was an active member of the First Reformed Church of Sunbury, a member of Maclay Lodge 632, F. and A. Masons, Northumberland Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, and Mt. Hermon Commandery 85, Knights Templar.

In 1901 he was married to Laura Koons of Collegeville; she survives him.

1895

Word has been received of the death of the Rev. David A. Solly on January 15, 1940. Mrs. Solly, the former Mary Kreamer, '91, is now living at 56 South Walnut Street, East Orange, N. J.

More than forty years of service in the ministry were ended when the Rev. Herbert M. Pease, pastor of the New Milford Baptist Church, died at his home on April 30th. He had served as pastor in Eatonville, Center Moreland, Hallstead, Sayre, Oneida, Binghamton, and Cooperstown.

Mr. Pease was born in Jackson, January 3, 1868. After his early schooling, he worked for a number of years to earn money for his collegiate education. He entered Bucknell and was graduated in 1895 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. His ministerial studies were at Crozer Theological Seminary and Potomac University.

In Binghamton, where he was pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, Mr. Pease was a leader in the Billy Sunday revivals of 1926, moderator of the Broome-Tioga Baptist Association, president of the Binghamton Baptist Ministers' Association of Binghamton and vicinity, and secretary of the Binghamton Ministerial Association.

John McCalmont Wilson, a member of the Bucknell Board of Trustees and chairman of the board of National Supply Company, a prominent firm in the manufacture and distribution of gas and oil well equipment, died September 5, 1940, at his home in Pittsburgh. Mr. Wilson, who had been an executive in the industrial equipment business for a long time, had been ill for several weeks. He was sixty-five years old.

Mr. Wilson was born in Franklin, Pa., March 17, 1876. He was the grandson of General Edwin G. Wilson, an uncle of former President Woodrow Wilson. After graduation from Bucknell, he entered law school at Harvard, from which institution he was graduated in 1900. But instead of practicing law, he entered the employ of the National Supply Company in Beaumont, Texas.

Due to illness, he returned to Franklin in 1902, and a year later he joined the Franklin Trust Company where he remained until 1908. At that time, he rejoined the National Supply Company, parent firm of Spang, Chalfant and Company. He became president in 1924 and chairman of the board in 1939.

At the time of his death, he was a director of the First National Bank at Pittsburgh, and the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company. He was a member of various Masonic bodies, the Duquesne Club, the Fox Chapel Golf Club, the Pittsburgh Golf Club, the Rolling Rock Club, and the University Club of New York.

Word has been received of the death of Charles Paul Meeker on May 15, 1940, at his home in Chicago. For the past sixteen years, Mr. Meeker had been superintendent of the Chicago Hebrew Mission.

Following his graduation from Bucknell, he spent two years in Bible training at the Moody Bible Institute. After that he served as pastor of a run-down church on the west side of the city in the notorious 19th ward for eleven years. For thirteen years, Mr. Meeker was director and teacher of the Practical Work Course at the Institute, after which he became superintendent of the Mission. In 1900 he married Amy Drew; they had five children.

Mrs. George B. Frederick, '62, the former Mary Zoe Kelly, died April 13, 1940, at her home in Lewisburg, as the result of a heart attack suffered several days previously. At the time of her death she was serving as state chairman of the speakers' bureau for the Pennsylvania Federation of Democratic Women. She was a past president of the Women's Democratic Club of Union County, former vice-president of the Five-County Council of Democratic Women, a member of Shikellimo Chapter, D. A. R., the Lewisburg Civic Club, and the First Presbyterian Church of Lewisburg. She was the first woman to serve on the Union County Agricultural Extension Board, having held the post for a period of twelve years.

Her husband and one son survive.

On August 28, 1940, Cullen Frazer Shipman died at his home in Sunbury after an illness of six months. Mr. Shipman had been a practicing attorney at the bar of the Northumberland County courts for thirty-eight years.

1900

Dr. Carl H. Senn, 62, of Williamsport, died March 12th at his home. Born in Erie, he became a resident of Williamsport at the age of five years and spent most of his life there. He practiced medicine for 38 years, a short time in Millville and the rest in Williamsport. He was a member of the Knights Templar, the Williamsport Consistory, and Calvary Baptist Church where he was a deacon.

1902

Dr. J. Sidney Hoffa, a Williamsport physician, died in June at the Williamsport Hospital. His wife and three children survive him.

1907

Word has been received of the death of F. Luther Heinze at his home in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, on July 10, 1940. Mr. Heinze had been ill since November, 1937, when he had a stroke which left him speechless and paralyzed on the right side.

John M. Wilson, '97

1910

Stricken with a heart attack while purchasing gasoline at a service station at Mahanoy City, Dr. Stanley Krebs of Easton died early in January. He was visiting relatives in Mahanoy City at the time. Dr. Krebs was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania after he completed his work at Bucknell.

1912

Dr. Karl C. Prichard, who had practiced medicine in Huntington, West Virginia, for thirty-two years, died early in January of pneumonia.

1913

Word has been received of the death of S. Paul Teamer, principal of Tredyffrin-Easttown High School at his home in Berwyn in June.

1914

Word has been received of the death of Robert J. Parmenter, July 26, 1940. Mr. Parmenter was connected with the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. The Rev. Fred H. Fahringer, '15, who is located at Janesville, Wisconsin, conducted the funeral service.

1924

On August 26, 1940, Raymond H. Larson died of pneumonia in the Sayre Hospital. He had married Miss Florence Gillis of Galeton, July 9, 1938. At the time of his death, he was a foreman in the Pittsburgh-Corning Glass Works.

James Fallon, an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, died suddenly on May 23rd in Dallas, Texas.

Mr. Fallon was a native of Danville, Pa., where his mother still lives. He served overseas in the infantry of the 28th Division, was cited for heroism, and was wounded at the second battle of the Marne. Upon his return from France he completed his education at Bucknell and Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh. He became an operative in the United States Secret Service about 13 years ago and was considered one of the best agents. When the FBI was organized and G. Edgar Hoover was placed at its head, Fallon was summoned to become a German. Shortly after the Lindbergh kidnapping case he became a member of the FBI's famous kidnap squad and helped break many noted cases, among them the Weyerhauser abduction.

Word has been received of the death of Miss Ximena E. Brooks at the home of her nephew in Endicott, N. Y., late in April.

Lee Fahringer, a lumber dealer in Berwick, Pa., was killed in June when the plane in which he was flying crashed into a hill at Heplerville, ten miles from the Berwick Airport.

The cause of the accident was not known. Farmers of that section said that the motor sounded as though it was working well a few minutes before the tragic plunge. There were dual controls in the ship, and it is not known whether Mr. Fahringer or his companion, who was also killed, was piloting the ship at the time of the crash.

1936

Depression due to ill health and inability to continue her professional work as a trained nurse led to the suicide of Miss Dorothy Foresman of Lewisburg in July. Miss Foresman killed herself by firing a bullet into her mouth.

Football and Preparedness

popular and no other game has been so severely criticized, condemned and even prohibited in a number of colleges.

NOT FOR "SOFTIES"

Football has been called a "prize-fight multiplied by eleven," "an apology for a rough-and-tumble fight," and has been denounced as a brutal, inhuman practice unfit for civilized man to countenance. One college president has said: "Certainly the ordinary prize-fight, out in the open, controlled by watchful referees, is a safe and civilized procedure compared with the American game of football"; and favorably quotes John L. Sullivan who once said: "I won't mix up in no football business. It's too rough. I'm willing to fight like a white man, but when you try to pull me into a riot where everything from gouging to breaking backs goes, you can bet your life I'd rather take my chance in a railroad accident or in something where there's a look-in."

President Butler, of Columbia, to prove football similar to the gladiatorial contests, in its baneful effects upon the spectators and the general public, quotes Seneca who said nearly nineteen hundred years ago: "Man who ought to be sacred to his fellowmen, is now killed by sport. . . . 'Kill him! Hammer him! Roast him! What makes him so shy of jumping on the gridiron? Why doesn't he knock them out? Does he want to live forever?' Tell me," says Seneca, "Do you not even understand this much: that disgraceful exhibitions react on those who permit them?"

The thousands that gather to see our great intercollegiate football contests have been compared to the crowds who gather to see the Spanish bull-fights or the multitudes who enjoyed the gladiatorial contests or slaughter of the Christians in the days of pagan Rome.

A few years ago the dean of our leading divinity school said: "Football today is a social obsession, a boy-killing, education-prostituting gladiatorial sport. It teaches virility and courage, but so does war. I do not know what should take its place, but the new game should not require the services of a physician, the maintenance of a hospital and the celebration of funerals."

The danger to life and limb has been deemed sufficient to warrant the elimination of the game from our college sports. Ex-President Eliot, of Harvard, affirms that many who play the game are permanently injured, and President Riley declares: "It is doubtful whether any member of a college or university team is living today who has not some apparent defect or some as yet unknown weakness due to the roughness or severe strain of the game."

AMATEUR WAR

And, finally, football has been damned by comparing it to war. "Strictly speaking," says Dean Shailer Matthews, "football is not a game. It is amateur war." The English Rugby game has been militarized in America, says President Wheeler of California. It is a fight and its strategy and ethics are those of war. Ex-President Eliot attributes to football the "barbarous ethics of warfare" in contrast with the "ethics of civilization."

In the light of present-day warfare, anything, that even bears resemblance to it, must surely be a damnable thing. For, if war was "hell" in the days of General Sherman, what must it be today when the Germans are astonishing even Satan himself by their consummate deviltry. Their dishonor in breaking solemn national agreements, their inhuman policy of frightfulness and barbarous enslavement of men and women in Belgium, their satanic resort to poisonous gases and liquid fire, their imposition of fines and punitive indemnities on conquered cities like the ancient looting of the Huns, their brutal reprisals and threatened wholesale starvation of war prisoners, and their black piracy and ruthless murder on the high seas, have surely made this modern Armageddon ten-fold more a thing of hell.

AT TIMES UNSPORTSMANLIKE

Unfortunately, football has not always been played in the spirit of true sportsmanship, and lust for triumph at any cost has sometimes led to unfair, dishonorable and brutal tactics that must be condemned and completely eliminated from the game. No true defender of the game has anything but condemnation for the spirit of a Hun either in football or war. Better defeat than dishonor. The apology that "military necessity demands it," is but the devilish philosophy of "might above right." May it not be that the Germans' lack of competitive athletics which cultivate the old spirit of chivalry and the modern spirit of true sportsmanship, explains, in part at least, their unmanly and dishonorable conduct on land and sea which has jeopardized their place among civilized nations.

After having been in State service for thirty-two years, Dr. Mary Wolfe, Superintendent of the Laurelton State Village, retired from that position on September 1st. She is now residing at her home on South Third Street in Lewisburg.

Dr. Wolfe served as superintendent of the women's ward of the Norristown State Hospital for eleven years before being appointed to take charge of the Laurelton Village, then under construction in August, 1914. She was in charge of early planning and evolved the design on which the institution was constructed and additions made. Work was halted for a time by the World War, and Dr. Wolfe entered war duty as a physician at Muscle Shoals.

She returned to Laurelton in 1919 and supervised the completion and furnishing of the three original buildings. The first patient was received on January 2, 1920, and Dr. Wolfe had remained as superintendent since that time, during which the population increased to over 700 girls and the buildings increased to nine cottages, a farm colony, laundry, heat plant and kitchen, all in service. In addition she supervised a recent expansion program during which two cottages, a hospital, recreation hall, and administration building were erected. These buildings lack furnishings, however, and are not in use.

Because of the singular nature of the Laurelton Village, it was largely necessary for Dr. Wolfe to devise her own system of treatment and custody. This has been developed to the point that furloughs for inmates of the institution have been introduced in recent years, and the work of reclamation has progressed along approved lines.

Dr. Wolfe has served as president of the American Association of Mental Deficiency and has been active in other national medical societies. She has been identified with the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, Daughters of the American Revolution, the W. C. T. U., the Professional Women of Pennsylvania, and the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women.

It is true that football, like war, if not regulated by the higher laws of humanity, may give opportunity for the exhibition of low and brutal instincts. As international laws have sought to make war more humane, so intercollegiate football rules have been formulated to reduce the opportunities for foul-play and brutality whether accidental or deliberate; to make it more difficult for "dirty playing" to pass undetected; and these rules are being more strictly enforced by an increased number of officials.

The most conspicuous charge against football is that it is intolerably rough. Some of us "old timers" have lively recollections of the days of the "flying wedge" when the two opposing teams in solid phalanx would come together with a crash like the armies of Gog and Magog. But the so-called brutality of football is not at all like the barbarity of the bull-fight where a dumb brute is badgered to death. There is no question about football being a violent game, and it has doubtless at times been played with unnecessary fierceness. It is not wholly possible in vigorous games to exclude the danger element. The greatest danger of physical harm comes to boys of high school age whose bones have grown faster than their muscles. They are apt to be less carefully trained, if trained at all, and are inclined to be reckless. There is no doubt that football is intolerably rough for untrained and unseasoned school boys.

As military life demands a preliminary medical examination showing physical fitness, so no student should be allowed to play the game without having passed a thorough medical examination to certify fitness in every way. And as no soldier in modern warfare is allowed to go to the front without having undergone the severest military training, so no student should be allowed to enter a severe football contest who has not had the necessary preliminary training and is not in the pink of condition. I believe that it was largely due to fulfilling these two requirements of physical fitness and adequate preliminary training that during seven years I played through more than a hundred collegiate and intercollegiate contests without receiving an injury sufficient to retire me from a single game. I have written to my football class-brothers who testify that even primitive football was altogether beneficial to them, despite the injuries received. Although they were serious enough, they were insignificant compared with the mental discipline and bodily advantage.

OBJECTIONS EXAGGERATED

There is no doubt that the objectionable features of football are greatly exaggerated and its virtues underestimated. It is really not a brutal nor an extremely dangerous game. It is dangerous as hunting, mountain-climbing, polo, yachting, swimming and similar exhilarating sports, calling for high exertion and some risk, are dangerous. But manly sports and games of that type are wholesome for our civilization. President Faunce says: "I firmly believe that we ought to have one 'rough' game in college, one game in which men come into personal conflict with one another."

The charge of frequent serious injuries, leading to permanent weaknesses which prove a handicap to the victim in later life, would be important and almost unanswerable, if it could be established. But the subject has again and again been investigated and invariably the charge has been proven untrue. I have written to a number of Bucknell and Chicago football men and have not heard of a single case where football has hindered a man from being physically what he might have been, had he never entered the game, but on the contrary they have testified that they were better fitted for life's tasks. Thanks to a good physical heredity and proper hygiene, I can testify that during the past twenty-five years, I have not missed a single day's professional engagements on account of illness.

The president of Yale said in 1906 that football was not only not an exceedingly dangerous game, as played at our colleges, but the least dangerous of our more important sports, and asserted that during the thirty years that they had played American Rugby football at Yale, there had been no death and to the best of his knowledge no grave case of permanent injury. Those who are best informed tell me that the same statement might be made concerning football at Chicago and Bucknell.

NEWSPAPER FOOTBALL

If reporters were held to more accurate statements of facts in reference to accidents, and if newspapers were less given to the sensational "scare headline" habit, the public would be nearer the truth. The Sunday papers sometimes have left the reader wondering whether any of the pig-skin warriors would survive the campaign. "Newspaper football" has always been a most deadly sport, but all football players know that almost all of these injuries exist only in the imagination of the reporters.

Impartial investigations, covering thousands of men who played football in our leading institutions for a score of years bring out the almost unanimous opinion that the game had been of marked benefit to them, both in the way of general physical development and of mental discipline, and that the injuries received were generally unimportant and far outweighed by the benefits.

It requires such a game which has the element of danger in it to furnish opportunity for the development of courage and fortitude. It develops a physical manhood which is very desirable and is conducive to courage and the spirit that would disregard safety and abandon one's self to duty. Ex-President Roosevelt said at a Harvard Alumni dinner: "I believe in outdoor games and I do not mind in the least that they are rough games, or that those who take part in them are occasionally injured. I have no sympathy whatever with the overwrought sentimentality which would keep a young man in cotton-wool, and I have a hearty contempt for him if he counts a broken arm or a collar-bone as of serious consequence when balanced against the chance of showing that he possesses hardihood, physical address and courage." No youth with bone and muscle and red blood in him, comes to his own without somewhere and somehow a chance at the physical tryout with worthy adversaries.

Football also has a moral value. Notwithstanding all that has been said against the game, we believe that it has a spirit worth saving to our American student life. It has a mission that no other game can serve so well. The good secured infinitely surpasses the harm done. It is not a mere co-incidence that the old drinking and carousing of a generation or two ago, the smashing of windows and destruction of property and hazing characteristic of that time, disappeared from college life with the development of football. The critics of the game should remember that the coming in of athletics has lessened very distinctly certain evil tendencies and dangers in college life by serving as a superb moral safety-valve.

FOOTBALL DEVELOPS CHARACTER

I am a firm believer in the game because it is so virile and because when properly played it develops so many qualities of character that we most admire. What we want to develop morally in athletics is cleanness, honesty, sport and fair-play. The trainer or coach should be made to feel that high moral standards and the spirit of fair-play are more important than victory; that in fact anything must be sacrificed, even the game itself, before unfair practices are either encouraged or tolerated.

I believe that our college athletics should be under the direction and control of a man of high moral standards, who should be a member of the faculty and whose special training along practical, scholastic and technical lines is as thorough as that of any other professor. Such is the arrangement at the University of Chicago where "Old Man" Stagg has a greater moral influence over the boys than has the chaplain of the University.

It is a game fitted to develop college enthusiasm and loyalty and increase intercollegiate sportsmanship, bringing out man's best individual traits and making strong bodies and men. But, if the desire to win is allowed to outrun everything else, that tendency will be in its moral ruin. A player who strikes another in anger or tries to "do him up" is a disgrace to his college and, instead of being applauded, should be made to feel the disgrace by his fellow-students.

FOOTBALL AND SELF-DISCIPLINE

More than any other game football helps to develop not only a strong, healthy body, but also a character of courage, fairness and self-control. It was well said at a Yale-Harvard football dinner that if violent encounters on the football field do lead to the temptation of brutality and foul-play, they also give opportunities for resisting this temptation, and consequently for the development of the highest forms of courage and self-control.

Football has been vehemently criticized because it is a "fighting game," but others say that this is one of its chief merits. As President Hall, of Clark University, has said: "An able-bodied young man who cannot fight physically can hardly have a high and true sense of honor, and is generally a milksop, a lady-boy, or a sneak. He lacks virility, his masculinity does not ring true, his honesty cannot be sound to the core. Hence, instead of eradicating this instinct, one of the greatest problems of physical and moral pedagogy is rightly to temper and direct it." H. Addington Bruce, in writing on "The Psychology of Football," declares that it is a wonderful aid to self-revelation and to self-mastery. "It does tend, as some critics have sneeringly declared, to bring out any underlying meanness there may be in a player; but, having brought it out, it tends still more strongly to do away with it. The 'tripper', the 'slugger', the unfair player of any sort, is usually despised even by his own teammates, to whose advantage his tactics would naturally redound, and, if the coach and captain are the right kind, he is forced pretty quickly either to change his ways or get off the team." Many men testify to the help received from the game in developing self-control and, by playing the game, have made themselves men worthy to play the game.

FOOTBALL AND EFFICIENCY

Football develops greater efficiency for any vocation in life; the mental faculties are made more alert by those features of the game which call for quickness of perception and lightning-like decision. It cultivates determination, that comprehensive quality called "pluck", and above all, powers of reasoning and generalship. Football is a science as truly as war. It has been called "the most scientific game in the world." To win a game of football, the most intricate plans of attack and defense must be employed. As Mr. Bruce well says: "The suddenness and rapidity with which plays may be varied, the necessity of being constantly on the watch to anticipate some shrewd move by the other side, the instant and resourceful planning needed to remedy an unlooked-for weakness in defense, make assuredly for the development of just those mental traits most helpful to success not only on the football field, but in the larger arena of the world" both as citizen and soldier.

Football also cultivates attention and obedience, as orders must be heard and obeyed instantly. The qualities of obedience and courage are two qualities essential to the highest manhood. It has been well said that promptness in obedience to proper authority and courage in the face of imminent danger are absolutely indispensable to the highest development and preservation of our Christian civilization.

FOOTBALL AND TEAM-WORK

And, finally, football teaches that most valuable lesson of "team-work;" that while no one by his own unaided efforts, however brilliant, can win the victory, by his slackness or cowardice or his failure to co-operate with his fellows, he may bring defeat. Quoting an English football authority: "The player gets some elementary conception of the salient truth that the great results in this world are attained only when men work loyally and heartily together for the attainment of a common end. He learns also that self-restraint which is one of the three virtues which lead up to sovereign power. He learns pluck, and he learns how to concentrate his efforts; he learns, above all, justice to an opponent, and that the essential condition of corporate action is the strict adherence to law. He must not only play up; he must play the game.

ATHLETICS AND THE WAR

It is not surprising that the casualty lists from the belligerent countries of Europe contain a high percentage of the names of well-known athletes. The same qualities, that lead a man to dive from full speed in a tackle, are among the qualities which fit him for high deeds when he is called to charge across the greater gridiron called "no man's land," which lies between the smoking trenches of Teutonic and allied armies. The young men of America, who lead all the young men of the world in all-round athletic distinction, can be counted on as a valuable asset to their country in this time of great world crisis. President Wilson says: "The whole nation must be a team in which each man shall play the part for which he is best fitted."

Football holds up an ideal of self-denial and self-control, severe toil and indifference to fatigue, obedience to orders and absolute physical courage, quick and accurate thinking coincident with extreme physical effort, desperate determination with the will to win, and many other manly, soldierly qualities. The fierceness of the attack, the obstinacy of the defense and the intensity of the struggle, inspired by loyalty to a college ideal and by a feeling close akin to patriotism, are but an earnest of that indomitable spirit that will assure the peace of victory in our supreme struggle for the fundamentals of civilization, when the honor of our flag and the rights of mankind are at stake.

BUCKNELL RINGS ARE AVAILABLE

Bucknell rings are now available for both graduates and non-graduates of the University. The rings come in gold with a choice of four different settings — blue onyx, sardonyx, ruby, and sapphire. As the picture shows, the class year is incorporated in the design of the ring. Fraternity seals may be added to the stone.

According to L. G. Balfour Company, that concern has in its possession at the present time practically all the stones of this type in the United States. These stones are imported and are not available at any price at the present time. They have decided to allow their prices to stand until the supply is exhausted hoping that in the meantime the situation may be relieved. However, any Bucknellian who is anticipating buying a ring would do well to do so at once. Send all inquiries and orders to the Alumni Office; they will receive immediate consideration.

Greetings from The President

Dear Bucknellians:

Your Alma Mater, and I personally, send you sincere greetings for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

I think that I could send you no better message than to repeat the recent words of a college student whose college has been bombed frequently this year. This young man at Kwangsi University in China said,

"Even though we shall be bombed again tomorrow, we are not afraid! A better world must come out of this, and we are eager to have a part in creating it."

We are not afraid!

Let us not be as much concerned about what 1941 may have in store for us, as we are concerned about what we may have in store for 1941. May all Bucknellians bring to 1941 increased courage, and faith, and loyalty to the Bucknell Way of Life — the way of intelligence, of integrity, and of brotherhood.

With kind personal regards,

Bucknell To Formally Celebrate Ninety-Fifth Anniversary

ON February 5, ninety-five years ago, a charter was granted to the Northumberland Baptist Association giving it the right to establish a college — a college which has become endeared to us as Bucknell University, our Alma Mater. We may proudly look back over the ninety-five years of Bucknell's outstanding history and note the steady progress she has made. An increase in student enrollment from 22 to 1,316; the introduction of new courses and the development of a distinguished faculty; the construction of new buildings and the purchasing of modern equipment are but a few examples of Bucknell's growth.

ALUMNI CLUBS TO JOIN CELEBRATION

Since it will be impossible for Bucknellians from all parts of the country to gather together at one particular place on February 5, 1941, Bucknell Alumni Clubs and alumni groups are urged to celebrate Bucknell's Ninety-fifth Anniversary in their own communities. The Alumni Office will assist you in completing plans for a celebration by your alumni group. Join Bucknellians throughout the world in commemorating nearly a century of Bucknell's glorious existence.

A Vision
1846

Ninety-five years ago, along these shores of the picturesque Susquehanna River, a small group of leaders saw their tireless efforts rewarded by the establishment of the University at Lewisburg. With its founding went their hopes and prayers that it would gradually increase its educational opportunities and service to ambitious young men and young women and some day become a leading institution of higher learning.

A Reality

Keeping faith with the founding fathers, Bucknell University has steadily expanded its service to youth during the past ninety-five years and has attained a position of prominence as one of the leading small co-educational colleges in America.

President's Page

Dear Bucknellians:

EDITOR'S NOTE

A distinct honor has come to Bucknell by the appointment of our beloved President to the position of Director of the newly created Council of Defense for Pennsylvania. When President Marts was requested by Governor James to organize and direct the work of the Defense Council for Pennsylvania, he accepted the appointment because of its patriotic nature. Dr. Marts will continue as President of Bucknell, returning to the campus each Thursday to perform his administrative duties. He has stated: "I shall be only on a partial leave for a few months."

The Governor's Office in announcing the appointment of Dr. Marts to the Defense Council issued the following statement: "The Board of Trustees of Bucknell University and the Board of Directors of Marts and Lundy, Inc., New York City, each of which commands one-half of Mr. Marts' time, have agreed that he should render this patriotic service for a few months and have extended him a leave of absence for that period except for certain duties which no one else would be able to take over. Both Boards have stipulated that he return to his regular duties just as soon as he can get the work of the Defense Council organized and Governor James feels he can be released without injury to the Defense Program."

Commencement time will soon be here, — June 7, 8, and 9. Are you planning to come back at that time? I hope so, for it does Bucknell an immense amount of good to know that her sons and daughters care enough about her to gather from far and near on this important annual occasion.

Have you seen the campus in recent years — these Three Hundred Acres set apart for the inspiration and guidance of youth? Have you met the men and women who are now teaching the Bucknell Way of Life — successors to that long line of splendid teachers known to older Bucknellians? Have you become acquainted with the students who are now on the campus, walking the paths which you once climbed?

Come back whenever you can and keep your knowledge of Bucknell fresh and up-to-date. I particularly invite you to our 1941 Commencement.

Did you read a few weeks ago the statement by Dr. F. P. Keppel, president of the Carnegie Corporation, which has done so much for American colleges and universities, in regard to the future of our nation's private colleges? He said, in effect, that, in consequence of present trends toward a new economy in America, some of our private colleges will not be able to endure and will be weeded out in the years ahead.

Many of you have asked me if I agree with Dr. Keppel, and what bearing this prophecy may have upon the future of Bucknell. I do agree with Dr. Keppel. We have many small colleges in America which are not sufficiently well established, or located, or accredited, to survive the economic adjustments and the academic competition which lie ahead. They will doubtless be weeded out.

But as to the bearing which this prophecy may have upon the future of your Alma Mater, my reply is — Bucknell is not a weed, and it will survive the most difficult days which I can imagine. It will not only survive, but it will, in my opinion, grow steadily in power and effectiveness and prestige. It is superbly located, splendidly established, and will, I believe, be a permanent factor in the educational and spiritual life of America.

Put your ear to the heart of Bucknell. You will hear and feel the throb of vigorous life, of zest, of high purpose and courage for the task of fitting the minds and spirits of Bucknell youth for the thrilling new world which they will soon inherit.

With kindest regards,

Yours sincerely,

Richard C. Marts

Ninety-Fifth Charter Day Celebrated

President Marts, Admiral Stark, and Mrs. Harriman Speak
During Broadcast; Alumni Clubs Hold Meetings

ON February 5, Bucknell's ninety-fifth birthday was celebrated by her sons and daughters, friends, and distinguished citizens who paid tribute to her glorious record. Throughout the world, wherever Bucknellians happened to be, their thoughts turned toward their Alma Mater and the valued contributions she has made to their lives. They paused for a few brief moments as their memories recalled days spent in an environment of work and play, filled with inspiration, knowledge, guidance, and friendship which has since given them the power to adjust themselves to success and adversity as they constantly retain an ever increasing desire of service to man. Proud of her past and filled with abounding hope for her future, they joined in an outstanding and distinctive birthday celebration.

The New York Bucknell Metropolitan Alumni Association acted as host for its Alma Mater's birthday party with a gala celebration at Hotel Astor, Times Square, New York City. From this "crossroads of the world", far from the old campus oaks, originated the Bucknell broadcast designed primarily to give all youth new hope and inspiration. Amid the splendor of beautifully decorated ballrooms, Bucknellians in formal dress assembled at 6:30 p.m., to join in real fellowship. A delicious seven-course dinner was served to approximately three hundred alumni and guests. At various times throughout the meal selections were sung by a quartet from the Bucknell University Men's Glee Club. Some of the prominent personages present were: Dr. Arnaud C. Marts, president of the University; Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, United States Minister to Norway; Prince Hubertus zu Loewenstein, lecturer for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; Mr. E. A. Snyder, president of the General Alumni Association; Mr. Rush H. Kress, past president of the Athletic Council and newly elected president of the Bison Club; Mr. O. V. W. Hawkins, president of the New York Branch of the Metropolitan Alumni Association; and Mr. M. R. Buffington, president of the New Jersey Branch of the Metropolitan Association. The Trenton Alumni Club, of which Mr. Harold W. Griffith is president, and the Monmouth County Alumni Club, of which Mr. William M. Lybarger is president, attended the New York celebration.

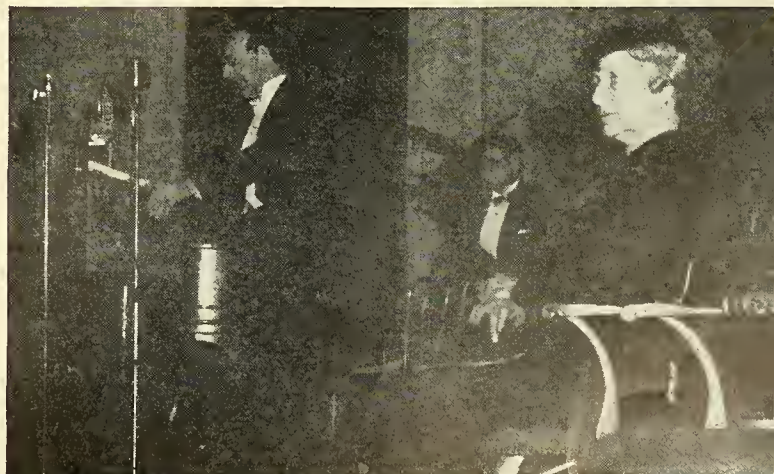

Perhaps the most impressive part of the banquet was the serving of the final course with fitting ceremony. While the Bucknell Glee Club sang, a huge birthday cake decorated with orange and blue trimmings was carried into the banquet hall by the head waiter who led a procession of thirty waiters carrying large trays on which were placed dishes of molded orange and blue ice cream bearing tiny lighted candles. As the waiters encircled the room and then moved to their respective tables, the soft glow of the candles seemed to make the Bucknell Spirit burn more brightly than ever in the hearts of alumni and friends.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT AND BROADCAST AT HOTEL ASTOR

At 8:45 p.m., those who attended the banquet adjourned to the North Ballroom where they joined about 500 prospective students and other alumni. Together they listened to a concert given by the Bucknell University Men's Glee Club which was making its annual tour of the Atlantic States, they also enjoyed the new motion picture, "Going to Bucknell", and later listened to a half-hour radio broadcast which originated from that room.

When introducing the Bucknell radio program, "What America Expects of Its Youth Today", President Marts explained that we were not going to use the facilities of the Mutual Broadcasting System for "the selfish purpose of glorifying Bucknell", but we were going "to use our time in an endeavor to render a broader service to all American youth at one of the most crucial moments in the history of our Republic".

Glee Club Concert—Hotel Astor

President Marts said that he is not surprised that the youth of today are saying, "We are all mixed up", for those of college age "find themselves living in a world almost the exact opposite from the world which they had been taught all their short lives to expect". Therefore, "our youth need counsel at this bewildering time — they need it and they seek it".

Bucknell's president then introduced the first speaker, Admiral Harold R. Stark, Chief of the United States Naval Operations, who spoke from Washington, D. C., where the Washington Alumni Club acted as his host. President Marts said, "He is a warm friend of Bucknell . . . He is a warm-hearted friend of all youth. America is fortunate in having at the head of our Navy an officer who is not only a genius of naval strategy, but who also understands the human qualities of the men and boys who man our great naval machine, and who knows that their courage and spirit are the real power of the great American Navy".

The following is a summary of the radio address given by Admiral Stark upon the occasion of the celebration of the Ninety-Fifth Anniversary of Bucknell University:

"I have spent most of my life at sea, working with young men drawn from the length and breadth of our land. For these young men the Navy demands the best in materiel, that science, research, and mechanical ingenuity can devise; but the Navy realizes that even more important than materiel, is the character of the youth who make up its fighting strength, where discipline, cheerful obedience, intelligence, sound bodies and wholesome minds are essential to the individual and to the team play required.

"Recent history gives merciless proof that any country which makes ready ONLY for material defense is preparing itself for defeat. Hope of security also demands the upbuilding of national character into more heroic stature.

"We talk much of our material production, of bottle-necks, strikes, etc., — We have need also to check up on our spiritual progress — our National character.

"The character of our youth is the bed rock upon which the Country must build for the future. It will always constitute our first great line of defense.

"Youth is a time for ideals and if these ideals are to endure they must be sound, must inspire faith and allegiance, must command loyalty. If they

Phi Beta Kappa is Installed at Bucknell

ANOTHER milestone in the history of Bucknell University was laid when a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, nationally famous scholastic society, was formally established on November 7. Seventeen notable Bucknellians — nine alumni, six faculty members, one undergraduate, and one trustee — were initiated into the newly established chapter.

The formal presentation of the Charter and the colorful installation service were preceded by several events. In the morning at 11:00 o'clock, a special chapel service was held in the Davis Gymnasium. During this part of the day's proceedings, Miss Marjorie Nicolson, president of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, spoke in an interesting manner on the topic, "Light, Liberty, and Learning" — the three so-called objectives of those who are interested in furthering scholasticism in the world of today.

Over 300 invited guests — the officers of the fraternity, the delegates from the various chapters and alumni associations of Phi Beta Kappa, trustees, faculty members, and special friends of Bucknell — were entertained at a tea in the afternoon and a formal dinner in the evening. Dr. William A. Shimer, dean of the faculty at Bucknell and national secretary of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, served as toastmaster during the dinner, while Miss Nicolson and Dr. Arnaud C. Marts were the principal speakers.

The events of the whole day were most fittingly brought to a climax in a colorful ceremony in Davis Gymnasium on the evening of November 7. Miss Marjorie H. Nicolson, president of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa for this triennial year, formally presented the Charter to the Mu Chapter at Bucknell University, and Dr. Frank P. Graves, former president of the University of the State of New York and a former president of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, made the principal address at the installation service. Dr. Graves chose as the topic of his address, "A Fossil from the Tertiary".

With fitting ceremony, Phi Beta Kappa keys were presented by Dr. Arnaud C. Marts, Chapter and University president, to the seventeen charter members who represent classes from 1897 to the present year, 1941. Raymond P. Underwood of Mount Holly, New Jersey, president of the Bucknell student body, was the only undergraduate to receive Phi Beta Kappa honors. Six Bucknell faculty members, Dr. R. H. Rivenburg, dean and vice-president of the University; Dr. Floyd G. Ballentine, professor of Latin; Prof. Frank M. Simpson, professor of physics; Dr. W. H. Coleman, professor of English; Dr. N. H. Stewart, professor of zoology; and Dr. G. B. Lawson, professor emeritus of philosophy received Phi Beta Kappa keys. In addition to the three faculty members who are Bucknell Alumni, nine other Bucknellians were selected on the basis of high scholastic attainments while in school and unusual achievements since leaving college to be members of Mu Chapter. These alumni are: Dr. Frank Anderson, Des Moines, Iowa, executive secretary of the Iowa Baptist convention; Mrs. Edwin J. Armstrong, Yellow Springs, Ohio, noted educator; Roy G. Bostwick, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, lawyer; Dr. Harold N. Cole, Cleveland, Ohio, physician and specialist; Dr. Charles C. Fries, Ann Arbor, Michigan, professor at University of Michigan; Reese Harris, Scranton, Pennsylvania, lawyer and son of the late John Howard Harris; Mrs. William I. Mahaffey, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, prominent contralto and daughter of the late Emory W. Hunt; Mrs. L. L. Rockwell, Hamilton, N. Y., author of children's books; and Miss Sue Weddell, New York, executive secretary of the Women's Board of Foreign Missions for the Reformed Church.

A Bucknell trustee, Alfred C. Howell, vice-president of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, is the only one of the seventeen persons elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa who did not attend college. When speaking of him, President Marts declared that the noted banker "is a better educated man by his own efforts than are many graduates of colleges and universities".

Bucknell is indeed proud that it is one of 141 colleges throughout the country which has a Phi Beta Kappa Chapter to which its outstanding alumni and undergraduates may belong.

Bison Club and Athletic Council are Entertained at Dinner at Hotel Wellington, Philadelphia

The Bison Club Becomes An Important Alumni Organization

By G. GRANT PAINTER, '17

Secretary, Bison Club

The Bison Club was organized approximately a year ago with objects as set forth in the proposed Constitution and By-Laws as follows: "to stimulate interest in intercollegiate athletics at Bucknell University and to increase the prestige of its teams and improve their relations with the teams of other educational institutions; to aid in developing the character and skill of the teams and their members representing Bucknell; to foster and maintain athletic traditions at Bucknell; to secure for the alumni of Bucknell adequate representation on the councils that guide and direct the athletic policy at Bucknell; and to provide an opportunity for the alumni to unify their support of athletics at Bucknell."

Since its founding, the Bison Club has made unusual progress. The first meeting of the Club was held last spring at commencement time. This meeting was followed by a meeting of the Club at Philadelphia when its members and the members of the Athletic Council, together with the Trustees and alumni, were the guests of Mr. Kress at the Hotel Wellington on December 19, 1940. Pictures of this meeting are shown on the opposite page. During the week-end of March 22, Mr. Kress again entertained members of the Athletic Council, Bison Club officers and members, and alumni at his home, "Rockhill", Ossining, New York, at which time the Athletic Council was completely re-organized and a new Constitution and By-Laws were adopted. At this meeting Mr. Kress resigned as president of the Athletic Council, and A. R.

Mathieson, '20, was elected to succeed him. Mr. Kress has been elected president of the Bison Club to succeed the late Boyd L. Newcomb, '18, whose untimely death has been mourned by his many friends.

The first activity of the Bison Club has been to help eliminate the debt of the Athletic Council which amounts to approximately $50,000. The membership of the Bison Club has already received pledges amounting to $40,025.66. Mr. Kress is now planning to complete this activity of the Club by developing a new program to raise the balance of the indebtedness. This is to be done by increasing the membership of the Bison Club, and all Bucknellians who are interested in the improvement of athletics at Bucknell, as well as the advancement of the University by the reduction of its indebtedness, are urged to join.

Women are taking an active interest in the Bison Club. Several alumnae are wearing the Bison Club insignia. Miss Emma E. Dillon, '15, prominent Trenton lawyer and a member of the New Jersey Bar Association, had the honor of being the first woman member. Miss Mary Speece, '18, a teacher in the Atlantic City High School and secretary of the Bucknell Alumni Club in that city; Dr. Mary M. Wolfe, '96, of Lewisburg, a trustee of the University; and Mrs. John S. Cregar, nee Dorothy Riker, '28, of Westfield, N. J., are also members of the Bison Club. It is hoped that more Bucknell alumnae will be attracted to this organization and become affiliated with it.

A Constitution and By-Laws for the Bison Club have been prepared by a committee of which O. V. W. Hawkins is chairman. These will be submitted for adoption at the meeting of the Bison Club to be held on Alumni Day, Saturday, June 7, at the Hotel Lewisburger. One of the important matters at the June meeting of the Bison Club will be the nomination of six members to the Athletic Council as provided in the new Constitution and By-Laws of the Athletic Council.

Andrew R. Mathieson, '20

Andrew R. Mathieson, '20, Assistant to the Vice-President of the United States Steel Corporation of Pittsburgh, is the newly elected president of the Athletic Council. Mr. Mathieson has served Bucknell in many ways since his graduation in 1920. Several years ago he was president of the Bucknell Alumni Club of Pittsburgh. Last spring he was re-elected vice-president of the General Alumni Association of Bucknell University, and, before the Athletic Council meeting on March 22 at "Rockhill", Ossining, New York, Mr. Mathieson was also vice-president of the Athletic Council. As president of the Council, Mr. Mathieson will be in a position to offer further service to his Alma Mater.

A breakfast meeting of the Bison Club will be held on Saturday, June 7, at the Hotel Lewisburger, 8:30 a.m.

Mortar Board Installed at Bucknell

Another significant step in scholastic achievement at Bucknell was the installation of a chapter of Mortar Board, national women's honorary society, on February 16, 1941.

All the present members of C. E. A., the local honorary society for women, were initiated into the new chapter. These members include eight seniors: Frances Gilson, president of C. E. A.; Louise Brosius, vice-president; Virginia Engle, secretary; Jean Hechler, treasurer; Margaret Symington, Dorothy Outman, Janet Cristadora, and Dorothy Derr; and eight former members of the local group: Mary Hanning Zonarini, '38, Ruth Leppart, '40, Bernice Henry, '39, Katherine Webb, '40, Hazel Jackson, '37, Mildred Wily Cowperthwaite, '36, Elizabeth Ann Wray, '37, and Irene Piszczek, '37.

Mrs. Coleman of Lincoln, Nebraska, national president of the society, Miss Myra Hall of Washington, sectional director, Miss Wohlflod of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Arnaud C. Marts, who was made an honorary member of the Bucknell chapter, were present at the Mortar Board service, tea, banquet, and initiation ceremonies. Bucknell University is the seventy-third college to have a Mortar Board chapter.

Physics Department Moves Into New Laboratories

With the completion of the Engineering Building, the Electrical Engineering Department vacated its old quarters in the south end of the basement of East College, leaving that space available for the Physics Department.

Under the able direction of Professor Burpee, the plans proposed by Professor W. N. Lowry were carried out to make this room a modern laboratory for the experimental work in first-year physics. Professor Burpee is to be congratulated on the excellent result he has achieved, which was made possible through the effective interest of President Marts, who obtained a special appropriation to finance the work.

Wooden desks were built on both sides of the big, south room, affording work surfaces on top with apparatus storage space below. New service lines with A. C., D. C., air, gas, water, and drains were installed around the walls, and the lighting system renovated. The old iron columns were enclosed with wooden paneling and have proven distinct aids for mounting equipment.

The shop was moved to the northwest corner of the building and the old apparatus room has been enlarged with cupboards, drawers, and shelves built in to take care of equipment, and a counter, provided with a large dispensing window.

The class room was enlarged and different seats were installed; more blackboard space was made available.

The steps leading to the dormitories on the floors above were torn out, and a small room built, which provides a place for some advanced work, as well as a power switch board for general distribution purposes and a motor generator set.

New plaster where needed, modern heating units, and paint added the final touches, together with a fine concrete entrance on the south end of the building.

The photograph shows a portion of the former E. E. laboratory now known as "Room P". In the foreground on a table is shown one of the five magnetometers given to the Physics Department by a prominent Chicago alumnus, Major A. Langsner, who has made several contributions of equipment to the Physics Department.

At present plans are being proposed to complete the operation by remodeling the old rooms on the north end of the building. When this is achieved, the Physics Department can well be proud of its improved quarters.

A MESSAGE TO THE ALUMNI

By E. A. Snyder, '11,
President, General Alumni Association

We are on the home stretch of Bucknell's ninety-fifth scholastic year. Commencement week is just around the corner at which time we will add several hundred more alumni to our rolls. Each year our General Alumni Association is growing larger and more active in the affairs of our University. This past year has been one of our most active alumni periods. Thirty-seven local alumni clubs have held regular and frequent meetings from which have come inspiration and tangible and effective aid for Alma Mater. If we select some of the high lights of the past year's alumni activities, we might point to the reorganization and revitalization of our Athletic Council and to the loyal aid of those alumni whose cooperation has enabled us to wipe out a large part of the enormous debt that for years has been handicapping the work of the Council. Complete liquidation of this debt is now practically assured. A Bison Club of alumni and friends has been formed by means of which we hope to solve many of our past athletic problems. Aid to our University in the form of needed equipment and monetary gifts has come from many of the alumni. All of these and other accomplishments have been greatly aided by the enthusiastic activity of the various local clubs. The strength of our General Alumni Association is almost entirely dependent on the strength of these local clubs. To help them in their organization and work, an Alumni Club Officer's Handbook was prepared this year by our secretary, Mr. Francis Lybarger, Jr., and copies were sent to all clubs.

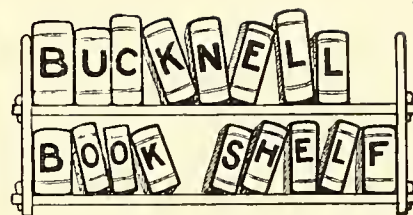

For some years we have realized that the By-Laws of our General Alumni Association are out-moded. Developed for a centralized and complex organization, these By-Laws fail to serve our present decentralized activities which are producing stronger and more active local clubs with greater benefit to Bucknell. In an effort to bring the By-Laws in line with our present conception of most effective alumni association service, a committee under the chairmanship of Mr. O. V. W. Hawkins was appointed to prepare a suggested revision of them. Elsewhere in this issue you will find this proposed revision with an introduction explaining the plan of organization. If you have any criticisms, comments, or suggestions concerning the plan of the By-Laws, please mail them to Mr. Hawkins or one of the officers of the Association before May 10, so your committee will have time to consider them before the annual meeting in June when the revised By-Laws will be presented for adoption.

May I also call attention to the ballot for Alumni Trustee found in this issue of the Monthly. Please mark it with your vote, tear it out, and mail it to the Alumni Secretary. Eight alumni have been nominated for this important office and deserve your consideration. Let us secure a large total vote for this important office and make the winner feel that we alumni expect real service from our representative on the Board of Trustees.

In closing may I express my sincere thanks to one and all for your loyal help and support during the past two years. Let us all keep pushing Bucknell to the top. The old adage says "There is always room at the top", and Bucknell must never be crowded.

THE NEW PIONEERS. By Vera Cober Rockwell, '11. Jacket by Marguerite Rockwell, '39. Frontispiece by Carol Rockwell, '37. Boston: W. A. Wilde Company, 1940. $1.50.

This rapid-moving story for teenage boys and girls recounts the experiences of Red Pennbury and Curt Powell in organizing a junior community against sinister opposition. As Junior Mayor Curt unites the youths of Parketown in a successful organization which demonstrates that the Junior Citizens are not only worthwhile, but actually necessary for the best interests of the town. Juvenile delinquency is no longer a problem when every youngster has the opportunity to become socially useful and to work profitably at interesting tasks.

Mrs. Rockwell has dramatized some of the ideas of William R. George, founder of the George Junior Republics, whom she assisted in the preparation of an autobiography. Yet the author's narrative skill, crisp dialogue, and thrilling presentation of real-life incidents and problems make the thesis implicit in the events; the story never lags. It will stimulate youngsters and oldsters alike to see more clearly the proper place of youth in community life.

—Harry R. Warfel, '20

Bucknell will be honored by having Admiral Harold R. Stark, Chief of the Naval Operations of the United States Navy, speak at the Commencement Exercises on Monday, June 9. Admiral Stark's subject will be "Graduating from a College into a World at War."

BASKETBALL 1940-1941

The 1940-1941 basketball season at Bucknell was quite successful. We won ten and lost seven games and finished in a tie for second place in the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate League.

Despite a slow start, touched off by a poor demonstration against our initial 1940-41 season foe, Penn State, the team overcame many handicaps and continued to show vast improvements with each succeeding game. I believe the team presented its best court game of the campaign against Albright at Reading. The factors which were responsible for the excellent showing of the quintet in the last two months of the season were, in my estimation, as follows: (1) better backboard play, offensive and defensive, (2) better timing of offensive plays, (3) improved defense, and (4) better team play.

Perhaps the most important reason for the team's improved court work following Christmas is attributed to the generosity of some members of the Athletic Council, who also made it possible to take movies of several of our home games the past season. The movies proved a decided asset in improving individual and team play since errors unperceived through customary vision were easily detected on the screen.

Three of the 1940-41 basketball squad members are sons of former Bucknellians. They include Fred Fahringer, Jr., son of Freddie Fahringer, '15, Janesville, Wisconsin; Ed Glass, son of C. E. (Leo) Glass, '16, Dormont; and George Haines, Jr., the team's leading scorer, son of Rev. George F. Haines, '13, Clarion. Other varsity courtmen are Raymond H. Armor, Ingram; Albin Baker, Nanticoke; Kenneth Baserman, Johnstown; Paul Burke, Coatesville; Joseph Buzas, Alpha, N. J.; W. J. Culbertson, York; Jack Dedrick, Roselle, N. J.; John McElhany, Hershey; and Robert Nolan, Trenton, N. J.

Three men on the squad, Armor, Baserman, and Haines made the Dean's List in February, denoting high scholarship.

BOXING 1941

Bucknell's boxers did a lot of hard punching this season, enough, in fact, to bring them to the end of one of the most successful seasons enjoyed by an Orange and Blue ring crew.

The 1941 season record read like this: Won two, tied two, and lost two.

Despite the appearance of only one veteran when the call was issued for "leather-pushing" candidates, an anxious group of novices volunteered to do all they could to win varsity berths with the Bucknell battlers. From the latter group emerged Frank Garro of Philadelphia who completed the season undefeated, and Marv Gerla of Brooklyn, N. Y., the Bison's new "knockout" king, who chalked up five technical knockouts during the campaign. Garro and Gerla are products of Bucknell's intramural boxing tournament. Garro entered the National Collegiate tournament at Penn State in March and lost in the first round of the matches.

George Boner of Gilberton, veteran Bucknell heavy-weight, conquered all opponents besides annexing two decisions via the forfeit route. Boner was lost to the squad late in the season when circumstances forced him to leave school for the second semester. With one remaining dual-meet, John McElhany of Hershey took over the heavy-weight chores and turned in a victory.

A search for a permanent pugilist for the 175-lb. slot commenced with Marty Neff of Red Lion, Pa., switched to Walter Wenrick of Royersford and Steve Sokol of Johnstown, N. Y., and ended with Joe Buzas, all-around athlete, handling the reins.

Robert Northrup of Canton started the season in the 127-lb. class. Captain Art Kleindienst of Maplewood, N. J., who had been ill, took over the 127-lb. slot upon recovery and finished the campaign with two victories.

Norman Emmert of Norristown started the swinging for the Bisons in the 135-lb. berth and Earl Grose of Beckley, W. Va., completed the assignment. Emil Kordish of Winfield, L. I., N. Y., facing stiff opposition all season, performed yeoman work in the 155-lb. division.

The record:

Bucknell	Opponents
2	Army 6
4	C. C. N. Y. 4
4	Temple 4
3	Michigan State 5
5 1/2	Rutgers 2 1/2
5	West Virginia 3

SPRING SPORTS 1941

A stiff 14-game schedule, a half-dozen veterans, and an equal number of promising freshman and sophomore ball players — that's the baseball picture at Bucknell for 1941.

Coach John Sitarsky must bolster his pitching staff and find replacements for '40 regulars Captain Jack Kessler, first sacker; George Kiick, dependable backstop; Joe Buzas, shortstop and pitcher, who has joined the Norfolk Club of the New York Yankees; and Gil Hickie and Bill Allen, outfielders.

Among the Bison veterans who will form the nucleus for the '41 Bucknell nine are: Harry Reynolds, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; Willard Ronk, West Chester; Bob Nolan, Trenton, N. J.; John Bachman, Stroudsburg; Stan Bear, Newville; Fay Billings, New Hartford, N. Y.; Harry Doenges, Philadelphia; and Dean Kearsh, Hollis, N. Y.

The complete 1941 schedule:

April 18	Susquehanna	Home
April 19	Dickinson	Away
April 23	Elizabethtown	Home
April 26	Juniata	Home
April 29	Susquehanna	Away
April 30	Dickinson	Home
May 3	Drexel	Home
May 6	Ursinus	Away
May 9	Moravian	Home
May 14	Gettysburg	Away
May 15	Lebanon Valley	Away
May 23	Moravian	Away
May 24	Muhlenberg	Away
May 27	Penn State	Away

Track is one phase of Bucknell sports life that brings out a large number of candidates. From there on it's up to Coach John Plant to narrow down the fertile field and form a varsity crew from the "cream of the crop".

The situation in 1941, although not too bright, is nevertheless encouraging, as six dual meets await the track and field aspirants. Bucknell will also enter a relay team at the

Twenty-Six Sons and Daughters of Bucknellians are Members of the Freshman Class

Bucknell is proud that this year's freshman class has twenty-six members who are the sons and daughters of Bucknellians. The names of these freshmen and their parents who attended Bucknell are as follows: Mary Elizabeth Baldwin, daughter of Mrs. Edwin D. Baldwin, nee Mary Carey, '19; Ralph E. Bell, Jr., son of Dr. Ralph E. Bell, '14; David E. Clement, son of Charles W. Clement, '98; John R. Conover, Jr., son of Dr. John R. Conover, '12; Mary Elizabeth Evans, daughter of Mrs. W. Kelton Evans, the former Edith M. Horton, '17; David H. Gold, son of Prof. John S. Gold, '18; Paul M. Eyster, son of Dr. William H. Eyster, '14; Marie Grabowski, daughter of Sidney Grabowski, '15; Herbert C. Grice, Jr., son of Herbert C. Grice, '18, and Emmalee Fisher Grice, '21; Gloria A. Haggerty, daughter of Mr. Matt E. Haggerty, '09, and Olive Long Haggerty, '12; Dorothy L. Heller, daughter of Mrs. H. J. Heller, nee Martha O. Ackenback; John L. Hilbish, son of John C. Hilbish, '11; Merlin E. Jones, son of Henry S. Jones, '06; Fae M. Lepley, daughter of Joseph S. Lepley, '18; Peggy E. Naumann, daughter of Mrs. Louis A. Naumann, nee Violet Wetterau, '12; Walter L. Noll, Jr., son of Walter L. Noll, '08; B. Louise Rosenberger, daughter of Howard Landis Rosenberger, '18; C. Susan Savidge, daughter of Ralph Savidge, '00; William H. Schnure, son of Frederick O. Schnure, '14; Mary H. Shreve, daughter of Lyman C. Shreve, '11;

Anne E. Stevenson and Amy L. Stevenson, daughters of Dr. George S. Stevenson, '15; John H. Speer, III, son of John H. Speer, Jr., '15; Elmer B. Woods, Jr., son of Elmer B. Woods, '10; Catherine M. Windsor, daughter of William T. Windsor, '15; Marcella E. Wingert, daughter of John Wingert, '15.

do this, then the running start which youth gets in its teens and early twenties will serve as a firm foundation which will guide them aright in the confused issues of the present day, and the tougher days ahead.

"The world is not secure any more, in anything. Social revolution, and industrial revolution, and new ideologies have precipitated vast social and military convulsions and are now tearing the old world to pieces, and threatening the democratic institutions of the Western Hemisphere.

"In our own Country, we face great uncertainties, and more disturbing dangers, than ever confronted our fathers. The events in Europe and Asia and Africa, and the measures for security which we in our Republic are now taking, will affect, in one way or another, the life of every person alive today in this Country.

"No one can tell just what the future holds. But it must be plain to all of us that in these times, and in more critical times to come, every American must be prepared to sacrifice for the common good.

"Some undoubtedly will have the privilege and the honor of serving our Country in arms. All, in whatever work engaged, will find a large proportion of their energies diverted, directly or indirectly, to National, rather than to individual needs. All must hold themselves ready to meet this changed life with courage, and to give the best that is in them for our Country and all that we hold dear.

"In times like these, people want something to hold to, something that stands firm in a changing world. And, therefore, I am going to ask you to think about character; to think about the age old fundamental human virtues of courage, loyalty, perseverance, generosity, sacrifice, initiative, enthusiasm, the Golden Rule, common sense, and hard work. These are the elemental things that make character. They were good when man did his fighting with bows and arrows. They are good now, in the vast complexity of modern life.

"We live in the machine age but if all the power plants go out, and all the gadgets cease to function, we will still be men and women, and it is character upon which we will stand or fall.

"If we are to expect much of youth we must give them much in their early training. The all encompassing great essential is character and if our youth have that, and love of Country, they will give what America expects, that is, continuance and security of those things which have made us great as a nation, and which, if guarded, will make us greater — and preserve our way of life.

"Our way of life is not something static. It is something adaptable to changing conditions as time goes on. But, its foundation of freedom, individual initiative, equal opportunity, freedom of speech, the Bill of Rights, the obligation of the individual, self-discipline, fair play, and a square deal, are as important now as when our forefathers fought and won them for us in 1776.

"Our way of life will continue, only if our youth and the oncoming generations believe in it. Therefore, that way of life must be the beacon light whose path shines out as so much brighter, so much better and richer, than any other way, that our youth will be willing to give their all to see that it endures.

"Youth is born with certain tendencies but their character is some-

Parents Take Advantage of Bucknell's Prepayment Plan

Recognizing the need for financial foresight by parents who intend to give their children a college education, Bucknell University several years ago inaugurated a unique Prepayment Plan — a Plan whereby parents may prepare years in advance for the future expense of their sons and daughters by making payments from time to time to the Treasurer of the University.

Since this Plan has been in existence, it has met with the approval of both Bucknellians and the general public. Bucknell has been a pioneer in this work, and her success has led other colleges to follow in her footsteps in establishing similar plans. This new approach to the old problem of paying for a college education also has been adopted by many parents who see in it an opportunity to spread over a longer period of time what would ordinarily be a concentrated four-year financial burden. One enthusiastic Bucknellian has five accounts, one for each of his children. The deposit in each case is substantial. Another account for a fourth generation Bucknellian has been opened. Accounts, in general, range from $1.00 to over $1,000.00.

The way in which the Prepayment Plan operates is a simple one. Parents may enter their son or daughter in the Prepayment Plan at any age. (Accounts for children only a few months of age have been opened.) Payments of $1.00 and up may be made at times convenient to the prepayer. The prepayments are invested and the net earned interest is credited to the account annually. An account book is given to the parents for the record of payments and a ledger account for each child is kept at the University. When the time comes for the child to enter college, the usual entrance requirements are in force. If the prepayer cannot meet the requirements or does not desire to enter Bucknell, the entire account, interest included, is refunded.

The Bucknell Prepayment Plan, if completely followed, will guarantee future Bucknell students a college education freed from the usual financial worries. If you or one of your friends desires further information concerning this Plan, or if you wish to open an account, please communicate with the Office of the Treasurer, Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pennsylvania.

thing which they make themselves as they go along — and it is by their character that their associates will judge them.

"If, in their bringing up, youth are indulged in the soft ways of life they will ultimately fail; and the Nation with them.

"There can be no compromise between self-indulgence and self-preservation.

"The uncertainty, the insecurity in the world today, will not appear so disturbing to the present generation as to the older one because youth of the present day are being brought up in its atmosphere, and it may be that they are fortunate.

"Their forefathers won the things that have made the American way of life, by self-denial, by hard work in peace, and by hard fighting in war.

"If our youth have the traits of character I have touched upon, and I have an abiding faith that they have — they will maintain our way of life at all costs.

"They may be proud that their generation has the opportunity to serve in such a critical period in the world's history.

"If their actions are directed by courage, armored with hope, sustained by determination, enthusiasm, and the will to sacrifice and the will to win, our Country will have nothing to fear from any enemy, within or without, and they will justify their lives and their heritage, and will carry forward.

"In the successful accomplishment of difficult tasks youth will also gain the greatest of all treasures, — that inner reward that comes only from difficult tasks—'WELL DONE.'"

The program then returned to New York where President Marts introduced the second speaker, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, United States Minister to Norway, by saying that she "is a charming lady who has the rare distinction of being one of only two women ever appointed to the high diplomatic post of American Minister."

Continuing he said, "All Americans are proud of the courage and high sense of duty which she displayed when the Nazi hordes swept over Norway. Her thrilling experiences in that nation give special value to her remarks on this theme 'What America Expects of Its Youth Today'. I wish I could claim Mrs. Harriman in some way as a Bucknellian. But I can claim her as a wise and warm friend of all youth".

The following is the speech which Mrs. J. Borden Harriman gave over the Mutual Broadcasting system on the evening of February 5, 1941:

"Who of us old or young really knows what tomorrow will be like? But this, we who are older have come to know — there is no future at all for those who expect something for nothing. We shall get what we give. We must make our own luck, and win our own rewards. We must win our own wars, and build our own nation. We must work for our country as we have never worked before. It seems to me often that we who wanted peace did not want it hard enough, not as

With The Clubs...

SOUTHERN NEW JERSEY—

The Southern New Jersey Alumni Club met in the Electric Company Auditorium, Pitman, N. J., on November 15. After singing several Bucknell songs, the group listened to Prof. Robert T. Oliver, who spoke on "The Bucknell Trinity". Additional entertainment was a "Bucknell Information Please" program. Excellent Bucknell spirit was shown.

LYCOMING COUNTY—

The Lycoming County alumni had a dinner meeting on December 11. Dr. Vincent McCrossen, assistant professor of French and German, spoke on the subject, "Inside Nazi Germany".

ROCHESTER—

Many Bucknellians living in Rochester and vicinity and a large group of prospective students came to the Hotel Seneca in Rochester on January 30, 1941, to see the new Bucknell film.

WILKES-BARRE—

Dr. William H. Eyester spoke to the local Bucknell Alumni Club of Wilkes-Barre on November 14.

BALTIMORE—

The Baltimore Alumni Club had a special dinner on October 18 before the Bucknell-Western Maryland football game.

WASHINGTON—

Wesley Hall was the meeting place of the Washington Alumni Club on December 12, 1940. After the group enjoyed an informal dinner, Dr. Chas. Pergler, Dean of the School of Law, National University, and former diplomatic representative from Czechoslovakia, spoke. All present joined in a general discussion following his talk.

On February 18, the Washington Bucknellians and prospective students attended a showing of the new Bucknell motion picture at the Lafayette.

UNION COUNTY—

The Union County Bucknell Alumni Club had a chicken and waffle dinner and business meeting in October at the Evangelical and Reformed Church, West Milton, Pa. The following officers for the year 1941 were elected: president, Weber L. Gerhart, '19; vice-president, Arthur Gardner, '22, Mifflinburg; treasurer, William N. Smith, '33, Lewisburg; secretary, Miss Mary Arner, '35, West Milton. Dr. Ralph E. Page, dean of men at Bucknell, spoke on "Safeguarding Democratic Policies". Forty members were present.

ALTOONA—

The Bucknell Alumni Club of Altoona had a dinner meeting at the Penn-Alto Hotel on December 10. Plans were made for the adoption of a constitution and election of officers was held. Attorney Donald Brubaker, '29, of Altoona was elected president; Miss Florence Rollins, '16, of Altoona, vice-president; Miss Marian Stone, '39, of Hollidaysburg, secretary; and Mr. Edward Greene, '95, of Huntingdon, treasurer. Sound and colored motion pictures of Bucknell were shown by the Alumni Secretary, and a report on the status of Bucknell University was given by Edward M. Greene, a trustee of the University.

ELMIRA—

The Elmira Bucknellians held their annual banquet and dance at the Langwell Hotel, Elmira, N. Y., on November 30, 1940. Approximately one hundred people were present. Officers were elected for the year 1941 as follows: president, Kenneth Beckerman, '31; vice-president, David Sarner, '33; secretary, Ramon De Filippo, '30; treasurer, Leonard Friedman, '39. Prof. Robert T. Oliver was guest speaker for the evening.

YORK—

A business meeting and banquet was held by the York Alumni Club on December 12 at the West York Inn. Mr. Penrose C. Wallace, president of the Club, served as toastmaster. The Bucknell movies were shown by the Alumni Secretary. Election of officers was held with results as follows: Penrose C. Wallace, '26, president; Rev. J. H. Fleckenstine, '12, vice-president; William Brastow, '32, secretary; and Walter Ranck, '27, treasurer.

CHICAGO—

On October 4, 1940, the Chicago Alumni Association had one of its most interesting meetings. The principal entertainment of the evening was a motion picture with sound and in color showing various Indian ceremonies of the Southwest, the Grand Canyon, and Yosemite National Park.

ATLANTIC CITY—

The Atlantic City Alumni had a Bucknell dinner at the Flanders on November 8, when the New Jersey State Teachers' Convention was in session. Dr. Frank G. Davis, professor of education at Bucknell, was the speaker.

On December 6, Bucknell's newest Alumni Club was formally organized at the Flanders in Atlantic City. Robert Bell, '20, was elected president. Coach Al Humphreys attended this meeting and spoke to the group.

The Atlantic City Club had its first meeting of the New Year on February 25. Bucknellians attending the American Association of School Administrators were invited as guests. Dr. Willard Smith, professor of English, was the speaker.

TRENTON—

A dinner was served to the Trenton Club on December 3, 1940, at the Mary Gray's Tea Room. Dr. and Mrs. Arnaud C. Marts were the honored guests.

READING—

A Bucknell get-together was held the night before the Bucknell-Albright game. The Bucknell movies were shown at the Wyomissing Club by the Alumni Secretary, and Coach Humphreys brought last minute news to those present.

HARRISBURG—

The Harrisburg Alumni Club had its first fall meeting on September 5 at the Y. M. C. A. Dr. C. D. Koch gave an interesting historical sketch of Bucknell.

More than thirty Bucknellians from Harrisburg and vicinity met again at the "Y" on October 3. News items concerning Bucknell Alumni and Old Bucknell were given.

Colonel Schrader, recruiting officer in Harrisburg and Altoona Areas, gave an interesting talk at the November gathering of the Harrisburg Alumni Club.

A large group attended the December meeting of the Harrisburg Club at which time Paul Noftsker, secretary-treasurer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, entertained the members and guests with a talk about the new "Dream Highway".

This Association met again on January 30. Professor Charles Eisenhart, principal of the Steelton High School, spoke about the lives of Lincoln and Washington.

PHILADELPHIA—

On November 12, 1940, the Philadelphia Alumnae Club held a supper meeting. Mrs. Dorothy Dyer, dean of women at Bucknell, was guest speaker.

The Alumni and Alumnae Clubs of Philadelphia had a luncheon meeting on February 8 at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel. On this occasion Dr. Montford D. Melchior gave an interesting address.

On February 27, at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, Philadelphia, a group of more than 200 Bucknellians and prospective applicants for admission to Bucknell attended the showing of the moving picture, "Going to Bucknell".

On January 30 the Philadelphia Bucknell Alumni opened a series of monthly luncheon meetings at Whittman's in Philadelphia. This meeting was mainly for the purpose of bringing together Bucknellians in the Philadelphia area in an effort to increase the Club's activities.

PITTSBURGH—

The Western Pennsylvania Alumni Club gave a party for prospective students and alumni in the Pittsburgh Area at the William Penn Hotel on February 28. The Bucknell movie, "Going to Bucknell", was shown by the Director of Admissions and Alumni Secretary.

METROPOLITAN—

On November 18, thirty-eight members of the Metropolitan Associations met for dinner at the Essex House, Newark, N. J. A short talk was given by Norman Hildebrand, an English boy who had recently come to America to continue his education. Dean Ralph E. Page was principal speaker of the evening. The following officers were elected for the New Jersey division of Metropolitan Club: president, Malcolm Buffington, '15; vice-president, Mildred B. Cathers, '10; secretary, Ruth Lowther, '40; treasurer, Irvin P. Sowers, '17.

The December meeting of the Metropolitan Alumni was held in the El Patio at the Hotel Wentworth, New York City on December 13. Speaker for the evening was Dave Elman, famous for his two programs — "Hobby Lobby" and "Contact". He introduced two of his discoveries, a seven-year-old musical prodigy and Marshall Roberts who has been experimenting with musical glasses for many years.

On January 10, 1941, the Bucknell Metropolitan Alumni Association met again at the Essex House in Newark, N. J. Mr. Malcolm Buffington, '15, introduced Mr. F. E. Vintsehger from the Casey Jones Aeronautical School who talked about the curriculum for training airplane mechanics.

LEWISBURG—

The Bucknell Alumnae Club of Lewisburg held its first meeting of the fall season in the form of a buffet supper. Miss Mary Evelyn McLucas, '37, president, conducted a brief business meeting. Miss Inez Robison, '28, sang two solos, and Mrs. M. L. Drum, '98, entertained the alumnae with a review of Robert T. Coffin's book, "Kennebec".

The Lewisburg Alumnae Club had its annual guest night in February. Over seventy-five members and guests were present. The special program consisted of a short comedy entitled "It Was a Lovely Meeting"; several readings by Mrs. John D. Plant, '31, and musical program directed by Miss Mary Evelyn McLucas, '37, president of the club.

hard as other people wanted other things badly enough to make a war more terrible than any in history to gain their ends.

"I come home to you from the North, from Norway. In Norway, Sweden, Finland, and Denmark, after a long life in many other places, I came to a fresh experience of democracy, in many ways more social even than our own widespread and varied republic. I lived among the people who believed in work and in peace, who kept their bodies young with sport on land and sea, who respected their artists as they did their governors, who were proud of how widely all their benefits were shared. But Norway, in the midst of a war for the domination of Europe and of the world, was not able, for all its friendly past and desperate wish to live at peace, to avoid invasion. It came without warning. It was an invasion, planned by an enemy which knew Norway better in many ways than it knew itself.

"I say to my own children, and therefore, I say to all young people,— study your own country as you have never studied any place or any subject before. Keep to your studies until you are called for some other service. Study, not merely Latin and literature and geography and history, but study them to immediate practical ends. Learn how the people in your immediate neighborhood earn their living, what their wages are, what food those wages buy. Study what will happen in the community when young men go away to camp. Find out who must take their places, and how families whose young men are drafted can get along without their sons. For whoever is called to the colors, those who are left behind must carry on in his behalf. We must work for each other; we must cooperate to see that none are sacrificing more than others. That equality of opportunity and of sacrifice is part of your democracy. But you must be vigilant and keep it so.

"Times are changing faster than ever before. And the world we know has never stood still, or even gone backward, though sometimes it seems to have done so. Keep your eyes open. When you read the newspapers, turn from the columns which show the trend of the world and note how they are reflected in the politics of your own ward, and your city, or even in your school. No one who keeps his eyes open

Pittsburgh Alumni Club meets for Ninety-Fifth Charter Day

By-Laws of Three Alumni Bodies Revised

In the early part of 1938, a group of the members of the Board of Trustees and alumni, recognizing the advisability and necessity of greater alumni interest in assisting Dr. Marts, and particularly in relieving him of as much of the details in connection with his work as they possibly could, started a series of meetings whereby they have worked up the reorganization of the several alumni bodies.

It was found that the operating provisions for the several bodies were not functioning satisfactorily to meet the present day requirements, therefore, the By-Laws and Rules and Regulations of the Athletic Council were carefully analyzed, studied, and through the efforts of Mr. O. V. W. Hawkins, '13, with the assistance of all of those interested, were revised, and later approved by the Board of Trustees in their meeting of December 21, 1940.

A committee of alumni under the chairmanship of Mr. O. V. W. Hawkins worked with Mr. E. A. Snyder, president of the General Alumni Association, in revising the By-Laws of the Association. In addition to Mr. Hawkins the committee consisted of:

Dr. Carl L. Millward, '06, Milton, Pa.

Miss Emma E. Dillon, '15, Trenton, N. J.

Mr. Miller A. Johnson, '20, Lewisburg, Pa.

Mr. Preston Davis, '28, Milton, Pa. This committee has done a commendable piece of work. The new By-Laws will be proposed for adoption at the June meeting of the General Alumni Association.

The By-Laws of the Bison Club were also constructed and will be submitted to the meeting of the Bison Club at Commencement in 1941 for their approval.

Mr. Boyd Newcomb passed away on March 1, 1941. As President of the Bison Club, he was one of our capable alumni and had been deeply interested in fostering a greater spirit in the interest of his Alma Mater; his loss has been deeply felt in the alumni reorganization work.

At a meeting of the Athletic Council and representatives of the Bison Club, and other alumni, in New York on March 22, 1941, Mr. Andrew R. Marhieson was elected president of the Athletic Council, while Mr. Rush H. Kress was elected president of the Bison Club to succeed Mr. Boyd Newcomb; Mr. W. C. Lowrher was elected vice-president.

The By-Laws of the Athletic Council and the Alumni Association were built to fit in with the By-Laws of the Bison Club so that there would be no interference of any one with the other two of these three important Bucknell alumni bodies.

The reorganization plans were carefully worked up for these three important alumni bodies to build up a strong, virile administration set-up of officers, and committees to make possible the definite consummation of well thought out efforts.

The New York Bucknell Metropolitan Club, from the dues collected and contributions received during 1940, made a contribution of $100.00 to the Bucknell Alumni Office for its current operation expense and the issuing of the Alumni Monthly; at a recent meeting the New York Alumni Club again concluded to contribute, for the same purpose, from the New York Alumni Club fund during the year 1941, the sum of $1,000.00. This was made possible through the generous donation of a loyal member of the club.

The New York Metropolitan Bucknell Alumni Club will hold its final spring meeting on May 17, 1941, at Rockhill, Ossining, New York, to which the other Bucknell Alumni Clubs are invited to have their members participate and enjoy this annual event.

In Memoriam

Dr. Bartol, '72

Dr. William C. Bartol, professor emeritus of mathematics and astronomy and historian of Bucknell, died at the Geisinger Hospital at Danville on October 31, 1940. Dr. Bartol had been affiliated with Bucknell University for approximately seventy-five years, a record which has been equaled by no other individual during the entire history of Bucknell.

Dr. Bartol was born at Huntingdon, November 24, 1847. He entered the University with the class of '71; but, because circumstances made it necessary for him to drop out of college for a semester, he did not graduate until 1872. During his undergraduate days Dr. Bartol was a high ranking student. He had many interests other than books, however. He was very active in college literary, journalistic, and athletic circles. He played on the college baseball team and was captain for a while. This team set a record which no Bucknell team has equaled. During a period of four years it lost only one game. Dr. Bartol was also a member of Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Mu Alpha of Sinfonia, Pi Mu Epsilon, the American Mathematic Society, and the Mathematical Association.

After Dr. Bartol was graduated from Bucknell, he taught school in Centre Hall and in Lime Rock, Connecticut; Union Grove, Wisconsin; and Mansfield, Pennsylvania. While in Mansfield, he was elected head of the mathematics department of the state normal school there. This position he held until he was made head of the mathematics department at Bucknell in 1881.

As a professor at Bucknell University, Dr. Bartol not only very capably carried out his duties as head of the mathematics department, but he also served as head of the engineering department which was built up during the administration of John Howard Harris. He also developed courses in astronomy and was director of the observatory. Likewise, he was instrumental in building the chemical laboratory, east wing of Taylor Hall, and the annex of the central unit of the Women's College.

After teaching at Bucknell for forty-six years, Dr. Bartol retired as professor emeritus. He did not cease serving Bucknell, however. He continued his duties as historian, and just a short time before his death he was engaged in discovering valuable facts for the College Centennial in 1946. When President Marts heard of his death, he said, "Dr. Bartol was a living symbol of the fine ideals for which Bucknell has always stood. His death will remove a precious element from our campus life which no one can ever replace".

1879

One of Bucknell's oldest alumnae, Mrs. Clara Hunter, the former Clara A. Emerick, died at her home at Haverford. Mrs. Hunter, a graduate of the Bucknell Institute, was eighty years of age and was the widow of the late Reverend Wilmot J. Hunter, former pastor of the Quakertown Baptist Church.

1885

Dr. Joseph Evans Sagebeer, lawyer and minister, died on December 19, 1940, at his home in Berwyn, Pennsylvania. Dr. Sagebeer received both an A.B. degree and an A.M. degree from Bucknell University, he studied at the Crozer Theological Seminary, and received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania. In 1888, he was ordained to the ministry at the First Baptist Church in Philadelphia, where he was made assistant pastor. After serving various pastorates in and around Philadelphia, he became pastor of the Great Valley Baptist Church where he remained until 1926. In 1905, he was admitted to the bar and from that time on he practiced law in Baptist denominational work.

1892

Bucknell University lost another prominent alumnus when Dr. Elton S. Corson, a medical doctor in Bridgeton, New Jersey, died at the Philadelphia Naval Hospital on January 5, 1941. Dr. Corson was a graduate of the old South Jersey Institute, Bucknell University, and the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania. He was for many years a medical missionary in Burma. When the United States entered the World War, Dr. Corson enlisted in the Officers' Medical Reserve Corps with the rank of lieutenant. He was one of the recipients of the annual award made by the Shoemaker Post of the American Legion which was awarded him "for his charitable work in connection with his profession during a time of economic stress for many people". During the past thirty years he was connected with the Bridgeton Hospital where he was director of the medical staff and a practicing physician. Dr. Corson has been acclaimed as "a good soldier, a self-sacrificing physician, and one of God's noblemen".

Dr. Corson is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. M. K. Mohler of Cleveland, Ohio.

Emanuel Edward Pawling, dean of the Snyder County Bar Association and a director of the Selinsgrove First National Bank, died at Selinsgrove in November. Internment was made in Union Cemetery.

On October 16, 1940, Professor Joseph C. Carey of Collingdale, Pa., died from a heart attack at the Fitzgerald Mercy Hospital, Philadelphia, while he was preparing to leave the institution after undergoing a major operation four weeks before.

Professor Carey was sixty-five years of age and was widely known because of his activity in the educational field. He was for many years superintendent of the schools at Collingdale, and for many years was principal of the Danville High School.

Professor Carey was graduated from Bucknell University with honors and was one of the youngest members of his class. His brothers and sisters are all graduates of Bucknell, and one of his sisters, Miss Anna Carey, was for a number of years Dean of the Women's College at Bucknell.

Surviving are his wife, Arabella Reed Carey; three children, Mrs. John Lewis Callahan of Westfield, N. J., Robert H. Carey, an instructor at State College, and Miss Anna G. Carey '35, a teacher in the Media High School; two brothers, William Carey, '95, and Alfred Carey, '09; and a sister, Miss Anna R. Carey, '09.

1897

Mr. Vincent B. Fisk, an agent for the Penn-Mutual Life Insurance Company, passed away on February 18, 1941, after a brief illness of three weeks. After being graduated from Bucknell University and Colgate Theological Seminary, Mr. Fisk became an ordained minister. In 1914, he entered Y. M. C. A. work, serving first as one of the district secretaries of the Y. M. C. A. in Pennsylvania, and later as general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Daytona Beach, Fla. During the last few years, Vincent Fisk made his home in Erie, Pa.

1898

Frank W. Dillon, a loyal alumnus and a constant booster of Bucknell, died in November, 1940, in Erie, Pa. He was graduated from the University cum laude.

1899

After being ill for several months, Cullen Frazer Shipman, a practicing attorney at the bar of Northumberland County courts for the past thirty-eight years, died at Sunbury, Pa.

Attorney Shipman spent most of his early life on a farm in Rockefeller Township. At the age of sixteen he began teaching school. Desiring to secure more education, Mr. Shipman studied at the Pennsylvania State Normal School, at the Missionary Institute, (now Susquehanna University), and then transferred to Bucknell University, from which he was graduated in 1899.

After completing his college course Mr. Shipman studied law for a time in the office of the late S. P. Wolverton in Sunbury and was admitted to the Northumberland County bar on June 23, 1902. In 1906, he was admitted to the Supreme Court.

Mr. Shipman took an active part in many organizations in his community. He was secretary of the first Bucknell Alumni Club of Sunbury, a past president of the Kiwanis Club, and a former president of the Northumberland Bar Association. While in college, Mr. Shipman helped to organize the Delta Sigma fraternity.

Christian L. McQuiston, one-time catcher for the famous Christy Mathewson on the Bucknell University baseball team and an expert boxer while at Bucknell, died on January 24 from a heart attack which he experienced while shoveling snow.

Mr. McQuiston studied law after leaving Bucknell and had been practicing at Butler, Pa., since 1901.

Bucknell lost one of its most devoted friends when Dr. Norman Elwood Henry, head of the Latin Department at the Peabody High School, Pittsburgh, Pa., and president of The Friends of The Bucknell University Library, passed away at his home in Pittsburgh after a short illness of about a month.

Dr. Norman E. Henry was a graduate of the Williamsport High School. In 1905, he was graduated from Bucknell, summa cum laude, and that same commencement received an M.A. degree. In 1907, he earned an M.A. degree from Yale and in 1938, a Doctor of Pedagogy degree from Bucknell. He also took graduate work at Harvard University and traveled extensively in Italy and Greece.

While in school, Dr. Henry was a member of Euepia, manager of the freshmen basketball team, assistant editor of "L'Agenda", editor of the "Commencement News", "The Mirror", and the "Orange and Blue". He won the sophomore essay prize and the William Goodman Barrows Greek prize. After graduation Dr. Henry maintained an interest in many activities. He was president of the Classical Association of Pittsburgh and vicinity. He was editor of "Bibliotheca Bucknellensis" and president of "The Friends of the Bucknell Library". He was chairman of the committee which prepared the first Latin courses in the State of Pennsylvania, and a member of the committee on a survey of city and state Latin courses in the United States.

Norman Henry, '05

Dr. Henry's interest in writing, which began during his high school days, blossomed into the co-authorship of Latin textbooks and the writing of articles for such scholarly journals and magazines as Art and Archeology, Classical Outlook, Classical Journal, Classical Weekly, and Educator.

Dr. Henry also had many other interests. He made extensive collections of Greek and Roman articles and studied the American Indian. He was active in Masonic affairs, belonged to many education associations, and was an elder in the Highland Presbyterian Church. With the passing away of Dr. Henry, Bucknell lost one of its most noble and loyal Bucknellians.

He left a bequest of $500 to the endowment fund of the Bucknell University Library.

On October 10, 1941, Henry Taylor Meyer, who had been a sales representative of Ginn and Company, New York publishers, passed away at his home in Lewisburg. He had been in ill health for the past year.

Mr. Meyer was born on October 3, 1882. He was graduated from the Bucknell Academy and later from Bucknell University. After graduation he taught English at the Academy. In 1918, he married Margaret Stoughton, '05, a sister to the widow of the late Christy Mathewson.

Wilson Willard Staver, educator and poet, died at his home in New Milford, Conn., on January 7 after an illness of several months.

Mr. Staver attended the West Chester State Normal School and was graduated from Bucknell University in 1907 with an A.B. degree. He taught in the public schools of Williamsport and Steelton, Pa., and Englewood, N. J. In 1916, he went to West New York as principal of Public School No. 3, and for the two years preceding his retirement in 1940 was principal of Public School No. 5.

He wrote educational articles, children's plays, and poems. Many of the plays were produced in schools with which he was connected.

Word has been received from Washington that Lynford James Haynes, Washington businessman and former Federal Government employee, died at his home in that city. Mr. Haynes was chief of publications in the Agriculture Department under Secretary Henry C. Wallace. In 1925, he resigned from this position and established the Standard Business Service, which he maintained until his death.

The death of George B. Schroyer, a fifty-three year old retired Pennsylvania Railroad trainmaster, occurred as the result of a heart attack while he and Mrs. Schroyer were traveling by car to Bellefonte after having visited their son, George, Jr., a sophomore at Pennsylvania State College.

Mr. Schroyer was one of Bucknell's outstanding engineers. Twenty-five years ago he designed and wrote for the Pennsylvania Railroad, the specifications for the first underground multiple duct telephone conduit ever constructed in the United States. The conduit extended from Paoli to Philadelphia. Mr. Schroyer also strung cables, built test houses, and, during the World War, was in charge of construction and development work for the railroad company in the New York City harbor district. He built the large Grunville yards, float bridges, and submarine facilities at Oak Island and Port Newark, N. J. At the conclusion of the war, he was in charge of all communication facilities, signals, block stations, and train dispatches for the Pennsylvania Railroad between Washington, D. C., and Philadelphia. At the time of his retirement in 1939, he was trainmaster in the general manager's office, Chicago division.

Mr. Schroyer loved Bucknell and took a great interest in her accomplishments. He took an active part in alumni activities and was a member of the Bison Club of Bucknell University.

Mr. Daniel M. Wise of Drexel Hill, a distinguished Bucknell alumnus, died at his home on January 8, 1941. Mr. Wise, a scientist, is especially to be remembered for the important research work he performed for the Carnegie Foundation several years ago. This research, concerned with magnetism, took him to such remote parts of the world as Labrador, South America, and Africa. After completing this assignment, Mr. Wise became a member of the research staff of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Mr. Wise is survived by four children. The one son, Daniel M. Wise, Jr., is a member of the senior class at Bucknell.

1917

Arnold Leigh Benton died of a cerebral hemorrhage at the Bradford Hospital, Bradford, Pa. At the time of his death he was the engineer of McKean County, a real estate broker, and a member of the Bradford Board of Commerce. Mr. Benton also owned a part interest in the Temple pharmacy.

1918

On March 1, 1941, Boyd L. Newcomb, president of the Bucknell University Bison Club and a former prominent Bucknell athlete, died at his home in Pittsburgh following an illness of several months. Mr. Newcomb was sales engineer in Pittsburgh for the Hulbert Oil and Grease Company, Inc., Philadelphia. He served in the World War as a lieutenant in the United States Marines. His wife, nee Helen Bodine, '20, and one son, Larry, survive him.

Boyd Newcomb, '18

Wedding Bells ...

1922

Karl Krug and Mildred Battles of Philadelphia were married in the First Baptist Church on Saturday, January 11, by the Reverend Frederick B. Igler, '12.

1929

In November, Dr. George M. Simmonds, chief surgeon at the Shamokin State Hospital, and Miss Pearl Vallish of Mount Carmel were married at Our Mother of Consolation Church, Mount Carmel, Pa. A telegram addressed to the late Judge Dickinson arrived at the Federal Court on December 13, 1940, stating that a delegation of Indians would stop there on their way to Washington to express their gratitude to the white man, Judge Dickinson, who had used judicial wisdom when dealing with a full-blood Indian, Paul Diabo, thirteen years ago. Diabo had been indicted and brought to trial for violation of the immigration laws, but Judge Dickinson upheld the contention of Bonnelly, now Judge of the Municipal Court, "that the Indian was the original American citizen, a continental America, who needed no passport to go from one North American nation to another". This decision was to the Indian a recognition of citizenship which he had not forgotten. The Indians, however, were not able to repay their debt as they desired, for the Judge had left for the Happy Hunting Grounds on September 16, 1939.

OUR WISH FOR YOU

"England, England, there she stands,
Pale but proud and bravely grand,
Grand in all that we call right
Grant it may be also might;
May the heart of everyone
Who is not by sin undone
Lift clean hands and fervent pray
For her victory today.
May the hand-clasp of the West
Carried on the ocean's crest,
Form the bond that naught can sever;
Isle of England, live forever!"

After experimenting with corn for over twenty years, Dr. William H. Eyster, professor of botany at Bucknell, developed a new strain of hybrid corn which meets the physical conditions in Pennsylvania. This corn which is the result of a hybrid of two inbreds (Gigas corn inbred for over twenty years and Reid's Yellow Dent corn inbred for about twelve years) grows to an average of ten feet. It can be identified by its broad leaves and by its three columns which contain two ears each. A deep root system, which forms a reservoir during wet days and stores it for future use, enables the plant to resist drought for long periods.

Dr. Eyster represented the American Genetic Society at the meeting of the Union of American Biological Societies which was held in Philadelphia from December 26 to January 1.

In fitting ceremony, Lieutenant Colonel Harold N. Gilbert received the nation's highest award "for exceptionally meritorious services in a position of great responsibility . . . In the years 1938, 1939, 1940, Colonel Gilbert displayed unusual foresight, excellent judgment and resourcefulness in planning, organizing and conducting, with conspicuous success, the largest peacetime recruiting program in the history of the Army". This award, together with the Distinguished Service Cross and the Purple Heart, places the name of Harold N. Gilbert on a brief list of the "nation's military immortals", who have received three of the country's highest honors for distinguished services in peace and in war. He is the only native Pennsylvanian to receive the three honors.

Colonel Gilbert was born in Halifax, Dauphin County, Pennsylvania. He attended Pennsylvania State College and Bucknell University, at which places he studied civil engineering. He played football and later coached such teams as the championship Third Division teams of 1919 and 1920, and the West Coast Army team. In 1917, he entered the Army as second lieutenant of infantry, and on May 1, 1918, he began his career in the Regular Army, entering the service as a second lieutenant. 95TH CHARTER DAY ever slips into apathy. So much goes on. I asked an old gentleman in Oslo once how he kept so young and he answered me, 'Because I have never shut my eyes to what is going on in the world. I began as a boy. That is why I am as interested as a boy today'. I am told that American boys and girls are careless, more interested in themselves than in the world or the country, or their families. I think that we all have been, when we were young, and regretted it later. So I would ask them, out of very interest in themselves, to keep awake, to see what is happening to their families, to their country and to the world. We are all in the same boat. If old people cannot solve the problems of today, there will be just that much more trouble and conflict for youth to meet. But we elders can find answers more readily if we know that the youth are behind us, depending on us, to make the present, as we depend on you to build the future.

"America is not perfect. My generation knows that. But it is ours, and it has been for a century the dream of freedom of every European. We must keep it so. Its streets have never been paved with gold, and they never will be, but I should like to think that even for the democracies in the north, we should stand as a land of opportunity and enthusiasm and riches. By riches I mean not only raw materials, armies, navies, railroads, ships, and cities, but a whole people full of good will towards the world, loyal to its own flag and beautiful continent, ready to work to educate its whole people.

"The ancient republic of Greece, the modern kingdom of Greece, the ancient empire of China, the modern and war torn republic of Asia, the United States of America, see what we have in common. That is something every American young man should study.

"To prepare yourselves for the times you live in you must look over the whole world to find your allies in building a world of equality, of opportunity for all classes and all races, for the greater part of mankind will be happiest in a democratic society. But do not hope to have your democracy in far places, or worth fighting for elsewhere, if in your own house, own schools, own factories and shops, in your own country and city, you do not find the slogans and spirit and the daily practice of helping each other and keeping your eyes open to know and guard not only your own advantage, but the common interests of mankind in justice and peace. Remember to rejoice and be happy over your blessings. Hold fast to your ideals. Lift up your eyes to the hills and realize that 'Where there is no vision, the people perish'."

The radio program was most fittingly concluded by President Marts when he said, "May I sum up in a few words the attitude and conviction which is now crystallizing in the minds of these American Youth whom I happen to know?

"It is this — 'We want a better world of justice and peace and brotherhood of all man, and some day we mean to have it! Just now evil men and evil forces are blocking the way to such a world. Consequently, we apparently are to have difficult and dangerous duties before us. Whatever sacrifices Americans must make, we shall make; whatever we have to do, we shall do, as best we can. But we shall do it in the hope and in the name of our dream for a better world, and we shall insist that after this turmoil is ended, as it must be some day, there must come another vigorous stride forward toward a future world of decency and cooperation which will conform to youthful dreams more nearly than any world which mankind has ever yet seen'.

"Carry on, Bucknellians, wherever you are. Remember the way to the better world is what we call the Bucknell Way of Life — the way of intelligence, integrity, and brotherhood. Be true to it — always!"

Explanation of the Proposed By-Laws of the General Alumni Association

THE conduct of the affairs of the Association has undergone such a radical change in the past few years that it has been found necessary to work out a new plan of organization to take full advantage of the promise which the development of local clubs offers. The present by-laws are ill adapted for such a program, and the committee appointed to consider their revision has recommended their repeal and the adoption of a new set of by-laws as the simplest way of bringing about the needed reorganization.

The organization for the conduct of the internal affairs of the association under the proposed new by-laws has its analogy in our own Government. The Alumni are all considered members of the great empire of Bucknellians spread all over the world. On account of their wide distribution, it is impossible to provide for them a direct and equal voice in the conduct of affairs; hence a system of representation has been worked out with the local club as the unit. The whole country will be divided into districts, and each district will be assigned to a local club which will function not unlike a state. Every member of the Association will also be a member of the local club to which has been assigned the territory where he resides. Every year each local club will send its representative to Lewisburg at Commencement time, and there the representatives will meet in an Assembly, discuss the problems of Association, and dispatch such business as has been delegated to them by the By-Laws. The members of the General Association will also meet at Lewisburg each year and transact such affairs as have not been delegated to the Assembly. The Assembly is intended to be the deliberate body.

The proposed new by-laws, as given below, contemplate extending the pursuit of the aims and purposes of the General Association through the medium of the local clubs which will be strengthened, developed, and established wherever a nucleus of the Alumni can be found. There is considered to be an incalculable amount of good will, enthusiasm, and potential service for Bucknell among its Alumni which is going to waste. It is intended through the local clubs to capitalize this by providing opportunities for and furnishing contacts with Alumni at home for the rendering of service to their Alma Mater. The program contemplates a great network of local clubs which will develop leaders in Bucknell affairs and furnish a great service organization available to the President of the University, the Director of Admissions, the Bison Club, the Friends of the Library, and other organizations serving Bucknell.

Respectfully submitted by
O. V. W. HAWKINS
for the Committee.

Please take notice that a motion will be made at the annual meeting of the General Alumni Association at Lewisburg, June 7, 1941, to repeal the present Constitution and By-Laws and adopt in the place, thereof, By-Laws in the following form:

PROPOSED BY-LAWS OF THE GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION OF BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY

ARTICLE I. OBJECT.

SECTION 1. The object of this Association shall be to organize and enlist the endeavors of its members to diligently advance the interests of liberal education and Bucknell University by strengthening the relations between the alumni and the University; by establishing efficient alumni organizations; by disseminating such information as will arouse the interest of the public in the University; by bringing to the attention of students of preparatory schools the advantages of Bucknell University as an educational institution; by assisting in University extension work; by making recommendations to the Board of Trustees of matters deemed material for the University's welfare; by assisting in the raising of funds for the endowment and maintenance of the University; and by such other means as may be deemed necessary and proper for the welfare of the University and the Association.

ARTICLE II. MEMBERSHIP

SECTION 1. Every person to whom a degree shall have been awarded by Bucknell University, and every person who shall have matriculated and shall have ceased to be a student at the University, shall be deemed to be a member of this Association.

SECTION 2. Every member of the Association shall be deemed to be a member of the Alumni Club having jurisdiction over the place of his residence provided that any member of the Association may elect to change his affiliation to any Club which best suits his convenience, and further provided that any one residing at a place in a territory not assigned to a Club shall be deemed a member of the Club embracing the town of Lewisburg.

SECTION 3. Members of the Faculty who are not members of the Association shall be deemed associate members of the Association.

ARTICLE III. MEETINGS OF THE MEMBERS.

SECTION 1. The annual meeting of the members of the Association shall be held at Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, during Commencement week at a time and place to be fixed by the President. The publication of the meeting in the Commencement program shall be deemed sufficient notice thereof. Special meetings may be held at Lewisburg upon call of the President or any three members of the Board of Directors.

SECTION 2. At meetings of the members those who attend shall constitute a quorum, and the vote of a majority in attendance shall be required to dispatch any business.

SECTION 3. Any business may be transacted at a meeting of the members except such as may have been specifically delegated to the Assembly or otherwise provided for herein.

ARTICLE IV. ALUMNI CLUBS.

SECTION 1. For the purpose of carrying on the activities of this Association more effectively throughout the world and for the purpose of establishing a representative body to conduct the internal affairs of this Association, the Assembly shall charter local clubs to be composed of members of this Association.

SECTION 2. The first Assembly to convene after the adoption of these By-Laws shall divide the United States into districts equal in number to and appropriate for the jurisdiction of the Alumni Clubs then in existence and issue to each such Club a charter and assign to it the district over which it shall have jurisdiction.

SECTION 3. The Assembly shall have power to curtail or enlarge the size of the district assigned to any Club and to issue charters to new Clubs and revoke those already in existence.

SECTION 4. Petitions for new Clubs shall be made by not less than five members of the Association and shall be granted at any Assembly which votes favorably thereon.

SECTION 5. Jurisdiction over the territory of any Club whose charter shall have been withdrawn or which shall fail for two years in succession to send any delegate or alternate to the Assembly shall cease and be reassigned, unless excused by action of the Assembly.

SECTION 6. Each Alumni Club shall have power and be required to proceed within its own district with such activities as it shall determine will best accomplish the purposes of the Association and to elect and send to the Assembly the delegates and alternates which it shall be authorized to elect as hereinafter provided.

ARTICLE V. THE ASSEMBLY.

SECTION 1. The members of the Association shall elect by representation the members of the Board of Directors, select candidates for Alumni Trustee on the Board of the University to be voted upon by the members as hereinafter provided, and do such other things as they might or could do in and about the internal management of the affairs of the Association by representation.

SECTION 2. Representation of the members of the Association shall be by delegates elected by the Clubs which hold charters from the Association. Each chartered Club shall be entitled to send to the Assembly from its membership one delegate and one alternate. In addition thereto each Club may send one delegate and one alternate for each one hundred members or major fraction thereof who have paid their current local Club dues. The delegates and alternates of Clubs beyond a radius of 300 miles from Lewisburg need not be members of the Clubs they represent.

SECTION 3. The delegates and their alternates shall meet at Lewisburg annually during Commencement at a time and place to be determined by the President and published in the Commencement program.

Such meetings shall be known as the Assembly.

Extraordinary Assemblies may be called during the year at Lewisburg by the President or three members of the Board of Directors upon two weeks' notice first given by mail to each chartered Club.

SECTION 4. At each Assembly the delegates shall proceed with such business as shall have been delegated to them by these By-Laws. A quorum shall consist of those delegates and alternates who attend and each delegate and his alternate shall be entitled to one vote provided that no alternate shall vote or be heard if the delegate for whom he is an alternate shall be present. All business shall be dispatched by a majority vote of those present who are entitled to vote except as otherwise provided herein. There shall be no voting by proxy.

SECTION 5. The first Assembly shall adopt its own rules for the conduct of its business which shall not be altered except by a two-thirds vote of a succeeding Assembly, provided any proposed amendment shall have first been published in the Alumni Monthly.

SECTION 6. Meetings of the Assembly shall be open to all members of the Association, but shall have no voice in the meeting except through their delegates.

SECTION 7. The Assembly shall have the right to take a referendum vote of the members of the Association on any question through the medium of the Alumni Monthly.

ARTICLE VI. DIRECTORS.

SECTION 1. The affairs of the Association shall be managed by a Board of seven Directors who shall be elected from the membership of the Association by the Regular Assembly each year for terms of three years each, provided that the terms of the first directors to be hereafter elected under these By-Laws may be for less than three years in order to establish a rotation whereby the terms of at least two directors shall expire each year. The President of the University shall be a director ex-officio.

SECTION 2. The unexpired term of any director shall be filled by the Board of Directors.

SECTION 3. Two stated meetings of the Board of Directors shall be held at Lewisburg annually, one during Commencement Week and one during Homecoming Week-end. Other meetings shall be held at any time and place to be fixed by the President or three members of the Board upon due notice.

SECTION 4. A quorum of the Board of Directors to constitute a meeting shall consist of a majority thereof and business shall be dispatched by a majority vote of the members in attendance at a meeting.

SECTION 5. At least one member of the Board shall be a woman.

ARTICLE VII. OFFICERS.

SECTION 1. The Board of Directors shall annually elect from their number a President, a first Vice-President, and a second Vice-President. The Board shall also elect a Secretary, after taking the advice of the President of the University, who shall be known as the Alumni Secretary. There may be an Assistant Secretary. The Treasurer shall be the Treasurer of the University. The term of all officers shall be for one year.

SECTION 2. The President shall preside at all meetings of the Association, the Assembly and the Board of Directors and act as the chief executive officer of the Association.

SECTION 3. The Vice-Presidents in the order of their rank shall act in the absence of the President and perform such other duties as shall be assigned to them by the President and the Board of Directors.

SECTION 4. The Alumni Secretary shall—

- a). Direct and assist in the organization and perpetuation of local alumni clubs.
- b). Attend the meetings of the several Clubs from time to time and devote his best efforts to the stimulation and coordination of the activities thereof and generally assist them in preparing and consummating their programs of activity.

- c). Work with the President of the University in creating good will among the alumni and friends of Bucknell and the general public.
- d). Keep the minutes of all meetings of the Association, the Assembly, and the Board of Directors and give the proper notices for all the meetings of those bodies.
- e). Keep accurate records of all persons who have attended Bucknell with particular reference to their age, class, degrees, business, last residence, and condensed biographical information.
- f). Keep the roster of Alumni current for mailing information and provide facilities for an effective mailing service to the Alumni and the Clubs.
- g). Create and build up a morgue and keep therein biographical sketches and photographs of the trustees, professors, administration officials, and prominent alumni and newspaper clippings concerning them.
- h). Edit the Alumni Directory and publish the same under the direction of the officials of the University.
- i). Edit the Alumni Monthly and under the direction of the officials of the University publish the same.
- j). Assist in preparing programs for the participation of alumni at Commencement and Homecoming and aid the President of the Association and the officials of the University in these activities.
- k). Assist the Committee on Nominations for Alumni Trustee and supervise the taking of ballots for Alumni Trustee, and all referendum votes.

SECTION 5. The Treasurer shall collect all funds to which the Association is entitled and pay the same into the Treasury of the University and keep an accurate account thereof and all charges made against such funds so paid over and report annually to the Board of Directors with respect to the status of the account.

ARTICLE VIII.

ALUMNI TRUSTEE.

SECTION 1. Whereas it is the prerogative of the Association to nominate annually one of its members to the Board of Trustees of the University, it shall be the duty of the Regular Assembly to appoint a Committee of five members of the Association to make nominations for the vacancy to be filled in the following June.

SECTION 2. It shall be the duty of this Committee to solicit nominations from the several Alumni Clubs and otherwise to canvass the members of the Association for the purpose of ascertaining the best suited and best qualified person available to become an Alumni Trustee, and from the persons so considered the Committee shall select two persons which it considers best suited and qualified for the position and report the same to the President of the Association not later than the following January first. The said report shall be submitted immediately by mail to each of the Directors. The President shall call a meeting of the Board during the month of January for the purpose of reconsidering the report and the work of the Committee and if the report is again rejected, the Directors shall after recording their reasons for rejecting the Committee's report proceed to nominate two candidates for the office of Alumni Trustee. The two candidates so selected shall be submitted to the members of the Association in the issue of the Alumni Monthly prior to the ensuing Commencement for the vote of the members, and the candidate who receives the highest number of votes cast shall be considered to be nominated as the candidate of the Alumni for a Trustee of the University.

ARTICLE IX.

SECTION 1. The fiscal year of the Association shall begin July 1st and end the following June 30th.

ARTICLE X.

THE ALUMNI MONTHLY.

SECTION 1. The Alumni Monthly shall be the official organ of the Association and all notices of meetings not otherwise provided for and printed therein shall be deemed sufficient if the issue be published not less than two weeks nor more than three months before the meeting.

ARTICLE XI.

AMENDMENTS.

SECTION 1. These By-Laws may be amended by a two-thirds vote of those present at a regular Assembly provided that a copy of the proposed amendment be published in the Alumni Monthly at least one month prior to the date of the meeting.

95TH CHARTER DAY

Following the broadcast, Prince Loewenstein, lecturer for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, continued the Ninety-Fifth Celebration.

OTHER CLUBS HOLD MEETINGS

While the New York celebration was in progress, many local alumni clubs in other cities and towns throughout the East were also celebrating Bucknell's ninety-five years of service to youth by having appropriate programs and listening to the broadcast from 10:30 to 11:00 p.m. On the Bucknell campus the Union County and the Milton Alumni Clubs joined with the faculty in a special meeting to hear the broadcast. The following day at Bucknell Dr. Mary B. Harris, '94, superintendent of the Federal Institution for Women at Alderson, West Virginia, and trustee of Bucknell, spoke at a Charter Day chapel service in the Baptist church.

Candidates for the Office of Alumni Trustee

LESTER K. ADE

Dr. Lester K. Ade was graduated from Bucknell University with a bachelor of arts degree in 1921, and three years later he received a master of arts degree from his Alma Mater. Dr. Ade's principal interest has been in education. He has held such positions as Supervising Principal of Muncy Public Schools, Muncy, Pennsylvania; Dean of Instruction at the State Teacher's College, West Chester, Pennsylvania; Principal of the New Haven State Normal Schools, New Haven, Connecticut; Pennsylvania State Superintendent of Public Instruction; and, at present, he is President of Mansfield State Teacher's College, Mansfield, Pennsylvania. His articles have appeared in various publications dealing with education.

JESSIE WHEELER ARMSTRONG

Mrs. Jessie Wheeler Armstrong, '94, of Yellow Springs, Ohio, was a teacher for seventeen years. She taught in Darlington Seminary, Bucknell Institute, and Erie High School, and for short periods did settlement work in New York, Philadelphia, and Cincinnati. While in Erie, Pennsylvania, she helped to organize the first Parent-Teachers Association and was twice its president, she was a charter member and secretary of the Family Welfare Society of Erie, and was a charter member of the Erie Branch of the American Association of University Women. Mrs. Armstrong is a Trustee of Antioch College and a member of the Executive Committee. Last fall she was given a Phi Beta Kappa key by the Phi Beta Kappa Chapter at Bucknell. Her husband, Edwin James Armstrong, is an inventor and manufacturer.

HARRY SCHEIDY EVERETT

Dr. Harry Scheidy Everett of 5455 Hyde Park Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois, received from Bucknell University an A.B. degree in 1912, an A.M. degree in 1913, and a Sc.M. degree in 1914. In 1922 he received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago and has been a lecturer in Adler Planetarium, Chicago, since 1933. He is a professor of mathematics at the University of Chicago and is recognized as one of the most prominent mathematicians, not only of the country, but of the world. Dr. Everett is one of the most active members of the Bucknell Alumni Club of Chicago.

MARGARET BEAVER GROFF

Margaret Beaver Groff, a member of the class of 1904, was born in Lewisburg, Pa., and is the daughter of Dr. George G. Groff, who for many years was professor of science at Bucknell University and at one time was acting president of the University. Miss Groff taught mathematics in Ben Avon, Pa., and in West Chester High School, and at present is teaching in the South Philadelphia Girls High School where she has been doing an excellent piece of work. She has served as president of the Bucknell Alumnae Club of Philadelphia and has been a member of the Executive Board for many years. She has always been most loyal to Bucknell and all of its interests.

Candidates for the Office of Alumni Trustee

JULIUS F. SEEBACH, Jr.

Julius F. Seebach, Jr., of New York City, received his A.B. degree and his degree in Music in 1920. From 1920 to 1924 he taught in several schools in New York and New Jersey. He became interested in radio work and joined the staff of WOR as announcer in 1925. Since then Mr. Seebach made rapid advances until he was made vice-president of WOR in charge of programs and director of program operations, and on August 2, 1940, was elected a member of the Board of Directors of WOR. This in itself attests to his ability, his progressiveness, and his dynamic personality. His interest in Bucknell recently has been shown by the successful year the Bucknell Metropolitan Alumni Association experienced under his leadership during 1939-1940.

JOHN T. SHIRLEY

John T. Shirley of Pittsburgh entered Bucknell from Clarion State Normal School as a member of the class of 1909. He was organizer of the Bucknell Stadium Commission; he cooperated with the committee planning and erecting the Mathewson Memorial Stadium Gateway; he is a leader in western Pennsylvania Bucknell activities and a worker in Bucknell Endowment Campaigns; he is a substantial contributor to Bucknell, and from 1923 to 1928 he was a member of the Bucknell Board of Trustees. Since 1928 Mr. Shirley has been General Agent for the Pittsburgh Offices of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston.

DR. JOSEPH P. SHEARER

Dr. Joseph P. Shearer, '13, received a B.S. and a M.S. degree from Bucknell University, and earned his doctor of medicine degree at Johns Hopkins University. For a time he was assistant surgeon at the Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville, Pa. Dr. Shearer is a prominent surgeon in the District of Columbia and has a fellowship in the American Medical Association. He has a sincere interest in Bucknell, and several years ago was instrumental in organizing the Bucknell Alumni Club of Washington, D. C.

KENNETH W. SLIFER

Kenneth W. Slifer was graduated from Bucknell University in 1926. Since his graduation, he has given active support to Bucknell in all its endeavors. He is a member of the Bison Club, a member of the Executive Committee of the General Alumni Association, and a past president of the Bucknell Alumni Club of Southern New Jersey. In the business world he is a supervisor and copywriter for N. W. Ayer and Son, Inc., of Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. Slifer married Caryl Dutton, '27, and is the father of two children. His home address is 177 Briar Hill Lane, Woodbury, N. J.

Commencement Week-End Filled With Activities

This will be one of Bucknell's most outstanding Commencements. Final arrangements are being completed for class reunions. This year more Bucknellians are planning to return to the campus in order that they may renew old friendships, meet former teachers, travel the paths, and join in telling "tall stories" of the good old days. There will be three full days of activities beginning with Alumni Day, Saturday, June 7, and ending with the Graduation Exercises, Monday, June 9. The Alumni Office will be glad to make reservations for you. Make your plans now!

The columns of personals are made possible through the assistance of alumni who send us clippings and items of personal interest. The Alumni Office will welcome additional news items about Bucknellians in your community.

Alumni Monthly

THIS EDITION OF THE ALUMNI MONTHLY

DEDICATED TO
THE BISON CLUB

A virile organization of loyal friends and alumni pledged to support Bucknell in every possible manner.

Best wishes for success as the Club undertakes to expand its membership during October.

President's Page

Dear Bucknellians:

We—you and your Alma Mater—will need each other this year more than we have ever needed each other before, perhaps. The months that lie before us will be months of testing.

You will need your Alma Mater. You will be strengthened by the knowledge that it still stands on its beautiful hill, unswerving in its age-long devotion to truth and honor and Christian civilization. In the midst of the confusion of a world in revolution, it will be refreshing to you to know that Bucknell keeps her faith in the ever-lasting intellectual and cultural and spiritual values.

Your Alma Mater, in turn, will need you to an unusual degree. We will need your understanding of the problems which a college faces in these times—the problem of stable enrollment under the operation of the National Selective Service Act; the problem of current financial operations; above all the problem of leading and inspiring 1300 young Bucknellians to keep loyal to the highest ideals of work and life and conduct, against the temptations of the deterioration of such ideals in the world about them.

Let us close up our ranks, draw closer together in mutual understanding and devotion, and give each other added strength and courage and inspiration for the months that lie ahead.

Come back at Homecoming time, and at other times when you can; attend the Bucknell Club meetings in your own communities; join one or more of the alumni service groups, such as the Bison Club, or Friends of the Library, or Religious Work Associates—and call on us whenever we can be of service to you.

Great days lie ahead of us, if we prove ourselves strong and courageous enough to withstand and overthrow the forces of ignorance and cruelty which precipitated the present world revolution, perhaps the most violent revolution in the experience of mankind. We shall have another chance, then, to rebuild our world. We must do our part to try to make it a world patterned after the Bucknell Way of Life—the way of intelligence, integrity, and Christian brotherhood.

Let us give each other faith and courage toward that goal.

Cordially yours,

Homecoming October 18, Features Bison Club Breakfast, Parade, Football Game, Alumni Dinner and Dance

HOMECOMING is in the air! That much needed fall tonic—that injection of new spirit so necessary for hard work during the winter can be secured by meeting old friends on the Bucknell campus. With the possibility of the usual downpour before the kick-off at the Homecoming game practically eliminated, why not call your friends and tell them to call their friends and all of you join the almost endless caravan which will converge on the small town of Lewisburg, October 18.

The early fall is the ideal time to return to the campus, and there is unanimous agreement among Bucknellians everywhere that this is the best Homecoming date in years. There is still another important point on which all who return annually are in complete agreement—that Homecoming at Bucknell is one of the outstanding events of the year and the one probably longest remembered.

As the campus takes on its fall appearance and the old oaks get their coating of red and gold, as the snappy fall air gives one new zest, it is in order to make a prediction. Without any desire to be too optimistic, but with complete reserve and appreciation of former alumni gatherings, it is safe to predict that October 18 is going to stand out as one of the best of all Homecomings. Early requests for reservations indicate that more Bucknellians than ever before are making plans to come back this year, and we assume

Many Returned for Alumni Day

DID you return to the Bucknell campus during the 1941 Commencement Week-End in June? If you didn't, you missed one of the finest week-ends Bucknell has experienced during the ninety-five years of its existence. Alumni, faculty, members of the administration, students, and even old Mr. Weatherman and his crew contributed their share toward making the week-end a successful one.

On Saturday, June 7, alumni festivities were in full swing. Hundreds of Bucknellians and cherished friends of Bucknell wound their way to Lewisburg to attend the various activities planned in their behalf. The first event of the day was the Bison Club Breakfast at the Hotel Lewisburger, which was given by its president, Mr. Rush H. Kress. This was attended by approximately one hundred and sixty men and women.

After the Bison Club meeting was adjourned, an Athletic Council meeting was held in the Alumni Office and a meeting of the Board of Trustees was held in Larison Hall. Those alumni who were not members of either of these groups enjoyed walking up and down the college paths or across the rolling campus recalling memories of their college days. During this particular part of the day, Bucknellians made their way to Roberts Hall to register at Alumni Headquarters and to see how many of their classmates had returned to pay homage to their Alma Mater.

At 12:30 P. M. the General Alumni and Alumnae Luncheon was held in the Women's Dining Hall. Perhaps to many alumni this luncheon was the most important part of the day's proceedings, for at this time they were best able to renew old friendships, meet former teachers, and join in telling once again stories of the days they spent at Bucknell.

THE BUCKNELL ALUMNI MONTHLY

Published monthly during the college year by

THE GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION OF BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY

Entered as second-class matter December 30, 1930, at the postoffice at Lewisburg, Pa., under the Act of August 24, 1912.

Bucknell's Chemistry Department Received Recognition

The Chemistry Department at Bucknell University was accredited in May by the American Chemical Society in accordance with standards set by the Committee of the Professional Training of Chemists. The academic standing of the Bucknell Chemistry Department was thus placed in the upper seven per cent of all universities in the country, for out of 1,586 colleges and universities in the United States, only 102 have been accredited.

This means to the student who majors in chemistry that after receiving his degree from Bucknell he can qualify as a professional chemist if he spends two years in the industry or in graduate school. On the other hand, students who attend institutions which are not accredited are required to complete five years of additional training after graduation.

In addition to meeting the standards set by the accrediting committee, the Bucknell Department of Chemistry also has a chemistry curriculum which provides electives for the student in either of two major fields of chemistry during his junior year. He can decide to do his major work in the field of inorganic (physical) chemistry or in the field of organic (biological) chemistry. An unusual opportunity is also provided for the student who is qualified to do a research problem in the field of his major interest. If he follows such a curriculum while at Bucknell he is then qualified for a position in the chemical industries or for graduate study.

Admiral Stark and Five Others Receive Honorary Degrees

Bucknell University honored six distinguished Americans—an educator, an engineer, an opera singer, a businessman, a clergyman, and a United States naval officer—at her Ninety-First Commencement exercises on June 9. All of these men were chosen because of the distinctive service they have rendered in their respective fields.

The degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of the United States naval operations and one of the 1941 Commencement speakers. Admiral Stark was appointed chief of naval operations with the rank of Admiral by President Roosevelt in 1939. At the present time Admiral Stark is supervising the operations of the United States fleet and is participating in the plans for strengthening our National defense.

Christian R. Lindback, president of Abbott Dairies, Philadelphia, and a trustee of Bucknell, also received the degree of Doctor of Laws. One of Mr. Lindback's many worthwhile contributions was the establishment of the Lindback Foundation fifteen years ago, which made it possible for the employees of Abbott Dairies and their families to enjoy social security long before it was seriously considered by the National Government.

Stanley H. Rolfe, '09, superintendent of schools of Newark, N. J., was a third recipient of the degree of Doctor of Laws. In the supervision of Newark's forty-nine elementary schools, five junior high schools, seven senior high schools, and many special schools, Dr. Rolfe has been exceptionally successful.

The degree of Doctor of Music went to Paul S. Althouse, '12, Metropolitan Opera tenor. When bestowing the degree upon Mr. Althouse, Dr. Marts said, "You have the distinction of being the only Bucknellian who has ever

Bison Club President, Rush H. Kress, '00

Says:

For several years Bucknell has faced a problem of paying off the indebtedness that has remained from the stadium project, the improvements made to the campus at the time of the erection of Hunt Hall and the Women's Dining Hall, and the accumulated deficit of the Athletic Council. President Marts has all along given serious thought to this problem, and in 1936 he met in New York with a group of trustees and active alumni for the purpose of discussing the situation. A small group prepared the preliminary program, and active work on the problem was started in 1938. Naturally, the work required many meetings and probably twenty-five or more meetings were held during the months that followed with forty or fifty alumni from New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, and Pennsylvania attending one or more of the meetings.

As the program developed, the particular group mentioned in the preceding paragraph became interested in the Athletic Council debt as well as the general problem connected with the furtherance of athletics at Bucknell. Soon the general program evolved into the organization of the Bison Club, and, as the idea developed, the Club pledged itself to support Bucknell in every possible manner. Its membership now elects six of the fifteen members of the Athletic Council, thus insuring the enlistment of alumni interest and support.

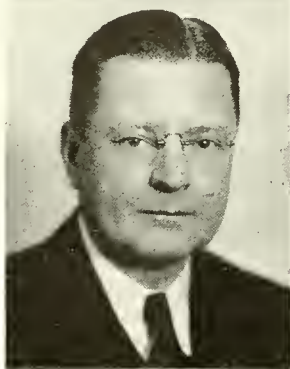

The group has now started the work of expanding the Bison Club membership so every Bucknellian may more readily be able to furnish further assistance to Dr. Marts and the administration for the vital interests of Bucknell.

Under the capable leadership of Pep Dawson, we are seeking a total of six hundred members in 1941 and one thousand in 1942. During October an invitation will be extended to all Bucknellians.

The annual Bison Club Breakfast will be held at the Hotel Lewisburg at 9:00 a. m. on October 18, which is being given by its President for all present and prospective members. Won't you join us?

New Alumni Trustee, John T. Shirley, '09

Says:

Bucknell's progress and the quality of her service to undergraduates and to the community at large can be measured by the support of her alumni. As an Alumni Trustee, it is partly my job to present to the Board of Trustees the points of view of Bucknell's thousands of alumni and to cement active relations between alumni and University management.

Recent improvement in alumni organization and founding of the Bison Club should facilitate co-operation and advancement of alumni and University management and give alumni a larger, more direct interest in and responsibility for the conduct of the University's affairs.

Since Bucknell is not a heavily endowed University and substantial gifts can be expected from a limited number of alumni and friends, Bucknell must depend in part on average gifts from a large number of her sons and daughters. Bison Club membership is one channel through which a great number of alumni may contribute annually.

Equally important to your annual gift through the Bison Club is your generous support of our Club's activities. The Club has assumed the responsibility of placing our athletics on a sound basis. Young men and women are alert today, more than ever, to the necessity of college training which includes physical as well as moral, social, and educational development. We believe that a soundly organized and administered program for spiritual, physical, and mental development will draw the highest type student to Bucknell. This is the aim and purpose of the Bison Club members.

As a Bucknellian and Alumni Trustee, it is my earnest hope that every alumnus and alumna will join the Bison Club, contribute personally, as well as financially, and derive a feeling of satisfaction that our obligation to Bucknell for the use of its educational advantages extended to us in years gone by has been adequately discharged. When we meet at Homecoming on October 18, let us look forward to a healthy growth in Bison Club membership.

Alumni Activities Should Be Increased This Year

By W. C. Lowther, '15, Pres. General Alumni Association

With European war lords attempting, through fiendish and hellish catastrophic methods, to wipe democracy from the face of the earth, it is extremely fortunate that we have Dr. Marts to lead us as we open for our 96th year.

As I take over the presidency, the General Alumni Association and our thirty-nine sectional clubs scattered from Coast to Coast have never been in a more prosperous and active condition. We cannot remain stationary. We must progress or slip backward. Let us all now resolve to work just a little harder and lend a hand where ever we are needed to "Boost Bucknell."

All phases of alumni work are merely efforts to develop good-will among the alumni of Bucknell so that when the University is passing through an emergency, or undertakes a project, or acquires an ambition, thousands of alumni will so sincerely appreciate the advantages secured to them from this exposure to higher education that they will be ready to come to her support. It matters little whether this support is in cash, in bequests, in a higher grade of new student, in equipment, in publicity or just plain loyal work.

We welcome the Class of 1941 as alumni and hope they will avail themselves the privilege of affiliation with one of the local alumni groups. You need us, and we need you to help us carry on the work.

Plan now to come back for Homecoming on October 18 and feel the "Spirit of Bucknell" and see the Bisons in action.

Organize An Alumni Club

Bucknellians living in areas where there are no alumni clubs can organize one provided there are at least five Bucknellians within a reasonable radius. An Officer's Handbook can be secured by writing to the Alumni Office.

New Officers Elected for Alumni Association

The Board of Directors elected W. C. Lowther, '14, president of the General Alumni Association. Kenneth W. Slifer, '26, elected president at the June meeting, was unable to accept the position.

Mr. Lowther is the first president under the new By-Laws. He succeeds E. A. Snyder, '11, under whose unusual leadership and tireless effort the Association has made outstanding progress. Mr. Lowther is exceptionally well qualified for his new office.

Other officers of the Association are S. L. Seemann, '17, first vice-president; Emma E. Dillon, '15, second vice-president; Dayton L. Ranck, '16, treasurer; and L. Francis Lybarger, Jr., '28, secretary. The membership of the new Board of Directors is as follows: W. C. Lowther, '14; S. L. Seemann, '17; Emma E. Dillon, '15; Miller A. Johnson, '20; Dr. E. W. Pangburn, '15; E. A. Snyder, '11; and O. V. W. Hawkins, '13. A copy of the new By-Laws, adopted at the June meeting with only minor changes, was printed in the May issue of the Alumni Monthly.

We're In the Army Now!

By Private Barr Cannon, '59

This had been planned as a pretty comprehensive analysis covering all Bucknellians known to be in the service, and giving some news notes about them. However, yours truly, while visiting in Washington over the week end from Camp Meade was taken ill, and landed here in Walter Reed. Meanwhile, interesting replies from fellow Bucknellians in uniform continue to pile up at camp, and having no way to reach them I'll have to report from memory.

First off—upon being admitted here, I was given a blood test, and none other than Bucknellian John Qualters, '37, a lab technician in the army, was to do the test. Next morning I was awakened with a shout from my nurse who turned out to be a close friend in high school days and our class valedictorian, whom I hadn't seen for seven years. It was beginning to seem like old home week!

Possibly what most of you would like to know is how the boys all like it, and briefly, it's a sad note. Even those who are officers or who are slated to be, don't seem to care for it, and to those of us in the ranks, the thoughts of two and a half years of it seem unanimously unbearable.

Just what it is that makes it so unpleasant is hard to say, because in each case it varies: poor food, lack of proper medical attention (that wouldn't apply here tho'—it's excellent), lack of equipment, lack of organization, inefficient officers, and general confusion and red tape all come in for their share of "beefing," but I think the college man complains chiefly on a little different score.

I've heard the statement made that at $21.00 and $30.00 monthly the majority of the army men will be at the peak of their earning capacity for life, and possibly it's true. Certainly it doesn't apply to college men though; and that's the big rub. Most of the men were born during the last war, spent their youth in the depression which followed, and then when the first opportunity to earn arose, they were thrust into the army. To have the time more than doubled after most of them got in really hurt, and they all agree that chances for making anything exist only now—that the depression following this upheaval will make the last one seem like boom times in comparison.

Then too, college men are pretty specifically trained for definite work and interests, and though the army takes decided pains to ascertain all this, it becomes completely disregarded when they place the men.

To top it all, there is an attitude of boredom which the type of work gives birth to in the case of college men in the service. The calibre of the work done is infantile in nature, and, like a convoy, progress is measured by the slowest individual, so at times the monotony is something fierce.

Had an interesting letter from Harold Frisoli, '39, former art editor of L'Agenda, who was drafted from Newark and sent to Ft. Dix, N. J. He's in the 52nd Coast Artillery, and they were sent to the new defense base in Bermuda. All incoming and outgoing Bermuda mail is censored by the U. S. Army, so where Hal tried to tell me what his duties included, it was cut right out of the letter, as was the name of the aircraft carrier upon which Claude Phillips, '38, now flying for the navy, is stationed. It had stopped there in Bermuda, and Hal and Claudie had a reunion of their own. The latter had attended Pensacola following his graduation.

While at Camp Lee, Va., where I was at the reception center for awhile, I ran into Gerald Wagner, '40, of Milton, who had been drafted and was working in the finance section there. They wanted to keep him permanently, but he'd have had to enlist for three years to stay there, and when I saw him he didn't intend to do that.

Upon arriving at Ft. Meade, I was assigned to the 115th Infantry, a Maryland National Guard regiment known as "Maryland's Own." I discovered that Carlyle Evans, '40, was in the same regiment, and though we met by accident in the canteen one evening and had a nice chat, the next time I went to look him up he was gone. In the interim, quite a few men had left to join the air corps, and he may have been one of them.

At the reception center at Ft. Meade I ran into Frank Noll, class of '39, and he was being sent out that day to Ft. Eustis, Va. Bob Seers, also '39, volunteered prior to last Christmas, and was located at Meade for a time. He is now a sergeant stationed at the reception center at New Cumberland, Pa., just outside of Harrisburg.

The Phi Gams seem to have gone en masse for the marines, and enrolled in the officers' training school at Quantico, Va. Bill Leshner, '37; Don Druckemiller, '38; Bob Wilt, '40; Tom Tosh, '41, and Dick Creveling, '41.

The first two are commissioned by now. Lee ("Bud") Ranck, '41, son of Bucknell treasurer, D. L. Ranck, was trying to make the grade to get into this group, but because of poor eyes was turned down in Philadelphia and Washington, and the last I heard, he was trying to get in at Pittsburgh.

A funny one happened to Larry Baiada and Emmitt Steele, both ex '41, who dropped out at the end of their sophomore year. Unbeknown to the other, each tried to enter the air corps, and they wound up out in Oklahoma as room-mates! As time went on, they both missed out in the air corps; Emmitt because he lacked "innate flying ability," and Larry through difficulty with math. So both went their individual ways again. Larry went home to New Jersey and got a job, while Emmitt took a naval reserve course at Northwestern, and came out an ensign. He is now stationed in Hawaii with wife (nec Fern Raymond, ex '41) and latest addition, Thomas Emmitt, Jr., born in June.

Imagine Emmitt's surprise while watching a boat anchor in the harbor in Hawaii recently to see leaning over the rail waving at him none other than ex-room-mate, now seaman Lawrence Baiada!

Edwin Pawley, ex '42, has been drafted and put in with the regular army at Ft. Meade. The last I heard he was in Texas on maneuvers with them.

I recently had a letter from Lieutenant Sanford Barcus, '34, who is now stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C., with Company D, 67th Quartermaster Battalion (LM). He wrote me just after returning from the Fort Wagner Motor Transport School, Detroit, Michigan, where he had spent four weeks studying at the Ford, Dodge, Chevrolet and G. M. C. factories. His courses there included specialized instruction in the mechanics and construction of the vehicles being built for the U. S. Army.

On page 19 will be found a list of men recently inducted into service.

As for myself, I've hit it pretty lucky as far as interesting work goes. The colonel in command of our regiment decided to have a glee club, and accepted my offer to manage it as a statement that I could direct it! All Bucknellians in service are requested to keep the Alumni Office informed of their changes in address, rank, and special duties.

Empire State Building
New York, N. Y.

DEAR ALUMNUS:

During October the membership committee of the BISON CLUB will offer to each Bucknellian an opportunity to join with hundreds of others for the betterment of our University. If possible, a member of the committee will call at your office or your home to discuss the activities of the Club. If personal contact cannot be made, we hope that we will hear from you as the result of our appeal in this issue of the Alumni Monthbly.

Bucknell is currently blessed with a most capable administration of its affairs. If you and I wholeheartedly support this management, our college need have no fears of the future. Without our help the problems ahead will indeed be difficult.

Our 1941 monetary gifts to Bucknell, through the BISON CLUB, will immediately be enhanced fifty per cent, due to the generosity of our Club President who has offered to contribute one dollar for each two dollars given by the membership. Let's help him be exceedingly generous!

The bison is distinctly an American animal. It is certainly fitting that this club, pledged to support Bucknell, is named for the American Bison; it is distinctly an American club determined to help continue in the American way a great American institution. Its members recognize that individually very few will be able to build a monument to endure the centuries, but collectively they can help build one of the greatest monuments—an institution where future generations will learn to live together as Americans.

We are asking you to place a stone in such an edifice, in October—if possible before Homecoming Day.

Sincerely,

C. PRESTON DAWSON, '24,
Membership Chairman for Men.

Kress Trophy Is Awarded for Outstanding Accomplishments

By Ralph E. Page, Dean of Men

For several years the fraternities at Bucknell have been competing with each other for a variety of trophies. Each of these awards has been made for excellence in some particular field of endeavor, academic or athletic.

In the fall of 1940, Mr. Rush H. Kress, '00, one of the outstanding friends of Bucknell, suggested a new type of award. The Kress trophy is designed to recognize the general contribution which our fraternities are making to "the Bucknell Way of Life."

There are a number of factors which make it difficult to measure contributions of this sort fairly. One of the most obvious problems results from the difference in size between the various chapters. There is also a tendency on the part of some groups to specialize in some particular activity to the virtual exclusion of all others. This seems undesirable in that it tends to make the interests of that particular group lopsided.

The idea which underlies the Kress award is that a well-rounded program of activities within each fraternity chapter is desirable. Such a program makes the fraternities a really significant part of Bucknell's educational system. Consequently, the fraternity whose members participate most actively in such a well-rounded program has made a valuable contribution to Bucknell.

The Interfraternity Council devoted a great deal of time to the problem of working out a point system which would make it possible for all of the chapters to compete for this trophy on an equal basis. A committee of the Council worked out a detailed plan for this purpose, and their proposal was approved by the entire Council at its April meeting.

Generally speaking, this point system is based on three factors. In the first place, there is a scale of values which has been arbitrarily established by the Interfraternity Council for all student activities. These values have been assigned on the basis of the relative importance of each activity to the school and its students.

In the second place, an attempt has been made to evaluate the amount of competition involved in any given activity. For example, if ten men are competing for ten different positions the attainment of one of those positions is not difficult. On the other hand, if those same ten men are competing for the same position, the person who finally wins out deserves a great deal of credit.

Finally, there is the chapter factor to be considered. This is determined by the number of men within each chapter who participated in each activity. If five men or less participate this factor is two. If six or more take part the factor is four. Any chapter which enters a full team in any activity receives a chapter factor of four.

The activities of the University have been classified under four major divisions. These divisions are athletics, scholarship, extra-curricular activities, and honorary societies. Athletics, scholarship, and extra-curricular activities are each arbitrarily evaluated at 30%. Honorary societies are evaluated at 10%.

On the basis of the three factors mentioned above every chapter receives a raw score for its participation in each activity. The chapter having the highest raw score thereby automatically acquires the appropriate percentage score. For example, the fraternity receiving the highest raw score in athletics will be immediately credited with 30%. Each of the other chapters will receive the same portion of 30% that their respective raw scores bear to the winning raw score. The total percentage points gained by each house in each of the four divisions will then be totaled, and the house with the largest percentage wins the Rush Kress Trophy.

The following activities are considered as the basis for the award: seven varsity sports; eight intramural sports; eleven forms of individual competition; scholarship; eleven types of extra-curricular activity; and thirteen honorary societies.

When the Rush Kress Trophy is awarded at the Fall Convocation, the winning fraternity can quite properly give it a prominent place in the chapter house. Truly it will indicate distinguished service to Bucknell.

Football Prognostications for 1941

By Robert Streeter, '38

If a seasoned first team could charge blithely through a nine-game schedule without needing substitutions, Bucknell's Bisons might have reason to look forward to this fall's campaigning with considerable aplomb—almost confidence.

But football being the gruelling game it is, the Thundering Herd's lack of experienced reserves adds a warning footnote to any statement of high hopes that Bison followers might be tempted to issue. Statistically, here is the story: of the 33 men now practicing in the Memorial Stadium, 21 are sophomores.

This oversized contingent of athletes who have yet to receive their baptism of fire in intercollegiate football means that almost anything can happen to the Bucknell eleven this fall. Spurts of incandescent play by these sophomores could boost the Bisons to unexpected heights. On the other hand, inexperience and immature playing judgment may prove a strong downward drag. But one thing is certain, a squad with two sophomores for each veteran won't lack dash, spirit, fight.

Because of its comparative youth, the Orange and Blue squad has not yet been seriously affected by the draft. By the time pre-season drills began on September 4 only two Bisons had exchanged their moleskins for military uniforms. They are Phil Van Sant, guard, and Howard Lonergan, tackle.

However, before the season gets under way, others may follow, among them Steve Sokol, who has been groomed for the Number One center job. Several of the most valued upperclassmen were able to return to college because they are enrolled in engineering and other technical courses.

As the opener with Lebanon Valley on September 27 draws near, Humphreys and his aide, Bus Blum, who are entering their fifth year at Bucknell, are seeking to plug gaps left by the departure of 13 lettermen, including six regulars. These half dozen vacancies are at center, both guards, end, fullback, and quarterback.

By judiciously shifting the eight letterwinning holdovers from last season, topnotch veteran contenders have been found for all but three positions. Critical areas in the rebuilding of the team, as they appear to the Bison high command, will be at center and fullback, where the melee for starting assignments may continue indefinitely.

As things stand now, the line positions will be manned by veterans, except for right tackle, where Sophomore Walter Szot has at least an even chance of edging out Senior Charles Nagel. Fred Kern, a stocky, powerful senior, will be back at the other tackle.

At end Co-Captain Willard Gore and Edwin Glass will be on hand again, with Leonard Miller, a newcomer, appearing to be the ablest of the reserves. At guard Walter Bennett and Bill Anderson, who served as relief men to Plewak and Priore last year, will probably be promoted to the first-string chores. Leading candidates at center, besides Sokol, are Paul Burke, a squadman last year, and Bill Reichert, a sophomore.

The shortage of seasoned performers will be felt more seriously in the backfield, where of 12 candidates all except three are sophomores. Co-Captain Melvin Knupp is favored to continue his triple-threat duties at left halfback, Senior Walt Wenrick looks like a sure thing for quarterback, and Junior Chet Podd wants to be the starting fullback.

Outstanding among the sophomore backfield talent are Jim Reichert, a 197-pound six-footer, who is battling Podd at fullback, and three speed merchants who are squabbling among themselves at right halfback: Frank DeAngelis, Albert Magagna, and Glenn Burkholder. If Humphreys finds it advisable to use the experienced Knupp at fullback, a versatile sophomore, Albert Kazary, will be inserted at left halfback. Two other newcomers, Edward McGowan and Paul deBenedictis, will be capable substitutes for Quarterback Wenrick.

The Bison coaches hope to weld this sophomore-studded squad into an effective aggregation in time for the trio of "crucial" games with Penn State, Boston University, and Temple which follow each other on successive October week-ends. At the same time they are expecting nothing but trouble from the two early-season foes, Lebanon Valley and Muhlenberg, particularly the latter.

In the athletic highlight of Homecoming on October 18, Boston University will provide the sternest kind of test for the Orange and Blue. The much-improved Terriers, whose football fortunes have been in the ascendancy for the past several seasons, last year whipped by a 37-0 score the same Western Maryland team which held Bucknell to a scoreless deadlock. Boston University also fought Boston Col-

DEAR ALUMNA:

Frequently, I have heard Bucknell Women express a warm desire to help our Alma Mater. Almost always the discussion ends on a somewhat sad note—"but anything I can do is so small that it seems immaterial." To you women who have such a point of view, the Bison Club will have a strong appeal.

This Club has been formed to unite alumni support in a manner which permits each of us to become an important part in a major movement for the good of our University. It gives us an opportunity to give as much of our services as we desire, and to give a small amount of our substance each year.

An individual gift of ten dollars standing alone does appear small and of little value to Bucknell, but when multiplied by a thousand or more, we can visualize a huge sum available for great purposes. Think of the startling total if each of our nine thousand graduates joined in such a movement!

Results such as these depend entirely upon you as an individual, and you may rightfully feel that your individual participation has made a large gift to Bucknell possible.

When a Bison Club member calls upon you in October to tell you about this great movement, please keep in mind that your individual participation is vital—that the chain will be long and strong only if there are many links, and that only through the goodness of the individual can the greater good be realized.

Sincerely,

EMMA E. DILLON, '15,
Membership Chairman for Women.

Director of Athletics, Dr. B. W. Griffith, '99

Says:

For many years it has been my pleasure to serve on the Athletic Council and for nearly as many as Director of Athletics. It has been a most interesting job but sometimes a trying one. When some team had an off season, I was frequently asked by alumni: "Why didn't we do better?" "What's wrong with Bucknell athletics?"

Well, the questions were not easy to answer. One cause was, of course, lack of adequate funds; another, lack of adequate manpower; and still another, lack of proper facilities. During the past several years facilities had been improved, but the problems were not near final solution until the Bison Club was conceived.

The most important phase in the development and successful pursuit of the athletic program is found in two words—"alumni support." Perhaps three words would be better—"organized alumni support." The Bison Club brings to Bucknell this most essential help. With groups of interested alumni located in many communities, with these groups pledged to support our athletic activities, we will be sent able young athletes who can measure up to our standards.

It is my hope that Bison Club members in each community will organize themselves locally. I hope they will hold meetings periodically and make these meetings real business sessions in which they will discuss the problem of recruiting students for Bucknell. I'm sure that such a local group of Bisons would know many of the high school seniors and could devise ways of becoming acquainted with others. I'm also sure that by coming together for such discussions each would help to inspire the others to take action and approach these boys before alumni of other colleges had persuaded them to go some place other than Bucknell.

The good that can come to Bucknell and to Bucknellians through the help of local Bison Club groups is immeasurable. It is my belief that hundreds of alumni have been awaiting this opportunity to play a larger part in Bucknell activities.

With The Clubs...

ALTOONA—

The Altoona Alumni Club of Bucknell University held a dinner meeting on May 6 at the Penn Alto Hotel, Altoona, Pa. The Alumni Secretary attended the meeting and showed the motion picture, "Going to Bucknell," and Dr. B. W. Griffith, director of athletics at Bucknell, brought greetings from the campus.

CONNECTICUT—

Approximately sixty Bucknellians and guests attended a meeting of Connecticut alumni held at the Hotel Taft, New Haven, Conn., on May 23. At this meeting it was unanimously voted that a Connecticut-Bucknell Alumni Club should be organized, and an Executive and Organizing Committee was appointed to make plans for the organization of such a club.

HARRISBURG—

A fine group of Bucknellians attended the regular meeting of the Harrisburg Bucknell Alumni Club on March 27. Colonel Schrader was the special guest for the evening.

At the April gathering the Harrisburg Bucknell alumni enjoyed participating in a quiz program which was concerned with Bucknell in the present and past. Harvard Griffith, Jr., '40, won the prize.

The Harrisburg Alumni Club again met for their regular monthly meeting at the "Y" on Thursday, May 22. Coach Humphreys, assistant director of athletics at Bucknell, gave a very entertaining talk and showed some motion pictures of last season's football games.

JOHNSTOWN—

On April 24, the Bucknell Alumni Association of Johnstown met at the Fort Stanwix Hotel at 8 o'clock. The meeting was open to students interested in attending the University as well as to all Bucknellians and their families. The Director of Admissions showed motion pictures of the school and talked about student activities.

YORK—

The Bucknell University Alumni Club of York held a meeting on April 18 at the West York Inn. Special guest and speaker for the evening was Dr. Arnaud C. Marts, president of Bucknell.

BALTIMORE—

The Baltimore Club had a dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m. on May 28. The Alumni Secretary attended the meeting and showed the Bucknell motion picture.

BUFFALO—

On the evening of June 4, many Buffalo and Niagara Bucknellians attended a dinner-dance at the Auf Wiedersehen, a restaurant east of Buffalo. Cap Workmoe and his orchestra furnished the music.

MONMOUTH—

The Bucknell alumni living in Monmouth and Ocean Counties, N. J., had a dinner meeting on March 24 at the Roosevelt Tea Room. Election of officers was held and plans for a series of "get-together" meetings for the year were discussed.

The May meeting of the Monmouth County Bucknell Alumni Club was held at Buttonwood Manor, near Matawan, N. J. The program for the evening was "Bucknell—Past, Present, and Future." Each alumnus brought to the gathering a snapshot or some souvenir to represent the Bucknell of the past. The Alumni Secretary showed pictures of the Bucknell of today and told of the future plans of our Alma Mater.

On June 9, once again the Monmouth Club members gathered together for their monthly dinner meeting at the Garfield Grant Hotel, Long Branch, N. J.

ROCHESTER—

At the spring get-together of the Rochester-Bucknell alumni group at the Faculty Club of the University of Rochester on May 22, election of officers was held and Mr. Edwin Hartman, '35, was elected president.

The Rochester Club had an unusual basket picnic at Ellison Park on July 12. The unmarried members brought the coffee, cream, and "extras," while the married Bucknellians provided food for the main course. "Sy" (J. P.) Morgan, '21, furnished ice cream free of charge for the whole group.

SOUTHERN NEW JERSEY—

The spring meeting of the Southern New Jersey Club was held on May 9 at Kenneth Slifer's home in Woodbury, N. J. A fashion parade of Bucknell styles during the past, a professional magician, and the showing of the Bucknell motion picture made up the program for the evening. Election of officers was held with results as follows: President, Edwin Robb, '24; vice president, Caryl Dutton Slifer, '27; recording secretary, Florence Barber Rohn, '15; treasurer, Frances Harris, '27.

PHILADELPHIA—

On March 20, the Philadelphia alumni had their second monthly luncheon meeting at Whitman's in Philadelphia. At this meeting John B. Dempsey, '34, was appointed chairman of the Sandlot Sports Committee which co-operates with the Sandlot Sports Association, Inc., in attempting to eliminate street corner gangs by converting them into athletic teams and boys' clubs. The Bucknellians in the Philadelphia area, feeling that this is a worthy project to encourage, provided a trophy to be presented in behalf of the University.

At the April luncheon at Whitman's, Dr. Homer A. Smith, of Temple University, gave an excellent talk to Bucknell alumni on football. This talk expressed the point of view of the "football fan."

The Philadelphia Alumni Club had their last mid-day luncheon before vacation time on May 15.

The annual spring soiree for the Bucknellians living in and around Philadelphia and their guests was held at the Merion Cricket Club, Haverford, Pa.,

A Message to the Alumni

By E. A. Snyder, '11

Past President, General Alumni Association

During the past six years of active work with the New York and New Jersey groups of the Metropolitan Alumni Associations and during the past two years as President of the General Alumni Association, ample opportunity was provided for me to observe the good things that alumni have accomplished and are accomplishing for Bucknell. I would like to enumerate a few of these accomplishments.

The aid rendered our Director of Admissions by the members of the thirty-eight active alumni groups has increased the number of applications for admission and has helped to raise the scholarship standard of our matriculates. Increased activity of our local associations in the number of their yearly meetings, with more worthwhile programs, has awakened a new enthusiasm in a large group of alumni to do things for Bucknell. The increased interest in the work of the Athletic Council and the constructive results it has accomplished during the past few years, the formation of the new Bison Club to assist the Council in solving its age-old financial problems, the sponsorship by local associations of Bucknell scholarships, the compiling and adoption of new By-Laws to govern the General Association, etc., have all resulted from a greater alumni interest and enthusiasm. Most important of all is that there has been developed a contagious, greater justifiable pride, among all alumni, in the accomplishments of Bucknell and its graduates. Many non-Bucknell men and women have been exposed to this contagious enthusiasm and have acquired the same laudable disease.

Yes, Bucknell has profited by our interest, our enthusiasm, and our work, but there are so many more things we alumni could and should be doing.

Probably the most pressing of these is the matter of financing our Bucknell Alumni Monthly. The cost of preparing and mailing one issue of our monthly magazine to all alumni is approximately $950.00. About four issues per year are being sent, and the University has assumed the entire expense. It is our official alumni publication; therefore, we alumni should take steps to assume this financial obligation. As a step in this direction each one of the thirty-eight local alumni associations could decide this year to donate to this cause a sum of money proportionate to their membership by assessing each member a certain fixed portion of their local dues. This brings to our attention another important matter; namely, that of the expense involved in sending and preparing club notices. For many years the Alumni Office at Bucknell has been assuming the expenses of preparing and mailing notices of meetings of the local associations. When we realize that the expenses of the Alumni Office, including the salaries of the Alumni Secretary and his staff, are paid entirely by the University, it seems an imposition to also ask them to pay expenses incurred by the meeting of alumni clubs. Could not all local associations collect yearly dues and apply part of the proceeds to paying the expenses of their local meetings and use the balance towards the publication of the Alumni Monthly or some other worthy project for Bucknell?

Bucknell also needs a vocational directory of its alumni. The directory entitled, Your College Friends, issued by the Alumni Office in 1940, was an excellent and worthwhile accomplishment. We now need a directory of our graduates, which will list teachers; electrical, chemical, mechanical, and civil engineers; commerce and finance graduates; ministers; and other occupational groups. This would be a valuable aid to the establishment of a co-ordinated placement bureau. One of these days the world will emerge from its present chaotic condition, and Bucknell graduates, with others, will be struggling to obtain employment. We should have an active Alumni Placement Bureau working with the University Placement Bureau, and a directory of this kind would be an invaluable aid.

Finally, Bucknell will be 100 years old in 1946. Will our General Alumni Association let this historic occasion pass without presenting its Alma Mater with a commensurate Birthday gift? We have over 9,000 alumni. A plan could be prepared to solicit from each one, between now and 1946, a small or large contribution to a birthday fund. We should be able to raise a sizable sum in this manner. Even if each alumnus presented but one dollar each year for the next five years, we could raise $45,000. Whatever we could raise would surely provide a worthwhile and suitable alumni memorial for the occasion. The University has recently issued a bulletin entitled "Bucknell Looks Toward Its Centennial," in which are listed many things our Alma Mater needs. Why should not our General Alumni Association, for this 100th year gift, provide one or more of these needs that will aid her in her continued service to our sons and daughters.

There seems to be a lot of "giving" in this message—giving of labor, service, thought, and money—but a real alumnus of any college is one who loves his Alma Mater; and the measure of the deepness of that love is the amount of thought, labor, service, and financial help that is willingly and gratefully given. We cannot measure what our Alma Mater so unstintingly gave us. May we in turn be unstinting in what we give to her.

Applications This Year Exceeded All Previous Years

Through the unusual and enthusiastic support the alumni and friends of Bucknell have given the Student Admissions Program, more students applied for admission to the freshman class this year than in any other year of Bucknell's history. Also, because of an anticipated loss of men students due to the Selective Service System, more students have been admitted than usual, making this year's freshman class the largest.

Four years ago President Marts asked the co-operation of alumni and requested their support of the Student Admissions Program then being established. The response of the alumni has been so unusual that applications have increased 65% during the four years. The larger number of applications makes it possible for Bucknell to be more selective in the admission of students and to constantly improve the general standing of the student body.

that you too are setting aside this date to join the others in their homeward march toward the college they love.

The Homecoming Day program is filled with events to keep every person busy from early morning until midnight. The Bison Club breakfast will be held at Hotel Lewisburger at 9:00 A. M. The Alumni Day parade will march down Market Street at 11 A. M. In the afternoon at 2 o'clock all Bucknellians and friends will assemble in the Memorial Stadium beneath sunlit skies to see the Bucknell Bisons down the Boston University Terriers. At 6:30 P. M. a capacity crowd will attend the Alumni Day dinner in the Women's Dining Hall. As a fitting climax to a day of activity, Bucknellians will dance to the strains of sweet music by Chuck Gordon and His Orchestra at 9 P. M. at the Alumni Dance in the Men's Gymnasium—one of the best attended dances of the college year.

Many Returned for Alumni Day

Members of the reunion classes who were present met in that section of the dining hall reserved for their particular class. These five year classes, ranging from 1891 to 1936, were well attended. Eight members of the fifty-year class—five women and three men—were present. They were Mrs. Samuel Border, nee Mary Rogers; Mrs. Susanna Stapleton Brubaker; Mrs. D. M. Sampsell, nee Emma Hyman; Mrs. D. A. Solly, nee Mary Kreamer; Mrs. Maze Pellman Glover; Dr. George E. Fisher; the Rev. Mr. I. S. Hankins; and the Rev. Mr. Claude G. Langford. These persons received special recognition and the five alumnae were presented with pins. Miss Ida Frick, '76, Mr. Ira D. Mallery, '86, and Mrs. Eugene Fry, nee Mary I. Frear, a member of the class of 1881, were also honored.

The reunion class having the most members present was the class of 1916, which celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. Approximately thirty-five members and a large number of guests met on the sun-porch adjoining the main dining hall and had a very successful luncheon meeting of their own. Greetings were read from—Cyrus Follmer, Berlin, Germany; Col. Burton Lewis, Honolulu, Hawaii; Major Henry Wolf, Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri; and Margaret Waddell Brandon, Austin, Texas—1916 graduates who were too far away to attend their class reunion. Tribute was paid to those members of the class who had passed away during the past year.

New Lights Given By the Class of 1940

Bucknellians returning usually observe the improved lighting system on the campus and express satisfaction over the changes. Light standards have been installed in front of Old Main. As you probably will recall, that part of the campus was very dark and the old lights were inadequate. Other standards have been placed along the path from the Chemistry Building to Old Main. The installation of the new lights was made possible through a gift of the class of 1940.

Other lights had been installed from the Sigma Chi House to the Men's Gymnasium through a gift of the class of 1928.

Class gifts such as these are greatly appreciated and help to complete the plans for a general beautification of the campus before the Centennial Celebration in 1946. It has been suggested that other classes desiring to make gifts should consult with officers of the University so they can select a needed improvement.

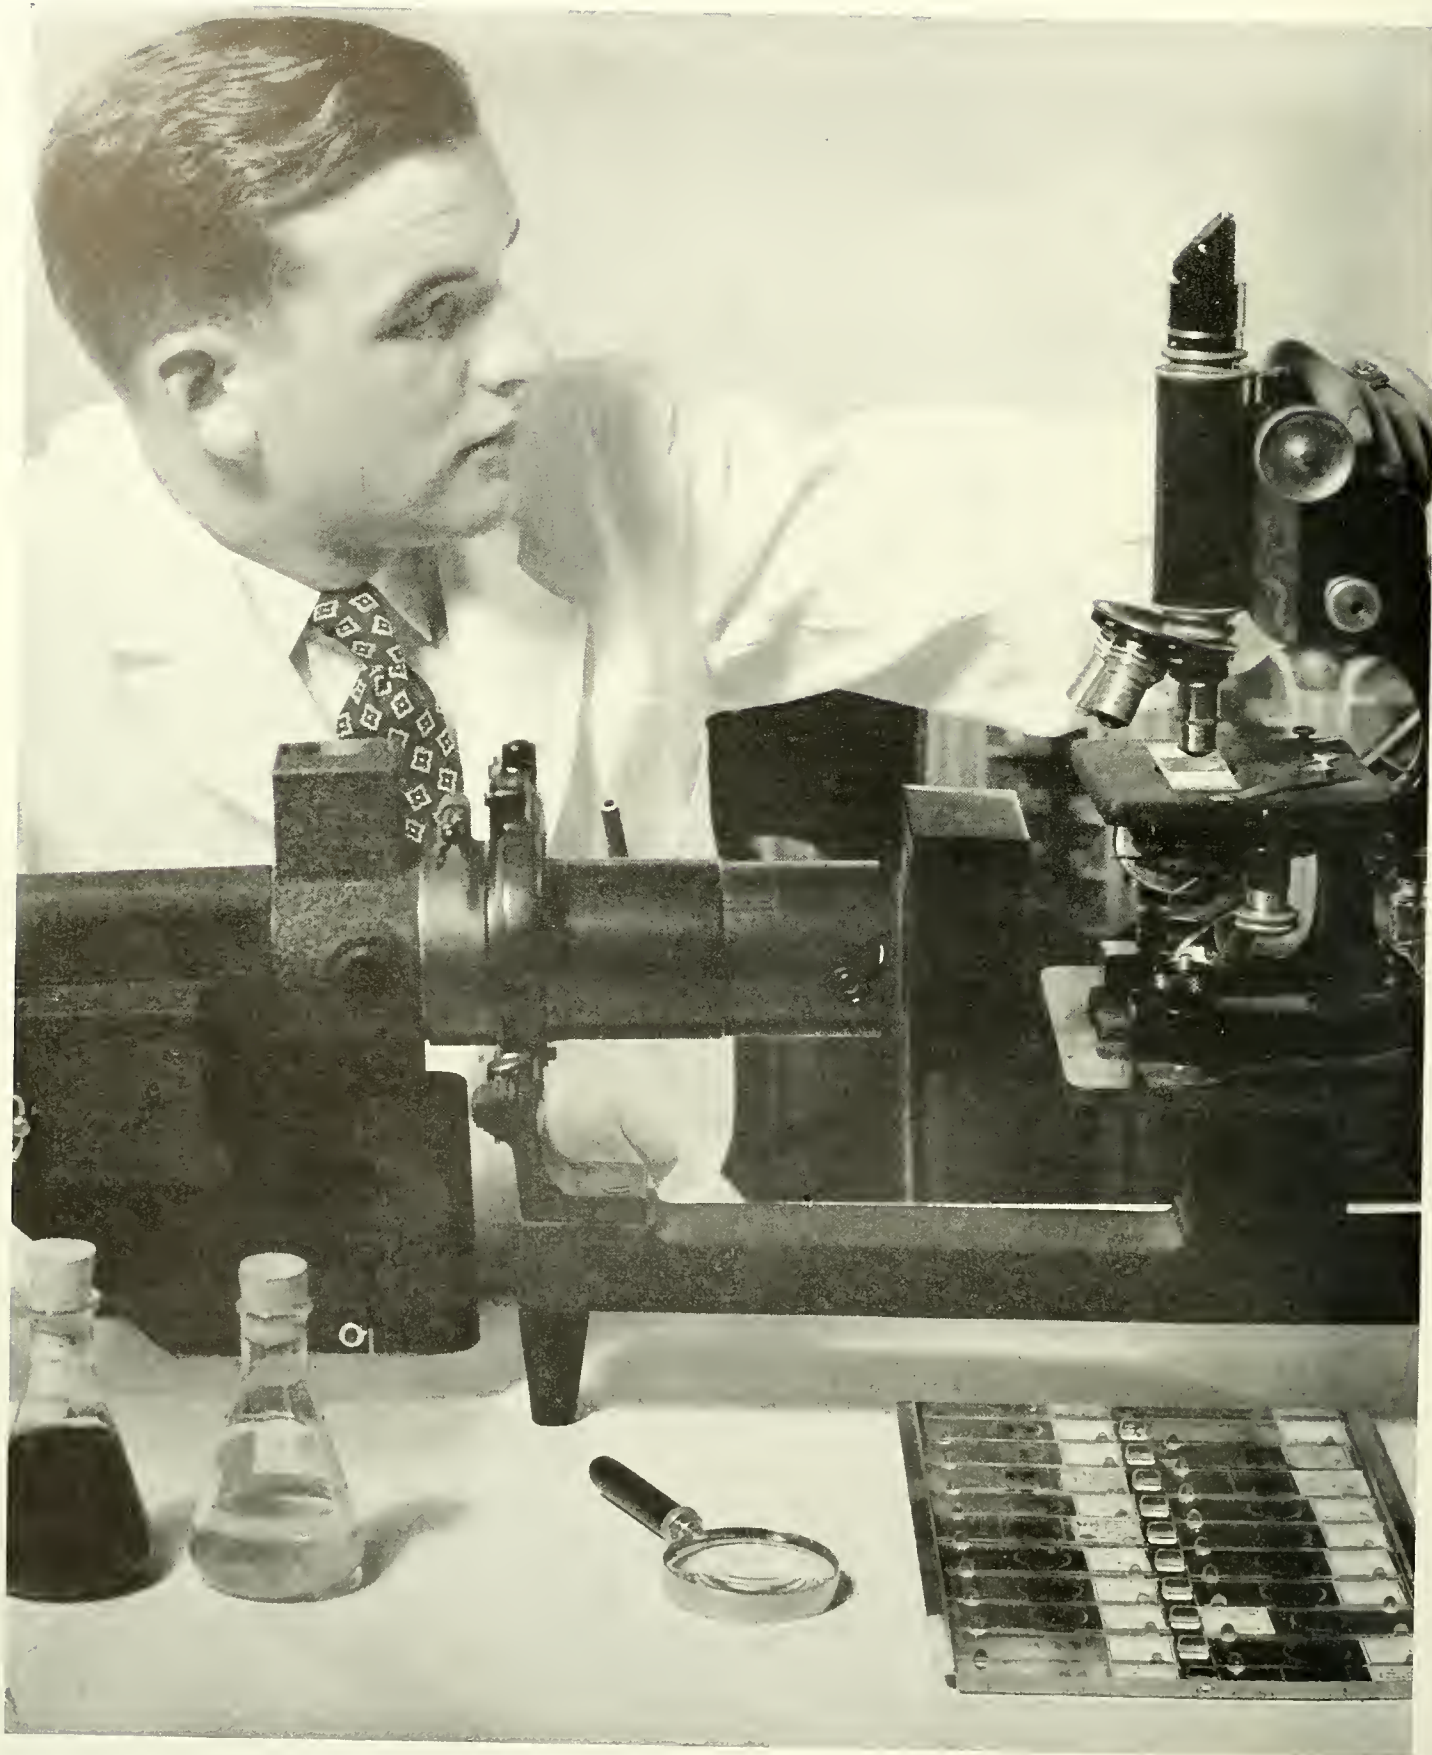

During the General Alumni and Alumnae Luncheon in the main Dining Hall, a special program consisting of greetings from Dr. Arnaud C. Marts, Bucknell's beloved president; greetings from Mr. E. A. Snyder, 1940-1941 president of the General Alumni Association; greetings from Mr. L. Francis Lybarger, Jr., alumni secretary; and several selections from the Men's Glee Club Quartet. The various speakers were fittingly introduced by Mrs. M. L. Drum, '98, toastmistress. After the program was completed, a business meeting of the General Alumni Association was conducted by Mr. E. A. Snyder, '11, at which time the new By-Laws of the General Alumni Association were adopted.

Following the luncheon, the Assembly of the General Alumni Association had its first business meeting, and at 3 o'clock a social hour for all Bucknellians was held in Larison Hall Living Room. Refreshments were served by several members of the Alumnae Association.

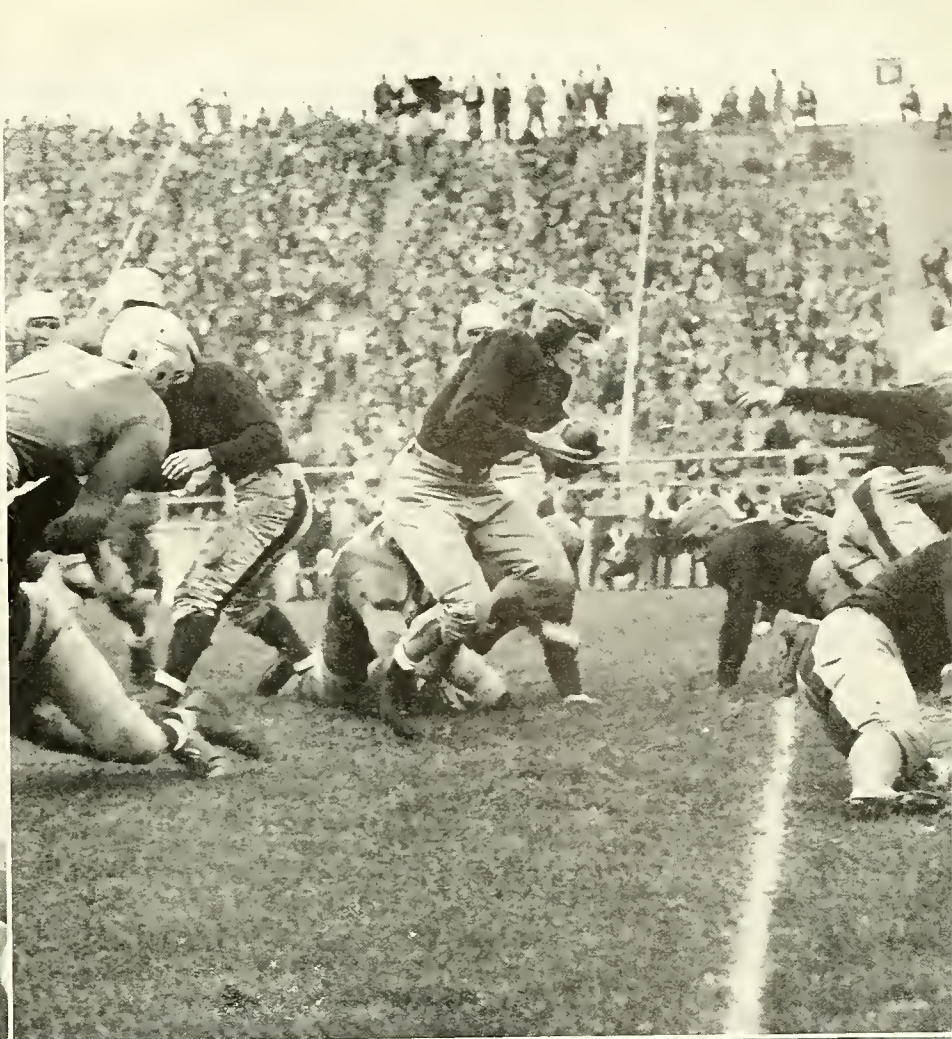

In the evening the fraternity and sorority symposia were followed by Cap and Dagger's presentation of "Margin for Error." When the curtain was closed at the end of the final act, Bucknell's 1941 Alumni Day activities were brought to an end.

Class of 1916 Celebrates Twenty-Fifth Anniversary

This page and the one opposite have been reprinted from a new viewbook, "Eight Hundred Men at Bucknell," which is now ready for mailing to prospective men students.

Wedding Bells...

1918

Miss Emma A. Strine, of Milton, and Mr. Byron E. Good, of Watsontown, were married at Alexandria, Virginia, by Dr. C. C. Bell. After making a tour of the southern states, the couple returned to Pennsylvania and are now living in Milton.

1925

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Helen E. Waldner, music instructor in the Milton Public Schools, to Marvin Heller, of Midvalley, Pa. The wedding took place June 28 in the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Hershey, Pa.

1929

Miss Elizabeth Humphrey and Mr. Frederick C. Thomas were married on April 23 in the First Baptist Church, Philadelphia. The bride was in charge of the Latin Department of the Phillipsburg High School for five consecutive years and during the past term was a teacher in the Leonia High School, Leonia, N. J. For several years she was also engaged as instructor of Latin at the Bucknell Summer Demonstration School. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas are residing in New York City where Mr. Thomas is employed by the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company.

1932

Miss Helen L. Walters, a teacher in the Lewistown public schools, is now Mrs. Joseph N. Breston. Mr. Breston is a research chemist at Pennsylvania State College.

1934

Miss Laura Beltz, of Harrisburg, recently became the bride of Alfred G. Crabbe also of that city. The ceremony was performed in the Zion Lutheran Church.

1935

Another lovely June wedding took place when Miss Esther Rea, of Christiana, Pa., became the bride of Mr. Thomas S. Rogers, also of Christiana, on Saturday, June 28, at three o'clock. The matron of honor was Mrs. Paul Strub, of Allentown, nee Vera Rea, '39, sister of the bride.

Before her marriage Mrs. Rogers was employed by the Armstrong Cork Company in Lancaster, Pa. The bridegroom is a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College at Lancaster and is employed at Sears, Roebuck and Company, Coatesville. The couple are now residing in the Swisher Apartment at Atglen.

The marriage of Helen Marjorie Miller to Mr. George Orville Maish on the fifth of July has been announced. The couple are now at home at 105 East Market Street, Bethlehem, Pa.

On June 10 Metta Farrington and Frederick Straley, '41, were united in marriage at Mount Vernon-on-the-Lake. They are living at the Payne Apartments, Lewisburg.

A lovely August wedding took place when Miss Elizabeth Druckemiller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Druckemiller, of Sunbury, and Leonard Feiser, '38, of Teaneck, N. J., were united in marriage on August 2 at the Zion Lutheran Church, Sunbury.

Mrs. Feiser was a graduate of Bucknell University and the Central Pennsylvania Business School at Harrisburg. She is a member of Phi Beta Phi sorority at Bucknell and was May Queen of the college in 1936. Before her marriage she held a secretarial position with the United States Department of Agriculture at State College.

Mr. Feiser attended Dartmouth College for one year and then transferred to Bucknell University from which school he was graduated. He is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity at Bucknell. He is now employed by the Birdseye Frozen Foods Corporation.

A large group of Bucknellians witnessed another pretty wedding when Miss Elizabeth McMahan, '37, became the bride of Mr. Kenneth F. Herrold on the twenty-first of June in the First Presbyterian Church, Troy, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Herrold have returned to the Bucknell campus this fall after spending the summer at the University of Michigan.

The wedding of Miss Leslie W. Minor, A.M., and Mr. Lloyd Monroe Swartz, A.M., '37, took place on Thursday, July 17, in the Trinity Church Chapel of Williamsport. Mrs. Swartz, a graduate of Goucher College and Bucknell University, had been a member of the faculty of the Williamsport Dickinson Junior College. Mr. Swartz was graduated from Susquehanna University and Bucknell, and is a teacher at the Liverpool High School, Liverpool, Pa.

In the "merry month of May" Miss Veronica McKernan and Mr. Robert V. Housel were married in the St. Mary of the Mount Church, Mt. Washington, Pittsburgh. A reception in the Lebanon Women's Club followed the wedding ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Housel are now living in Shiremanstown, near Harrisburg, where Mr. Housel is employed as administrative officer in the central office of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service.

Donald I. Crabb, of Lewisburg, who is an engineer for the Pennsylvania State Highway Department, was married to Miss Myrtle Reitenbach on March 6, 1941. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. C. Basom, pastor of the St. Paul's Evangelical Church in Lewisburg.

The wedding of Harriett Speyer to Herbert G. Newcomb took place on April 5 at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York City. A reception at the Hotel Brevoort followed the wedding ceremony. Mr. Newcomb, formerly a radio artist with CBS and NBC in New York, is now special announcer and "newscaster" for Station WTHT in Hartford, Conn.; while Mrs. Newcomb before her marriage was personal secretary to George Weller, author and journalist. The Newcombs are living at 35 Brookfield St., Manchester, Conn.

On February 27, 1941, Charlotte Harman, of Oaklyn, N. J., became the wife of Vincent S. Palmisano. Dr. Palmisano was graduated from the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in June. He is now a first lieutenant in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

The marriage of Miss Ann Garber, of Scranton, to Mr. Julius Altman was solemnized on June 15, 1941. Mr. Altman is an attorney in Scranton, and he and Mrs. Altman have established residence at 268 East Market Street.

Dr. Elwood L. Foltz, who was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Medical School this spring, and Miss Anna M. Williams were united in marriage in the Shenandoah Lutheran Church in June. Dr. Foltz is serving an internship of one year at the St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem, before entering practice.

On August 2 at 4 o'clock in the Milton Methodist Church, Miss Frances Miles became the bride of Dr. Grayson Mervine, of Lock Haven. A reception was held at the Milton Hotel following the ceremony. Dr. Mervine is now serving his internship at Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, and will complete his work there this year.

On May 17 Elizabeth MacNamera was married to Frank F. Falcone, '38, at Blacksburg, Va. While Mr. Falcone is employed as a draftsman for a government defense project, he and his wife are living at Fourth and Preston Streets, Radford, Pa. However, their permanent address is Box 5, East Bangor, Pa.

1938

On May 30, 1941, Miss Dorothy Doling, '40, of Maplewood, N. J., and Wilmer T. Beck, of New York City, were united in marriage in "The Little Church Around the Corner" in New York City.

The marriage of Anna K. (Nancy) Shields to Donald Ward, '40, was solemnized on Thursday, July 24, at four o'clock in the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church, Pittsburgh, Pa. Janet McKenna Matson was matron of honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward are now making their home in South Woodbury, New Hampshire, where Mr. Ward is the pastor of two churches.

In the quaint little Presbyterian Church of Sussex, N. J., Miss Josephine L. Copeland, of Sussex and Queens Village, N. Y., and Mr. Hoover Rhodes, of Lewisburg and Johnstown, were united in marriage on the evening of June 14 at eight o'clock. The Episcopal single ring ceremony was performed amid palms, ferns, and laurel.

The bride was attired in a white satin dress with a yoke of rose point pattern lace and wore a Dutch cap with tulle veil. Her four bridesmaids, Ruth Perry, '39; Nancy Bennett, '39; Dorothy Outman, '41, and Gladferd Machamer, '39, all of whom are Phi Mu's, were dressed in pale pink marquisette and carried bouquets of garden flowers. The matron of honor and junior maid of honor wore dresses of deeper rose. Another Bucknellian in the wedding party was Charles Eyer, '40, who was an usher.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception and dance was given by the bride's parents at their home, The Stonehouse, which overlooks Sussex and the surrounding countryside. Approximately one hundred and fifty guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes spent their honeymoon at Nantucket Island. They are now living at 1132½ Milford Street, Johnstown, Pa., where Mr. Rhodes is employed by the Bethlehem Steel Company.

Miss Christine L. Wittkop, of Millburn, N. J., and Robert C. Brumberger, of Maplewood, were married on June 20 in the St. Rose of Lima Church, Short Hills, N. J. The couple spent their honeymoon at Virginia Beach. They are now living at their new home, 63 Colfax Road, Springfield, N. J.

Marjorie Hill, of Johnstown, and Lester Stolarz, of Clifton, N. J., were married on April 5, 1941, in the First Presbyterian Church in Johnstown. They are now living at Apartment 2-B, 635 Salem Ave., Elizabeth, N. J.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Minium to Mr. Marlyn Leimbach was solemnized on May 3 in the St. John's Reformed Church of Lewisburg.

On July 5, Hope Hanning, '42, and Thomas Heaton were married in the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, New Rochelle, N. Y. The marriage rites were performed by the bride's father. Members of the wedding party who are Bucknellians were: best man, Gene Zanarini, '35; ushers, David Bagenstose, '39; Donald West, '39; Frederic Ashby, '42; and Roland Ashby, '43; matron of honor, Mrs. Gene Zanarini, nee Mary Hanning, '36; bridesmaids, Anne Dunkelberger, '41; Ruth Braden, '42; Lillian Cohen, '42. A reception for all invited guests followed the ceremony.

The new address of Mr. and Mrs. Heaton is Garden Spruce Apartments, Spruce Street and Forty-First Streets, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, Pa.

Donald P. Stolz, '41, son of Dr. and Mrs. Paul G. Stolz, was united in marriage with Miss Louise Dickey, of Lock Haven, Pa., on July 12, 1941. Mrs. Stolz is employed as a laboratory technician at the Lewisburg Evangelical Hospital, and Mr. Stolz is connected with the Student Book Store at Bucknell University. The newlyweds are now at home at 27 South Fourth Street.

Word has been received recently that Miss Edith M. Baston, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., was married to George C. Spurr, Jr., of Milton, on December 29, 1939. Mrs. Spurr was a substitute teacher in the Wilkes-Barre public schools following her graduation from Bucknell. Mr. Spurr is an active member of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science and is affiliated with the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He is employed by the California Branch of the W. Atlee Burpee Co. as plant breeder. The couple are now living at Floradale Farms, Tampoc, Cal.

On March 15, 1941, in the Tioga Baptist Church, Philadelphia, Pa., Miss Alice P. Healey, '40, of that city, became the bride of Mr. Robert M. Savidge, of Sunbury. Dr. Charles M. Bond, Professor of Religion at Bucknell University, officiated. A reception followed the ceremony. Mr. Savidge is now attending the Divinity School at Yale University.

A wedding ceremony performed in unusual surroundings took place when Miss Edith Beale, of Berwick, Pa., and Mr. Norman D. Krouse, junior custodian officer at the Northeastern Penitentiary, Lewisburg, were married in the Bloomsburg Hospital on March 19. The bride was recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident which occurred about a week and a half before the wedding day. Instead of postponing the ceremony, the couple decided to be married at the time they had planned. Thus, the sun porch of the Bloomsburg Hospital rather than the St. John's Reformed Church of Lewisburg was the scene of the marriage rites.

Wedding Bells again rang when Miss Lois Hopewell became the bride of Herbert A. Lesher, an employee of the duPont Company in Wilmington, Del.

1940

On Saturday evening, March 8, 1941, Miss Mary Jane Stannert became the bride of Mr. Richard S. Ranck, of Milton, in a ceremony performed at the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Kathryn Stannert, '35, and the best man was Mr. Richard Krebs. Mr. and Mrs. Ranck are now living in Sunbury where Mr. Ranck is assistant manager of the Strand Theatre.

Word has been received recently that Marjorie Ann Stadden and John W. Allen, of Watertown, N. Y., were married in the Presbyterian Church at that place. The couple will reside in Watertown where Mr. Allen is employed by the New York Air Brake Corporation.

The marriage of Edith E. Class and Frederick S. Price took place on August 2. Mr. Price, a native of Harrisburg, is employed by the A. M. Beyers Company in Houston, Texas.

Clark H. Kuster, A.M., and Miss Ruth Hayes, of Erie, were married in the Lutheran Memorial Church in that city on June 28, 1941. Mr. Kuster is a teacher of social studies at Gridley Junior High School, Erie.

On June 21, Lorena M. Kyle became the bride of Thomas A. Molenaux. Mr. Molenaux is employed by the Westinghouse Electric Company. The couple are making their home in Lansdowne, Pa.

1941

Dr. and Mrs. Carl L. Millward, '06, of Milton, announced the marriage of their daughter, Kathryn Millward, '43, to James A. Tyson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Tyson, '11, of Merion, Pa. The ceremony took place on January 11 at Westminster, Md. Mr. and Mrs. Tyson are now living at 3409 Lowelton Ave., Philadelphia, Pa., where Mr. Tyson is associated with his father in the insurance business.

On June 22, Marvin Jay Rombro, of Williamsport, took as his bride, Miss Elma K. Heyman, of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Rombro are residing at 909 Louisa Street.

In the Lewisburg Lutheran Church a single ring ceremony was performed uniting in marriage Emma Jane Crossgrove and Howard Hartzell. Elizabeth Dyer was maid of honor and Martha Rice and Mary Elizabeth (Betty) Hitchcock were bridesmaids. Richard Olmsted, of Oaklyn, N. J., was best man, and Charles Reed, George and Harvey Hartzell, brothers of the bridegroom, and William Redding, '40, were ushers. Miss Inez Robison, '28, sang "At Dawning" before the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartzell have taken residence in Chester where Mr. Hartzell will attend Crozier Theological Seminary.

Carolyn S. Minner became the bride of Melvin C. Cressman on June 21, 1941. Mr. Cressman is employed by the Bethlehem Steel Company, and he and Mrs. Cressman are living at 311 N. Center St., Bethlehem, Pa.

A very picturesque wedding took place on June 28 when Miss Helen E. Simpson, daughter of Prof. Frank M. Simpson, '95, professor of physics at Bucknell, became the bride of Mr. Cole S. Brembeck, A.M. The bride wore the wedding gown in which her mother was wed thirty-eight years ago, and a bonnet worn by her grandmother seventy-two years ago. She carried a white prayer book and wore a single orchid. The bridesmaids were attired in printed organdie dresses and carried nosegays.

Bucknellians in the wedding party were: H. Lucile Cook, '39; Gladferd D. Machamer, '39; James R. Simpson, '31; Thomas B. Richards, '37. Delazon P. Higgins, II, '31, presided at the organ.

A reception was held at the home of the bride following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Brembeck then left for the Middle West where they spent the summer at Madison, Wis., while the groom attended summer school at the University of Wisconsin.

Mrs. Brembeck is a graduate of Wilkes College, Chambersburg, Pa. She also has taken several courses at Bucknell. Mr. Brembeck, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, had been assistant in the English Department at Bucknell University during the past two years. He is now a member of the English Department of Lehigh University.

We're in the Army Now

protests to no avail, I'm now directing a forty-voice glee club, and we've been touring all over the state of Maryland for the last month giving concerts. Each time I'm introduced as a musician I get an awful urge to shout the truth so those who may know me won't feel I'm sailing under false colors. I did take a firm stand (as "firm" as a buck private can), however, when one over-zealous publicity man referred to me as a former glee club "instructor" at Bucknell!!! Picture that—me hardly able to tell a sharp from a flat. They always add that, "formerly of Bucknell, etc.," and it makes me feel mighty proud. Professor Lemon would be proud, too, if he could hear us. I've got 'em singing the same music in the same way we used to, and though it's not as good, it's plenty loud, and they go at it with enthusiasm.

Dr. Stolz was particularly helpful in sending us some music, and offering more aid if we needed it.

There's quite a difference in doing a series of concerts on the straw-hat circuit as part of the army, and doing all those formal evening church concerts in college. We sing to huge audiences sometimes (ten and fifteen thousand) so I'm glad they've been outdoors with some distractions.

Producer Gene Ford heard us and has decided to build the new 29th Division show, "Snap It Up Again," around our glee club, so you all can see there's work to be done. Should you hear of it in Baltimore, Washington, Norfolk or Richmond in September, drop in and see us. Meanwhile, to most of you—Best of luck, and to the rest—See you in the Army.

PHILADELPHIA ALUMNAE—

The Alumnae Club of Philadelphia had a Scholarship Fund Benefit Card Party on March 29 at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel in Philadelphia. This affair was preceded by a short business meeting.

CHICAGO—

An important meeting of the Bucknell alumni in the Chicago area was held on May 28 at the Quadrangle Club in Chicago. Many important matters were discussed, such as the Alumni By-Laws, nomination of a Trustee, and future programs for the Club. An open forum, "Preserving Our American Way of Life," was conducted.

METROPOLITAN—

Dr. C. Willard Smith, a member of the Bucknell English Department, was the speaker at the dinner meeting of the Metropolitan Alumni Association on April 18 in the Essex House, Newark, N. J.

May 17 was a red letter day not only for the Bucknell Metropolitan Alumni Association but for Bucknellians in all sections of the country. On this occasion Mr. Rush H. Kress entertained Bucknell alumni at the picnic dinner-dance of the Metropolitan Alumni Association at his estate, Rockhill, Ossining, N. Y. Approximately 800 Bucknellians and friends enjoyed Mr. Kress' kind hospitality.

Another Metropolitan alumni picnic was held on June 28. This time on the Jersey side (Langes Grove, Liberty Corners, N. J.), Soft ball, bathing, dancing, quoits, races, and dart throwing were attractions which all enjoyed.

TRENTON—

Members of the Trenton Club had a summer outing on June 28 at the Italian American Sportsmen's Club. Dean Ralph Page attended the picnic and spoke to the group. Everyone present had a grand time, and much Bucknell spirit was shown.

LYCOMING COUNTY—

The annual picnic of the Lycoming County Alumni Club was held on July 16 at Waterdale, Pa. Baseball, cards, and bingo were enjoyed by all.

NEW ENGLAND—

In the Terrace Room of the Hotel Statler, the New England alumni held their annual meeting on May 16. Dr. William Shimer, dean of the Bucknell faculty, was the speaker of the evening.

PITTSBURGH—

The Bucknell Women's Association and the Alumni Club of Western Pennsylvania had their annual dinner-dance at the University Club on April 19. Dr. Arnaud C. Marts was the special guest of the evening.

WASHINGTON—

On May 16, the Washington Alumni Club had its annual business meeting after a dinner was served at the club house of the A. A. U. W. Election of officers was held and Mr. Harry Pierson, '28, was elected president.

PITTSFIELD—

Given impetus by a visit of Mr. E. A. Snyder to Pittsfield, Mass., Pittsfield graduates of the University gathered on Thursday evening, July 10, to organize an alumni group. At the invitation of John O. Roser, '11, this meeting was held at the Stanley Club. After it was unanimously voted that a club be formed, Mr. Snyder outlined the functions of alumni groups and offered other general assistance. Election of officers was held with results as follows: President, Mr. John Roser, '11; vice-president, Mr. Gilbert H. Fagley, '10; secretary, Mr. Roger E. O'Gara, '35.

reached the lofty goal to which all great singers aspire—an established place in the Metropolitan Opera Company."

To Frederick W. Hankins, chief of motive power for the Pennsylvania Railroad system and assistant vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, went the degree of Doctor of Science. "His career shows the remarkable self-advancement of a man of character, industry, and genius."

The sixth recipient of an honorary degree was the Rev. J. Earle Edwards, '10, pastor of the Queen's Village, N. Y., Baptist Church. When bestowing the degree of Doctor of Divinity upon Mr. Edwards, President Marts said, "Bucknell is proud that you chose to dedicate your life to spiritual aims and is grateful for the service one of her sons has rendered to God and to humanity."

In the picture (Page 3) the six honorary degree recipients are standing with Dr. Marts and Dr. Rufus M. Jones, chairman of the American Friends Service Committee and a 1941 Commencement speaker. Left to Right—Stanley Rolfe, '09; Paul S. Althouse, '12; J. Earle Edwards, '10; Rufus M. Jones; Admiral Harold R. Stark; Frederick Hankins; Christian Lindback; and Dr. Arnaud C. Marts.

lege's Sugar Bowlers to a standstill for more than a half, before succumbing to a last-minute Eagle flurry. Virtually the same team, man for man, will be in action for the New Englanders against Bucknell.

Speaking of schedules, alumni will be interested to know that the 1942 football team will play Rutgers, Lafayette, and Carnegie Tech, as well as the usual traditional foes. The Homecoming game will be with Lafayette on October 31. As a matter of fact, an attractive array of Homecoming tilts has been arranged far into the future. Here's the Homecoming lineup: 1943, Lafayette again; 1944, Rutgers; 1945, Penn State.

These future engagements, however, are not worrying the Bisons, who have only one preoccupation—the season of 1941.

In Memoriam...

1888

On June 17, 1941, Dr. William M. Woodward, dean of doctors at the McKeesport Hospital and a member of the Institution's staff since 1896, died at his home in McKeesport after an illness of three weeks.

Dr. Woodward was recently awarded a medal by the Pennsylvania Medical Society for a half-century of active service as a physician. He was a member of the State and American Medical Associations and the Allegheny County Medical Society. He was former president of the McKeesport Academy of Medicine.

A large group of friends and relatives paid tribute to the Rev. George W. Hatch who died at Bells Landing, Pa., on July 31, 1941. After being graduated from Bucknell University, Mr. Hatch continued his training for the ministry at Crozer Theological Seminary. In 1888 he was ordained and during the next fifty years ministered throughout Eastern Pennsylvania.

John Young Schreyer, retired Milton merchant, passed away in the Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, on July 23, 1941.

Mr. Schreyer was born on October 17, 1869. He received his early education at the old Milton Academy and was graduated from Bucknell University in 1888. After leaving college, he was affiliated with the Milton Iron Company, but later he entered his father's mercantile business. After the death of his father, Mr. Schreyer and his brother took over the Schreyer Store Company of which Mr. Schreyer was president until it went out of business several years ago.

Mrs. Eleanor Potter Weirich, talented vocalist and music teacher, died on March 14, 1941, at Philadelphia, as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident on January 24.

Mrs. Weirich spent the early part of her life in Southeastern Pennsylvania. She came to the Bucknell Institute in 1895 and two years later received her diploma from the School of Music. Following her graduation, she accepted a position at the Perkiomen School, Pennsylvania, and was connected with this school for more than thirty years.

In 1900 she became the wife of Prof. Charles B. Weirich, and for many years they conducted a music conservatory in their home. They specialized in voice and piano. During Mrs. Weirich's active career, she assisted many talented persons, and some of her students achieved fame as vocalists. The most outstanding one is Austin Hughes, tenor, who achieved membership in the Metropolitan Opera Company, but who soon resigned to enter the field of sacred music.

John D. Frederick, formerly a civilian auditor in the finance department of the army, died at his home in Eugene, Ore.

Mr. Frederick was born in Pennsylvania and for many years taught school in Reading. From 1900 to 1916 he was employed in civil service work at Manila, and from 1917 to 1931 he was employed in Honolulu. Upon his retirement he moved to Eugene where he lived at the time of his death.

1900

Mrs. Lillian Foust Reed, widow of the late Edgar Reed, died on March 20, 1941, at her home in Milton. She is survived by two children.

1904

Curtis C. Lesher, judge of the Seventeenth Judicial District, died on July 5, 1941, as the result of a cerebral hemorrhage which he suffered while at the Geisinger Hospital where he had been confined for three weeks preceding his death. Judge Lesher was first stricken while he was returning from Mifflintown where he had been visiting friends.

After Judge Lesher was graduated from Bucknell University in 1904, he taught school in Union County, Pennsylvania, for several years and during that time read law at the office of Col. W. R. Follmer. He was admitted to the Union County Bar in 1910, and in 1915 his political career began when he was elected as Union County District Attorney. He served in that office for four successive terms. He became president judge of the Seventeenth Judicial District in 1932 and he held that position until his death.

In addition to fulfilling his regular judicial duties, Judge Lesher also loyally served the community in which he lived. For twelve years he served as president of the Lewisburg Gas Company and as a member of the board of directors of that firm. He was also a member of the board of directors of the Lewisburg National Bank for eighteen years, and was secretary of the Lewisburg Cemetery Association. He belonged to the Williamsport Consistory, the Odd Fellows, the Union County Bar Association, and the Royal Arcanum lodge. As final tributes to Judge Lesher the Union County Bar Association and the House of Representatives at Harrisburg each adopted a resolution in his honor.

Spencer T. Harris, son of the late Dr. John Howard Harris, died very suddenly on March 10 as a result of a heart attack which he suffered as he was driving along a Philadelphia street. Apparently he felt the attack coming on while driving, for he steered his car to the curb only to die a few moments later.

Mr. Harris was a native of Lewisburg. He received three degrees at Bucknell University—in 1907, an A.B. degree; in 1908, a Master of Arts degree; and in 1912, a Master of Science degree. For the past four years he had been a resident of Centralia, but had been unemployed since the closing of the Centralia Colliery two years ago. Interment was made in the local cemetery.

The death of John L. Minor, of 29 Sixteenth Avenue, San Matio, California, occurred on March 26, 1941.

On March 11, 1941, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Long, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, while motoring toward Mexico, were killed near Waco, Texas, when their automobile collided head on with a truck. Mr. Long, formerly a resident of Sunbury, Pa., went to Bucknell and after completing a four-year course was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad. He received various promotions until he was advanced to the position of division engineer of the Fort Wayne division, in Indiana, five years ago.

Mr. Long took an active interest in the affairs of his community. He was a member of the Fort Wayne Rotary Club and Country Club. He was affiliated with Masonic bodies in the various cities in which he lived.

1931

On March 30, Dr. Oren Richards, captain of the Medical Detachment of the One Hundred and Ninth Field Artillery and assistant regimental surgeon, died of a heart attack while changing the license tags on his car at his home near Scranton, Pa.

Have You Heard?

1884

Three 1884 graduates—Mrs. Margaret Kane Petite, of Los Angeles; Miss Anne Williams, of Long Beach, California; and Mrs. Elizabeth Griffin Hare, of Pasadena—had a reunion in California last winter.

1891

Coincidence again played a strange trick upon two human beings. After a forty-year separation two schoolmates, Mrs. Edward M. Greene, nee Caroline K. Wittenmyer, and Mrs. Joseph Clark, nee Winifred Patchin, '95, met in McAllen, Texas, in March. During the past forty years they have both lived in Pennsylvania—the former in Huntingdon; the latter in Glen Campbell, just one hundred and fifty miles apart—but 2100 miles away from their native state they met in the lobby of the Casa de Palmas Hotel. Mrs. Greene and Mrs. Clark had been students together for three years at the Bucknell Institute but had lost trace of each other until their unexpected meeting several months ago.

On December 30, 1940, the "Eri Hulbert Wyant Memorial Fund" was formally established by Dr. A. R. E. Wyant in memory of his infant son. Dr. Wyant contributed two initial gifts of $500 each to initiate his plan. The fund is to be a permanent endowment fund of the Young Men's Christian Association, the income of which will be used for such purposes as Dr. Wyant may designate.

Dr. Wyant has long been identified with the work of the Young Men's Christian Association. His first connection with this organization was while he was a student member at Bucknell. When he later went to the University of Chicago in 1892, he came under the influence of the student Y. M. C. A. leaders of that day.

Dr. Wyant was not only active in the affairs of this association, but he was also a tennis champion and captain of the football team at the University of Chicago in 1893. He was cartooned by Ripley for having played ninety-eight intercollegiate games at Bucknell and Chicago without missing one minute of play.

After Dr. Wyant's graduation from the University of Chicago with honors, he became minister of the Morgan Park Baptist Church. While in college, he had taken one year of pre-medical work and was so much interested in it that he finished his medical studies at forty years of age and for over thirty years has been a successful physician.

At the annual convention of the General Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs in Atlantic City, Dr. Mary B. Harris, former superintendent of the Federal Institution for Women at Alderson, West Virginia, was awarded the organization's golden scroll of honor for being America's outstanding woman penologist. Since her retirement as superintendent of the Federal Institution, Dr. Harris has been residing at 3 Market Street, Lewisburg, Pa., where she is leading a quiet life.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Morgan, of Colfax, Ill., visited the Bucknell campus recently. This was the first time Mr. Morgan had returned to Bucknell since he left in 1892.

1896

Federal Judge Albert W. Johnson has been elected a trustee of Dickinson School of Law at Carlisle, Pa.

1897

1901

Mrs. William H. Bell, the former Elsie C. Seiler, is living at 3404 Freeman Street, San Diego, California.

1903

The thirty-fifth anniversary of the Rev. Dr. Howard King Williams as pastor of the Alpha Baptist Church of Philadelphia was observed from March 2 to March 9, 1941. One of the principal events was a testimonial dinner given in Dr. Williams' honor at which time Dr. Arnaud C. Marts, president of Bucknell University, gave the principal address.

Howard Williams came to Bucknell in 1900 as a Sophomore and was graduated summa cum laude. During his last two and a half years at college, he served as a minister for a circuit of rural churches. In 1904 he received his Master of Arts degree from Bucknell, and in 1906 he was graduated from Crozer Theological Seminary with a B.D. degree. That same year Dr. Williams accepted the pastorate of the Alpha Baptist Church where he has been doing an excellent piece of work. In addition to his regular duties as pastor, he has been a prolific writer of discussion and teaching materials and is the author of "Stars of the Morning."

In April Mr. John A. Young was advanced from the position of assistant superintendent to that of superintendent of the schools in Bridgeport, Connecticut. The contract is for a three-year term.

1904

A former Bucknell athlete and big league baseball player, Harry E. McCormick, better known to many persons as "Moose," has been placed in charge of a program which co-ordinates physical training and sports activities in the First Air Force of the United States Army. His headquarters are at Mitchell Field in New York, and from this place he is directing the athletic training of men at all air bases in the New England States.

1906

On motion made by the Solicitor General of the United States, Frederick V. Follmer, of Milton, was admitted to the bar of the United States Supreme Court at Washington during the conference of U. S. attorneys.

Hoff Hall, academic building of the Medical Field Service School at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., which is named for the late Col. John van Rennselaer Hoff, was dedicated on June 26. A bronze tablet erected in honor of Col. Hoff bears the following inscription: "A Pioneer in the training of the Hospital Corps, a Scholar, a learned Physician, a noble Gentleman, an officer of the highest type. D.S.C. awarded for extraordinary heroism in action."

1907

The Rev. George Riggs, a missionary in Puerto Rico, spent a short vacation in July with relatives and friends in Point Township, Northumberland, Pa.

On June 25, 1941, Chauncey C. Brockway, president of the First National Bank of Sharon, Pa., was elected president of the Mercer Co. Banker's Association.

In "Esquire" for February, 1941, the following article appeared: "The Reverend Dr. Charles Francis Potter, who contends that 'Women Marry Men,' is noted for his fearless liberal sermons, his debates in Carnegie Hall against Dr. John Roach Straton, the fundamentalist, and for his work as Bible expert assisting Clarence Darrow at the Scopes Evolution Trial. After pastorates in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Alberta, he served as minister of the West Side Unitarian and Divine Paternity churches, and in 1929 founded the First Humanist Society of New York. He also founded the Euthanasia Society of America, and has written many articles and books, including 'the Story of Religion'."

In June, 1941, the faculty of the Rye Grammar School, together with teachers who were formerly associated with that school, paid tribute to the retiring principal, Dr. George E. Webster, at a dinner at the Pickwick Arms, Greenwich.

The mailing address of Dr. Webster is 42 Mead Place, Rye, N. Y.; his permanent address is Heartsease Farm, Hillsdale, N. Y.

Dr. Howard K. Williams, '03

1909

On April 3, at the Vocational Guidance Conference in the Belmont Senior High School, Boston, Mass., Dr. A. W. Owens, research worker for the U. S. Smelting, Refining, and Mining Co., gave an address on "Science Research Work."

On March 17, a group of Bucknellians in Pittsburgh went to the William Penn Hotel in that city to greet Doncaster G. Humm, an old friend and prominent Bucknellian from California. Dr. Humm earned his Ph.D. at the University of Southern California at which time he was awarded the distinction of Phi Beta Kappa. He has made such exceptional attainments in his field of endeavors that he has become a member of the American Psychological Association, the American Mathematical Society, and the National Institute of Industrial Psychology in England. He is also a member of Phi Delta Kappa, honorary educational fraternity, and is listed in "American Men of Science and Leaders in Education."

Mr. John T. Shirley, General Agent for the Pittsburgh offices of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston, was elected alumni trustee of Bucknell University.

George F. Bailets' address has been changed from 117 Oakland Road, Maplewood, N. J., to 140 Headley Terrace, Irvington, N. J.

Dr. E. James Morrissey, orthopedic surgeon at St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem, was appointed plant surgeon and physician in charge of the Bethlehem plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

After being graduated from Bucknell University in 1928, he went to Harvard Medical School and was graduated from there in 1932. Before joining the St. Luke's staff at Bethlehem in 1936, he served at the Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville; the Strong Memorial Hospital at the University of Rochester Medical School, the Children's Hospital and the Massachusetts General Hospital, both in Boston.

To Friends of Athletics:

In my joint capacity as Assistant Director of Athletics and Football Coach, I doubly appreciate the efforts and accomplishments of the Bison Club.

While financial support of the athletic program is of itself important, there is another function of the Club which to a football coach is equally important and that is to help recruit good men.

Our high schools and preparatory schools turn out yearly hundreds of athletes. They are not, of course, all potential Bucknellians for many cannot measure up to our scholastic requirements. But many of these athletes are good students who seriously desire a college education.

How can I find such men? How can I meet them and tell them why they should seek a degree at Bucknell? That is a major problem, and the Bison Club offers the most practical answer—club members can find these boys and bring me in touch with them.

Equally important, though, is your help in following up initial contacts by explaining to these young men in your home communities the unusual advantages of Bucknell. As you know, we are not interested in the football man whose horizon is bounded by the limits of the playing field. The type of player we want, the man who will be an asset to his college in all ways, can best be convinced of Bucknell's merits when they are presented to him by alumni like you whom he knows and respects.

May I ask you who are members and you who will soon become members of the club to help build winning teams at Bucknell by putting me in touch with good athletes of high intelligence and desirable character.

Yours for healthy sports,

A. E. HUMPHREYS.

Since going to Bethlehem, Dr. Morrissey has achieved an outstanding reputation in the field of orthopedics. He has been especially successful in the treatment of crippled children who are brought to him from all sections of the State.

The One Hundredth Anniversary of the Lincoln Park Baptist Church, Cincinnati, O., of which the Rev. Mr. Emil Kontz is pastor, was celebrated from April 27 to May 4, 1941.

Emil Kontz was born in Carteret, N. J. His college studies were pursued at Bucknell University and Franklin and Marshall College. After his graduation he was appointed by the Institute of International Education as a fellowship scholar to the University of Budapest, Hungary. At the end of a year of studying abroad, Mr. Kontz returned to the United States to take up his theological training at Crozer Theological Seminary. His theological studies were continued and concluded at the Divinity School of the University of Chicago.

While Rev. Kontz was a student in Crozer Theological Seminary, he was a student pastor for the Immanuel Baptist Church of Pennsauken, N. J. Later he was called to become a home missionary pastor of the Hungarian Baptist Church of West Pullman. Here he conducted services in two languages. Mr. Kontz next served the Baptist denomination in Chicago. In 1937 he was called to the congregation Lincoln Park pastorate where he has encouraged the congregation to make Lincoln Park both a strong church and a social center. Since his coming, the attendance and interest has increased and the finances of the church have been greatly improved. A valuable service was accomplished by the church recently in conducting a religious census of Laurel Homes, a neighboring housing project.

BE A BISON

DURING October the Bison Club desires to fill its ranks to full fighting strength. This requires that four hundred loyal alumni be recruited within a thirty-day period.

Many who understand Bucknell's need for the Bison Club and who appreciate the invaluable service it can render to our University will wish to volunteer at once. A membership card can be secured by writing to the Secretary of the Bison Club, Bucknell University.

Friends of Bucknell as well as alumni are invited to proudly wear the pin and display this card of membership.

Season's Greetings

from

The General Alumni Association

To all Bucknellians—alumni, trustees, administrators, faculty, students, parents, and friends—we wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year. We are grateful for your loyal support and coöperation which has been shown in many ways. Your constant loyalty has helped the College we love rise to new heights in its service to this generation of young Americans. Let us keep Bucknell moving higher and higher along the steep slopes of educational achievement so it will reach new and uncharted heights by 1946, its centennial year.

Greetings from the President

DEAR BUCKNELLIAN:

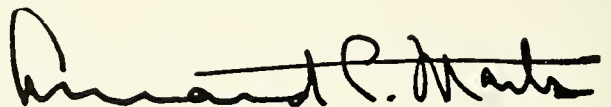

I send sincere wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to each of you from your Alma Mater and from me personally.

You and I are participants in one of the most dramatic moments in the history of western civilization. Titanic forces are in deadly opposition, and the fate of many of our precious cultural and spiritual values seems to hang in the balance. It was for such tests of strength that Bucknell and her sister colleges were created and maintained. The men and women of America whose minds and characters and spirits have been trained at these colleges should now take the lead in preserving and perpetuating the ideals of Christian civilization.

May all Bucknellians now summon all of the intelligence and nobility of character which they may have acquired on this campus, and on this Christmas rededicate themselves to the service of God and humanity. In the name and memory of those teachers of the present and of the past who saw in you the hope and glory of the future and who gave themselves to your instruction and inspiration, I invite you now to measure up to the full stature of your youthful promise and to battle through these fateful days with courage and dignity and earnestness and unflinching faith in the Christ whose birthday we now celebrate.

Bucknellians have been trained to live "on the side of the angels." May each of you do so in this present crisis, and in the days to follow when a new world must be created on the wreckage of the old.

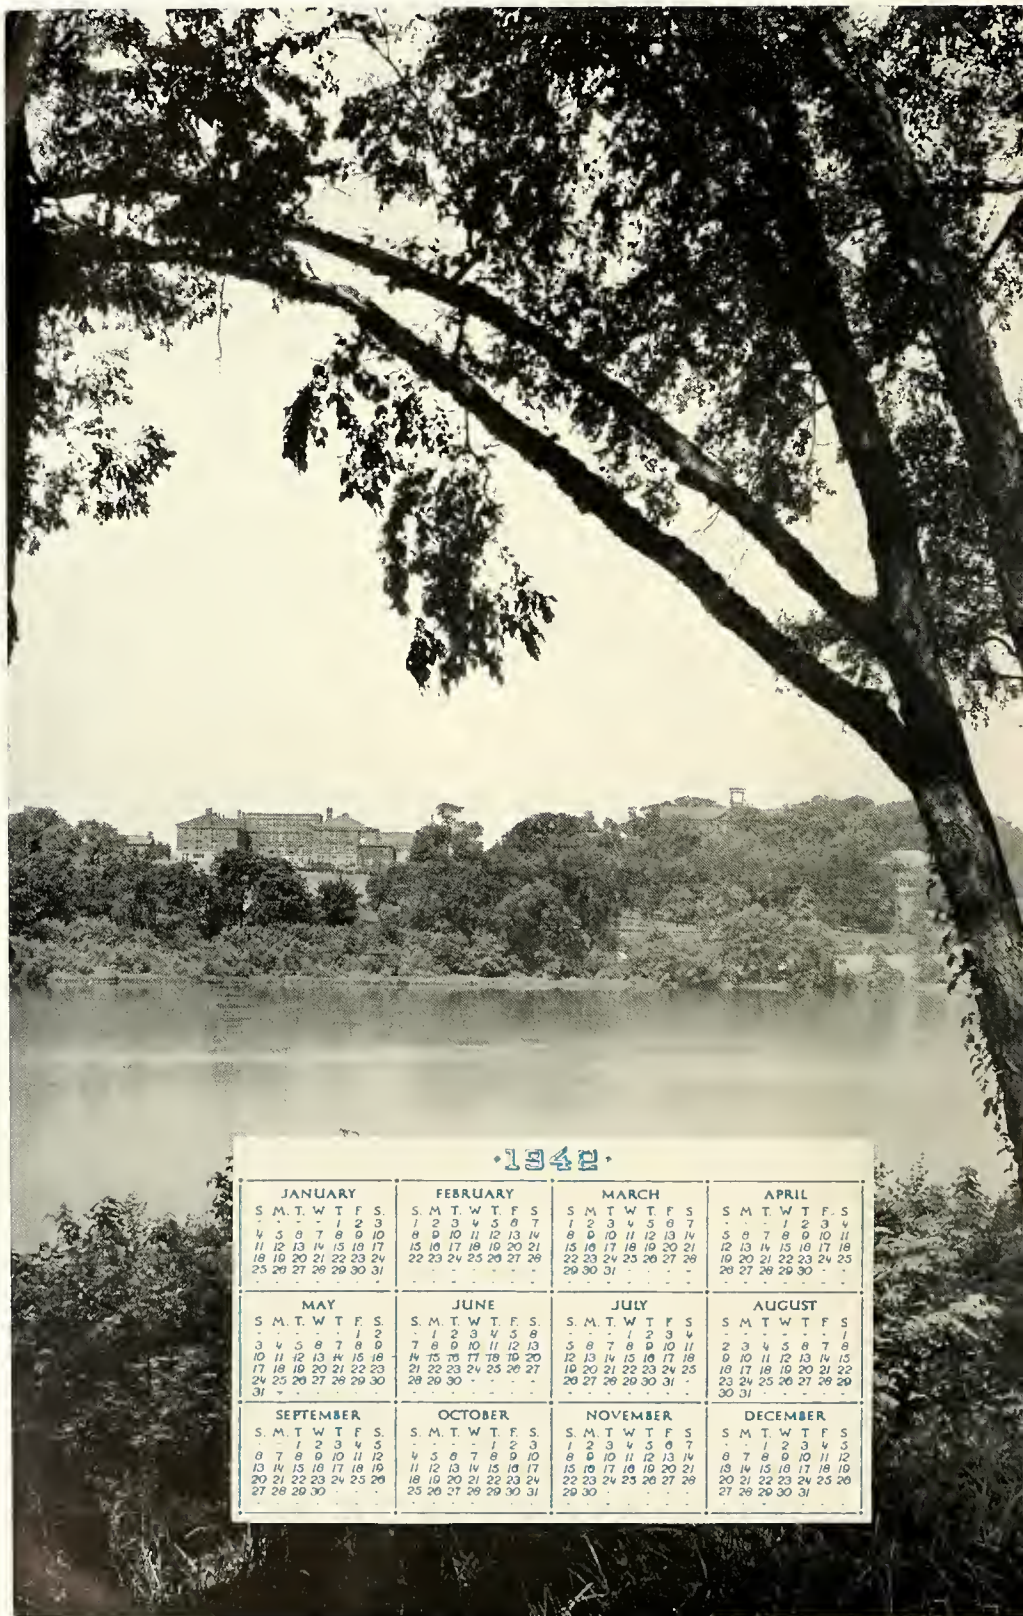

Cordially yours,

Dear Bucknellians:

I send my special greetings to all Bucknellians now in the active service of the Nation. We cannot know, of course, at any given time, how many there are, or who and where they all are. But we do know that the number is substantial, and that Bucknell is represented in the far corners of the earth. I have received letters written by Bucknellians from places of which I had never previously heard.

Wherever you are, Bucknellians in service, give a thought now and then to the College on the Hill, and draw new strength and courage from the knowledge that ten thousand other members of the Bucknell family will be proud of what you do in the service of our beloved Republic. Remember also that the American Way of Life for which you are contending is, at its best, the very ideal on which Bucknell was founded and built; it is the Bucknell Way of Life.

Write to us when you can, and resolve to come back to Lewisburg in 1946 and help celebrate your Alma Mater's One Hundredth Birthday in a world of freedom and peace.

Announcement of this year's Commencement program is made elsewhere in this issue. To all Bucknellians I add my personal invitation to attend the Commencement exercises on Saturday, May 23, and visit Lewisburg again at the height of the campus' springtime beauty.

With kindest regards to each of you,

Bucknell in Wartime

WHEN the dark clouds of war engulfed our Country, forcing us to change our way of life from peacetime to wartime, a tense feeling was everywhere on the Bucknell campus. Excited discussions were held in dormitories, in fraternity houses, and in classes. Students, faculty, and members of the administration were suddenly confronted with a stark reality that the United States was at war, that its territory had been ruthlessly attacked, and that every loyal American would be needed in order to defeat the aggressor. Many of the men on the campus wanted to enlist immediately. The calm judgment of President Marts helped to keep them in college. He pointed out that they would be serving their Country well by continuing their education until their call comes.

Several of the "old timers" briefly reviewed some of Bucknell's history and recalled that this patriotic fervor which was sweeping the campus was traditional and had been felt by other generations of Bucknellians during past wars. They reminded us that when Gettysburg was attacked the students rallied and left the campus to fight in its defense. Many recalled the leadership of a prominent Bucknellian in World War I, General Tasker H. Bliss, '73, who was Chief of Staff of the United States Army. Others cited some of the deeds of valor performed by loyal sons of Bucknell on the field of battle which presented a glorious record.

In a few weeks the place which Bucknell was to take in the fight for international freedom and justice became apparent.

Students are taking Civilian Defense Courses along with their regular college course

In modern war it is necessary to have highly trained men in the armed forces and in defense work. Women, too, have assumed an important rôle in war. The demand for college men and women has increased. A greater need has developed for engineers, chemists, physicists, doctors, research assistants, nurses, civilian defense workers, and others. Since time was an important factor, the colleges were requested to aid by shortening their college courses. Bucknell responded immediately by developing a very workable accelerated program which has been carefully planned by members of the faculty and administration.

The problem of giving a four-year college course in three years, or in two years and eight months, presented a great undertaking. It was necessary to offer a June term of twelve and sixteen weeks; vacation periods had to be reduced in length or eliminated; and faculty members had to be asked to teach all year, which they willingly agreed to do. Commencement was advanced to May 23, with the complete commencement program taking only twenty-four hours as against three days in previous years. The Student-Faculty Congress voted to reduce extracurricular activities fifty per cent so students could have more time to devote to their class work and the war effort.

The instructional and administrative procedures were completely re-examined. Some of the courses have been revised, new ones added, and others tucked away for the duration. A physical fitness program has been established for all stu-

A Message to the Alumni Commencement and Alumni Day

By W. C. LOWTHER, '14,
President, General Alumni Association

WE are nearing the close of one of the most successful years in the history of the General Alumni Association. This has been due to the work of loyal alumni in every section of the country. Four new district alumni associations have been granted charters; namely, Western Massachusetts at Pittsfield; Connecticut at New Haven; Lancaster at Lancaster; and the Capitol District at Schenectady.

These clubs did not just happen, they represent the untiring efforts of many Bucknellians in these communities and our hats are off to them. Already the fruits of their labors are seen in student applications and in many other ways. In other districts the clubs have been very active and the attendance at meetings and gatherings has been from 25 to 400. With such a body working toward one goal, we are bound to succeed. It has been my privilege to attend the meetings of several of the clubs this year, and each time I came away a more loyal Bucknellian and with the wish that I could visit every one of our forty-two clubs.

I know that you all will be grieved to hear that your ex-president, E. A. Snyder, has been confined to his bed by illness since last November. I visit him at the hospital at every opportunity and often call on him for counsel and advice regarding alumni affairs. I am happy to say that he is improving and expects to be out in a short time and back at Lewisburg for Commencement.

The war is changing the daily life of each and every one of us and naturally is changing things on the campus at Lewisburg. Courses have been speeded up; new courses have been added; extracurricular activities have been cut to a minimum; and, of course, many young men have joined the various branches of the service. Ever since the founding of Bucknell, almost a century ago, whenever a crisis arose you found Bucknell men and women in the front ranks in the service of their country, and we will not fail this time. War or no war, "The Bucknell Way of Life," as conceived by Dr. Marts, cannot be set aside or destroyed. Your Alma Mater needs your help and co-operation now as she never has needed it before, and there are many ways in which you may help her. If you know any outstanding prospective students, please send their names to the Admissions and Alumni Office at Bucknell. Also, send your application for membership in the Bison Club to the Alumni Secretary. This Club is doing a remarkable job.

Commencement has been moved up to May 23 and all the activities have been crowded into a twenty-four-hour period. There is something doing every minute, and I am sure it will be well worth the trip to Lewisburg just to walk up the Hill once more, greet your classmates, and revive the old spirit.

During this war emergency period, let us all keep in mind that Victory must be ours.

May 23, 1942

IN keeping with the accelerated program at Bucknell, commencement has been advanced to Saturday, May 23. All commencement activities will be held within a twenty-four-hour period beginning Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock with the Baccalaureate Service in the Davis Gymnasium. The Commencement Day program and Alumni Day activities will be held on Saturday opening with the Bison Club breakfast at 8:00 a.m. at the Hotel Lewisburger. At 9:30 o'clock there will be a meeting of the Board of Trustees, and at 10:00 a.m. the Athletic Council will hold a meeting. Two showings of the four-reel kodachrome, sound motion picture of Bucknell, "Days In College," will be held in Bucknell Hall—one at 10:00 and the other at 11:00 a.m. A business meeting of the General Alumnae Association is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. in the Larison Hall Lounge. At 12:00 m. the General Alumni Association luncheon and various class reunion luncheons will be enjoyed. These will be followed by a meeting of the Assembly of the General Alumni Association at 1:30 p.m. At 3:30 the academic procession will wind its way toward the Davis Gymnasium where the commencement exercises will be held at 4:00 p.m. Activities for the day will be brought to a close with the fraternity symposia at 6:30 o'clock.

The Alumni Office will be glad to assist you in making plans for visiting the campus at commencement time in the "merry month of May" where old friends, cherished surroundings, and new faces will be waiting to greet you. (A complete program of Bucknell's 1942 Commencement Day is printed below for your convenience.)

Alumni Group Organizes the Bucknell Religious Life Associates

CHARLES M. BOND,
Professor of Religion

ON Thursday evening, October 30, forty Bucknell alumni and friends met at the Lewisburg Inn in order to bring about one of the most significant of our alumni organizations, the Bucknell Religious Life Associates. President Marts presided over the dinner meeting in his gracious and effective manner. Guests came from New York City, Philadelphia, Camden, Harrisburg, Jamestown, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Williamsport, and other places closer to Lewisburg.

The establishment of the Religious Life Associates represents a long growing and carefully cultivated process. Bucknell has always been proud of her religious traditions and she has religious traditions to justify her pride. Dr. Robert Lowry greatly helped to lay the foundations as did many other men and women too numerous to mention. President John H. Harris and President Emory W. Hunt, each in his own statesmanlike way, built upon that foundation a structure of which Bucknellians have a right to be proud. During the past fifteen years our program of religious work has developed to such an extent that Bucknell is now referred to in professional circles as one of the places where a healthy religion is a definite part of the University life. This is due to many factors; the nature of our students, the attitude of our Faculty and Administration, the staff of leaders in our religious program, and the example and personal interest of President Marts. A member of a great denominational board recently said, "If I should want to have a young man thoroughly trained in a laboratory of religion, I would send him to Bucknell University."

Many members of the alumni group have indicated their interest in the religious life of the University, but there had not been an avenue provided for the common expression or the co-ordination of this interest. It is this lack that the Religious Life Associates undertakes to fill. It is intended to provide a channel through which the interest of our alumni members in our religious program can be expressed, as well as a means for the stimulation of additional interest. The hearty response which the project has already received is an indication of the real concern of our alumni for the encouragement of the most vital and adequate religious experience of our students.

At the dinner meeting on October 30, after members of the local staff had been introduced and had reported upon the significant things happening in Chapel, the Department of Religion, and the Student Christian Association, there was a lively discussion of the present situation, the problems which arise from it, and some of the things which need to be done about it. The following paragraphs attempt to summarize this discussion.

At least seven different functions were pointed out as constituting the opportunities and responsibilities for service which come to the Religious Life Associates. These functions are self-explanatory and need only to be listed here. Ways of carrying them out might well be discussed in alumni gatherings of various sorts, in later articles in the ALUMNI MONTHLY, and in correspondence with the members of the staff. The functions are as follows:

1. To interest young people from our best Christian homes in coming to Bucknell,
2. To develop a fuller understanding and a finer attitude between the churches and the University,
3. To keep in touch with the fraternities and sororities in order that an atmosphere favorable to religious ideas and activities may be built up,
4. To report and interpret the University religious life and program at the meetings of the Alumni Clubs,
5. To send in suggestions for strengthening and enlarging the program of religious work,
6. To help to secure and maintain an adequate staff and physical equipment, and
7. To plan for the writing of the religious history of the University as a part of the centennial celebration.

President Marts appointed the Reverend Finley Keech of Harrisburg, the Reverend William D. Golightly of Scranton, and Dr. A. M. Weaver of Williamsport as members of the Nominating Committee. Since the Sponsoring Committee thought these three gentlemen to be such excellent "material" for the Executive Committee, a good deal of pressure was brought to bear upon them to allow their names to be placed in nomination as members of the Executive Committee. Their reluctance to comply with this request was finally overcome, and their names along with those of Dr. Mary B. Harris, of Lewisburg; Mrs. Carolyn H. Mahaffey, of Pittsburgh; and Mr. Charles W. Potter, of Jersey Shore, were placed in nomination and were unanimously elected.

If you are a Bucknellian and are interested in helping accomplish the things for which this group stands, we would be glad to have you join with us. There are no dues or membership fees. Funds will have to be secured from some sources to carry on the growing religious program of the University. We can get those funds, if we have the hearty co-operation of an interested group of our alumni. You are encouraged to write to the author of this article, who has been serving as Chairman of the Sponsoring Committee, telling him of your interest and your desire to identify yourself with the Bucknell Religious Life Associates.

The New Demie House

"DON" SHOLL, '42,
Chapter President

UP on the crest of "College Hill," next to the Engineering Building and near the proposed new Library, a construction gang is hard at work putting the finishing touches on Delta Sigma's new $50,000 fraternity house. Meanwhile, down on Brown Street, the Demies are awaiting completion of the house in temporary quarters provided by the University. The old house on St. George Street was purchased by the administration, given a "Burpee treatment," and turned over to a group of freshman girls.

The fraternity goal was realized early in July, 1941, when the Bucknell Board of Trustees decided on the house location and approved the house plans prepared by Mr. J. Frederick Larson, University Architect. The ground on the building site was ceremoniously broken by a delegation of Demie alumni three hours after the decision was made by the Board. John McKinney, builder of the present Phi Psi House and the new Campus Theatre, was awarded the contract, and work started in September.

At Homecoming, 200 alumni and friends gathered about the southwest corner of the foundation to watch President Arnaud C. Marts, Founder I. A. DeWitt, '00, and Chapter President "Don" Sholl, '42, spread cement on the house cornerstone.

The new house has been carefully designed to harmonize with the architecture of the University buildings, being built of the same "Bison" Colonial brick. It will provide modern living facilities for twenty-four men, and will have social and dining space for at least twenty-four more.

The ground floor features a dining room which normally seats forty men but which can be opened into a large game room by sliding doors for banquets and special events. On the river side of the ground floor, a glass brick enclosed, semi-circular chapter room will contain two rows of raised seats around the president's desk. A large kitchen, a boiler room, and a storage room are also provided on this floor.

A living room, measuring eighteen feet by fifty-one feet dominates the first floor. Interior decoration and furniture arrangements will divide this big room into three natural sections. Opening off the living room are a living alcove, a library, a card room, and an office for fraternity records. The western entrance from the new campus quadrangle leads into a spacious hall, flanked by a powder room on the left with a stairway and coat room on the right. A broad porch, with four white columns reaching to the roof, commands a view of the river and Montour toward the East.

The second and third floors are a radical departure from conventional fraternity house layouts. Mr. Larson has divided each floor into four three-men suites. The generous sized study rooms have adjoining bedrooms which include built-in wardrobes and two double decker beds. A guest room is located in the center of the second floor. A corresponding room on the third floor is set aside for storage.

According to the present schedule the new home of the Demies will be ready to move into by late Spring.

Haines Leads Bucknell Courtmen

NINE wins and an equal number of losses during the recent campaign is the record which tells only a small part of the season's story of the 1942 Bucknell varsity basketball team.

The season's history is prefaced by the achievements of George Haines, junior forward, who brought to Bucknell a position on the Associated Press All-Pennsylvania Five. Haines received the second highest number of votes in a poll of coaches and officials throughout the state.

Haines also captured the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Conference scoring crown with a new record of 229 points in 12 contests. He also established a new single-game scoring mark of 37 points during the season.

Haines' complete scoring, totaling 324 points in 18 contests, placed him in fourth position in scoring throughout the entire state.

In the foul-shooting division, Haines' record for the 1942 campaign stands apart. He completed 90 out of 110 free throws and during the campaign ran up a consecutive number of 20 tosses without a miss.

Those Were the Good Old Days at Bucknell!

DR. WILLIAM G. OWENS, '80

When the Editors of THE BUCKNELL ALUMNI MONTHLY recently asked me, "What changes have taken place since you came to the campus?" I immediately began to think about the many years that have come and gone since I arrived at the "College Farm" three weeks before the eighth class was graduated from the University at Lewisburg (1858), as Bucknell was then called. I could vividly see the "Bucknell of yesterday" with its few buildings and no modern conveniences, its faculty of five and small student body. That is the Bucknell which I have watched grow year after year; that is the Bucknell which I would like to tell you about for out of it has arisen the glorious Bucknell University of 1942.

In the early days students had a difficult time reaching Lewisburg. Those who lived in and around Philadelphia came by one of two routes. They could travel by train to Pottsville and then board a stagecoach which brought them the remaining 48 miles to Lewisburg; or they could come by train to Harrisburg where a packet boat towed by mule power brought them up the Susquehanna Canal to the cross cut leading to Lewisburg. Here they were met by a carriage since only freight boats came to the Lewisburg wharf. Pittsburgh students encountered a different experience. They came by canal boats, built in sections, to Johnstown. Here the sections were placed on cars which were drawn up five incline planes by stationary engines. The cars floated across the mountains for thirty-seven miles until they were lowered into the Juniata Canal at Hollidaysburg. From there the sections were towed to the "Junction," situated eighteen miles above Harrisburg. A few years later when the Pennsylvania Railroad was completed, students took the 9 p. m. train at Pittsburgh which connected with the "one and one-half p. m." packet at the "Junction." The next morning they reached the crosscut. If they were not met there, they went on to Milton where they could secure a stagecoach which ran twice daily to Lewisburg.

The dormitory rooms which the students occupied did not have any of the modern conveniences that the rooms in Hunt Hall, Larison Hall, and East College have today. The only furnishings in each room for men consisted of a single iron bedstead. If a college student desired other things he had to bring them from home by freight boats or he had to buy them after he arrived in Lewisburg. The male students usually took their bed ticks to a farm, filled them with clean wheat straw, and carried them back to their rooms.

In addition to their bedroom, each student shared a study with another person. At night kerosene lamps were used. Since there were no lights in the halls or on the campus, except one lamp in front of Old Main and one at the foot of the hill, many students carried folding wax candle lanterns in their coat pockets which they would use when necessary. There was no running water in the dormitories. Therefore, water was forced to the top of the hill from a spring below the foundry (opposite Power House) until someone thought it would be a good joke to cut the pipe. The trustees' reaction was, "Well, if you don't want the water, we will remove the hydraulic ram." After that incident, the boys had to carry the water up the hill in buckets. Drinking water was also carried to the Academy (Taylor Hall) from a spring opposite the Sigma Chi House.

The college curriculum consisted of thirty-six required subjects and the school year was divided into three terms. College opened each morning with a chapel program at 7:15 a. m. which all faculty members and students attended. The schedule for the remaining part of the day was as follows:

7:30- 8:30 a. m.	Classes
8:30- 9:00 a. m.	Time to visit Post Office
9:00-11:00 a. m.	Study Period
11:00-12:00 m.	Classes

4:00- 5:00 p. m.	Study Period
7:00- 9:00 p. m.	Study in rooms
10:00 p. m.	Lights out

Occasionally professors visited the various rooms during the hours 7:00 to

Dr. William G. Owens, '80

Dr. William G. Owens was born in 1858 at what is now the "College Farm." He attended the Bucknell Preparatory School before entering the College from which he was graduated in 1880. He took graduate work at Harvard University and the University of Berlin, Germany. On March 18, 1880, Dr. Owens became an instructor of language and science at the Academy, and in 1885 he began teaching at the College. He continued his teaching duties at Bucknell until 1935 when he retired. Dr. Owens has been on the campus part of every year during his entire lifetime except the one year (1935-1936) he spent as professor of Chemistry at the University of Shanghai.

In 1885 Dr. Owens married F. Jeannette Waffle, a teacher at the Female Institute. Many years after the College admitted women, Mrs. Owens decided to attend the University and in 1934 she received her degree. Dr. Owens is the father of four children, all of whom are graduates of Bucknell. At the present time Dr. Owens is historian of the University and in his eighty-fourth year he is teaching a class in physical science for one of his colleagues who underwent an operation.

RUSH H. KRESS, '00

ERNEST M. OVERHOLT

Roy G. Bostwick, '05, Elected Chairman of Board of Trustees

Rush H. Kress, '00, and Ernest M. Overholt
Elected Trustees

Roy G. Bostwick, prominent Pittsburgh attorney, was elected chairman of the Bucknell University Board of Trustees on December 20, 1941. Mr. Bostwick is a member of the law firm of Thorp, Bostwick, Reed, and Armstrong in Pittsburgh; vice-president and director of the Wilkesburg Bank, Wilkesburg, Pennsylvania, and holds various other positions of prominence in his community. One of his recent honors has been his appointment to the Panel of Arbitration of the Motion Picture Arbitration System. He is a member of the Bucknell Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Mr. Bostwick was graduated from Bucknell in 1905 and from the University of Pennsylvania Law School in 1908. He was admitted to the Pennsylvania Bar after graduation and since then has been engaged in the general practice of law at Pittsburgh.

On January 10, 1942, the Bucknell Trustees in the Pittsburgh area—George T. Ladd, Henry A. Roemer, and John T. Shirley—were hosts at a luncheon given in honor of their friend, Roy G. Bostwick, A.M., LL.B.

In addition to the elevation of Mr. Bostwick to the presidency of the Board, two new members were elected at the December meeting—Rush H. Kress, vice-president of S. H. Kress Company, New York City, and Ernest McClellan Overholt, of Scottsdale, Pennsylvania. Mr. Kress, an alumnus of Bucknell, received his degree in 1900 with the distinction of magna cum laude. In addition to his scholastic achievements, he took an active part in student activities during his college days. He was manager of the football team, business manager of L'Agenda, and served on the staff of the Orange and Blue, college paper. Mr. Kress started with the S. H. Kress Company in 1899. In spite of his many business responsibilities, Mr. Kress has always kept in close touch with his Alma Mater. Each year he presents the Rush Kress Trophy award to that national fraternity at Bucknell which makes the greatest contribution to the life of the University. For several years he served as president of the Athletic Association and is now president of the Bison Club. Last fall, Mr. Kress was initiated into the Bucknell Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa because of his outstanding college records and his achievements since leaving college.

Mr. Overholt received his early education at the East Huntingdon Township Grade School, Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania. He was graduated from the Mt. Pleasant Institute, also known as the Western Pennsylvania Classical and Scientific Institute at Mt. Pleasant, Pennsylvania, in 1902. Two years later he was graduated from the Peterson Business College at Scottsdale. After completing this course, Mr. Overholt began working for the Scottsdale Printing and Publishing Company. He remained here only a few months for he was offered a position in the First National Bank of Scottsdale. He is now employed as manager of the Securities Department in this Bank. Mr. Overholt is also a graduate of the standard course, American Institute of Banking.

Bucknell-Metropolitan Association Gives Financial Aid to Alumni Office

During the past year the Bucknell-Metropolitan Alumni Association has contributed $1,500 towards the support of the Alumni Office and the publication of the ALUMNI MONTHLY. The Club had an active year under the presidency of Mr. O. V. W. Hawkins, '13. Meetings were held monthly, alternating between New York and New Jersey. One of the big events was the party at Rock-hill when Mr. Rush H. Kress, '00, acted as host to more than eight hundred alumni and friends. Another outstanding event was the Glee Club Concert which it sponsored at the Woman's Club at Orange, New Jersey, February 6, 1942, to aid the Student Admission's program. More than five hundred alumni, prospective students, and guests were present. As the present school term draws to a close, the Metropolitan Association is planning to end its activities until fall, but it is already looking forward to another year when it can be of service to its Alma Mater.

The Bucknell Alumni Research Foundation is Chartered

Another alumni organization was created when a group of local alumni including Attorney Clair Groover, Lewisburg; Mr. Berkeley V. Hastings, Milton; Mr. Dayton L. Ranck, Dr. John W. Rice, and Dr. R. H. Rivenburg, members of the Bucknell administration and faculty, were granted a charter in the name of The Bucknell Alumni Research Foundation, a non-profit corporation. The Foundation has as its principal objective the promotion and utilization of research designed to enrich life by the creation, development, production, and marketing of new foods and flowering plants and their seeds or products. In addition, it will aim to promote any other scientific or socially useful research at Bucknell, and to utilize, market, and develop its products.

At the organization meeting held in January, Berkeley V. Hastings was elected president; Dr. R. H. Rivenburg, vice-president; Dayton L. Ranck, secretary-treasurer. The petitioners for the charter are serving as directors of the Foundation for a two-year period. In the future directors will be elected by the Board of Directors of the General Alumni Association. They will serve without pay and supervise the work and management of the business of the Foundation.

The first project of the Foundation has been the marketing of hybrid seed corn which has been developed after twenty-three years of research by Dr. William H. Eyster, professor of botany at Bucknell. When Dr. Eyster turned over the sale of the seed corn to the Foundation, there were over 1,000 bushels of processed corn to be sold. The demand has been so great that the mem-

Music Department Needs Your Help!

For a number of years, through no fault but the familiar handicap of lack of funds, the School of Music has been laboring under the disadvantages of cramped quarters and barely adequate equipment. This equipment includes an excellent entity known as the Carnegie Music Set, which consists of books, recordings, scores, and a Capehart phonograph, and in connection with this, the School of Music sustained a severe blow when ninety-five of the one hundred and twenty-six volumes of recordings were stolen about a year ago. The replacing of the number of records which this loss represents is something which will only be possible through years of effort on the part of the staff, since the amount of money which can be spent for such things is necessarily limited.

The School of Music is planning an extension and elaboration of its academic program and courses at such a time in the future as it becomes possible, and in doing so, must plan far ahead. In connection with this program, it was conceived that such alumni, friends of music, and Bucknell enthusiasts who have in their possession the type of instruments, recordings, music, and books on music for which they have no use or need, would be able to aid the cause of music at Bucknell in a way more or less painless to themselves, by contributing them to the School of Music, where they could be put to active use. In connection with this, it might not be out of place to say that we have already received a gift of a set of The American History and Encyclopedia of Music from Mrs. Kathryn Spotts Lauer, '21, and the Carnegie Library was favored with several sets of valuable classics. In addition, a prominent Bucknellian has promised his large and valuable collection of music and literature on music to the University at some future date.

Aside from the need of good recordings, musical scores for reference (opera, oratorio, cantata—anything which falls within the category of substantial music for chorus, piano, voice, violin, or organ), the School will find use particularly for the following band and orchestral instruments: trumpet, trombone, bers of the Foundation believe all of this corn will be sold without any difficulty.

B flat clarinet, C flute, piccolo, bass tuba, oboe, English horn, French horn, cello, and contrabass.

Any inquiries may be addressed to Dr. Paul G. Stolz, director of the School of Music, or to L. F. Lybarger, Jr., alumni secretary, and they will receive a reply by return mail.

Philadelphia Annual Spring Soiree

The Philadelphia Alumni and Alumnae Clubs will hold their fourth Annual Spring Soiree at the Merion Cricket Club, Haverford, on Saturday evening, May 16, 1942. Music will be furnished by The Haverfordians, and admission will be $1.00 a person. Any profit that is made this year will go into Defense Bonds which will be put into the Philadelphia Alumnae Scholarship Fund.

This spring dance has established itself as one of the highlights of the alumni social calendar. Approximately three to four hundred Bucknellians and their friends come out on the Saturday following Mother's Day for a bit of fun, frolic, and Auld Lang Syne. They come dressed for a ritzy evening and prepared for a lot of fun. You are invited to come and bring your friends. "The more the merrier" as the old saying goes.

If you wish to have dinner at the Merion Cricket Club on May 16, you may make arrangements for yourself and your party through the assistant manager of the Club, Miss Alfredine Demange. This is a special courtesy extended to Bucknellians by the Club and their menu is good and comparatively reasonable.

South Americans Like the Bucknell Movies

Reports from the State Department at Washington, received through diplomatic channels, indicate that the South Americans like the Bucknell Way of Life. Although not overly enthusiastic about coeducation, they seem to favor it as shown at Bucknell. Last year's film, "Going to Bucknell," was selected by the State Department to be used in their cultural relations program in order to show life at a coeducational college in the United States. It is being used in Chile. This year's film, "Days in College," has been selected also for showing in South America. A duplicate of the film has been forwarded to the State Department for use in Argentina.

The Bison Club is Booming!

THERE is good news to pass along to members and to those interested in the work of the Bison Club—good news for Bucknell! Last October, through these columns, in a series of articles written by active Bisons, the purposes of this Club were related and an invitation to membership was extended to all alumni, both men and women. City Committees went to work to tell the story of the Club, and, through the efforts of these various groups of workers, Club Membership has been increased 50%.

During many of the years which have passed, the athletic program of Bucknell has been carried out at a financial loss to the University. A program which would offer sufficient athletic opportunities to students and one which would appeal to students and alumni alike just could not be produced within the revenues returned by gate receipts and similar sources of income. The result was that deficits were accumulated from year to year until a sizable debt stood against the University.

Interested alumni were consulted and the suggestion of curtailment of the program was followed in the hope of putting athletics on a profitable basis. The results were not satisfactory. Curtailment of the program did not solve the financial problem; revenues dropped off disproportionately with the curtailed program. Worse still—alumni interest and student interest declined to a marked degree, and the publicity which comes through winning teams diminished almost to the zero point. It became obvious that cutting program costs did not eliminate deficits and that, conversely, a full and satisfactory program could not make expenses. This dilemma is probably not only Bucknell's but that of any other small university situated away from the metropolitan centers and not heavily endowed.

Again the problem was presented to the alumni for consideration. Small groups in several city centers were asked to study the situation and to recommend a course of action. Naturally, no alumnus could recommend that we give up participation in interscholastic sports, for such action would set Bucknell back many decades. Young people want competitive action and older people love to see young, healthy men and women on the field of action. The only possible answer was to solicit the financial support of the alumni to an extent which would permit the College to maintain a reasonable and well supervised program.

Out of this necessity came the Bison Club. The Club assumed as its original responsibility the liquidation of the accumulated debt and the underwriting of yearly deficits by making gifts to Bucknell. When the Club was formed less than three years ago, the accumulated debt was approximately $35,000. It appeared that a yearly deficit of approximately $6,000 would be incurred if an adequate (not elaborate) program were established and continued. The founders considered the job of liquidation as a three-year undertaking which meant, of course, that it would be necessary for the Club to raise funds in excess of $50,000 over a three-year period to wipe out $35,000 of accumulated deficits and to meet three years of annual deficit at the rate of $6,000 each year.

This ambitious program, undertaken in 1940, was launched by a small group of loyal graduates whose names should be recorded in the annals of Bucknell. They founded the Bison Club. They pledged gifts to be paid over a three-year period, and they called on others to join forces and through Bison Club membership add their gifts to relieve the University of this burden of debt.

Slowly the Club grew. Many generous gifts came in through this activity. One founding member (now our Bison Club President) offered to contribute a dollar for each two dollars raised by the Club until the old debt was paid off. This added incentive, gave impetus to the movement, and from small beginnings the Club grew to a membership of two hundred last fall. It was then decided to ask all Bucknell men and women to become sustaining members of the Bison Club by giving the University not less than ten dollars each year.

During the first two months of our membership campaign, applications averaged better than one each day. Then came the war, and our committees of workers found themselves involved with new important problems. Many of them volunteered for war work—some threw their efforts behind the drive for the sale of Defense Bonds; others studied to be air raid wardens or first aiders; some went into service. But the work of helping Bucknell, although reduced materially, was never entirely dropped and on March 1 membership had increased to 303. More than thirty thousand dollars of the desired fifty thousand was subscribed or paid in by December 31 of last year.

With twenty thousand to go, the job which remained was still a big one—almost too big to accomplish during this last year of the original three-year program. And then came the big surprise and the great news for which you have been reading from the start of this report. We learned that at Christmas time our Club President, Rush Kress, '00, had quietly advised the Athletic Council that he would personally assume the balance of the debt and through his generous gift the first major task of the Bison Club—the liquidation of old deficits—was completed.

Again, we are stimulated to new action by our President's kindness. We cannot fail in our endeavors to avoid another accumulation of deficits—another burden of debt imposed on the University. The Bison Club, having fulfilled its original purpose must now plan to meet its pledged future purpose. We must, through increased membership gifts of ten dollars per year, offset the annual loss of six thousand dollars which will be incurred by our necessary athletic program. We cannot depend in the future on the extra generosity of a few men, nor should a college with ten thousand living alumni wish to be so dependent. Many can share this expense with little cost to each, and this is the manner in which such things should be done.

Under present conditions proper athletic programs, designed to build physical strength for our young people and to teach them how to compete cleanly and fairly, are more desirable than ever. Bucknell must remain attractive to those who plan to enter college, and the Bison Club believes that a sound athletic program, combined with our high standards of scholarship, will keep our University one which appeals to alert and ambitious youth.

If you are not a Bison, we invite you to join forces with us now by sending your gift of ten dollars to the Alumni Office at Lewisburg and requesting membership in the Bison Club.

The Bucknell Bookshelf

Dr. Lewis E. Theiss, '02, author of approximately thirty books and Bucknell professor, has written "Flying with the C. A. A.," which recently has been published by W. A. Wilde Co., Boston, Massachusetts. "Flying with the C. A. A." is a story of two youths, one a Bucknell graduate, who entered the Civil Aeronautics Authority Flying Course, and after successfully completing this course and receiving further instruction from P. A. A. pilots and an instructor of Army and Navy flyers, they own their own plane. During their flights they discover evidence suggesting sabotage in an important defense project. Throughout the entire book we see two lads devoting their time and efforts for their Country and toward the defense work of America. The story has much detailed information about flight instruction, geography, and instrument flying.

"American Local-Color Stories," published by the American Book Company, 88 Lexington Avenue, New York City, ($3.50) is a volume of sixty-three stories edited, with an introduction, by Harry R. Warfel, '20, professor of English at the University of Maryland, and G. Harrison Orians, professor of American Literature, University of Toledo. These stories of local-color fiction represent the works of thirty-eight different authors from James Hall (1793-1868) to Zona Gale (1873-1939), and portray each of the main geographical sections of the United States. The differences in mode of thought, in traditions, in dialect that set apart "the New Englander from the Southerner and from the Westerner, the city dweller from the farmer, the old English stock from the more recent immigrant" are well illustrated by these stories.

In Volume 28, number 5, of the Journal of the American Dental Association an article appeared entitled, "Dentistry's Contribution to Inter-American Relations," by Harry H. Pierson, '28. In that article Mr. Pierson said that one of the fundamentals in the development of closer inter-American relations is "the mutual recognition that each culture has much to receive and much to give. The question is, therefore, to find out what aspects of the culture of each continent have developed to a point where they can be shared with the other, and what aspects are still in the stage where they will benefit from a more advanced experience." Continuing he said, "There will be no disputing the fact that there is one field in which the United States can be a 'giving' rather than a 'receiving' nation, and that field is dentistry in all its branches."

Mr. Pierson pointed out in his article that there are several ways in which dental education can be of assistance to the Latin American countries. These are: (1) by having a program of fellowships and scholarships which would raise dental standards throughout the continent; (2) by

Saturday mornings from 9:00 to 12:00 the literary societies met for speeches and debates. In 1880 the first Honor Course was offered. (I was the first to take it.) About this same time the elective courses were beginning to be offered at Bucknell.

Physical education was not given the prominent place in the college curriculum that it holds today. When the river dam was kept in repair to float canal boats to the crosscut, there was a boat club, but when the dam went out the boat club went along. The other equipment for exercise consisted of a series of rings suspended from a cross log back of Old Main. Hand ball was also played by using the blank wall of West Wing before Old Main was built. Baseball followed.

Perhaps the most startling facts to be revealed to the present generation are in connection with college expenses. In 1855, when the University was just eleven years of age, tuition at the college was $30.00 per year, and for those attending the Academy it was $20.00. Other college expenses were as follows:

Room Rent—$7.50 per year

Furniture (if provided by the University)—$3.00

Library Fee—$2.00

Boarding—$2.00 per week

Washing—$.25 per week (this included collecting the laundry and returning it)

Apart from the College which was strictly for men, there was the Bucknell Female Institute. The young ladies were housed in the Buffalo House which was located half a mile from the campus, diagonally opposite the Court House. It was "furnished in the most suitable manner without regard to cost." A library was provided for the girls.

the offering of assistance to worthy students from other American republics and from United States who are prevented from accepting the fellowships by the high cost of travel; (3) by establishing short courses and so-called "refresher" courses for more mature persons who wish to improve or replenish their knowledge of specialized subjects; (4) by establishing traveling clinics; (5) by being very hospitable to visiting dentists; (6) by disseminating scientific information through the motion picture and the printed page.

Donations were "gladly received; novels, romances, and trashy literature, rejected."

When Larison Hall was completed, the Female Institute was moved into this new building situated in the midst of a six-acre grove of oak trees which was surrounded by a board fence. A garden was located where the tulip bed is today. The principal and teachers lived with the girls, and each teacher was "housemother" in her hall. Each week one teacher was appointed to ring the bell for classes and to take those girls to town who needed to see a dentist, doctor, or go to a store. Each day all the girls were taken for a walk. At least two teachers went with them, one leading the procession and the other one, the more important of the two, following. In this same manner they marched to church twice each Sunday, and to prayer meeting on Wednesday evenings.

No callers of the opposite sex, except brothers and near relatives, were allowed to visit the girls, save for one occasion. That was the annual Soiree given by the "middle years." The boys could come to this affair, which was held in the schoolroom, if they were invited. Four girls seated at two pianos furnished the music. Essays were read by the "middle year" girls. When a girl read her essay, a friend or two would stand beside her to keep up her morale. After the program was over, the girls and boys went across the hall to the parlor and marched around the room in couples forming an elongated circle. They then indulged in conversation. When conversation lagged, weather and etc. having been settled, the young man passed his girl over to his friend, or if she was not a good conversationalist, to his enemy.

Yes, those were the good old days at Bucknell—days which have long since passed by. Only a few pictures, books, alumni, and faculty members remain who can tell us of the "Bucknell of yesterday." In its place stands the "Bucknell of today" with modern equipment and broad curriculums which meet the challenge of a complex civilization and offer to young men and young women unusual opportunities for leadership. I am certain that the author of a future article like this, looking back over a similar period of eighty-four years from 2026 A. D., will be able to show even greater progress for Bucknell than it has been my privilege to see.

Francis Bowes Sayre to be Commence- ment Speaker

This year Bucknell University will be honored to have as speaker at its ninety-second commencement exercises Francis Bowes Sayre, United States High Commissioner to the Philippines. Mr. Sayre left Manila with his family shortly after the outbreak of the war and reached Washington late last month to report to President Roosevelt concerning conditions in the Philippines.

Dr. Sayre is a native Pennsylvanian having been born in South Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. He took his undergraduate work at Williams College and has received numerous advanced degrees from other Universities.

Dr. Sayre's career has been a brilliant one. He has held many educational and governmental positions. From 1914 to 1917 he was assistant to the president of Williams College and was instructor in government; from 1914 to 1934 he taught law at Harvard University; from 1923 to 1925 he was advisor in foreign affairs, Siamese Government; in 1925 he negotiated on behalf of the Siam new political and commercial treaties with France, Great Britain, The Netherlands, Spain, Portugal, Denmark, and Sweden; from 1933 to 1939 he was appointed Assistant Secretary of State (U. S.), by appointment of President Roosevelt, in charge of negotiations of American trade agreement under the Secretary of State; from 1937 to 1939 he was a member of the Board of Examiners from Foreign Service; and since 1939 he has been United States High Commissioner to the Philippines. Dr. Sayre is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and a Fellow in the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He is the author of many books and is a noted scholar and speaker. With such a broad background of public life in both national and international affairs, Dr. Sayre comes to the Bucknell campus on May 23 to speak to this year's graduating class.

Emeritus Club to Be Organized

An Emeritus Club will be organized at Bucknell on the occasion of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Class of '92 on Alumni Day, May 23. All alumni who attended Bucknell fifty or more years ago are eligible for membership and urged to be present at the General Alumni Association luncheon to receive their certificates. Each year at commencement time the Emeritus Club will elect its own officers who will make arrangements for the year's activities in service and enjoyment.

dents. An additional hour of physical education each week for freshmen and sophomores has been added, making a total of three hours; and physical education will be required for juniors and seniors beginning with the June term. Men are being given an opportunity to take semi-military training under the direction of a reserve officer. Students may qualify for civilian defense work by completing the defense courses now being offered and may wear the O. C. D. insignia. The defense courses include those for Fire Watchers, Auxiliary Firemen, Medical Corps, Nurses' Aides, First Aid, Bomb Squads, Auxiliary Police, Rescue Squads, and Air Raid Wardens.

Men have an opportunity of securing commissions with the armed forces by enlisting while in college. These enlistments may permit them to finish a part or all of their college course. Deferments have been secured mainly for engineering, chemistry, physics, and biology students. Special plans for enlistments are provided by the Marine Corps Reserves; Midshipman, United States Naval Reserves; Apprentice Seaman; Aviation Cadet; and Officers Training School. About two hundred and sixty-five students and alumni are now serving with the armed forces.

Bucknell students may learn to fly and secure their civilian pilots' licenses through the Civil Aeronautics Authority. The actual flight training is given at the Danville Airport and the ground work on the Bucknell campus. There will be three or more training periods during the year.

The accelerated program is optional for all students except engineers. Students enrolled in Liberal Arts, Biology, Physics, Education, and Commerce and Finance may complete their work in three years. This means that a freshman entering Bucknell June 8, 1942, can graduate in May, 1945. Students enrolled in Engineering and Chemistry are able to complete their work in two years and eight months. Thus an engineering or chemistry student entering Bucknell in June, 1942, can graduate in January, 1945. The additional cost for the accelerated program is for the June term. Freshmen may now enter Bucknell in June, September, or February.

The Bucknell Summer School will be conducted as usual, except that in conjunction with the regular June term, it will be able to offer more courses and greater opportunities. The Summer School will be divided into two six-week periods; one beginning June 8, and the other July 20. Graduate courses in education begin on June 15 and continue for five six-day weeks.

Bucknell in wartime is functioning with renewed spirit and energy. Aside from the many changes, the enrolment for the second semester is the largest in the history of the University. The applications for admission this year are comparable to previous years. In fact, the general scholastic standing of those applying is higher. Bucknell's all-out effort during the National Emergency is achieving results, and it has an unusual incentive to "keep 'em rolling" with President Marts rendering outstanding service to the Nation as Director of Pennsylvania State Council for Defense. With the loyal support of her alumni, Bucknell can meet every emergency, always using her influence on the side of religion, justice, and freedom.

Copies of the new booklet, Meeting the War Emergency at Bucknell, may be secured by writing to the Alumni Office.

HARRISBURG—

The Harrisburg Alumni Association has been holding regular meetings each month. The October meeting which was held at the "Y" in Harrisburg, Dr. B. W. Griffith, director of athletics at Bucknell, gave an interesting talk on the history of the Athletic Association at Bucknell.

A Christmas meeting was held on December 11, at the new DeWitt House, Harrisburg. The Reverend Finley Keech brought a Christmas message to the group and each member brought a gift for a child under 14 years of age. The presents were sent to the Crippled Children's Home at Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania.

Dr. Fred C. Hoster, head of the Public Service Institute, State Department of Public Instruction, spoke to the Harrisburg alumni on January 8, concerning precautionary defense methods with which every citizen should be acquainted.

Sixty-nine Bucknellians and guests were present at the February 4 meeting to hear Dr. Arnaud C. Marts, Bucknell's beloved president. He talked to the group on "Bucknell in War Time."

LANCASTER—

The thirty-ninth Bucknell Alumni Club was organized at the Y. W. C. A. in Lancaster on October 7, 1941, at a dinner meeting which was attended by Bucknellians living in Lancaster County. The Alumni Secretary was in charge of this organization meeting until a president was elected; namely, Russell K. Appleby, '37. By-Laws were adopted and the purpose of the Club was set forth. Other officers were elected as follows: Nevin Bachman, '14, vice-president; Mrs. William Poorbaugh, nee Anna G. Fishel, '35, secretary; and Mrs. Russell K. Appleby, nee Eleanor Koschland, '36, treasurer. Dr. Ralph E. Page, dean of men at Bucknell, gave an informal address.

On December 2, the Lancaster Club had a "White Elephant" party at the home of Mrs. William J. Poorbaugh, Club secretary.

At the February meeting, held at the Y. W. C. A. in Lancaster, this Club had as its speaker, Dr. Melvin W. LeMon, a member of the Bucknell Music Department and leader of the Men's Glee Club. He told about his work in connection with the collecting of Miners' Songs and taught the group one of them.

On March 17, the Lancaster Club members with the help of the Alumni Secretary were taken back to "Days in College." This motion picture was also shown to those prospective students present.

METROPOLITAN—

The activities of the Bucknell Metropolitan Alumni Association for the 1941-1942 season began on October 10 at Hotel Wentworth, New York City. During the business meeting a plan for reorganizing the two branches of this Association was introduced. The nominating committee submitted the following slate: Mr. O. V. W. Hawkins, '13, president; H. Montgomery Marsh, Jr., '28, and Charles T. Farrow, Jr., '26, executive vice-presidents of the New York and New Jersey branches respectively; Miss Ruth Lowther, '40, secretary, and Bernhard A. Priemer, '28, treasurer. The program for the evening was under the direction of Mr. Julius Seebach. He introduced "Red" Barber, sports announcer for WOR.

On November 21 approximately 100 Metropolitan Alumni Association members met at Pal's Cabin. The Alumni Secretary and Director of Admissions was guest speaker. He gave an interesting review of the accomplishments made on the campus during the last six years.

A dinner meeting was held at the Hotel Wentworth on December 12. Mr. Seebach again provided the entertainment.

The climax of all Metropolitan activity took place on February 5 when approximately 500 alumni, prospective students, and friends of Bucknell attended the Bucknell University Glee Club concert and the showing of the 1942 Bucknell motion picture, and danced to the music of "The Bucknellians" in the new auditorium of the Woman's Club, Orange, New Jersey. This Bucknell party was a very successful affair and one which was enjoyed by all present.

Again Bucknellians in the Metropolitan area gathered at the Hotel Wentworth, New York City, on March 20. An important business meeting was held and the activities for the 1941-1942 season were brought to a close.

PHILADELPHIA—

The first luncheon meeting for the Philadelphia alumni club members was held at Whitman's, Philadelphia, on October 16. The program was in charge of Charles T. Bunting, Esq.

On November 20 a joint dinner meeting of the Philadelphia Alumni and Alumni Club was enjoyed. The Alumni Secretary showed the four-reel, Kodachrome, sound motion picture, "Going to Bucknell."

The December and January luncheons were both held at Whitman's. The Honorable Charles H. Grakelow, director of purchases and supplies for the city of Philadelphia, was the speaker in December, and the Honorable T. Walnut of the Philadelphia Civil Service Commission, as speaker in January.

Over 240 Bucknellians and prospective students attended a showing of the new four-reel, sound motion picture, "Days in College," at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, Philadelphia, on March 12.

Wesley A. Wolffe, '11, retiring president, was presented with a bronze plaque for his service to the Club during the past two years. Harry B. Wassell, Esq., '00, was guest of honor.

The Pittsburgh Association of Bucknell Women held a luncheon on March 11, 12:15 p.m., at the Congress of Clubs, Pittsburgh. Election of officers was held.

PITTSFIELD—

The Pittsfield Alumni Club, one of Bucknell's youngest, had its second meeting on October 1 at the Stanley Club. The Alumni Secretary was guest speaker.

READING—

On November 21 members of the Reading Alumni Club dined at the Wyomissing Club, Reading. Those present saw the Bucknell motion picture and heard a brief message by Coach A. E. Humphreys, football coach.

ROCHESTER—

The Rochester Bucknell Alumni Club had a dinner meeting at the Faculty Club, University of Rochester, on November 14. Guest speaker for the evening was Dr. George M. Gregory, assistant professor of English at Bucknell University, who spoke on "The Product of the Bucknell Way of Life."

A Christmas party was held by the Rochester group at the Student Lounge, Colgate-Rochester Divinity School. Gifts were exchanged and various games were enjoyed.

SOUTHERN NEW JERSEY—

The Bucknell Dinner Bell rang at the Hotel Pitman, Pitman, New Jersey, on November 14, when the members of the South Jersey Club met for an evening of reminiscence about days at Old Bucknell. Dr. C. Willard Smith, associate professor of English at Bucknell, gave a very interesting talk.

On March 6 over two hundred and twenty-five Southern New Jersey Club members and prospective students attended a showing of the Bucknell movie, "Days in College," at the Walt Whitman Hotel, Camden, New Jersey.

SUNBURY—

The Bucknell Alumni Club of Sunbury and surrounding towns has been holding weekly meetings at the Aldine Hotel each Monday at 12:00 noon.

The annual dinner meeting of the Club was held on February 23, at the Neff Hotel, at which time Dr. William Shimer, dean of the faculty and secretary of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, gave a very interesting talk entitled, "Bucknell's Part in the Present National Crisis." The Alumni Secretary showed the Kodachrome, sound motion picture of life and activities at Bucknell. Special honor was paid to Mrs. Sara W. Pomerooy, of Sunbury, who was graduated from the Female Institute in 1872 and who will celebrate her seventieth graduation anniversary this May.

TRENTON—

On December 12, 1941, the Trenton Alumni Club had a dinner meeting at the Mary Gray Tea Room. Dr. George M. Gregory, a member of the Bucknell University English Department, was the speaker.

Another dinner meeting was held on February 27. The program consisted of a talk by Mr. Dayton L. Ranek, treasurer of Bucknell, and a showing of the new Kodachrome, sound motion picture. Election of officers was held, and the Reverend Paul M. Humphreys was elected president.

UNION COUNTY—

The Union County Alumni Club had its annual dinner meeting at the Hotel Lewisburger on October 14. Election of officers for the coming year was held. Arthur F. WASHINGTON—

The Washington Alumni Club held its first meeting of the 1941-1942 season at the Y. W. C. A. on October 17. Various committees for the year were appointed and meetings for the year were announced. A social hour followed the business meeting.

A formal dinner was held at the Claridge Hotel on February 3. Dr. William Shimer spoke to the group following which the Alumni Secretary showed the Bucknell motion picture to the alumni and the prospective students who were invited to join the meeting at 8:00 p.m.

Delegates to Assembly

If your club has not elected alternates and delegates to the meeting of the Assembly of the General Alumni Association on Commencement Day, May 23, please do so at once and send their names to the Alumni Secretary, Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pennsylvania. It is important that each alumni club is represented at this meeting.

Article V of the By-Laws of the General Alumni Association provides as follows:

"SECTION 1. The members of the Association shall by representation elect the members of the Board of Directors, select candidates for Alumni Trustee on the Board of the University to be voted upon by the members as hereinafter provided, and do such other things as they might or could do in and about the internal management of the affairs of the Association.

"SECTION 2. Representation of the members of the Association shall be by delegates elected by the Clubs which hold charters from the Association. Each Chartered Club shall be entitled to send to the Assembly from its membership one delegate and one alternate. In addition thereto each Club may send one delegate and one alternate for each 75 members who have paid their current local Club dues. The delegates and alternates of Clubs beyond a radius of 300 miles from Lewisburg need not be members of the Clubs they represent.

"SECTION 3. The delegates and their alternates shall meet at Lewisburg annually during Commencement at a time and place to be determined by the President and published in the Commencement program."

In Memoriam...

N. Hoffman Moore, of 1041 Blue Avenue, Zanesville, Ohio, died on December 23 following a heart attack. Mr. Moore was born on May 12, 1854. In 1873 he entered Bucknell. When he returned to his hometown, he assisted in compiling a county atlas and met with such success that he assisted in preparing similar atlases in counties of Pennsylvania and New York. After completing this work, he entered the employ of the Brown Manufacturing Company and was identified with this firm for sixty years.

In addition to his regular work, Mr. Moore also had many other interests. He was one of the founders of the Equitable Savings Bank in Zanesville and was one of the subscribers to a fund to build the first Fifth Street bridge, a wooden structure costing $16,000. Before the bridge was built most of the Terrace residents were forced to use the "Y" bridge which took them about a mile out of their way. Mr. Moore's interest in highway improvement was shown shortly after he purchased his first automobile in 1914, when he conceived the idea of painting lines on public highways. He wrote to the Secretary of State telling him about his plan. It was soon adopted and put into general use. It was not until a few years ago that Mr. Moore was given the credit due him for having conceived such an idea.

Mrs. Edgar D. Faries, nee Elizabeth Gerhart, a loyal and devoted alumna, died at her residence at Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on November 19, 1941.

Mrs. Faries was born in Lewisburg and went to the Bucknell Female Institute. After her graduation, she taught art there. When she married Mr. Edgar D. Faries, they moved to Philadelphia where Mrs. Faries took an active part in the affairs of her community. For several years she served as president of the Philadelphia Alumnae Club. Surviving her are her husband, prominent Philadelphia attorney, three daughters, and four sons.

Mrs. Annie Bell Evans Coe died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Paul G. Stolz, of Lewisburg, on February 27, 1942. After her graduation from Bucknell in 1886, she pursued additional training at the Baptist Institute, Philadelphia, and then went as a government social worker to Hope Indian Reservation near Phoenix, Arizona.

After her marriage to the late Professor Curtis P. Coe, she went with her husband to Wood Island, Kodiak, Alaska, where they were engaged in educational and social work for thirteen years. After they returned to the States, they lived at McMinnville, Oregon, and later moved east to Factoryville, Pennsylvania, where Mr. Curtis was headmaster of Keystone Academy. After his death, Mrs. Coe and her son, Curtis, took charge of the School.

DR. EDWARD C. KUNKLE, '97

1892

The death of Warren L. Kauffman occurred on January 25, 1942, at the Harrisburg Hospital.

On December 21, 1941, Dr. Frederick W. Brown died at his home after being ill for about a year. He was sixty-eight years of age.

Dr. Brown will be remembered at Bucknell both as a student and as a teacher. After he completed his undergraduate studies in 1896, he attended the University of Michigan where he received degrees both in law and in medicine. Later he returned to Bucknell and became a member of the faculty. In 1903, he went to Franklin where he entered upon the practice of medicine in which he was engaged for approximately thirty-seven years.

"Doctor Edward C. Kunkle has left us. About his daily mission on one day, he departed the next. He showed us a good way to go. He worked—and he died. But not Doc. Only his body died. He could not die. Our Beloved Chairman of the Scholarship Fund is with us still. His spirit is ours forever.

"A Bucknellian before most of us in the Metropolitan area, Ed went to the Academy as a lad and then finished his undergraduate work at the University, graduating in 1897. In 1901 he was a bachelor of Divinity of the University of Chicago Divinity School.

"Following graduation . . . Dr. Kunkle was Pastor of Baptist Churches . . . in Kenosha, Wisconsin; Scottdale, Pennsylvania; Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, and West Chester, Pennsylvania. In the World War he served his country as Chaplain with the forces in France. Later Dr. Kunkle, who received his doctor's degree from his Alma Mater, led the promotional work of the denomination with headquarters in N. Y. C. His field was the Baptist Churches of two Baptist Association, the Southern New York and Long Island. He retired on November 1, 1940.

"Dr. Kunkle was a friend of man, of no matter what color or creed. His kindly face and sincere soul belonged together in the one Christian personality. To know Edward Kunkle was to love him.

"We of the alumni mourn his loss. We count it a high privilege to have fellowship with him. We need a multitude to rise up to follow in his steps for Bucknell University and for the Kingdom of God on earth."

This was the memorial tribute paid by the Metropolitan Alumni Association to Dr. Edward C. Kunkle who passed away on October 14, 1941. He is survived by his wife, the former Blanche Campbell, '03.

1899

The Reverend Samuel J. Cleeland, who retired from the active ministry about two years ago, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Helen Jacobs, Oneonta, New York, on December 27, 1941.

1900

John A. Koons, of Scranton, Pennsylvania, died at the Moses Taylor Hospital, Scranton, on October 24, 1941.

1904

Professor Ira S. Sheppard, retired public school teacher, died on September 6, 1941, at Eatontown, New Jersey.

1905

The Honorable James Fay Shipman died on October 7, 1941, at Glendale Hospital near Moundsville, West Virginia. He was a graduate of the Bucknell Academy, Lafayette College, and Dickinson Law School, and had a very successful career in West Virginia where he served as judge from 1928 until his death.

1908

James F. Sheehan, a retired employee of the Interstate Commerce Commission, died at his home, 1110 Seventeenth Street, South, Arlington, Virginia, on January 16, 1942, after a long illness.

1925

Miss Elinor Breisch, of Ringtown, Pennsylvania, was killed in an automobile accident on New Year's Eve.

Wedding Bells...

1899

On October 1, Oliver J. Decker, prominent Williamsport Attorney and a trustee of the University, and Miss Beatrice M. Burns, also of Williamsport were united in marriage.

1910

Another Bucknell wedding took place when Miss Edna M. Follmer, '22, and Mr. Cameron A. Butt, '10, were married on December 27, 1941. Mrs. Butt was a member of the faculty of the Grover Cleveland High School at Caldwell, New Jersey, and Mr. Butt is with the Standard Oil Company at Bayway. Their address is Mt. Vernon Road, Union, New Jersey.

1925

One of Sunbury's prominent physicians, Dr. James H. Landau, who is pathologist and obstetrician of the Mary M. Packer Hospital and is in charge of the Pennsylvania State Clinic for the Sunbury area, married Mrs. Margaret Stotter Shipman on February 11, 1942. They are now living at 70 Fairmount Avenue, Sunbury, Pa.

1928

Miss Mary E. Johnson and Cameron M. Bieber were united in marriage in October. The bride was a member of the faculty of the West Chillisquaque Township High School, Montandon, Pennsylvania, for several years. Mr. Bieber operates a grocery store in Hughesville, Pennsylvania, and it is there that the couple are living.

On January 3, 1942, Miss Lois M. Davis became the bride of Lewis H. Ripley, Superintendent of the Munro Coal Company at Revloc, Pennsylvania.

On January 31, 1942, Miss Eleanor Schooley, assistant bacteriologist at Bucknell University, became the bride of Earl W. Bly. Only the members of the immediate families witnessed the ceremony which was performed in the First Presbyterian Church at Watsontown. Mr. and Mrs. Bly are now residing at 712 North Main Street, Watsontown.

1929

J. Roy Goodlander, of Lock Haven, and Miss Amber M. Johnstonbaugh were united in marriage on September 27, 1941. Mr. Goodlander is employed in the offices of the New York and Pennsylvania Company at Lock Haven.

1930

The marriage of Bargetta M. Kemble to Starrett K. Murray was announced recently. The ceremony was performed on November 13, 1941.

On Valentine's Day, February 14, Dr. John M. Snyder, of Slatington, Pennsylvania, was married at Cheyenne, Wyoming, to Miss Betty Wiltrout, of Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin. Dr. Snyder received his commission as major in the United States Army early in January. He has been in service since March 12, 1941, and was a surgeon at the Fitzsimon's General Hospital, Denver, Colorado. Early in September he was sent to Fort F. E. Warren, Cheyenne, to serve as chief surgeon of the 48th Surgical Field Hospital of the 4th Army. He is serving as surgeon in the station hospital until his field unit is dispatched to active service.

On January 3, Bernice O'Brien became the wife of William Ryan, formerly of Danville. The ceremony was performed in the St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Danville, but the couple are living at 129 Rochelle Avenue, Philadelphia, where the groom is employed.

1933

Marion E. Smith is now Mrs. George Klingman of 624 Chestnut Street, Millinburg, Pennsylvania.

William E. Gass took as his bride, Miss Janet M. Thomas, on December 13, 1941. Mr. Gass is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad at Reading where the couple have gone to house-keeping.

Miss Lodie Winkelbleck and Mr. Emanuel Mensch, Jr., were united in marriage on February 14, at 8 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Mensch are at home at their farm at Millmont, R. D.

1934

Professor Paul Benson, a member of the Mathematics Department at Bucknell University, took as his bride, Miss Anna Louise Stolz, '42, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Paul G. Stolz, '08, in a ceremony which was solemnized at 8 o'clock on January 29. Ruth Braden, '42, was maid of honor; Treva Poling, '43, and Mary and Uvenia Gallagher, '42 and '44 respectively, Mrs. Harold Evans, and Dorothy Benham, '43, were bridesmaids. Dr. C. H. Richardson, of the Bucknell University faculty, was best man; Professor John Gold, '18, Professor William Miller, '26, and also Kenneth Henold, '36, members of the Bucknell faculty, and Robert Frederickson, '41, Donald Stolz, '41, William Smith, '33, Newton Frederics, and William McGuire, '42, were ushers.

The couple are now at Ann Arbor where Professor Benson is working on his doctor's degree at the University of Michigan. Upon the completion of his work in May, they will return to Lewisburg and take up residence here.

Marie Irene Peters and Walter Joseph Nikodem were married on December 24, 1941, in New York City. They are now at home at 72 Park Terrace West, New York City.

1900

On the evening of the day that Pearl Harbor was bombed, a celebration was held in Fairbanks, Alaska, commemorating the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the University of Alaska and of the presidency of Dr. Charles E. Bunnell, its first president. A radio broadcast from Fairbanks, at the time of the celebration, said in part, "During the twenty years of the institution's existence, it has made valuable contributions in the field of scientific research. Most outstanding perhaps are the archaeological contributions made by the Museum Department, which have attracted world-wide recognition. Noteworthy, too, is the recognition of the University by the Northwest Association for Professional Development, which accredits the School of Mines and the Civil Engineering Department and graduates among the major engineering societies of the United States and Canada."

Typical of the growth of the University is that of its first president, Dr. Bunnell. Upon being graduated from Bucknell University in 1900 with first honors, he went to Wood Island and then to Kodiak Island, Alaska, to teach in a mission school. For seven years he taught in mission and public schools and then he gave up teaching for the practice of law.

He became judge of the Fourth Judicial Division of Alaska on appointment by President Wilson. This position he resigned in 1921 to accept the presidency of the institution he now heads. For forty-two years he has held this significant place in the life and culture of our farthest northern territory.

The Chemical Industry Medal for 1941 was presented to Dr. Elmer K. Bolton, Bucknell University Trustee and Chemical Director of E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co., at a joint meeting of the American Section of the Society of Chemical Industry, the New York Section of the American Chemical Society, and the New York Section of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers held at the Chemists' Club in New York City on November 7.

Dr. Bolton spoke on "The Development of Nylon" and revealed that about 230 chemists and engineers were engaged at one time or another in this co-operative effort. He asserted that nylon yarn is the first truly synthetic fiber, and has a closer similarity in both constitution and properties to silk than any other fiber. "For the first time," he said, "the supremacy of silk in the full-fashioned hosiery industry is threatened."

Dr. Bolton was born at Philadelphia and was graduated from Bucknell University with a Bachelor of Arts degree. He received a Master of Arts degree and a Ph.D. degree from Harvard University. Under the Sheldon Fellowship awarded by Harvard University, Dr. Bolton did post-doctorate research at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Chemists in Berlin. In 1915, when he returned from Europe, he entered the employ of the duPont Company. Since 1930 he has been Chemical Director of this Company, and he had been intimately associated with the research leading to the development of neoprene and nylon.

In the January, 1942, issue of The Reader's Digest an article entitled "Fitting the Worker to the Job" written by Frank F. Taylor told about the outstanding work Dr. Doncaster G. Humm, psychologist for the Los Angeles public schools, has done in industrial psychology. Mr. Taylor first mentioned a speech Dr. Humm made in 1928 at which time the latter said, "You wouldn't think of hiring a physically handicapped man to climb telephone poles. Mental health and temperament are just as important in industry as physical fitness." The experiments which Dr. Humm carried on at the request of Guy T. Wadsworth, Jr., personnel manager of the Coast Counties Gas Company, since merged into Pacific Lighting, brought forth worth while results. The outgrowth of the experiment was the Humm-Wadsworth Temperament Scale and other tests which have since been endorsed by the employers of large groups of men in other plants and factories. "Dr. Humm says the goal of the employee selection and evaluation program is to simplify industrial relations and provide happier working conditions."

Mrs. Nellie Reed Gatehouse, wife of William H. Gatehouse, wrote the following poem which she dedicated to the Class of 1910 on its thirtieth anniversary:

Thirty Years After

'Twas thirty years ago, you know,
That you left old Bucknell,
To seek your fortune in the world
And make that fortune tell.

The Class then numbered ninety some;

A few have passed away;
They've left behind a memory bright,
To guide you on your way.

You've traveled far from place to place,

In search for gold and fame;
But through the years, we feel that you
Have played a fair straight game.

If time would only backward turn,
And bring the days of yore,
When you were students young and gay.

What fun you'd have in store.

If you could only climb the hill,
And to the classroom go;
To meet Professors, girls and boys,
Your hearts with joy would glow.

But time will never backward turn,
No matter what or when;
So you must ever be content;
All hail to Nineteen Ten.

An Accelerated College Program for the Duration of the National Emergency

For the duration of the National Emergency, Bucknell University will offer an opportunity for all students to take their college work in a shortened period of time. This reduction in the time normally required for the completion of college work is made possible by adding a third term beginning in June and by shortening or eliminating certain vacation periods. The standard of instruction will be the same as for the regular four-year course. The additional expense for a student will be for the June term. Students not desiring to take the accelerated program may take the regular four-year course. Engineering students are required to take the shortened course.

A Three-year College Course for Students Enrolled in—

LIBERAL ARTS, BIOLOGY, PHYSICS, EDUCATION, OR COMMERCE AND FINANCE

Freshmen may enter these courses in June, September, or February.

Freshmen entering in June, 1942, graduate in May, 1945.

Freshmen entering in September, 1942, graduate in August, 1945.

Freshmen entering in February, 1943, graduate in January, 1946.

By carrying a slightly heavier program, a good student may graduate in two years and eight months, if desired.

A Two-year and Eight Months Course for Students Enrolled in—

ENGINEERING AND CHEMISTRY

Freshmen may enter the engineering course in June or September, and the chemistry course in June, September, or February.

Freshmen entering in June, 1942, graduate in January, 1945.

Freshmen entering in September, 1942, graduate in May, 1945.

Freshmen entering in February, 1943, graduate in September, 1945.

Interest some young man or young woman in old Bucknell by having literature, including the new booklet, Meeting the War Emergency at Bucknell, mailed to them. Send their names today on this form to the Alumni Office.

The BUCKNELL
Alumni Monthly

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

DEAR BUCKNELLIAN:

For the first time in twenty-four years Bucknell begins its Fall Semester with America at War. For over a year—since long before Pearl Harbor—Bucknell has been mobilizing and preparing for wartime strength. Hundreds of Civilian Defense volunteers have been enlisted and trained; social and extra-curricular activities have been reduced; the accelerated three-year program has been launched; physical education has been made compulsory for all students; new wartime courses have been introduced; near-by citizens have been trained for war industrial jobs; hundreds of men students have been helped to enlist in the military or naval reserve corps which have been created for college students. Bucknell has been an energetic leader among American colleges in dedicating its resources to the Service of America.

The indication is that the colleges of America will be called upon by our National leaders to gear themselves even more closely to the war effort during the college year which is now opening. If and when further calls come, the faculty and trustees and students of Bucknell will respond with energetic co-operation.

Hundreds of Bucknell's recent alumni and students are now in uniform, serving here, there, almost everywhere around the world where America is waging battles for our way of life. To each of them and to all of them, I send the affectionate greetings of Bucknell. Keep the flag flying high and come back to us when the war is over to receive our praise and thanks.

One certain thing this war is teaching us about Bucknell. Here on the Bucknell campus is the very essence of the way of life for which we are now fighting. Our little Bucknell world of intelligence, of honor, of self-discipline, of friendliness, of idealism, is the kind of life which would bless any part of the world which would embrace it. As we observe and ponder over the human faults and attitudes and greeds which have brought this holocaust to mankind, we realize that Bucknell has been teaching a way of life contrary in every particular to the ideas and ideals of those who brought this war on. We now know more surely than ever before that Bucknell is a precious and sacred place which is a living earnest of the better world which all civilized mankind shall some day inherit.

May all Bucknellians fight the forces of evil today, and sustain the forces of civilization in all the days ahead.

Cordially yours,

ARNAUD C. MARTS.

FALL TERM OPENS WITH CAPACITY ENROLLMENT

Accelerated Program Functioning Successfully

BUCKNELL opened its fall term with a capacity enrollment. All dormitory accommodations are filled, and the total enrollment is 1,309 students—763 men and 546 women. Thus in spite of the present situation men are still predominant on the campus. Bucknell is also providing accommodations and training for twenty flying cadets for the Navy. The number of students in college probably will be greatly affected during the year by an increasingly larger number of men students being called into active service and by a large number of students graduating in February.

The Accelerated Program established last spring has been functioning successfully. More than 555 students were in attendance at the new war term in June, and as a result approximately 103 will graduate in February. All senior engineers will graduate in February.

Four hundred and twenty freshmen, carefully selected from a large group of applicants, were admitted to Bucknell this fall. This fine freshman class resulted from the loyal co-operation of Bucknellians everywhere.

When the Student Admissions Program was established five years ago and alumni chairmen were appointed in Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey, President Marts asked all alumni to give the program their full co-operation. The alumni response to his request has resulted in a large number of applications each year from a very desirable group of young men and young women. Many more prospective students have applied than can be accommodated, thus making the admission of students highly selective. Today, in the midst of war, the need for further alumni co-operation is greater than ever before, so let's keep the Bucknell flag flying higher and higher!

BUCKNELL TO BE HOST OF INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE

ON October 23, 24, and 25, Bucknell University will be host to a large number of delegates and guests who will be on the campus attending the Inter-American Conference. There will be at least one student representative from each of the Latin and North American countries.

The theme of this conference will be "Youth Co-operating in the New World." Nine prominent personages, two of whom are Bucknell graduates, will appear on the program. The principal participants are Mr. Edward Tomlinson, "America's foremost interpreter of New World Affairs" and author of "New Roads to Riches in the Other Americas"; Mademoiselle Olga Coelho, Brazilian Soprano and Guitarist and artist for CBS; Dr. Enrique S. DeLozada, special advisor for the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs; Senor Manuel Prado, son of Peru's distinguished president; Dr. John C. Patterson, Chief of the Division of Inter-American Educational Relations of the U. S. Office of Education; Mr. Harry H. Pierson, Bucknell alumnus of the class of 1928 and Acting Assistant Chief of the Division of Cultural Relations of the U. S. Department of State; Mrs. Eula Kennedy Long, who was a resident of Brazil for 20 years and author of four books in Portuguese; Dr. Aristedes A. Moll, secretary of the Pan American Sanitary Bureau and editor of the "Pan American Sanitary Bulletin"; and Dr. Leo Rockwell, a member of the Bucknell class of '07, and chairman of the Division of Modern Languages at Colgate University.

In connection with the speeches, music, and dances, will be held Art Exhibits, Book Exhibits, and Commercial and Housing Exhibits. The general public is invited to all of the events on the program. All sessions are free except the General Session on Friday, October 23.

Homecoming

Yes, it is true that transportation may not be equal to other years, but it should be remembered that the "old grads" returned to the campus even before gasoline was the principal propelling force. Trains, horses, and even canal boats brought Bucknellians to the campus in days gone by. Today, with good train and bus connections to Lewisburg, transportation facilities are much better than they were before the automobile age—so why not decide to visit the campus for one brief day and enjoy with us the many events which have been planned.

Homecoming activities will begin with the Bison Club breakfast at the Hotel Lewisburger at 9:00 a. m. At 11:00 o'clock the Homecoming Parade will pass in review. Football will be highlighted this year when Bucknell clashes on the gridiron at 2:15 with her former, old-time rival, Lafayette. This is the game you will not want to miss! Another of the principal events is the Alumni Banquet, to which all are invited. It is scheduled for 6:00 p. m. in the Women's Dining Hall. Good food and an interesting, brief program await you there. Last, but not least, will be the Alumni Dance, one of the big campus dances of the year, at 8:30 o'clock in the Davis Gymnasium when Jack Kenney and his orchestra will provide music "the way you like it."

If you need any assistance in making your plans for returning to participate in Bucknell's 1942 Homecoming events, on October 31, the Alumni Office will be glad to help you.

THE LEABERS' LATEST LOG

U. S. to India and Return

By Evelyn McGann Leaber, '18

THE Leabers departed, kept on going and going, always in a westerly direction, until finally they all returned again to the same spot from which they had started. No surprise swims, no rescues, no utilized life rafts, no horrible adventures, really nothing but pure, unadulterated good luck attended their trippings. Consequently, they have many pleasant experiences, giggly episodes, and narrow escapes to tell their friends and acquaintances. But if you really prefer thrills, the Leabers are happy to say you will have to omit them and listen to others; "Cy" Follmer, '15, who retained his slim waistline at a luxurious hotel in Germany where Crisco on a piece of bread was cause for a celebration; or Sam Rickard, '23, and Ada Thomas Rickard, Music '21, accompanied by their four sons, who courageously walked into India from Northern Burma. So the Leabers feel extremely fortunate to have had just lucky skips through the war-infested world.

Said Leabers consist of Chet, '19, Evelyn McGann, '18, and daughter, Patricia Ann, aged 13 years. Chet left Williamsport, Pennsylvania, Sunday, September 3, 1939, the day war was declared by England. He had planned to go to India on an Italian boat across the Atlantic, through the Mediterranean Sea, Suez Canal, Red Sea, and then across the Arabian Sea to Bombay. He had to change routes, and go via the Pacific. He set sail from San Francisco on the S.S. Asama Maru, Japanese, to Penang, and from there went on a small British India boat to Calcutta. Hongkong or the S.S. Terakuni Maru proved too much for Chet. He arrived in Calcutta with typhoid fever. On that particular trip of the S.S. Terakuni Maru, it traveled on to England, hit a mine just off the southwest coast and went to the bottom of the English Channel, one month after Chet's disembarkation. I have always felt that if the Terakuni carried typhoid germs, I could think of no better resting place. Since then, I have found other good reasons to continue to think the resting place still extremely appropriate.

Just to try to keep the family together occasionally, Patricia and I thought we would enjoy two years in India. We sailed, therefore, from San Francisco November 27, 1940, on the S.S. President Harrison. We visited Pearl Harbor, Manila, Singapore, Penang, and Colombo en route and landed in Bombay on January 13, 1941. There Chet met us and accompanied us 1,500 miles across the Indian Peninsula to Calcutta. We so enjoyed getting back there and visiting again with our many friends. One year later, our boat, the S.S. President Harrison, disappeared in

First Bucknellian Killed in Service in World War II

LIEUTENANT EDWARD M. MILLER, '38, son of Hugh M. Miller, Jr., and Ruth Murray Miller, of Upper Darby, Pennsylvania, was killed in a ground accident in the Far Eastern Theater of Operations on June 5, 1942. He was the first Bucknellian to be killed in service for his Country in World War II. Lieutenant Miller entered the Army Air Corps in March, 1941. During his training for a commission, he served as cadet captain and was also editor-in-chief of the Pee-Tee, publication of the cadets at the Dan Aero Tech, Albany, Georgia. He was married to Miss Frances Myers in San Francisco on New Year's Eve, 1941, two weeks before he was sent to Australia.

His classmates and others will remember him at Bucknell for his qualities of leadership and his fine personality. While at Bucknell, he was art editor of L'Agenda in 1938, and he painted a mural on the walls of the Orange and Blue Room at Hotel Lewisburger. In addition to being known for his artistic ability, he was an outstanding golfer. Lieutenant Miller was a member of Kappa Sigma, social fraternity, and Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalistic fraternity. He was also a member of the Men's Glee Club, the Advertising Club, the Commerce and Finance Club, and was vice-president of the Art Club.

In a letter written to Edward's father, General H. H. Arnold, Lieutenant General, U. S. A., Commanding General of the Army Air Forces, praised Lieutenant Miller's ability as a soldier as follows: "I have been informed of the fine military record which Lieutenant Miller made overseas and of the high regard in which he was held by all with whom he served. He was in every respect a flying officer of unusual courage and ability."

Thus a gallant and loyal Bucknellian gave his life in service for his Country.

DEAR MOTHER AND DAD . . .

This is sort of a Red Letter day, and so I thought that I might use the type most applicable to the occasion. . . . It seems that right about this time you owe me some money Pop on accounta I got me some "Nips" to decorate the walls with at home. . . . Saturday, your little Eddie was on alert and finally the alarm came through that the "Nips" were puttin' on another air raid . . . so up we went to look for them . . . and did we find 'em . . . so many that we didn't quite know what to do. We were lucky enough to see them long before they saw us so that we were able to get into perfect position for attack . . . up in the sun, and they never saw us until we were almost on top of them and by that time it was too late and we were really throwin' the lead at 'em in big doses . . . they started smokin' and broke formation. . . . I picked out two of them and went after them . . . blew up the first one and when I was gettin' the second one three "Nip" fighters got on my tail and from there on in it was a merry "Rat Race." . . . They put three holes in "Frannies'" tail, and so you can see I really had the good Lord ridin' dual with me . . . but I finally did shake them or of course I wouldn't be writin' this little letter.

Well, you'd think that this would be enough, for one day, but not me, I had to go and get "cocky" and this is where the story really begins. I came back and had my ship gassed up and filled with ammunition and while they were doing this I heard that there was another raid going on over another area . . . and since I was so damn cocky, I figured that I would have another crack at them and there was where I really got in a jam 'cause I went off to look for them myself and got myself so lost that I didn't know whether I was in Australia, Timbuktu, or where . . . and believe me this is not the country to be gettin' lost in because you very seldom come back when you do.

The BISON CLUB

OF BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY

527 Fifth Avenue, Suite 300,
New York, New York.

DEAR BILL:

Your letter is surely appreciated. It has been at least five years since I have heard directly from you and perhaps a year since I have had news about you. I'm glad to hear all is well with you and Louise and the youngsters and that you are considering a more direct part in the war effort. I'll gladly get the information you have requested and send it along. Hope they make you a General.

I thought you knew all about the Bison Club and its activities but apparently neither the good old "grapevine" nor the columns of the ALUMNI MONTHLY can demand your attention. Some day take an hour off and read two issues of the MONTHLY—October, 1941, and May, 1942. The former contains about a dozen interesting items by interesting people, telling much of the story. The latter carries a one-page résumé of the Club's accomplishments with particular emphasis on the financial angle.

You have asked me to give you my reasons for joining the Club and working for its success. You have a right to be surprised when you find a busy guy who was not a former athlete as active as I am in the Club's affairs. I'm telling you my reasons with the understanding that if these reasons are convincing to you, you will immediately sign the enclosed application for membership and send along your $10 dues.

1. The Bison Club has liquidated $50,000 of the Bucknell debt during the past three years. That's worth $10 to any Bucknellian, isn't it?
2. The contributions of the Club permit Bucknell to maintain a reasonable athletic program. Yearly deficits were fast discouraging an adequate program of athletics until the B.C. came along to lick the deficit. To do this part of the job comfortably we need to double our $10 memberships. We want 600 members.
3. The membership is constantly alert for new recruits for Bucknell, provided they are good students who can make good grades.
4. The Club has recaptured for Bucknell the interest of several hundred alumni. This is true in my own case. Oh, I belonged to the Alumni Association and once a year I turned out for a meeting but that's about as far as it went. Now I'm giving some time to helping the college and I'm getting a big kick out of it.
5. The Club has brought together many men with common interests who have drifted apart.
6. The activities of the Club permit each member to feel that he is not only helping his Alma Mater but, by so doing, he is helping to keep alive an institution typical of our American way of life in typical American fashion—each one doing a small part of a big job.

I have heard other reasons for Club membership expressed by some of our present 300 members but the above are sufficient for me and I hope they will be for you. Nothing would please me more than to have the pleasure of adding your name to the roster.

I'll send you the other information you want right soon. Meanwhile, why don't you send me your application and check.

You have my best wishes,

MEMORANDUM

To FRANCIS LYBARGER, Alumni Secretary.
Dear Francis:

You have asked for material for the Bison Club page to be produced in your next issue of Alumni Monthly. It seems to me that the letter which I am enclosing carries the message which I wish to convey to all Bucknellians and I suggest that you reproduce this letter with names deleted.

You know that we are attempting to double our membership this year. This is an ambitious program but we have done it before and I believe we can do it again. I am sure that as more of the men and women of Bucknell become acquainted with the functions of the Bison Club, many of them will wish to apply for membership and send in $10 per year.

I hope that you will have printed in some prominent spot on our page an invitation to all members of the club to be my guests at breakfast on Homecoming Day. At that time I wish to outline the program for the year. Many new suggestions have been made and all are worthy of consideration. I do hope for a big attendance at this club meeting.

Sincerely yours,

C. PRESTON DAWSON,
President, Bison Club.

A MESSAGE TO THE ALUMNI

By W. C. Lowther, '14
President, General Alumni Association

AT the meeting of the General Alumni Association at Commencement in May, your Board of Directors re-elected me President for another year. I appreciate the honor more than I can say and thank each and every one of them for their confidence, and I will "carry on" to the best of my ability. Please let me impress upon you once more that your officers are merely your representatives, and we are here to serve you. If you have any suggestions for the good of Bucknell or your Association, please let us have them and we will do our part in presenting them to the proper authorities.

Last year was one of our greatest years in activities among the various local alumni groups. Four new charters were granted to alumni in widely scattered areas and their work has already been felt back on "the Hill." Since Commencement, a new Alumni Association was formed in Denver, Colorado, and a charter will be presented to them at their first meeting this fall. When Miss Emma Dillon, one of our vice-presidents, decided that she would attend the convention of the American Bar Association in Denver, she contacted our Alumni Secretary and told him about her plan of forming a new club. He liked the idea and volunteered to assist in planning the meeting and to send an invitation from Miss Dillon to all Bucknellians in that area inviting them to have dinner with her.

There is a challenge to each of you alumni. What we need are hundreds more like Miss Dillon. What will you do to match her enthusiastic work for old Bucknell? We need a live-wire to organize groups in Los Angeles, San Francisco, and dozens of other cities.

For years we alumni have looked forward to the fall of 1942 when the entering Freshman class would be known as the Class of 1946 and would be graduated in Bucknell's centennial year. Tentative plans have already been made for our one hundredth celebration but like everything else they have been laid away for the duration. Under the accelerated program some members of the Class of 1946 will be graduated in 1945, while others will have entered the various services of their country. Therefore, instead of honoring the Class of 1946 alone, let us hope and pray that the war will be over for our centennial celebration and that we can honor all the Bucknellians who are so ably helping to preserve our democratic way of life in the various branches of the armed forces.

Homecoming Day is set for Saturday, October 31. One of the events will be the football game with the Bucknell Bisons being hosts to the Lafayette Leopards. There will also be the alumni dinner and dance and lots of other events and attractions. But best of all you will meet once more Mary, Carrie, and Tom and Dick and Harry to reminisce and relive the days you all spent "On the Hill." I know it will be difficult for you to get back to Lewisburg under the present conditions but it is surely worth a great effort. Won't you please try to be "among the present."

I talked to "Pep" Dawson, the President of the Bison Club, the other day, and he told me they have had quite an increase in membership during the past few months but still need about 200 more loyal Bucknellians to join. The Bison Club is really doing a remarkable job, so come to the Bison Club breakfast on Homecoming Day and hear the astounding report in full. We need your support. Send your application to the Alumni Office today.

Why wait longer?

NEW ALUMNI TRUSTEE

Dr. Edward W. Pangburn, '15

LAST May the members of the General Alumni Association elected Dr. Edward W. Pangburn, '15, to the Board of Trustees of Bucknell University. Dr. Pangburn, one of Philadelphia's outstanding physicians and surgeons and recently commissioned a Lieutenant Commander in the United States Navy, has long served Bucknell for many years.

His interest in alumni affairs has been very apparent. For two terms he held the office of president of the General Alumni Association, and at the present time he is a member of the Board of Directors of that organization. He has actively supported the affairs of the Philadelphia Alumni Club of which he is a member.

Dr. Pangburn has also had a strong interest in athletics at Bucknell. For a number of years he has been a member of the Athletic Council and has been a member of the Bison Club. He has acted as physician for the football team, accompanying them on their trips to other universities. On several occasions, Dr. Pangburn has also presented trophies to young men at Bucknell for athletic competition.

Thus after serving his Alma Mater in various capacities since his college days, Dr. Pangburn is now offering assistance to her as a member of the Board of Trustees.

PROFESSOR SIMPSON RETIRES FROM TEACHING

AT Commencement on May 23, 1942, Professor Frank M. Simpson retired after forty-two years of teaching service at Bucknell University. He is now Professor of Physics, Emeritus.

Professor Simpson's association with Bucknell began when he came to the University in 1891 as a freshman. He received a Bachelor of Science degree from the University four years later and a Master of Science degree in Biology from his Alma Mater in 1897. Professor Simpson also took graduate work in biology at the biological laboratory at Cold Spring Harbor, New York, and graduate courses in physics at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York.

After being graduated from Bucknell, he taught Science for three years at the Hall Institute, Sharon, Pennsylvania, and for two years at the Delaware Academy, Delhi, New York, resigning to accept a position in the Science Department of the Bucknell Academy. In 1902, he was appointed to the University faculty as an Instructor in Drawing, and in 1903, he became Instructor in Physics and Drawing. One year later Professor Simpson was advanced to the rank of Assistant Professor of Physics, and in 1907, to Professor of Physics, which position he held until he retired in May.

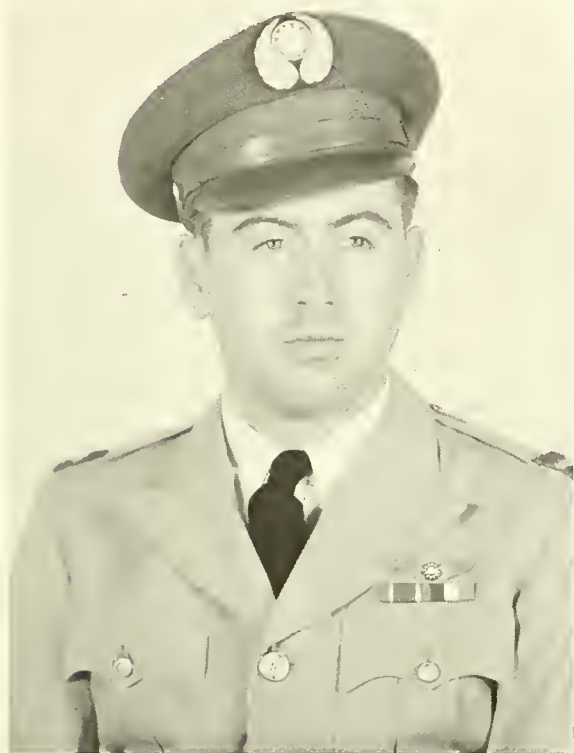

In connection with his work, Professor Simpson has published two books—"Experimental Physics," a text for students taking first-year laboratory work; planes is not propaganda talk. They got my best friend, George Chrisman, that way," he stated.

BUCKNELL'S "FLYING TIGER" GEORGE R. BURGARD, '38 DOWNS FOURTEEN JAP PLANES

One of George Burgard's exciting moments was when he escaped from a Japanese airman who got on the tail of his ship as he was returning to the base with ammunition exhausted. Burgard said, "A stream of bullets shattered my instrument panel and that was the first I knew I had a Jap on my tail. But my P-40, the fastest diving plane in the skies, saved my life. I went into a dive, doubled and twisted until I lost the Jap. But that first burst of bullets just missed me by a hair's breadth." Another time, Flight Commander Burgard's plane crashed in a jungle where he wandered around for about an hour until he finally found his way back to civilization.

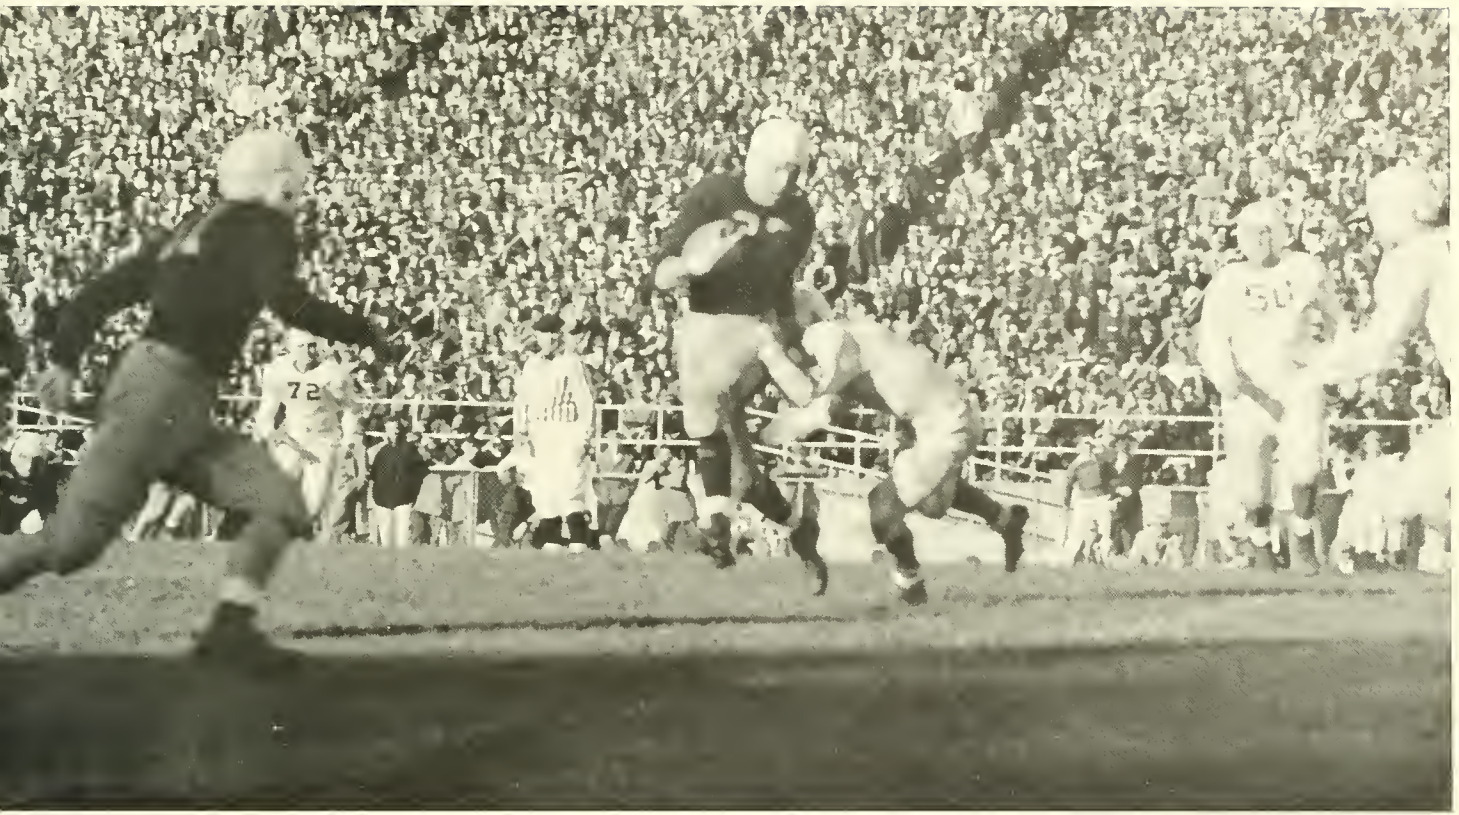

When addressing the Rotary Club recently in his home town, Sunbury, Pennsylvania, Flight Commander Burgard stated that the Europeans in the Far East had lived in Oriental splendor before the war. When the city of Rangoon was evacuated, the American fighting force remained there alone, undisturbed except for the regular bombing each night by the Japs. The American fighters lived in the magnificent houses of the Europeans where they found food, clothing, and comfortable sleeping quarters. After it seemed quite evident that the owners would not come back, Burgard and his companions, badly in need of clothing, put on garments which were as nearly correct in size as possible. When they reported the next day for duty, each man appeared in a different type of dress—evening wear, business suits, slacks, and golf knickers.

For his outstanding service to the Chinese Government, George Burgard was decorated by General Chiang Kai-shek in person. He received the Chinese Distinguished Flying Cross, which is also known as the Order of the Banner of the Cloud, a medal given to all fliers who fell five or more enemy planes. Bucknell's "Flying Tiger" downed a total of fourteen planes.

One year of excitement, however, has not brought to a close Flight Commander Burgard's activities as aviator. He now has a position with the American Export Airlines ferrying planes for the United States Navy.

ONE of Bucknell's brave and daring warriors is Flight Commander George R. Burgard, '38, who for approximately one year fought in China as a member of the "Flying Tigers." Major Burgard, as he was known to the Chinese Army, was commissioned a lieutenant in the United States Army Air Corps, but he gave up his rank and chose instead a life of unsurpassed adventure and excitement about which most of us have read but few of us have been able to equal.

After the "Flying Tigers" disbanded on July 3, Flight Commander Burgard returned to the United States. In commenting about some of his many experiences, he said that the Japanese fliers are skillful and daring and their planes are well equipped, but the pursuit ships of the A.V.G. are more sturdy and have greater firing power. BUCKNELL BISONS HAVE UNUSUAL SCHEDULE

By John Bush, '42

WHILE Coach "Al" Humphreys and his 1942 squad of stalwart Bison gridmen shoot their fingers skyward in the emblematic "V for Victory" fashion, every turn in the current football wars will find these gentlemen prepared for the stiff opposition they anticipate.

For anything can happen—as it usually does in football—and Coach Humphreys is not counting on any miracles. With seven out of nine teams which the Bisons face this fall already indicating they will use freshmen in their first-string line-ups and with a difficult schedule staring them in the face, the Bisons need more than the usual amount of thunder and jounce to meet with average success.

To help along the cause Coach "Al" Humphreys has assembled one of the largest, yet most inexperienced squads, in his six years at Bucknell. Of the forty-three candidates, only three have had two years of varsity experience, seven have had one year with the squad and eighteen played with the freshman crew last year. In addition, fifteen yearlings have been invited to participate in the pre-season workouts and may see action if their prowess warrants their services in the fall campaign. The freshmen will probably not make the first team, at least not at the start, but some good reserves may come from the group.

With emphasis on conditioning this year because of the war's demand for the physical betterment of American youth, Coach Humphreys hopes to add to the effort by whipping the boys into a "winning frame of mind." However, the Bison mentor and his aides, "Bus" Blum and John Sitarsky are faced with the difficult assignment of melting replacements into varsity form along the forward wall and in three slots in the backfield.

Since Walter Szot and Tom Rodgers, youthful tackles from last year, received more than an overdose of service in their initial dive into college football, the situation at this post appears hopeful. Co-Captains "Bill" Anderson, guard, and "Steve" Sokol, center, working side by side on the Herd's wall, will lend experience and dash to the workings of the line. Leading candidates for the other guard berth are Denton Brown and William Bontempi, up from the sophomore ranks of last season. Veteran "Len" Miller will be at one of the wing posts—with Eugene Matthews and Ernest Querino the main candidates for the other end assignment.

In the backfield bivouac, Chester Podd has been moved from fullback to the signal-calling rôle this season. "Al" Magagna, seasoned performer with only one year of varsity experience, will man a half-

BUCKNELLIAN ATTENDS HISTORIC MEETING OF ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL AT SEA

Commander Reuben W. Shrum, '08, Assists in Divine Services

COMMANDER REUBEN W. SHRUM, '08, who became a chaplain in the United States Navy during World War I and who will complete in the near future twenty-five years of service with the Navy, is on duty at the Jacksonville Naval Air Station as Senior Chaplain.

Commander Shrum has seen wide service afloat and ashore. After World War I, he visited twenty-eight European countries as chaplain aboard the U.S.S. Pittsburgh. During the Coolidge Administration, he was chaplain aboard the presidential yacht, Mayflower. He has also served at the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Connecticut, and aboard the U.S.S. Saratoga, Naval Aircraft Carrier.

Last fall when the historic meeting between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill was held "somewhere in the North Atlantic," Commander Shrum had the distinction of assisting the British Chaplain in conducting divine services aboard H.M.S. Prince of Wales.

back slot and take his turn in the safety berth. Desperately in need of a ball-throwing artist, Coach Humphreys may sieve the backfield candidates from the 1941 freshman squad to fill the pass-tossing position usually lodged at the other halfback post. Two outstanding fullback candidates, Chester Johnson and Ray Tyler, will undoubtedly provide the downfield zest and direct power for the Thundering Herd.

The Bisons expect to roll into high gear by the time the Homecoming clash makes its appearance on the 1942 schedule. It promises to be an outstanding classic; for Lafayette is the attraction—one of those rivals from way back now appearing again for the first time since 1883. "Hooks" Mylin, who preceded Humphreys at Bucknell, is the Lafayette mentor and will be treading on familiar ground when he brings his Easton collegians here for the Homecoming clash.

Well, to make a long story shorter . . . I flew for over three hundred miles without seeing a sign of civilization. About the last hundred miles of which was spent in prayer, and I do mean prayer . . . and as though in answer to that prayer I found a little mission, which had a small salt lake bed about five miles through the bush from it . . . and it was there that I put "Frannie" with only about five more minutes of fuel left. . . . When I landed, the wheels sunk into the soft sand and the plane went up on her nose, but I was traveling so slow when she went up on her nose that the only damage was to the "prop." . . . Anyway, I wasn't too worried about the plane at the moment; instead I struck out through the jungle for the mission which in the meantime had sent out some Aborigine natives to find me. . . . When I finally did come across them, they just scared the livin' daylight right out of me because they are absolutely the wildest lookin' people that it is possible to imagine . . . but they could speak a little English that the missionaries had taught them, and was Eddie ever relieved. . . . They took me on into the mission where they gave me water and food. . . . This was one of the most amazing experiences that one could have. These natives, although they are the wildest looking people, are just like little children and are really a sight to see. They are like something you would see in the National Geographic, either that or in a nightmare. They have the most horrible tattoo marks all over their bodies and, when they are in the "bush," wear little or no clothing although when they are around the mission they wear a pair or shorts or a loin cloth. . . . When I first came in, they thought I was a Jap because they had never seen a plane like mine before, and as a result they all ran into the jungle in various directions like that proverbial cat that always seems to get hit in the tail. . . . But when the two that came out to get me let them know that I was friendly they all came out to see me, with all the curiosity of small children . . . gigglin' and laughin' and sayin' hello all in one breath. . . . They had never seen a white man as tall as I was so that I was as much a curiosity to them as they were to me. . . .

The next day they came out to help me dig Frannie out of the sand, and I was able to get some pictures of them doing this which I hope I will be able to keep. . . . Anyway we managed to dig her out with the native boys workin' away because they seemed to feel that it was their own particular problem to get it out. . . . They brought a new "prop" down and are putting it on now, and the plane that brought down the prop flew me back. . . . And so here I am on alert again and waiting for some more "Nips." . . .

Well, that seems to be about all the news there is to tell for the present and it should be able to get through the censors O.K. If it doesn't, it will be something more for me to tell you all when your little boy comes sailin' home. . . . Be good my loves, and remember always that I love you both very much and be sure to take care of yourselves and write as much as possible, because although I haven't received any mail in all these months sooner or later it will catch up to me. . . . My love to Bubs and Murray and Margaret and Mary . . . and give little Frances a kiss for me on accounta I love her very much. . . .

Lots and lots of love and a bunch of hugs an' kisses. . . . Your loving son . . . EDDIE.

and "Advanced Laboratory Practice," a text for those taking advanced laboratory work. The former book went through three editions; and the latter, two editions.

Professor Simpson also holds membership in numerous professional and scientific organizations, some of which include the American Physical Society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Association of Physics' Teachers, and the American Association of University Professors. He also belongs to Phi Beta Kappa and Pi Mu Epsilon, and honorary scholastic societies, and is a member of Sigma Chi, social fraternity.

On the campus outside the classroom, our youngest Professor Emeritus designed and supervised the construction of the memorial steps in front of Old Main for the Class of 1904; for the Class of 1905, the memorial columns at the main entrance to the campus near the President's house; and for the Class of 1907, the memorial clock tower on West College. He made the detailed drawings for Harris Hall and supervised the construction of the Sigma Chi and Phi Gamma Delta fraternity houses.

Aside from his professional duties, Professor Simpson has given freely of his time and energy in an effort to serve the Community in which he lives. He was elected to the Board of Education of the Lewisburg Public Schools in 1921 and served in that capacity for eighteen years. He has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Union National Bank since 1913, and president since 1925. He was instrumental in the organization of the Citizens' Electric Company in 1911 at which time he became a member of the Board of Directors. Twenty-two years later Professor Simpson was elected president of this Company.

With The Clubs...

CHICAGO

On August 30, Chicago Bucknellians enjoyed a garden basket picnic at the home of Dr. A. R. E. Wyant, '92. Dr. Wyant told the Club members about his trip to Bucknell at Commencement time when he and several other members of his class celebrated their Fiftieth Anniversary and when the Emeritus Club was organized largely through his efforts.

HARRISBURG

Forty-five Bucknellians and guests were present at the dinner meeting of the Harrisburg-Bucknell Alumni Club on April 9. The Alumni Secretary showed the Bucknell film, "Days in College," and told about the University's war emergency program. Prospective students and their parents were the guests of the Club.

On May 7, the Club met at the First Baptist White Temple in Harrisburg for its regular monthly meeting. Dr. Keith E. Haines, '31, a member of the staff of the Elizabethtown State Hospital for Crippled Children, gave an illustrated talk on the unusual work carried on at the Hospital.

The Harrisburg Alumni Club meeting in June was held in the form of a lawn party at the estate of Miss Nelle Aumiller, '21. There were no speeches or matters of business which were settled; only gaiety and the Bucknell spirit reigned supreme.

METROPOLITAN

The last Metropolitan Alumni Club meeting for the season was held at Pal's Cabin on April 14. The Alumni Secretary was guest dinner speaker. Dancing and an evening of good fellowship followed his talk.

PHILADELPHIA

The Philadelphia Club had a luncheon at Whitman's in Philadelphia on April 14. Mr. Dayton L. Ranck, Treasurer of Bucknell, was speaker.

The final business meeting until fall for the Bucknell Alumnae Club members in the Philadelphia area was also held at Whitman's. They met on June 13.

PITTSBURGH

A gathering of the Western Pennsylvania Alumni Club was held on April 24 at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, Pittsburgh. A program consisting of music and a talk by Dr. Arnaud C. Marts, Bucknell's president, was enjoyed. At 10:00 dancing was held in the ballroom with music supplied by Art Giles' orchestra.

PITTSFIELD

On the first day of May the Pittsfield Club had a meeting conducted by the president, John O. Roser, '11. Dr. Robert Oliver, Professor of Speech, gave an informal talk about Bucknell.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN

Through the efforts of Miss Emma E. Dillon, '15, Vice-President of the General Alumni Association, the forty-fourth Bucknell Alumni Club was formed on July 12 at Denver, Colorado. Fourteen alumni guests were present at the luncheon. The following officers were elected: John Rishel, '15, president; Miss Margaret H. Corwin, '28, vice-president; Benjamin R. McGrath, '33, treasurer; and Harry O. Bergkamp, '35, secretary. Miss Dillon told those present about recent events on the campus and showed them booklets on life and activities at Bucknell.

SOUTHERN NEW JERSEY

On May 8, the Southern New Jersey-Bucknell Alumni Club had its spring meeting at the Presbyterian Church in Elmer, New Jersey. Dr. William A. Shimer, Dean of the Faculty and National Secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, gave an interesting talk.

TRENTON

Prospective students, their parents, and alumni in the Trenton, New Jersey area attended a showing of the Bucknell motion picture, "Days in College," at the Stacy-Trent in Trenton on April 10. The Alumni Secretary and Director of Admissions was present.

The Trenton Bucknellians held a dinner meeting on April 24, which brought to a close their activities for the year 1941-1942. Mr. Ward Gage, who was at that time student counselor and a member of the Bucknell faculty, brought greetings and bits of news from the campus.

UNION COUNTY

Over eighty Bucknellians and guests attended a dinner meeting of the Union County Club on August 28 at the Lewisburg Inn. Guests of honor were Mrs. Chester Leaber (Evelyn McGann, '18) and Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Follmer. Mrs. Leaber told about her trip coming home from India last winter, and Mr. Follmer, '16, of the United States Embassy in Berlin, related some of his experiences in Germany and those which he experienced while on his return trip to the United States.

WASHINGTON

The Washington-Bucknell Alumni Club held a dinner meeting at the Kenesau Cafe, Washington, on June 9. Election of officers and a few other matters of business were taken care of.

Shanghai, either by being blown up or taken over by the Japanese.

On March 13, 1941, Pat started to an American school in the hills, northeast of Delhi. She traveled with a school party two nights and one day by train to Dehra Dun. From there she climbed twenty miles to 5,500 feet above sea level by bus to a landing called Kin Craig. Then by foot she trudged three miles farther, climbing another 1,500 feet. An older person would prefer traversing these same three miles in a dandy, a chair carried by four coolies. There Pat found Woodstock, the buildings perched upon knolls where a knoll could be sufficiently broadened to accommodate a building. She discovered Sam, Jr., John, and Donald Rickard attending the same school. Their school term was from March until November, and then they had their so-called "summer holidays" in the winter. It is something to have four future Bucknellians together in a school one and one-half miles up in the air, but even more so to have them 10,000 miles from home.

BUCKNELL FOR VICTORY

Broadcasts Dramatize the War Emergency Program

In order to tell the Nation about Bucknell's part in helping America win the war, a series of broadcasts are being presented to radio audiences.

From the banks of the picturesque Susquehanna River at Lewisburg, Bucknell has proclaimed its full co-operation with the program of the United Nations and has pledged itself to go all-out for victory.

Bucknell's President — the Executive Director of the Pennsylvania State Council for Defense—its students, faculty, and members of the administration are doing all within their power to aid our Government in the war effort and to make the Bucknell campus a powerhouse for democracy and civilization.

The first broadcasts in the series have shown how the optional accelerated college program makes it possible for students to complete their work in three years or less; how students voluntarily reduced extra-curricular activities fifty percent in order to devote more time to their studies and defense courses; and how Bucknell is aiding its Community with special courses in engineering and chemistry for workers in defense industries.

The first broadcast went on the air from the studios of WOR, New York, and the second originated in the studios of KYW, Philadelphia, and was carried by wires of the National Broadcasting Company to Station KDKA, Pittsburgh. The programs were produced through the co-operation of the Bucknell Radio Workshop. The scripts were written by and the broadcasts were under the direction of Miss Anita Grannis of the Edward L. Wertheim Agency, New York. Students, faculty, administrators, and alumni participated in the broadcasts.

The next broadcast, "Inter-American Youth for Victory," will be held on Saturday October 17, 1942, from 1:35 to 2:00 p. m., E. W. T., Station WOR, New York, and will be carried by the Mutual Broadcasting System from coast to coast.

On May 11, William R. White, New York State Superintendent of Banks, was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by Union College, Schenectady, New York.

When President Dixon Ryan Fox conferred the degree on Mr. White, he read the following citation:

"William Rafford White—public administrator—graduate of Bucknell University, which he now serves as trustee, and trained in the law at Columbia; after short preliminary practice joining the Banking Department of this State as assistant counsel; quickly showing a capacity for brilliant leadership, made Superintendent of Banks at the phenomenal age of thirty-two; in but one year so impressing the whole Country by his vision and practical effectiveness as to be chosen President of the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks; then chairman of its powerful executive committee; primarily responsible for the recodification of New York's banking laws, so as to protect the small and necessitous borrower, and to correct investment practices; young in years, still growing in the esteem of bankers and their clients, administering with competence and aplomb the control of twelve hundred banking institutions with recorded assets of more than twenty billion dollars; an inspiration to the best young men who seek careers in public service—by the authority vested in me by the Trustees, I gladly admit you to the degree of Doctor of Laws in Union College, in token whereof you will receive this diploma."

In Memoriam...

On August 10, Mrs. J. Walter Scott, nee Emma Liggett, of Newport, died at the age of 86. Mrs. Scott was valedictorian of her class at Bucknell.

1884

Mrs. Margaret Kane Pettite died at her residence in Ocean Grove, N. J., on August 12, 1942.

Mrs. Pettite, the daughter of the late Rear Admiral and Chaplain James J. Kane, '67, traveled extensively throughout her life. She crossed the Atlantic Ocean fourteen times, and visited, and, in some cases, lived for a time in many of the large capitals of the world such as London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Rome, Cairo, Geneva, and Athens. She studied painting in Rome and Athens and was a member of the winter colony in Monte Carlo and Nice on the Mediterranean. She is survived by her husband, James G. Pettite, a daughter and a son, James K. Pettite, '19.

1886

George F. Keefer died on December 4, 1941.

1887

Mrs. J. H. Miles (Rebecca Schreyer) passed away at the Mabel S. Hoover Nursing Home at Milton, Pennsylvania, on May 8, 1942.

1891

Mrs. Edward M. Greene, nee Caroline Wittenmyer, wife of a Bucknell Trustee, died at her home in Huntingdon on June 11. Mrs. Greene, for many years, played a prominent part in the activities of her community. She was one of the organizers of the Huntingdon Civic Club and was its first president. She was also instrumental in organizing the Huntingdon Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. For a number of years, Mrs. Greene served on the State Board of Trustees of the Laurelton State Village.

Dr. David S. Grim, chief dermatologist and oldest member of the staff of the St. Joseph's Hospital, Reading, Pennsylvania, died in that Institution after having served there for almost forty years.

Dr. Grim was a graduate of the Keystone Normal School (State Teachers College, Kutztown), Bucknell University, and the University of Michigan. After serving an internship at the University of Michigan Hospital and specializing in the treatment of skin diseases, Dr. Grim became a member of the staff of St. Joseph's Hospital where he had been until his death.

His professional ability was recognized by the Federal Government during World War I. He was commissioned to serve in the Medical Division of the U. S. Army and was stationed in the Panama Canal Zone.

Hiram L. Purdy, an insurance and real estate man, died as the result of a heart attack he suffered at his home in Sunbury on July 2. He was 68 years of age.

Mr. Purdy, after being graduated from Bucknell with a degree in Civil Engineering, followed engineering work for several years. He then became engaged in business. When Woodrow Wilson became President, Mr. Purdy was appointed postmaster of Sunbury and was reappointed in Wilson's second term. During the remaining years of his life, he was engaged in the insurance and real estate business.

Mr. Purdy also was a civic leader. He was a pioneer member of the Sunbury Rotary Club, he was one of the organizers of the Susquehanna Valley Country Club and for many years its president, and he was one of the organizers of the first Chamber of Commerce. In all his dealings in business, civic and personal affairs he was always fair and generous—one who was liked and admired by his fellow men.

The death of Mrs. E. J. Dunklee, nee Myra Amy Sprague, occurred on June 27, 1942.

1901

Harry L. Maize, Esq., died recently at his home in Pottsville after having practiced law in that city for forty years.

1905

Prominent Bucknellian, William A. W. Grier, former mayor of Salem and prosecutor of the pleas in Salem County, died at his home on April 13, 1942, after an illness of several months. Mr. Grier received his early education in the Salem public schools and the South Jersey Institute in Bridgeton. Later he came to Bucknell University and was graduated from here. He then went to the University of Pennsylvania Law School for one year and to the New York University Law School for two additional years. Mr. Grier was admitted to the New York Bar in 1906. He returned to Salem in 1914 and within a short time was elected mayor. Later he was appointed prosecutor of pleas of Salem County which position he held for fifteen years. Mr. Grier is survived by his wife and two daughters—Ruth, 17, and Ann, 14.

1906

On April 20, 1942, Dr. Harry Magee died in Peoria where he had been practicing medicine since 1910. Dr. Magee was, in particular, an X-ray specialist widely known in Peoria and vicinity. He was for several years head of the Roentgenologist Department at Procter Hospital and served as president of the Peoria County Medical Staff in 1939.

1908

Dr. David Hawk, prominent Tower City physician and druggist, died as the result of a heart attack which he suffered while playing tennis on a private court at the rear of his home on August 15. He was about to serve a ball to a friend when he collapsed.

1914

On March 21, C. Walter Lotte, chairman of the Paterson, New Jersey, Board of Insurance and president of the Lotte Chemical Company, died in the Paterson General Hospital.

Mr. Lotte, a native of Paterson by birth, received his college education at Bucknell. During World War I, Mr. Lotte served in France as a captain. At the conclusion of the war, he became associated with the National Silk-Dyeing Company, and in 1922 toured France, Germany, and Switzerland, inspecting silk plants. In 1923 he was made a member of the board of directors of the National Silk-Dyeing Company, and later became manager of its Dundee, New Jersey, division. In 1930 he became president of the Lotte Chemical Company, a company which supplies chemicals to silk-dyeing companies.

Mr. Lotte was well-known in his community and served it in many ways. He was a member of the Paterson Board of Public Works from 1929 to 1938. He served on the Board of Finance and became its chairman. While he held this position, he occasionally served as acting mayor of Paterson. Mr. Lotte was also president of the Paterson Chamber of Commerce in 1935, president of the New Jersey Young Men's Christian Association from 1923 to 1925, and president of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union from 1920 to 1925. He is survived by his wife and one son, C. Walter Lotte, Jr.

1915

On July 21, 1942, Mr. Ernest L. Wagner, of Verona, New Jersey, died following an operation. Mr. Wagner was vice-president of the Radiant Lamp Company at Newark, New Jersey.

1916

Mrs. Stanley N. Harris, the former Ruth Embrey, died on July 3 at her home in New Brighton after suffering a heart attack. Mrs. Harris was a daughter-in-law of the late Dr. John Howard Harris, a former president of Bucknell University, and sister-in-law of Dr. Mary B. Harris, '94, of Lewisburg.

1934

One of the seventeen passengers who died in an airplane crash near Salt Lake City, Utah, on May 1 was Carl M. Cole, who was affiliated with the International Business Machine Corporation in San Francisco. He was on his way to Buffalo, New York, when the crash occurred.

1936

Dr. Joseph F. Showers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Showers of Milton, died on July 26 at the U. S. Army Post Hospital at Camp Polk, Louisiana. His death is believed to have been caused by yellow fever injections. Dr. Showers was inducted into service on November 10, 1941, and held the rank of first lieutenant. He was attached to the medical corps at the dispensary of the Second Signal Battalion.

Dr. Showers was a graduate of the Hahnemann Medical School and served his internship at the Hahnemann Hospital. He was married four months ago to Miss Martha Morgan of Severna Park, Maryland.

1938

An unfortunate accident occurred on May 27 which caused the death of James H. Beidler, Jr., athletic coach and teacher of science at the Hatboro High School. A discus thrown by a student practicing for a track meet on the athletic field struck Mr. Beidler and killed him while he was standing at the side of the field discussing arrangements for the meet with the Doylestown High School coach.

During Pat's holiday in December, 1941, we moved from Calcutta to Bombay, where Chet was called to do some special work. When we arrived at the blacked-out station, having started from home two hours before train time, we found the floor and platforms literally covered with humanity. About 499,997 others were leaving Calcutta at the same time, those others thinking Calcutta might be pleasanter viewed from a distance. We elbowed and tiptoed through unusually sparse footspace. Our goal was to get on board this particular Bombay Mail on which we had reservations. We hoped not to miss it as thousands of others were missing trains. We finally struggled through. As we looked back through the car windows, we felt extremely sorry for the mass still standing, squatting, sitting, and lying on the platform, who found no more room on our train and so had to wait for the morrow.

In Bombay we found a delightful flat on the top floor of a building situated on the crest of a hill. We enjoyed the sea breeze and the beautiful panorama of the Arabian Sea, viewing ten miles of shore and sea expanse. Suddenly our pleasure was curtailed to fourteen hours out of every twenty-four hours. We experienced complete blackout from dusk to dawn every night. The Leabers then could be viewed from ten miles out at sea. Venetian blinds, curtains, lined curtains, dark coverings for lamp shades, and eventually blackout paper on each window finally obscured our light.

In February, 1942, Singapore was falling, Java was threatened, and India was not far distant. At this moment, two of our largest naval transports steamed into Bombay Harbor. When we saw "our fleet was in", the feeling of reassurance was most comforting. The American flag looked mighty fine. The American transports looked mighty big. And the American Navy looked mighty good.

One of these transports was ordered directly back to a port in the U. S. A. Our American Consulate then informed the American Colony in India that there were officer accommodations for three hundred women and children and troop accommodations for many men. Pat and I were among the three hundred women and children who had to make up their minds quickly and pack rapidly. We hoped that the grey of the transport would look like the sea, the guns would look formidable, and the speed would be invincible.

The Arabian Sea and Indian Ocean treated us calmly, but the heat from India, Africa and the equator seemed to be with us for days. As we approached the Antarctic Ocean, we still had calm seas but delightful breezes. We were most desirous to see South Africa, but no one had any visas. We did a great deal of audible thinking and wishing. Finally our wishes were granted. We were given permits to go ashore. We read our permits—"Members of the crew." We surely were a flossy looking Navy!

We found the South Atlantic calm and cool. Thank goodness! We saw very few ships. Every ship we saw made our hearts sink because it was so difficult to distinguish the nationality. The ships are all painted grey and have no flags flying. We had the same sinking feeling when we saw airplanes. We were told by our crew that they dreaded "pineapples" from planes much more than torpedoes from U-boats.

The North Atlantic was rough and cold and grey and gruesome. Through it we zig-zagged successfully. We missed foreign and hard and swift obstacles merely by feet. We wished it would stay dark continuously. We hoped the moon would forget to rise. We thought the Atlantic Ocean an exceptionally long ocean. And then finally about eleven o'clock one morning we saw land on the starboard side of our ship. Wrong side or right side land was in view, after sixteen days of pushing through water as fast as we could. After a half hour, our navigator came to our relief, and turned the bow of our ship toward the northwest, and we recognized the coast of New Jersey. The Statue of Liberty stood in her proper place to greet us formally. The Red Cross stood on the pier to greet us informally. Lo and behold! We discovered then that we were refugees, but extremely happy refugees. Six months have passed, and now this third ship of our trips has been badly crippled by fire. One month, one year, six months, have separated us from misfortune. May it so continue.

On July 13, 1942, Chet arrived from India on an Army transport with 1,450 others. They had 150 Chinese air cadets on board to take further instructions in flying, but, to Chet's disappointment, not a laundryman among them. Many of the children on the ship surprised their elders by getting measles at the same time, to keep each other company. The passengers stood in lines for food, stood beside high tables to eat the food, slept in tiers, went to bed at dusk because light bulbs had been removed, and exercised by sitting in the sun to look healthy, wealthy, and wise to the home folk.

After having said "howdy" to us, Chet flew by plane August 14, 1942, from Miami to Panama City, six hours away from Florida. Air mail letters take from four to six days instead of four to six weeks, as from India. Chet is still doing the same thing, managing a branch or branches of The National City Bank of New York, hoping that wandering Americans may be safeguarded financially. At present Patricia and I are not among the wandering Americans. But sand is again seeping into our shoes, and it may be that at some not too distant date, we shall be emptying that sand into the Panama Canal.

ELECTRICAL AND RADIO ENGINEERS ARE NEEDED BY THE NAVY

Alumni of technical schools who have degrees in either electrical or radio engineering have a splendid opportunity to serve the Navy in an uncrowded field of highly specialized activity.

For reasons of war security the exact nature of the work cannot be divulged, but the field is one which promises full recognition of technical ability and the opportunity to achieve a commissioned rank in the U. S. Naval Reserve with pay up to $4,000 a year.

The rapid development of scientific research—under the impetus of war and the determination not to have "too little" or be "too late"—has opened this field for men under 40 who can meet Navy physical requirements and who have the necessary educational background.

Those selected for the special work will be given six months of training, three months at Harvard or Bowdoin University and the remaining three in the laboratories of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They will then be assigned to staff duty with the Fleet or to specialized positions ashore.

A Navy spokesman in discussing the program said:

"In time of war, under pressure of war, science often makes its fastest progress. The last war and this one have brought vast advances in synthetics, airplanes, automotive transportation, medicine and surgery, to list a few.

"The same is true of radio and electrical engineering. Some of the most successful experimentation in those fields has been done through Navy channels recently. It has blazed the way to developments which are 'the last thing' in war and, prospectively, in peace.

"Naturally, details cannot be disclosed, but there is no question that able young radio and electrical engineers will want to know more about them to go on with their work."

Applications should be made at the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, 17th Floor, Widener Building, Philadelphia, or its branch office for Western Pennsylvania in the Keystone Hotel Bldg., 3rd Avenue and Wood Street, Pittsburgh.

JOIN THE WAVES!

Women graduates of Bucknell have the opportunity of helping to make up the shortage of trained personnel. By taking over some important shore duties, they will release men officers for duties afloat. Training schools for such candidates have been established at Mt. Holyoke and Smith Colleges. Selection of candidates will depend greatly on the recommendations of administrative officers of colleges and universities.

Qualifications for Officers for Administrative and Technical Duties

(a) Must be a female citizen of the United States between the ages of 21 and 50. (b) If unmarried at time of appointment, agree not to marry prior to completion of indoctrination period and training period in special schools. (c) Must have no children under 18 years of age. (d) Must be of good repute in the community. (e) Are required to meet physical qualifications for Ensign, W-V(S), U. S. Naval Reserve, as stated below. (f) Need to possess educational qualifications as stated below. (g) Must meet required standards in the aptitude test to be given when interview is scheduled. (h) Husband must not be in the Service.

Those accepted by the Navy Department must have had technical training and practical experience in engineering, communications, electronics, physics, and similar fields, or be outstanding business women. They will be appointed in an appropriate rank in a probationary status, W-V(P) during which time they will attend a Reserve Midshipmen School for an indoctrination course of one month. Following the successful conclusion of the indoctrination period, they will be regularly commissioned in the U. S. Naval Reserve, W-V(S), and assigned either to special schools for further training or directly to active duty ashore.

Qualifications for Enlistment in Class V-9 Leading to Commission as Ensign, W-V(S)

(a) Must be a female citizen of the United States between the ages of 20 and 30 on date of enlistment. (b) Are required to meet the physical standards established for enlistment in Class V-9, U. S. Naval Reserve as stated below. (c) Need to possess educational qualifications as stated below. (d) Must have no children. (e) Must be of good repute in the community. (f) If unmarried at time of enlistment, agree not to marry prior to completion of Reserve Midshipmen training. (g) Must meet required standards in the aptitude test to be given when interview is scheduled. (h) Husband must not be in the Service.

Women so enlisted will be enlisted as apprentice seaman, Class V-9. These women will receive approximately 30 days' indoctrination upon successful completion of which they will be appointed as Reserve Midshipmen. Satisfactory completion of the prescribed course of indoctrination at the Women's Reserve Midshipmen School will qualify as Reserve Midshipmen for commission as an Ensign, W-V(S), U. S. Naval Reserve, and assignment to active duty ashore.

Educational Qualifications

A candidate is required to possess a baccalaureate degree from an accredited university or college. In lieu of the college degree, must have completed successfully two years' work in an accredited university or college normally leading to a degree, and, in addition, have had not less than two years' professional or business experience in fields acceptable to the Navy Department. All candidates must have completed successfully two years of mathematics in high school or college.

General Physical Qualifications in Brief

Height—60 inches minimum.

Weight—95 pounds minimum but weight must be in proportion to the general body build.

Eyes—12/20 each eye minimum correctible to 20/20.

Hearing—Whispered voice 15/15 each ear.

Teeth—Minimum of 18 vital teeth with two molars opposing on each side of the dental arch and 4 opposing incisor teeth without wide edentulous spaces. Prosthetic replacement of teeth missing at the time of appointment or enlistment will not be authorized.

Pay and Allowances

Ensign—$2,592 per year.

Lieutenant (jg)—$2,972 per year.

VOL. XXVII No. 2

JANUARY, 1943

BUCKNELL CONTINUES TO LOOK AHEAD

THAT Bucknell University may enter its second century as it entered its first, without owing anyone anything, the Board of Trustees and alumni leaders have initiated a special project designed to establish that enviable status. It is their hope that the One Hundredth Birthday may be not only a post-war birthday but a post-debt birthday as well, and that the last note of an eighteen-year-old encumbrance may be burned on February 5, 1946, in the one hundredth candle of the Centennial Birthday Cake.

In order to take the entire alumni body into their confidence regarding the plans for this project, to be known as The One Hundredth Birthday Gift, we are sending you this special issue of the MONTHLY.

The objective is the removal of the last portion of Bucknell's capital debt—$284,953. New college buildings cannot be erected in present years but the endowment can be increased and debts can be liquidated. These war years present the challenge to wipe off the "depression-debt." To do this will be of even more value than to increase endowment, and will release substantial funds now slipping away in interest payments. In the competent opinion of our trustees, it is the most constructive step now possible toward setting Bucknell's financial structure in order for war and post-war service.

President Marts' unique responsibilities as head of the Pennsylvania Civilian Defense Program make it necessary for him to depend more largely on the alumni leadership at large in the achievement of this important objective. He looks to us to carry on and to assist him in this great unified effort. This we will be more than willing and glad to do.

The period designated for the organization and completion of the One Hundredth Birthday Gift project ends roughly with July, 1943. In the interest of economy and efficiency it is hoped that all will play the game to that end. Pledges are being made on a 25-month payment basis, so that all pledges made in 1943 will mature in time for entire payment of the fund before February 5, 1946.

Alumni Endorsement

At the October Homecoming of 1942 the Board of Directors of the General Alumni Association adopted these Resolutions:

WHEREAS the One Hundredth Birthday of Bucknell University in 1946 is approaching, and

WHEREAS this event should be a matter of great concern to all friends of Bucknell University, and

WHEREAS the celebration must be measurably conditioned by circumstances brought about by the present war, and

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees, with the approval of President Marts, has voted in favor of an all-out effort to clear up the present indebtedness of Bucknell University, in the sum of $284,953; now,

Be It Resolved that the Board of Directors of the General Alumni Association of Bucknell University endorse the action of the Board of Trustees, and

Be It Resolved Further that the alumni be asked

A MESSAGE FROM

I WANT to tell you something about the preparations we are making here on the campus to celebrate Bucknell's 100th Birthday, February 5, 1946.

The plans for Bucknell's Centennial Celebration started seven years ago when we celebrated Bucknell's 90th Anniversary. Many of you will remember our radio broadcast on February 5, 1936, when Bucknellians all over the Nation joined in listening to the program, and the engineering department made the enormous cake with 90 candles on it.

At that time a few of us made a quiet covenant with ourselves that we would do everything in our power to enable Bucknell to celebrate its 100th Anniversary in 1946, as one of America's greatest small colleges; that we would build so well on the foundation laid by the leaders of the past that Bucknellians in 1946 could shout aloud their praises of Alma Mater on her 100th Birthday.

Looking toward this goal for the 100th Anniversary, we have made some progress; many campus improvements have been made already.

Old Main was rebuilt at a cost of $314,000, and the first unit of the Davis Gymnasium for men was built at a cost of $200,000. The expenditures for old Tustin Gymnasium, which was remodeled for women, were $18,000. The service building was erected at a cost of $17,000, and the two wings were added to the engineering building at a cost of $300,000. Other miscellaneous improvements include the building of the Radio Workshop in the basement of Bucknell Hall, the remodeling of the Physics laboratories, the renovating of the basement of the Chemistry Building, and the creating of a new Psychology laboratory in the basement of West College.

Every dollar which this Centennial Building program cost has been paid by money given by trustees, alumni, and friends of Bucknell. We do not owe a cent on it. It had been our hope that certain other buildings would be added to the campus prior to the Centennial, but the coming of the war has made it impossible to do any more building for the duration.

The buildings we hope to erect after present conditions have changed will be a new library, an auditorium, a science building, an enlarged music building, an addition to the Vaughan Literature Building, the renovation of Bucknell Hall for a little chapel and student church, a social science building, the completion of the Davis Gymnasium, and the renovation of the Carnegie Library for use as a student activities building.

In addition to the physical improvements on the campus, Bucknell has made other important advances in recent years. The Carnegie Pension System for faculty members was established four years ago. A chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was instituted at Bucknell in 1940. Bucknell's enrollment has made rapid strides forward. With the loyal co-operation of alumni and friends of Bucknell in the Student Admissions Program, we have been operating with capacity enrollments. Even this year when enrollments in most colleges are below the normal, Bucknell opened with a full enrollment. It is of interest to note that a recent survey shows that during the last ten years Bucknell has had a thirty-one percent increase in enrollment, while the average for the whole country has been only 18 percent. Because of the large number of applications for admission, it has been possible to select well qualified applicants. Their qualifications are best illustrated by the fact that 69 percent of the students entering as freshmen graduate, while the average of a recent survey of colleges generally shows that only 29 percent finish their college course.

THE PRESIDENT

In addition to the student enrollment program, all branches of engineering have been fully accredited; the chemistry course has been accredited also, thus making it possible for students to become professional chemists after two years in the industry or graduate school. Other important changes too numerous to mention have taken place at Bucknell. Step by step we have endeavored to take Alma Mater toward the 1946 goal for all those who love her.

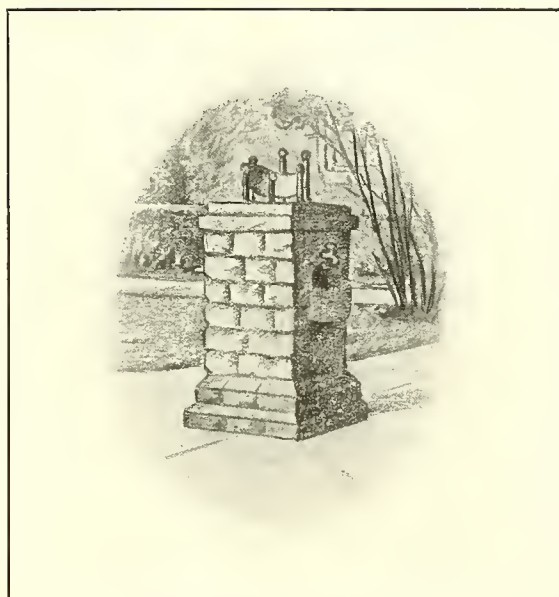

For over a year—since long before Pearl Harbor—Bucknell has been mobilizing and preparing for wartime strength. Hundreds of Civilian Defense volunteers have been enlisted and trained; social and extra-curricular activities have been reduced; the accelerated three-year program has been launched; physical education has been made compulsory for all students; new wartime courses have been introduced; nearby citizens have been trained for war industrial jobs by our engineering faculty; hundreds of men students have been helped to enlist in the military or naval reserve corps which have been created for college students, and we are giving pre-flight training to naval fliers sent to us for this purpose. Bucknell has been an energetic leader among American colleges in dedicating its resources to the service of America.

These changes and improvements show Bucknell's ability to meet situations as they arise and to be ready for the future. In all of this planning, we have, from the beginning, regarded that the most important means of strengthening the financial status of Bucknell is the paying of its old capital debt. We have received $170,000 in the last four years from the trustees towards this end. That is a goal which we have pursued and can pursue in these times when new buildings are impossible.

We have, today, a residue debt which amounts to approximately $285,000. It has burdened us for nearly twenty years, chiefly as a result of buildings, such as the Stadium, Hunt Hall, and the Women's Dining Room. These buildings have been serving Bucknell well. Had not the famous depression of recent memory intervened, they would have been paid for. We have paid out in interest alone during the last fifteen years approximately $249,000, almost as much as the total present indebtedness. The annual interest is even yet approximately $15,000. It is only good sound business policy to eliminate this indebtedness and by so doing we will strengthen our endowment and free the amount we are spending on interest for other purposes.

I hope that you will do all within your power to help make Bucknell's One Hundredth Birthday Celebration a memorable occasion. We are in civilization's greatest war. President Roosevelt has called it the War of Survival. We are fighting literally for the survival of freedom and justice and humanity.

Bucknell has pledged all of its resources to our beloved Republic in its fight for the survival for freedom and democratic civilization throughout the world. It is my hope that when our centennial is celebrated in 1946, it may be said of Bucknell: "That campus was a powerhouse, a dynamo of patriotic service." And it is my hope that you will make and keep Bucknell more and more powerful.

ARNAUD C. MARTS

A MESSAGE TO THE ALUMNI

By W. C. Lowther, '14

President, General Alumni Association

AS I write this message to you, it is only a little over a year since the attack on Pearl Harbor. One year—it seems like a long time and many never-to-be-forgotten events have happened in this year. Now multiply that elapse of time by one hundred, and you will realize how long it has been since Old Bucknell was founded.

We are planning now to celebrate the One Hundredth Birthday in 1946 in a manner most fitting to Alma Mater. I think that the outstanding event will be the birthday gift to remove the debt which now burdens the University.

Everyone will be asked to help and many will be called upon to devote some of their time to the effort. Whatever may be your job, let us all enter into it with that "Old Spirit" so that the future, more than ever, will exemplify "The Bucknell Way of Life." Every Bucknellian and friend of Bucknell will want to have a share in this gift and then we can all raise our heads with pride and say, "I helped."

It is said that the willingness to sacrifice brings out the spirit of men. We are all going to sacrifice. Let every Bucknellian make his sacrifices with the willingness that will build optimism in his heart. With this thought before us, Bucknell will enter her second century unafraid of the future and determined to make it even more glorious than the past.

Right now with the whole world in chaos the future does look like a huge question mark, and

Mr. Churchill said, "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat, but there will come a better day." This is not the end of civilization nor the end of the world, but behind the mists of the future great things are awaiting mankind. To win them the world must be free. So it is with Bucknell, she must be free, free of debt, and when the mists lift she will be ready to march forward. We must "Keep the Home Front Strong."

Bucknell Continues to Look Ahead

to pledge 100 percent co-operation, individually and collectively, in work and in giving, to achieve the realization of this objective as one of the most appropriate gifts to Alma Mater on the occasion of her One Hundredth Birthday.

Progress

In answer to this significant endorsement, top-flight organization leaders have responded spontaneously to the challenge of the Trustees' Committee. The latter consists of Roy G. Bostwick, '05, Alfred C. Howell, and Christian R. Lindback. Mr. Bostwick is also general chairman of the campaign. Edgar A. Snyder, '11, and Dr. Mary B. Harris, '94, are the national alumni co-chairmen. Other personnel are listed on the last page.

Generous gifts likewise have already been forthcoming, with a total of $85,200 subscribed to date. President Arnaud C. Marts is giving all the time that he possibly can to this feature.

Proposed Organization

Committees are rapidly rounding into shape to take charge of geographical areas, districts, and zones under their respective chairmen and team captains. Most of the chairmen are planning Bucknell dinners in their respective centers, to which all Bucknellians who are grouped in the corresponding Bucknell Club will be invited. President Marts will be a guest of honor at these dinners, either in person or in a talking picture. There will, of course, be no solicitation of gifts at these functions. Professor Melvin W. LeMon has collaborated with Mrs. Lewis E. Theiss in the production of a rollicking theme song to be sung at these events.

The Pittsburgh area will be the first to start, in January, with the New York and New England areas set for February and March, the Philadelphia and District of Columbia areas in March and April, with other sections coming along in stride.

GOVERNOR JAMES TO SPEAK AT BUCKNELL CHAPEL SERVICE

AS the result of an invitation extended by President Arnaud C. Marts to Arthur H. James, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the latter will be present at the Bucknell weekly chapel service on Thursday, January 14. He will be accompanied by Mrs. James.

This will be the first time in thirty years that a Governor of the State of Pennsylvania has visited the Bucknell campus, and a program fitting for the occasion is being planned.

Bucknell is indeed proud and fortunate to have Governor James as its guest just five days before he goes out of office.

BUCKNELL'S FINANCES IN WARTIME

By Dayton L. Ranck, '16, Treasurer

BUCKNELL alumni frequently ask what effect the war and its problems have on the financing of the University, and it may be in order to review briefly a few of the conditions which Bucknell must face during these war days.

First, we have the rationing of certain foodstuffs and materials with the increasing difficulties in obtaining supplies for the dining halls and laboratories. Costs have increased in keeping with the general price level throughout the country. Thus the problem of budget management becomes intensified.

The uncertainty as to just what the government's policy will be in reference to colleges the size of Bucknell is causing the entire staff a great deal of anxiety, and plans are being made from day to day with the expectation that the college will operate throughout the second semester of this year in a somewhat nearly normal manner, depending, of course, on the number of men students who will withdraw for the armed service and the number of students who will graduate in February. This fall Bucknell was one of a few colleges to open with a capacity enrollment.

While we are accustomed to regard Bucknell as a small college, yet, from the standpoint of the total

Pittsburgh initiates its campaign organization at a meeting held at The Congress of Clubs. Standing, left to right: Allan I. Shirley, '35; T. R. Hedges, '19; G. H. Jones, '23; W. F. Hoffman, '22; A. income for current purposes, the college has moved into the realm of rather substantial figures. Last year the current income totaled $1,002,239, and after paying all current operating expenses, and setting aside certain proper and normal reserves, there was carried to the surplus account the sum of $1,001.64—not a large item in itself, but very tangible evidence of operating within the University's income.

Bucknellians generally know that the University is financed by tuition payments by students, income from endowment investments, and gifts from its friends and patrons. Bucknell is a privately endowed educational institution and does not receive any public support, i. e., from the state or federal governments, but, as stated above, is dependent upon its student body and its friends for its financial resources.

While it is true that Bucknell is a tax-exempt institution and as such has no direct tax problems, yet there have been appearing on the horizon many things in connection with the federal government's taxing policy that may directly or indirectly affect the University. For months there raged an earnest discussion concerning allowances to be made in income tax returns for gifts to educational and charitable institutions. More recently, there has arisen the discussion occasioned by a directive issued by Director of Economic Stabilization, James F. Byrnes, on the general subject of salaries and wages and the proposed so-called $25,000 salary limitation.

SEE AND HEAR PRESIDENT MARTS IN THE CENTENNIAL MOTION PICTURE

Faculty Members and Glee Club Participate

SEVERAL weeks ago the Men's Lounge in Roberts Hall resembled a Hollywood movie set, with bright lights, sound recording equipment, cameramen, sound engineers, directors, numerous assistants, specialists, and the call of "lights, camera, action." All of this was necessary in order to film "Bucknell Looks Toward Its Centennial," in which President Marts reviews Bucknell's past and outlines her plans for the future. Several faculty members, familiar to all Bucknellians, will appear on the screen with President Marts. In addition, Bucknell's famous Glee Club, under the direction of Dr. Melvin LeMon will be seen and heard in the picture. Don't miss this sound motion picture in color, at the Centennial Birthday Gift meetings which will be held this winter and spring! You will relive those happy college days as you see familiar scenes and faces on the Bucknell campus.

E. A. Snyder

FROM E. A. SNYDER, '11

National Alumni Chairman

THE campaign to give Bucknell a worth-while One Hundredth Birthday Gift is one of the most important undertakings by the alumni, trustees, and friends of Bucknell. American colleges and universities are now passing through the most critical period of their existence. Probably only those not burdened by large debts and the accompanying "leech interest," or those fortunate enough to be heavily endowed will survive the reduction in operating revenue caused by the necessary enlistment of our young men of college age in the armed forces of our beloved Country. Bucknell is not heavily endowed in a monetary way, but she is richly endowed with over 10,000 loyal sons and daughters. When misfortune threatens the security of any mother in her maturing years, her loyal sons and daughters hasten to help her. Mother Bucknell is today calling to her loyal sons and daughters to give her additional strength by eliminating her debt of $285,000. She wants to be sure that during the uncertain years ahead she is strong enough to meet any possible changes in her present plans. Even the amount paid out in interest on the debt is worrying her a great deal because it is needed for other and bigger purposes.

As in the case of other mothers' debts, this one is not actually her debt. It is really our debt—an alumni debt—because Mother Bucknell contracted it during the years in order that she might give us a proper education. When we were younger and struggling to make ends meet, she willingly contracted this debt so that she could "put us through college." At the most, she demanded from us only a few hundred dollars a semester. Our actual payments to her for the facilities of the University and the guidance, help, and instruction of her faculty was probably not much more than $1500 for four years of college education—at the most approximately $400 a year. Of course Bucknell could not give us all she did for $400 and, therefore, she had to contract debts.

And now that the Triumvirate of Destruction—Hitler, Mussolini, and Hirohito—have challenged our America, our institutions, our colleges and universities, saying, "We will destroy you and run this world as we see fit," Mother Bucknell is calling to her sons and daughters saying, "Did you children hear what they said? Help me pay off these old debts and unfetter my limbs so I can charge down on those shamming hypocrites, and all others like them, and make them eat their words." Bucknell is certainly not asking us for more than we can and should do. We must hang our heads in shame if we fail her now. Let's be honest with ourselves—really honest. Let us figure out, if we can, just how many times since leaving Bucknell we have earned an extra $100 that we could not and would not have earned except for what Bucknell did for us to increase our earning capacity. Let us tell ourselves the answer to that question and then decide to donate to Bucknell, who made it possible, at least one of these many extra $100 we earned.

We are very proud of Bucknell. She has an enviable history, a record of great accomplishments, an outstanding faculty, a Board of Trustees second to none in college circles, and the best and finest college president in the Country. Now let us turn the tables. Let us make Bucknell proud of her alumni and give the grand old lady something about which to cheer on her One Hundredth Birthday. Let's wipe out that debt. It can be done if every alumni chairman, worker, solicitor, and contributor does what he or she really can do. Let's go!

Marts & Lundy, Inc., have released Mr. J. Douglass Foster to direct the program for Bucknell's One Hundredth Birthday Gift. We are fortunate in having the services of one of the most experienced and successful representatives of this outstanding fund-raising organization.

Bucknell's Finances in Wartime

Salary Limit Law Far-Reaching

Now on the surface, it might seem to most of us Bucknellians that a $25,000 salary limitation would not affect us personally or the University, but a little reflection is in order as it concerns the University. Bucknell alumni have been very generous in piling up throughout the years a considerable number of small and medium sized gifts totaling impressive figures. Each year, in addition, there have come to the University large gifts made by alumni and friends that have been possible because the donors received large incomes and could donate substantial amounts to this institution out of income and receive proper allowances on income tax returns.

The $25,000 Ceiling

Sweeping regulations issued October 27, 1942, by Economic Czar Byrnes fixed basic rules for freezing of wages and salaries, and the background against which War Labor Board and Commissioner will administer wage and salary control.

Salaries are defined as remuneration paid on a weekly, monthly, annual or comparable basis. Salaries include bonuses, gifts, loans, commissions, fees; exclude insurance and pension benefits in a reasonable amount.

No salary may be paid which, after reduction by federal (but not state) income taxes will exceed $25,000. Special consideration is given, where undue hardship is shown, to permit continued payments of gifts to charitable institutions, and payment on life insurance premiums, debts, and federal income taxes for prior taxable years. Where employee is employed by more than one company, total salary is determining factor.

It is generally admitted that under this new directive it will be difficult for these men, however well intentioned they may be, to continue their large gifts except by special application as indicated in the previous paragraph. Indeed, this subject has been treated as a matter of considerable importance by the tax service organizations and financial writers. Recently the Wall Street Journal ran a series of articles giving a survey by one of its staff correspondents and pointing out the implications of the directive as they would affect educational and other privately supported institutions.

Many of the larger colleges have been calling the attention of their alumni to the probable loss of gifts to their colleges as a result of the new policy announced by the government. Provost H. W. Peters, of Cornell, made it the subject of a special article in a recent issue of the Cornell Alumni News, and we now likewise bring it to the attention of Bucknellians.

Act May Throttle Gifts to Bucknell

The social and political implications of the $25,000 salary limitation program are many and important. An adequate discussion of them would fill many pages, but right now we are not concerned with them. We are interested primarily in the possibilities of large and small gifts to Bucknell University. Any act that throttles such gifts would hamper our beloved institution in many ways. Perhaps we are institutionally selfish, but we do want our large donors left in position to continue their benefactions to Bucknell. We are willing to let the income tax return with its provisions for the higher brackets, where as high as 88% of the income is returned to the government in taxes, when proper allowances are made for gifts, take care of the economics involved. That is a taxation based on the well-known principle of "ability to pay" and not limitation of salary and the practical freezing of large gifts.

Need To Be On Alert

Undoubtedly, this whole subject will be reviewed by Congress at its coming session, for it is not believed that our congressmen will allow a directive of this nature to stand on the books without a real effort to adjust it in line with our democratic principles.

It is well for us to consider how this action will affect not only our Alma Mater, but the local Church, the Community Chest, the Red Cross, the U.S.O. and other philanthropic organizations in communities all over this broad land, and to make some distinction in our mind between the government's financing problems and policies which do not add to the government's revenue but are only regulatory.

The new four-reel sound motion picture in color, Bucknell Marches On, has just been produced and will be shown at the Centennial Gift Meetings. Bucknell Marches On shows a complete cross section of college life in wartime and how one of America's small coeducational colleges has gone all-out for victory.

Clarke Hinkle

CLARKE HINKLE, '32

Visits Campus as a Lieutenant in the U. S. Coast Guard

CLARKE HINKLE, '32, former Bucknell football star well-known to football fans all over the United States, returned to the campus of his Alma Mater last month as a Lieutenant (junior grade) in the United States Coast Guard Academy.

After ten years of thrilling and unusual experiences in the professional football world, Hinkle is now serving his Country by seeking recruits for the United States Coast Guard Academy. He is visiting various schools and colleges along the eastern seacoast and wherever he goes—north, south, east or west—men, women, and up-and-coming football players will remember him and will recall reading such headlines as: "Hinkle Highest Packer Scorer," "Clarke Hinkle Named on Second All-Star Team," and "Hinkle Boots Long Goal as Packers Win."

Hinkle's physical prowess is shown by the fact that he played nineteen years of football without receiving an injury. Because of his outstanding record, Clarke Hinkle has been acclaimed by both critics and sports fans as one of the greatest of professional football players.

Bucknell Continues to Look Ahead

The "Share"—$4.00 Per Month

The sum of $284,953 can be raised from the equivalent of 2,849 Bucknellians giving $100 each. Obviously some can afford more and some less, but the Hundredth Birthday Committee asks everyone to think of his or her gift in terms of one or more Shares of $100 ($4.00 per month for 25 months). The fact that this sum may be paid over so long a period makes it possible for many alumni in very modest circumstances to buy a Share in the Hundredth Birthday Fund.

Givers' Names on One Hundredth Birthday Roster

The Centennial History of Bucknell is now being written by Dr. Theiss to be ready for the 1946 celebration. It will contain a One Hundredth Birthday Roster, listing the names of all donors of one or more of the one hundred dollar Shares, thus honoring these names in perpetuity.

In the case of a husband and wife or other two persons related and having the same surname, two names may be imprinted in the Roster for credit for the same Share.

Effects of the War

There will be a few, with pessimistically inclined minds, who will honestly question the coming status of colleges, and even of Bucknell University, as the exigencies of war interfere with the modes of living to which we are accustomed. The well considered answer to these people is that Bucknell is certain to continue to have an essential responsibility in helping to win the war and, most certainly, to win the peace.

Bucknell is one of a very small minority of colleges which this fall had a capacity enrollment. For years we have had a great over-abundance of applications. True, there will be some falling-off in numbers, but there is not the slightest doubt that a mandate for service will continue with many groups such as the women students, younger boys, men who are ineligible for selective service requirements, engineering and pre-medical students, and, finally, with teen age service men who will be sent to selected colleges for special training.

In fact, the war makes more important any project which bolsters this University's financial ability and capacity for continued service. In the clarity of Bucknell's sustained vision, we can see nothing but increased opportunity for turning out enlightened and trained leaders, both women and men, for the post-war, world-reconstruction years.

Progress in other current fund-raising efforts indicates that the war helps as much as it hinders. The emphasis in our campaign will be on giving war bonds to the college.

War Bond Gifts

The University will be glad to accept war bonds (or stamps) as payment in full or in part on subscriptions. If bonds are given to the University for such purpose, the following three provisions must be observed:

1. The bonds must be in Series "F."
2. They must be purchased in the name of "Bucknell University, a corporation" and not in your own name.
3. For a $25.00 bond your subscription will be credited $19.00.

For a $100.00 bond your subscription will be credited $76.00.

For a $1,000.00 bond your subscription will be credited $760.00.

These are the amounts (redemption values) which the bonds will be worth to the University three years from issue date.

Your Share in This Program

To you, Bucknellians and friends, Bucknell now appeals for your co-operation. We ask you to accept your assignment in the work that is to be done.

The campaign is well planned, well led, well organized. The duties of each committee worker will be well defined, highly important, and not unduly burdensome.

We ask you to come in with conviction and enthusiasm.

Education is Big Business and Big Business requires large resources. We will look to you to accept this challenge in a big way. Many alumni can give more largely now than for many years past. Everyone has some means to give to worthy enterprises. All you have to do is to realize that Bucknell is this year the MOST worthy of all.

Remember that every share of $100 in Bucknell is an investment in nobler manhood and womanhood, truer citizenship, more honest character, and leadership trained in the Bucknell Way of Life.

Costs Less to Give Than in 1941

One effect of income tax rates in the 1942 Revenue Act was that the Government absorbed a larger portion of the cost of contribution so that the net cost to the giver was less than that for a gift of the same size in 1941. The present date is a little too late to point this out except in the expectation that the same favorable condition may apply in regard to gifts made in 1943. If this remains true, a person can make larger contributions for the same net cost to himself.

The following table, prepared by Community Chests and Councils, Inc., illustrates the point:

EFFECT OF TAX RATES—INDIVIDUAL INCOMES

*Net Income Subject to Taxation	Contribution of 5% of Net Income
	Amount of Contribution	Net Cost to Contributor		†Percent absorbed by Government
		1941	1942	1941	1942
$2,000	$100	$90.40	$81.60	9.6	18.4
4,000	200	174.80	157.20	12.6	21.4
6,000	300	250.20	223.80	16.6	25.4
10,000	500	377.00	333.00	24.6	33.4
20,000	1,000	580.00	480.00	42.0	52.0
40,000	2,000	860.00	660.00	57.0	67.0
60,000	3,000	1,170.00	840.00	61.0	72.0
100,000	5,000	1,600.00	850.00	68.0	83.0
200,000	10,000	3,000.00	1,300.00	70.0	87.0
500,000	25,000	6,000.00	3,000.00	76.0	88.0

* Before deducting contributions but after making all other deductions, including personal exemption and credit for dependents.

† That portion of the gross contribution which otherwise would have been paid as income tax if the contribution had not been made. This computation assumes that the total taxable income is subject to normal tax as well as to surtax and that no long term capital gains or losses are included.

Campaign Theme Song

HURRAH FOR HELPING BUCKNELL!

TUNE: "SOLOMON LEVI"

1.

Come all, let's get together and buy a Bucknell Bond;
We'll stake our bets on Bucknell of whom we are so fond.
As once, a hundred years ago, her founders raised the cash,
We'll buy a share in Bucknell, her debt we then will 'smash.

*Chorus*¹

Hurrah! for helping Bucknell. Hurrah! for all of us.
Hurrah! for giving freely, because the cause is just.
Let's buy Bucknell clear out of debt, a hundred at a throw;
Let's burn the notes in 'forty-six, our gratitude to show.

2.

To part with money freely we're learning every day;
The Government is clever at taking cash away.
There're bonds and stamps and taxes, and everything costs more,
Why not give bonds to Bucknell, the College we adore?

3.

Of all the colleges in the land there's none more fair to see
Than our dear College on the hill so dear to memory.
Let's back our President, face the debt, the money we will pay,
It's time for true alumni to rise, and have their say.

The Bucknell Alumni Monthly

— SPECIAL ISSUE —

Vol. xxvii No. 3 LEWISBURG, PENNA. APRIL, 1943

Dr. Hu Shih to Speak at Commencement

Dr. Hu Shih, Chinese ambassador to the United States from 1938 to 1942, will give the Commencement address at Bucknell's ninety-seventh graduation on May 28.

He received his early education in China, and later came to America to study at Cornell. After his graduation in 1914, he studied for his doctor's degree at Columbia University. On his return to China, Dr. Hu Shih became associated with the faculty of the Peking National University, and has been doing outstanding work in the field of education ever since.

Before December 7, 1941, Dr. Hu Shih attempted in vain to warn the United States of the approaching Japanese attack, and has always fought against any type of appeasement in relation to Japan. He is convinced that Japan is unable to maintain a long war, and that after the war is over it will be necessary to form some type of international government to insure permanent peace.

It has been rumored in Washington, D. C., that Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek will assign Dr. Hu Shih to an important post upon his return to China.

F. G. Davis, '11, Takes Lybarger Post

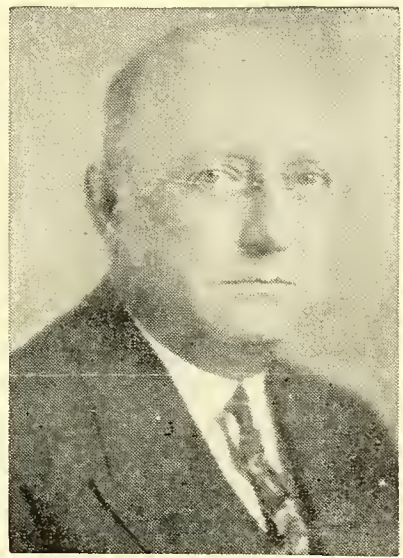

Frank G. Davis, '11, has assumed for the duration the functions which have been performed by L. Francis Lybarger, Jr., '28, for the past several years. Lybarger was Alumni Secretary, Editor of the Alumni Monthly, and Director of Admissions.

Davis has been Head of the Department of Education since 1924, and Director of the Summer School and Extension Program for the past eight years. Dr. Walter H. Sauvain has succeeded to the latter post for the duration and Dr. Davis retains his position as Head of the Department of Education.

The new Alumni Secretary invites suggestions from any and all alumni on how the work may be kept up to the high standard set by Mr. Lybarger and what improvements should be made. The office functions solely for service to the alumni and to the University.

It is hoped that during the wartime emergency, local Alumni Clubs will be kept alive and bring together as frequently as feasible members who find it convenient to attend.

Heartiest greetings to all alumni are extended by the "duration" secretary.

Who's Who In America Recognizes Bucknellians

Roy G. Bostwick, '05, Pittsburgh, chairman of the Bucknell Board of Trustees, and one other benefactor of the university who insists on remaining anonymous, have been awarded "Who's Who in America" citations for outstanding service and philanthropy on behalf of Bucknell, it was announced by President A. C. Marts, March 9th at the One Hundredth Birthday Gift alumni dinner in New York.

100th Birthday Gifts Rolling in for Bucknell

Hundreds of Bucknellian subscriptions to the One Hundredth Birthday Gift fund had swelled the total paid and pledged to $157,400 on April 30, or over half of the $285,000 needed to erase the University's capital debt before 1946. Of the total, approximately $91,000 had come through the trustee special gift committee, $20,500 from the Pittsburgh area; $24,000 from the New York area; $18,600 from the Philadelphia area, and $3,300 from the Washington-Baltimore area. A number of subscriptions of one or more shares have been sent in to Treasurer Dayton L. Ranck, '16, from scattered points outside of the organized areas.

The number of Hundredth Birthday Gift Roster names eligible for listing in the Centennial History of Bucknell as having subscribed one or more hundred-dollar shares numbered 455 on April 30.

President Marts Greets the Alumni

No college president is more genuinely concerned for the welfare of the alumni, and none is more highly esteemed by his college family than is President Marts. At this time when he is giving his talents so completely to his country, we are not asking him to write his usual letter.

He has, however, authorized the editor to extend his warmest greetings to you and to assure you that he will be thinking at Commencement time of the hundreds who would come back to Alma Mater as usual but for the crisis through which our country is passing. He realizes that every alumnus must be at his "battle station", as is the University, which has been adjusted completely to the service of the Nation in wartime.

He appreciates deeply the valiant service being rendered by Bucknell alumni in all phases of the war effort, and recommends for all "The Bucknell Way of Life", that of Intelligence, Integrity, and Brotherhood. Incidentally, we suspect that the world's troubles will not be solved until society as a whole adopts "The Bucknell Way of Life".

Frank G. Davis,
Acting Alumni Secretary

Alumni Trustee To Be Elected

Two outstanding alumni have been nominated for the position of Alumni Trustee for a five-year term. They are Judge Thomas J. Baldrige, ex '95, Hollidaysburg, Pa., and Hon. James Focht McClure, ex '13, Lewisburg attorney.

Judge Baldrige is the present incumbent, finishing his third five-year term as Alumni Trustee. Mr. McClure is a candidate for the first time.

Alumni are urged to vote on the ballot provided in this number of the Monthly, and mail it to the Alumni Secretary not later than May 20.

Invite Bucknellians

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Brandon of 1517 Parkway, Austin, Texas, extend a most cordial invitation to all Bucknellians in that section, and most especially to any in the armed services who are stationed nearby, to get in touch with them by telephone or just drop in for a friendly visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Brandon are joined in their invitation by Dr. and Mrs. Rainey, Prof. and Mrs. R. L. Sutherland, Prof. and Mrs. C. A. Matsen, and Charles and Carol Dunham, alumni of the classes of '39 and '40 respectively.

Robb, '24, Mrs. Chester Dennis, '39, Rev. G. C. Horter, '94, and Clyde Ellzey, '27.

A committee of Bucknellians of York, Pa., and vicinity, headed by club president, Rev. J. H. Fleckenstine, '12, is making active preparations for participating in the Birthday program.

District and area quotas assigned by the campaign executive committee have been announced by National Alumni Chairman Edgar A. Snyder, '11, as follows: Pittsburgh, $15,155; Uniontown, $1,400; Altoona, $2,450; Johnstown, $1,540; total area quota, $20,545. Connecticut, $1,750; New York Metropolitan, $29,050; total area quota, $30,800.

Philadelphia Metropolitan, $18,200; South Jersey, $8,750; Trenton, $3,675; Wilmington, $1,925; total area quota, $32,550.

Allentown, $2,800; Harrisburg, $6,125; Mt. Carmel, $2,730; Reading, $2,870; York, $1,890; total area quota, $16,415.

Hazleton, $2,450; Scranton, $6,300; Wilkes-Barre, $11,550; Williamsport, $9,450; total area quota, $29,750.

Baltimore, $1,750; Washington, $4,200; total area quota, $5,950.

Danville, $1,575; Lewisburg, $20,000; Milton, $5,425; Sunbury, $5,950; total area quota, $32,950.

Mr. Snyder explained that these quotas are designed to raise one-half of the $285,000 goal, the other half being expected from the trustees' special gift committee. The quotas were figured by using a common factor throughout all the districts, he said, with due allowance for alumni living at considerable distances from the district centers. The Lewisburg quota is figured with regard to both alumni and other citizens as prospective givers.

Although many districts contain numerous communities, each district was named after the town holding the largest number of Bucknellians.

The Accelerated Program Starts July 5

During this war, as in every other period of national emergency, all of Bucknell's facilities have been placed at the disposal of our government.

Starting July 5, 1943, Bucknell will operate throughout the entire year with the result that our school year will consist of three sixteen-week terms instead of the former two semesters. The three terms for the current school year will begin July 6, November 1, and March 6.

For men this accelerated program is practically compulsory on account of the government's program of selective service. Furthermore, most college men are anxious to speed up their programs in order that they may sooner contribute to the Nation's "all-out" effort.

For the college woman, however, the accelerated program is a voluntary matter. While acceleration is recommended, on the other hand she may elect to attend school two terms a year and finish in four years instead of in the shorter period.

The BUCKNELL

Alumni Monthly

DEAR BUCKNELLIANs:

As I write this, the administrative officers at Bucknell are working at top speed to have everything in readiness for the opening of the July 1st term, or semester, which will be attended by 600 Naval trainees— young men in training for service in the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard—which will be attended also by 500 young men and women in civilian status. All the men's dormitories have been refurnished with double decker cots for the Naval trainees and four fraternity houses have been leased by the college as emergency dormitories for civilian men students. The Women's College remains unchanged and will continue to be used by our women students, as always. A Navy Mess Hall has been built on University Avenue at the corner of Malcolm Place.

Essentially, Bucknell will go on as before, except that 600 of her students will be in Naval uniform and will be subject to military discipline, administered by a "Ship's Company" composed of a Commanding Officer, 7 officers, and 22 enlisted men. Naval trainees and civilian students will attend classes together, all studying bona fide college subjects.

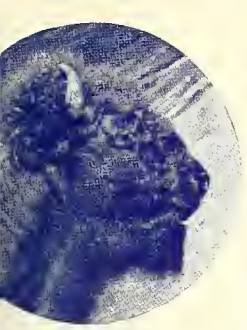

It is symbolic, is it not, of your Alma Mater's long reach into the past and into the future and her responsiveness to the requirements of the present. There she sits on the beautiful hill top, devoting every ounce of her loyalty and energy to the present service of our beloved Republic, and at the same time continuing with full vigor her instruction of youth in the wisdom of the ages and preparing them to serve man and God in the long years ahead.

To each and all of you I send greetings, and to those Bucknell men and women in uniform, I send this especially: "God bless you, each and all."

Sincerely yours,

ARNAUD C. MARTS.

WARTIME COMMENCEMENT ACTIVITIES REDUCED

THE effects of the Second World War were evident in this year's Commencement. Only 104 persons received baccalaureate degrees, 102 having been graduated at the January Commencement. Miss Hope Briggs of Forked River, New Jersey, earned top honors, being graduated magna cum laude. Persons earning cum laude honors were Robert Herman Frantz, Carl Ferris Overfield Miller, and Paul Anson Winter. Seven persons received the master's degree.

Class reunions, having been discontinued for the duration, were not held. Skeleton meetings of alumnae and alumni associations were held and last year's officers were continued for another year.

Four members of the Class of 1893, on the special invitation of the president, were honored guests of the University. They are the Reverend E. C. Pauling, Miss Flora M. Clymer, Mrs. G. R. Bigler, and Mrs. P. A. Vought.

DR. HU SHIH COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

FOR its 93rd annual Commencement address, Bucknell University again entertained a speaker of international renown, Dr. Hu Shih, Chinese Ambassador to the United States from 1938 to 1942. Dr. Hu, one of China's most distinguished diplomats and scholars, came to this country as a Boxer Indemnity student. He won degrees from Cornell and Columbia Universities and holds honorary degrees from some fifteen of America's leading institutions of learning.

In a stimulating address, Dr. Hu told his Commencement audience that the United Nations have a better chance to win the peace this time than they did in the last war. He declared the new world order "must be an international organization based upon the principle of a threat of overwhelming power to prevent aggressive wars. It must be able to com-

CAPTAIN MARTS SOUNDS THE CALL TO THE GRADUATING CLASS

CHOOSING as his text the Coast Guard slogan, "You have to go out, but you don't have to come back," Bucknell's President brought a stirring challenge to courage and sacrifice in his annual baccalaureate address in the Beaver Memorial Methodist Church, Thursday evening, May 27. Picturing the men of the Coast Guard as obeying without question their sacrificial slogan, he lashed out at the smugness and indifference of the American people which has brought us to the position where we are paying with hundreds of billions of dollars and millions of America's finest men.

Speaking to the Class of 1943, he said, "Can you remember 1939 now across these four years? It is difficult for many of us to remember back into September, 1939, because of all that has happened in the interval. We shall not mourn those years; however, for they were years of which we as a nation cannot be proud; years which thoughtful Americans regret and deplore. Would that we might have a chance to live them over again and correct the mistakes which are now so obvious to us.

"I recall that in the first chapel period in January, 1940, I paid my respects to the 1930 decade just closing, as the 'dirty '30's,' which no patriotic citizen could mourn. Through those '30's, which in '39 brought its inevitable climax of war, we in America had no appreciation for the Coast Guard slogan. We were living smugly and dishonorably, trying to pretend that what was going on in the world away from our shores was of no concern to us. We saw Japan march into Manchuria and we did not have the moral courage to stop it. We saw Italy march into Ethiopia and did not have the moral courage to intervene. We saw Hitler and Mussolini send their armed forces into Spain (while publicly asserting that they were not doing so) and we did not have the courage even to sell Spanish Loyalists the few planes and guns with which they might have won the prelude to the World War. We saw Japan march into China and begin to murder women and children by the millions and we pretended it was none of our business. In fact we proceeded to sell to Japan at a large profit all the oil and scrap iron they needed to continue these wanton murders. We saw Germany make anschluss with prostrate Austria and we just thought it was a good movie. We saw Hitler march into Czechoslovakia and Serbia and Poland and Belgium and Holland and Denmark and Norway and France and Greece and Russia and each new tragedy spelled humiliation and death for millions of human beings. But we in America dug our heads deeper in the sands of cowardice and selfishness and pretended that all these things were no business of ours.

"We saw Hitler kill with bombs from the air 50,000 old men, women and children in England, our own blood cousins, and still did nothing to check or punish the cruel aggressors. . . . Our slogan became, 'You don't have to go out, unless someone gives you a guarantee that you will come back, plus a bonus and retirement with pension at the age of 65.'

" . . . You will have a chance to create a better world after this victory has been won. Make the cornerstone of your new world—grit instead of comfort; courage instead of selfishness; honesty instead of rationalizing; devotion instead of self-pity.

"Take the Coast Guard slogan and paraphrase it as follows:

" 'You must give—you don't have to get.'

" 'You must save others—you don't have to save yourself.'

" 'You must give sympathy and aid to others—you don't have to get pity for yourself.'

" 'You must serve mankind—you don't have to be rewarded.'

As over against the apathy and selfishness of the America of the '30's, Captain Marts set the heroic stand of General Ivan Panfilou and his men, who stopped the Germans in front of Moscow but gave their lives; the Soviet Marines who fought to the death at Sevastapol; and the gallant American boys who gave their lives to take Hill 609 in Tunisia. He quoted Drew Middleton in his classic discussion

FOUR ALUMNI RECEIVE HONORARY DEGREES

FOUR Bucknell alumni received honorary degrees at the 93rd annual Commencement of the University. George A. Riggs, '07, for 30 years a Baptist admissions executive in Puerto Rico, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Divinity; Benjamin J. Wilson, '19, chief of the mechanical division of the research department of Leeds and Northrup, was made a Doctor of Science; Finley Keech, '22, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Fall River, Mass., a Doctor of Divinity; and Charles C. Ward, '18, president of the Plattsburgh, New York, State Teachers College, a Doctor of Laws.

Dr. Hu Shih, former Chinese ambassador to the United States, received the degree of Doctor of Letters.

DR. OWENS SUBMITS REPORT OF EMERITUS CLUB

THE Annual Meeting of the Bucknell Emeritus Club was held at the home of the Secretary, May 27, 1943, at 4:00 p. m.

President Wyant, '92, of Chicago, Joseph M. Wolfe of Lewisburg, the secretary, and the new member, Rev. Flora Clymer, who is still working in Philadelphia, were present. After the officers were re-elected the secretary reported on the letters he had received from the members during the year.

1858—Mrs. Harriet Mason Stevens, Hampton, Virginia, our oldest member, was 101 years young November 11, 1942. She was in good health and said, "The first 100 years are the hardest." She fell in her room several weeks ago but broke no bones and hopes to be around soon. She attributes her longevity "To the fact I had something besides self to occupy my mind, also to my daily walks." She worked on translations of the Burmese Bible after she returned to America, when her husband died. They had been in Burma 45 years.

1875—John B. Weston, M.D., after practicing for some years, followed ranching for a while and settled at Hamet, California. He has happy memories of the University at Lewisburg.

1878—Miss Sarah B. Barber is in Lewisburg.

1882—Mrs. Edna Sarah Dunning, Douglasville, Pennsylvania, was driving her daughter to Commencement last year when held up by washouts. They had to turn back. Perhaps another year.

1882—Miss Laura K. Snyder, Warren, Pennsylvania, was with us last year. It was good to see her.

1882—Rev. Benjamin L. Herr, Homer, New York, had many happy recollections of the old days.

1882—Angelette Tilden Courson, Lancaster, Texas, says, "The most outstanding memory is meeting my husband, Rev. William J. Courson." Since his death in 1938, she has been carrying on church work.

1884—Miss Annie F. Williams, Long Beach, California, has many fond recollections of home and friends in Lewisburg.

1884—Miss Elizabeth Griffin, Pasadena, California, sends greetings to the Club, with memories of friends.

1885—Chella Scott Beale, Chicago, Illinois, the first woman to take the college course at Bucknell, is happy for the training she received here, but did not feel quite able for the trip.

1887—Dr. J. W. A. Young, Chicago, remembers the days in physics, and our travels in Paris and London, and wishes to be remembered to the Club.

EMERITUS CLUB PRESIDENT, DR. A. R. E. WYANT

1890—Alice Bush Cole, Los Angeles, California, is still using her music by teaching classes and playing in church. She recalls the times when the Owens lived in the "Hully" house.

1890—Carrie Lloyd Horter, Haddonfield, New Jersey, is sorry she cannot be here to become a charter member and is almost sorry she is eligible. She is busy in their new home, with church work and entertaining two granddaughters.

1890—Nellie Irwin Randles, Salem, New York, speaks of many of the old-timers and remembers me especially as Sunday school teacher. She did not take chemistry. She and her husband, five children and thirteen grandchildren celebrated their golden wedding, January, 1942. Enjoyed seeing Bucknell films.

1890—Edith Reber Casswell, Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania, has traveled and had many experiences of interest. One was when the flood of '89 carried the bridge away. She is now interested in her four "bright" grandchildren.

1890—Anna Sellers Blackburn, Lock Haven, Pennsylvania, expected to be present but did not arrive, perhaps on account of the flood.

1890—John J. Woodruff, Selinsgrove, Pennsylvania, sends greetings to the "Old Timers." Commencement at Susquehanna kept him away.

1890—George E. Fisher, Selinsgrove, Pennsylvania, sends greetings to "Dear Old Bucknell," but could not be here for the same reason as Woodruff gave.

1891—Susanna Stapleton Brubaker, Mifflinburg, Pennsylvania, thinks the Emeritus Club a fine idea but frail health prevents her presence.

JOSEPH W. HENDERSON BECOMES PRESIDENT OF A. B. A.

WHEN Joseph W. Henderson entered Bucknell in 1904 he was fourteen years old, the age at which the average boy is entering high school. When he was graduated in 1908 at eighteen, he looked his age. Indeed, when he is finally elected president of the American Bar Association in August of this year, he will be one of the youngest men to occupy that enviable position in the history of the Association. He was born and reared in Montgomery, Pennsylvania, the son of Samuel B. and Jean Welles Henderson. He prepared for college at the Bucknell Academy. After graduating from Bucknell he entered Harvard Law School, receiving the LL.B. degree in 1913, the year he received, also, the M.A. degree from Bucknell.

Those who know him and have followed his career since his graduation at Bucknell are not surprised at his rise to this high office in an organization whose membership contains 32,000 lawyers and associate membership 150,000. He has earned this honor by his consistent growth and service in his profession.

The May, 1943, issue of the American Bar Association Journal has this to say of his activities: "Becoming a member of the Association in 1919, Mr. Henderson began almost immediately to attend its meetings and to take an active interest in its work. He was chairman of the Membership Committee for Pennsylvania in 1924-25, member of the Committee on Admiralty Law in 1923-25 and 1929, member of various Sections and Section Committees, Pennsylvania member of the General Council in 1935, State Delegate from Pennsylvania 1936-37, member of the Board of Governors 1937-40, and Assembly Delegate since 1940. He served for three years on the Budget Committee, and his work as its Chairman did much to prepare Association finances for the stresses to which they have lately been subjected. He is a member of the Association's Committee on National Defense, now known as the Committee on War Work; has also been a member of the Council of the Section on Legal Education since 1940 and is now its vice-chairman. At the recent meeting of the House of Delegates, he gave a notably constructive report on the Custody of Alien Property; its recommendations were adopted by the House.

"Mr. Henderson has also been active in the Pennsylvania Bar Association and in the Philadelphia Bar Association, in each of which he has served on many important committees, and has been chairman of the Board of Governors of the latter association. He is a Presbyterian, a member of Phi Kappa Psi, a member of the executive committee of the Maritime Law Association, associate Editor of American Maritime Cases since 1931, and is also a member of the council of the Harvard Law School Association. He was decorated as an Officer and Chevalier of the Order of Crown of Italy for legal work in connection with World War I.

"Mr. Henderson enjoys the friendship and the confidence of the leaders and workers in the American Bar Association throughout the United States. Along with his active interest in the lawyers' effective assistance in the legal problems and tasks arising because of the war, his concern has been that the American Bar Association shall be of the greatest possible usefulness, along practical lines, to the average practising lawyer in his work for his clients and his community."

He has been a member of the firm of Rawle and Henderson since 1916 and head of the firm since 1930. The firm has represented the Italian government in eight states of this country. He has carried on legal work in Argentina, Brazil, Chile, and England, and has handled cases of considerable legal bearing before the United States Supreme Court.

Joe has been active in the affairs of Bucknell and the Alumni Association. He has been president and a member of the Board of Directors of the General Alumni Association. He is a member of the Bucknell Board of Trustees and at the meeting on May 28, 1943, was elected secretary of that body. He is

DARLINGTON AND McCLURE ARE ELECTED TO THE BUCKNELL BOARD OF TRUSTEES

RICHARD DARLINGTON, '09, and James F. McClure, '13, are the newly-elected members of the Bucknell Board of Trustees. They were born and reared in Lewisburg and lived within a stone's throw of each other on University Avenue.

Darlington started his present business career as a partner in the firm of Whitely and Foedisch, coal merchants in Philadelphia, twenty-two years ago. He became president of an incorporated company, now the Pennsylvania Hudson Company, in 1931. This company is the distributor of Hudson coal for Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia and the South, and New York City. He is also president of The Middle Atlantic Anthracite Corporation, the H. G. VonHenie Corporation of Baltimore, and the Chesapeake Coal Corporation of Baltimore.

Mr. Darlington is married to Margaret Kerstetter of Milton and lives at Avonwood Road, Haverford, Pa.

Mr. McClure was nominated by the alumni. He attended Bucknell and transferred to Amherst, where he was graduated in 1913. He studied law in the University of Pennsylvania Law School and practiced with his father, the late Judge Harold M. McClure. He enlisted in the First World War as a private and was discharged a year and a half later as Ordnance Sergeant.

He has been active in many community affairs, served eight years as a member of the Lewisburg School Board, and a term in the Pennsylvania General Assembly. He married Florence K. Fowler of Watsontown, a former teacher at Bucknell. They have two sons.

Four trustees whose terms expired were re-elected to the Board. They include Michael L. Benedum, Pittsburgh; Joseph W. Henderson, Philadelphia; Andrew J. Sordoni, Kingston; and William R. White, New York.

a member of the Midday, Harvard, Union League, and Philadelphia Cricket Clubs, and is listed in "Who's Who in America."

In May, 1917, he was married to Anne K. Dreisbach of Lewisburg. They have one son, J. Welles Henderson, who is serving in the armed forces of his country. They live at Gravers Lane, Chestnut Hill, Pennsylvania.

Following his address, Dr. Hu was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters.

COLONEL GILBERT BECOMES BRIGADIER GENERAL

BUCKNELL, which gave General Tasker H. Bliss, World War I Chief of Staff, to the nation, now comes forward with another regular army general in the person of Harold N. Gilbert, director of the War Department's Office of Dependency Benefits in Newark, New Jersey.

General Gilbert attended Bucknell during 1916-17 in the School of Engineering. As a result of his grid-iron prowess he attained considerable distinction in the days immediately before World War I, as the hard-hitting center on the Bison varsity. He is a member of the Bucknell chapter of Phi Kappa Psi.

Soon after the declaration of war in 1917, he left the campus as a volunteer and was sent to the first officers' Training Camp at Fort Niagara, N. Y., in company with a number of other Bucknellians. Upon completion of the course he was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry and assigned to a combat unit. He remained in the Regular Army after the war and has risen through the various commissioned grades to his present rank of brigadier general.

General Gilbert and his force of about 10,000 officers and civilian employees have received special commendation from Lt. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell and many other high-ranking Army officials for their "splendid achievement . . . in the performance of a difficult job." Senator Robert R. Reynolds of North Carolina, Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, inserted a letter from a Washington attorney in an April issue of the Congressional Record which praised the Office of Dependency Benefits for setting an outstanding example of "efficiency in Government."

General Gilbert's long career in the Army includes many colorful assignments which have carried him to all parts of the world. And in their performance he has earned high military honors.

Born 47 years ago in Halifax, Pennsylvania, General Gilbert spent his boyhood in Williamsport, where his mother still lives. His interesting career has taken him to China, Japan, the Philippines, Hawaii, Mexico, Panama, Canada, France, Germany, England and many stations in the United States, and has brought him plenty of action, excitement and danger. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action in World War I, when, exposed to heavy machine gun and rifle fire and under enemy observation, he crossed open ground less than 75 yards from the enemy line and saved the lives of wounded comrades. He also received the Order of the Purple Heart for wounds received in action.

His big job, just before ODB, was reorganization of the Army's Recruiting Service and the recruiting of the largest peacetime Army and Air Force in the history of the United States. Under such slogans as "Keep 'Em Flying," and "Wings Over America,"—phrases coined by this outstanding administrator—and by the extensive use of the first mobile recruiting stations housed in completely equipped trailers, he sold the advantages of training and an Army career to dazzled rookies with such success that our Regular Army and Air Force had a running start when this war finally broke upon us. That job earned for him the award of the Distinguished Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious service in a position of great responsibility and a citation from the Secretary of War for "unusual foresight, excellent judgment, and resourcefulness in planning, organizing and conducting with conspicuous success. . . ."

Months before the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act of 1942 was signed by the President, General Gilbert planned the organization to handle the avalanche of applications that would follow. Today, a year later, there are 3,376,204 active family allowance and allotment-of-pay accounts on the books of the Office of Dependency Benefits, and ample machinery has been set up to handle the expected increase in request for family allowances and allotments-of-pay to soldiers' dependents which will result from the anticipated induction of more fathers and childless married men as the war progresses.

He is married and has a delightful family consisting of his wife, the former Sara Kathryn Metzger, one son, Harold, Jr., now serving with the Army's Armored Force, and two daughters, Betty Louise serving with the Navy Department, and Mary Ellen serving with the War Production Board.

Other Bucknellians among the officers at the ODB are Captain George B. Schuyler, '21, another World War veteran, who is officer in charge of the Public Relations Section, and Lieut. John C. Decker, '36, assigned to the Determinations Branch.

Captain Marts Sounds Call to Graduating Class of that occasion: "The Second U. S. Corps moves forward. It moves because Hill 609 fell and many a good man with it. On the slopes of Hill 609 poppies blow as red as any in Flanders and among them are the graves of Americans who died as bravely and as grandly as any who fell at Argonne, at Gettysburg, or Bunker Hill. History was made here only yesterday but today only the wind blows over the rich grass and ruffles the wheat. And there is silence in the graveyards so far from home."

"To the boys in these graves you owe your chance at life and victory and a better world. 'They had to go out, but they did not have to come back.'

"It will not be an easy world—God forbid. It will be a world full of wounds and scars to be healed; of wrongs to be righted; of suffering to be assuaged; of horrors to be forgotten; of bitterness to be sweetened. It can be made a decent world only if you shall serve and not be served, save and not be saved. I envy you your life in it, provided you become citizens of this new world in the spirit of the Coast Guard, 'You have to go out, but you don't have to come back.'"

THE VICTORY COVER

THE pictures on the front cover of this issue of the ALUMNI MONTHLY introduce to you fifteen Bucknellians who are serving in the Armed Forces of our country.

OLIVER J. DECKER DIES PROMINENT ALUMNUS

OLIVER J. Decker, '99, died in the Williamsport Hospital on May 17 from complications following an operation.

In the passing of Mr. Decker, Bucknell loses one of its most faithful alumni. He was the first editor of the ALUMNI MONTHLY and was president of the General Alumni Association. For 25 years he was president of the Williamsport Bucknell Club. He was elected to the Bucknell Board of Trustees in 1919 and became its secretary a year later, holding this position until his death.

Space will not allow the listing of all the civic, professional, church, and fraternal activities in which he engaged during his busy career. He was prominent and active as a lawyer, a Lutheran, a Mason, and a Kappa Sigma, having been national president of Kappa Sigma and since 1933 historian of the national organization. Of his civic accomplishments, probably his greatest interest was in the Williamsport Community Concert Association, which he created.

He is survived by his wife and his son, Lieutenant John C. Decker, 3d.

Dr. F. C. Eshelman announced at the Hazleton Birthday dinner plans for organizing a Hazleton Bucknell Club.

600 NAVY MEN COME TO BUCKNELL

BY DR. RALPH E. PAGE

THE Navy College Training Program presents an interesting experiment in the field of American education. Selected young men who have been enlisted in the Naval Reserve are being ordered to duty on the campuses of a number of colleges and universities throughout the United States. The only qualifications required of these men are the degree of physical perfection required by the Navy, "officer-like qualities," and the demonstrated ability to do college work.

Under this program regular college instruction will be given and college credit may be obtained by the students who are taking the training. The program will be offered while the men are on active duty, under military discipline, in uniform, and receiving pay.

Bucknell has a contract with the Navy to furnish instruction, housing, messing and medical service for six hundred trainees. Three hundred of these boys will be Marine Corps Reservists and the remaining three hundred will be Navy men. Two hundred thirty of the six hundred will be given instruction in the field of engineering, fifty will be pre-medical students and three hundred twenty will be taking basic training. About 80 per cent of the group will be college transfer students who have previously been enlisted in the V-1 or V-7 branch of the Naval Reserve. The remaining one hundred twenty will be high school graduates or others of satisfactory educational qualification who were selected April 2 on the basis of a nation-wide examination.

The V-1 and V-7 students will be allowed to continue under this program the work which they had started previously. The beginning V-12 trainees must follow a prescribed course of study which includes during the first year mathematics, English, history, physics, engineering drawing, descriptive geometry, Naval organization, and physical training.

After having completed the first year's work a nation-wide examination will be given to all of these entering V-12 students. Those who qualify may continue their training in those fields indicated by their individual interests and demonstrated ability.

Former V-1 and V-7 students, except pre-medical, pre-dental, and specialized engineering students, may complete from one to four terms in addition to the training they have already taken.

The three men's dormitories have been converted into living quarters for the 600 men coming to Bucknell. Offices for the "Ship's Company" have been established in the six rooms surrounding the lounge on the second floor of Roberts Hall. What was formerly the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity house has been purchased by the University and has been remodeled into a modern, up-to-date cafeteria which will permit the entire group to be served within an hour.

DR. PAGE GREETs COMMANDER FLEMING

Members of the regular staff will furnish the instruction. Several specialists have been furnished by the Navy Department to assist in the physical training program.

One hundred and seventy-two Bucknellians are enlisted in the Marine Corps and Naval Reserves. It is expected that most, if not all of this group, will be ordered back to the campus.

The training program is going to be very intensive. Reveille will be at 5:30 and liberty will end at 10:00 P. M. except on Saturday and Sunday. Each student will be required to carry a minimum schedule of 19 hours, including physical education. One hour of military drill is required each week.

Strict military discipline will be maintained at all times in order that the training program will not reflect discredit on the Naval Service.

Trainees may participate in any athletic events they desire provided that such participation does not interfere with their educational program. The general purpose of the entire program is to give these trainees a complete and well-rounded educational experience which will make it possible to produce badly-needed Navy and Marine officers.

Bucknell has entered into agreements with a number of fraternities to lease the houses of these fraternities for the housing of civilian students. Normal fraternity activities may be carried on by those fraternity groups now on the campus whether they maintain their houses or not.

With approximately 500 women students, 200 civilian men and 600 trainees, Bucknell should be able to maintain its normal enrollment. The University is now operating on a full-time basis. Three sixteen-week terms will be offered each year. Civilian students can, under this accelerated program, complete a full college program in two years and eight months.

This wartime program has brought about a number of changes at Bucknell. The University is glad to make these required modifications in the interest of the national welfare.

Certain non-essential features of Bucknell's peacetime college program are "out" for the duration. Long vacations have been abandoned. Extra-curricular activities have been re-analyzed and those having little or no permanent value have been reduced or eliminated. Our educational program, however, is as rich and full as it has ever been.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION FOLLOWS MEN IN THE ARMED FORCES

BY FORREST D. BROWN, Secretary

BY the summer of 1941 Bucknellians were already moving into the Armed Forces in considerable numbers. Christian Association leaders foresaw that within a few months most of their male classmates and friends would be there too. The SERVICE COUNCIL was set up in September under the chairmanship of Jeanne Haynes, '43 and Al Ashman, '43. The number of known Bucknellians in the forces at that time numbered about 150.

The special services set up at that time have been followed ever since, with two exceptions. At first, published lists of the men with the camp addresses were sent to all the fellows. Candy and cookies were made by the women students and sent to the camps. The continuing work includes the following:

1. An up-to-date mailing list for what now includes 1,500 men and women.

2. A master file card and envelope for each man or woman on which is kept a record of his camp movements, promotions, correspondence, and clippings pertaining to his activities.

3. Panels of pictures and shoulder insignia from the men in service are kept on display in the Roberts Hall Lobby.

PREPARING THE BUCKNELLIAN FOR MAILING TO SERVICEMEN

May 2, 1943.

4. The Bucknellian is sent weekly to some 800 men who represent the classes from 1940 onwards. Others get it by request.

5. A monthly packet of letters is sent to the entire 1,500. These letters are written by members of the student body and faculty, and represent a close tie with Bucknellians everywhere.

6. A section of news of service men is edited weekly for the Bucknellian. Through the courtesy of the Bucknellian this column also carries many of the pictures.

7. Special services are provided, as for example furnishing alumni in camp, upon request, with the names of other alumni in their vicinity, or with the addresses of college friends with whom they have lost contact.

That these services from "the 300 acres set apart" have been appreciated there is abundant evidence. Here are the students themselves keeping faith with their classmates who have moved out ahead of them. A committee of more than 50 keeps the work going. Many of those who worked faithfully on the campus end last year are on the receiving end this year. Many of these Bucknellians were pulled from classrooms. We hope that this friendly gesture will bring most of them back to finish their work for degrees and full participation in the post-war world.

Some sample letters follow:

DEAR MR. BROWN:

April 23, 1943.

. . . I am well and enjoy all the articles I get from Bucknell, thanks to you and the University Christian Association. Please keep sending them for they are greatly appreciated. You will notice my address has been changed.

Very sincerely yours,

ENSIGN BRUCE C. MCGEORGE,
V. S.—64,
c/o Fleet Postmaster,
San Francisco, California.

DEAR BUCKNELLIANs:

June 1, 1943.

Thanks for the letters from the Service Council. It really made me feel swell to know that you haven't forgotten us. When I received your letters I realized that after all this is worth fighting for. Enclosed you will find an emblem of the tank destroyers. The T. D.'s were formed in 1941, and in this short time they have become one of the fightingest and most important units of modern warfare.

. . . I am looking forward with much anticipation to the day I can return to our campus and see all of my old friends.

Sincerely,

PVT. STEPHEN O'NEIL,
Hdqts. Co. 17 T. D. Grp.,
North Camp Hood, Texas.

DR. ARNAUD C. MARTS,
Lewisburg, Pennsylvania.
(Union Co.—U. S. A.)

DEAR DR. MARTS:

Here we are in another continent—about 5,000 miles from the States—yet when I think of my many friends and associates over there it makes the distance seem only around the corner.

After two rounds as Senior Medical Officer on one of the big boys, I received orders to my present assignment on the active front in North Africa. Censorship forbids any discussion, but I may say that the duty suits me to a T; to be able to ease the suffering of these boys and to occasionally aid in saving a life makes it all worthwhile.

It is a great satisfaction to be able to associate with these boys; boys like our students at Bucknell. To date I have met 14 Bucknell men in Northwest Africa and at sea; we are unfortunately not permitted to mention names, but you know of them all. Some are in the Air Corps, some in the Rangers, Tank Corps, Infantry, Artillery—yes, two are Commanders; one a skipper of a L. S. T.—three are Ensigns. Eight of the 14 I knew in athletics at B. U.—all gave expression of deep affection for the old school.

With kindest regards to the Bucknell family.

MR. DON SHIELDS,
B. U. Christian Assn.,
Bucknell University,
Lewisburg, Penn.

May 3, 1943.

DEAR DON:

. . . After having received my commission at Aberdeen in January, and bouncing around for a few months, I'm finally stationed here, and set up very satisfactorily.

As for the Islands, they're still pretty Paradisical (is there such a word?) in spite of the war. Also in spite of the war: I learn by your inclosures that Bucknell carries on its usual duties and services and adds new ones. That's great stuff to hear.

Sincerely,

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY,
Service Council,
Lewisburg, Pennsylvania.

DEAR BUCKNELLIANs:

. . . On February 2, 1943, I was relieved from assignment to the 76th Division at Fort Meade, Maryland, and assigned on cadre to a newly activated division at Ft. Jackson, S. C.—a section of the country which should, unquestionably, be returned to the southerners or Indians who were instrumental in making their whereabouts known.

. . . I am enclosing a snapshot and a sleeve insignia which represents the "young fighting lions." I trust this will make an addition to the number of shoulder patch insignias that you have already accumulated.

I wish you would be so kind as to extend my personal and heartiest regards to Dr. Ralph E. Page, Dean of Men, and Dr. Romeyn H. Rivenburg, Dean of the University, and also the professors whose friendship I shall cherish for the remaining of these hectic days of war.

With personal and heartiest regards to all Bucknellians participating in this great epic of war, I am sincerely yours, LOU.

My new address is:

CAPT. LOUIS J. RUSSO,
106th Division Headquarters,
Ft. Jackson, South Carolina.

ALUMNI OFFICE,
Bucknell University,
Lewisburg, Penna., U. S. A.

I would appreciate it very much indeed if you would pass along my very good regards to Professors Matz, Peterson, Biscoe and Burgee. They may be interested to know that much which they taught me some years ago was put to good use again in the early part of April when I attended a series of discussions held by The London School of Economics at Cambridge University. A group of twenty-five Americans were selected as having sufficient background in economics and political science to stand up to approximately the same number of professors and some few of the better students of that institution. My graduate work since Bucknell days has been a means of keeping me in touch with both the fields mentioned, but even so I surprised myself at the amount of economic theory I had retained over the past seven years. The discussions covered the possible application of economic truths to the post-war situation. I wish I could give you my impressions of the value of the kind of university training given over here and the outlook which these academic leaders have toward the U. S. rôle in peace time, but I fear that must be deferred until I next visit Lewisburg, which will be almost immediately as I see my own country again.

There are any number of the faculty I should like to send my good wishes; all I can do, though, is extend my regards to such as may remember me.

Sincerely,

LEONHARDT W. SCHEFFLER,
Major, Air Corps,
Bucknell, '35.

June 4, 1943.

DEAR BUCKNELLIANs:

I completed my cadet training in Meteorology at N. Y. U. on May 10, and was rewarded by a commission and an assignment to Mitchel Field, Long Island, New York. This is a temporary assignment (one or two months) for me to pick up some practical knowledge of Army administration and the operation of a weather station. I am getting plenty of first-hand experience—the hard way. I must be able to think fast and talk fast to officers, all the way up to Generals, and be ready for any conceivable question. Unfortunately, most of my work is with restricted information, so that, much as I would like to, I can't pass on any juicy bits I might happen upon.

Best wishes to my friends on the Hill and elsewhere.

Sincerely,

ROGER D. KEENEY, '40,

Garden City, L. I., N. Y.

A letter from Ralph H. Moore, '14, to the Alumni Office says:

"I received a very interesting letter from Pvt. Edgar K. Smith, formerly of the class of 1942, I believe. He had to drop out of school because of the Army. This letter came from New Guinea, and I shall give you some parts of the letter which I thought might be interesting for the Bucknellian, as coming from a Bucknellian in distant lands. Edgar writes:

"The Service Council sent me a couple of copies of the Bucknellian which I was pleased to get. I have lost contact with the fellows at school because it is not easy to keep up with correspondence."

. . . "There are some tribes, too, who aren't vegetarians by any means, but those natives we see are friendly. I stumbled into a native village the other day and met some who didn't seem so, however. One bushy-haired savage with a stick in his

COLLEGE REUNION 10,000 FEET ABOVE ATLANTIC OCEAN

TWO former roommates—Lieutenant Jay Allison and Lieutenant Wilson W. Woods—both Kappa Sigmas, recently held a reunion 10,000 feet above the Atlantic Ocean. The two boys had been stationed at different training and air bases, so had not seen each other, even after they had received their coveted wings. Early in May, Jay was flying on routine patrol duty somewhere off the Atlantic coast when a fast fighter plane came in on his tail. Jay glanced at its pilot as the ship drew alongside his own plane. Bill Woods! The one-time roommates were able to signal the locations of their respective land bases and some days later held a more satisfying reunion on land.

S. A. E. CELEBRATES

ON Saturday evening, May 15th, some fifty alumni, plus the active Chapter, met to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Chapter at Bucknell, to pay tribute to Leroy T. Butler, efficient and loyal advisor for most of those 50 years, and to hear reports from members of the Campaign Committee charged with raising funds to clear the mortgage.

In the absence of President Marts, Dean Ralph Page felicitated the Chapter on its fifty years at Bucknell and Mr. O. K. Quivvy of Baltimore, Past National President of the Fraternity, reviewed the history and ideals of S. A. E.

To climax the evening, the chairman of the Campaign Committee described the work and amid absolute silence and intense interest announced that sufficient funds were in hand to satisfy the mortgage. As a final touch Mr. Butler touched a lighted match to the mortgage.

To memorialize Mr. Butler's fine work for the Fraternity, a beautiful oil painting of him was presented to be hung in the Chapter House.

Notwithstanding the war's toll on fraternity membership, the Chapter is in a good financial position because of the small overhead expense needed to carry on.

A committee was appointed to offer to the University the facilities of the Chapter House for use during the war.

INVOCATION

BY JESSE R. TYSON, '12, at Allentown Dinner

ETERNAL GOD, Almighty Father of us all, Thou that down through all the years hast had mercy and compassion on all that serve Thee, hear our prayer as we meet here.

For we still hold that firm faith our fathers held when on the hills and in the groves they built their structures and dedicated them to Thee, and whose slender spires still stand pointing like fingers toward the Giver of all good and perfect gifts.

One hundred years ago, O God, men gathered together and taking council with Thee selected a place on a hill and in a grove where young men and young women might be gathered together and taught those great truths that alone can make men free. Then, having gathered learning and knowledge, that they might go out and spread it through all the world.

And now we are gathered here together after a hundred years, loving and revering Thee, to pay homage to our Mother of Knowledge, old Bucknell, a better, a stronger, a more understanding university through the seasoning of time.

We ask Thy Blessing on all those who have gone out from her doors, and though many of us have grown gray under the flowing years, we still carry in our hearts her hopes, her enthusiasms, her illusion of eternal youth undimmed by age or time.

We ask Thy Blessing on those still in her halls of learning, to whom she gives her heart and shares her vast stores of knowledge, to make them better than they are.

And now as we are gathered here to share this bread and salt, this meat and drink, so may we share with her our hopes, our aspirations, our substance, that she may go down the years in stately dignity, safe in the shining armor of our faith.

For we come to Thee, our Father, in the Name of Our Saviour, Jesus Christ, Our Lord. Amen.

nose seemed to want to know what I was doing there. I tried to explain with gestures. Surrounded by jabbering, chocolate-colored ex-headhunters, I shuddered at the thought that they could forget themselves and revert to their primitive pastime. However, they were friendly and hospitable and offered me food. I refused, not trusting their soap and water habits. Besides, I wasn't hungry after looking at their long, sharp spears.'

Here Are Bucknell's Fighting Men

On the pages following are the names of Bucknellians in the Armed Services. Addresses have been brought up to date wherever the information was available when the MONTHLY went to press. If you know any addresses that should be changed or addresses listed as "unknown," you will confer a favor by writing to the Alumni Secretary. Since there are 1,439 Bucknellians in the service, it is impossible to include all names in this issue. All names from L to Z will be published in the next issue of the ALUMNI MONTHLY.

REMEMBER?

President Marts Writes to Bucknellians

Bucknell President Captain Arnaud C. Marts has just recently addressed the following letter to some two thousand Bucknellians residing in sections outside the main concentration centers of Bucknellian strength. It states the case for the One Hundredth Birthday Gift and for capital debt liquidation.

President's Office,
Bucknell University
Lewisburg, Penna.

I wish I could talk to you personally. I wish still more that I could be in 10,000 places at once and talk with each Bucknellian personally.

I know that, no matter how well you know Bucknell, you would enjoy hearing about the new evidence which develops year by year, and almost month by month, that Bucknell is sound academically, that her students still hold high ideals and that her alumni are making a splendid record in helping to win both the war and the peace.

You already know from the Alumni Monthly and other literature why I am writing to you now. Our college leads in nearly every way except in capital funds. In this respect, we still need to progress.

We are embarrassed chiefly with a capital debt of $285,000, inherited from the past. We have cut it down from nearly twice that amount but it still costs us many thousands a year in interest. These dollars could be spent more profitably for academic uses.

We are out to liquidate this debt before Bucknell's One Hundredth Birthday, February 5th, 1946. Two-thirds of it is pledged now, in subscriptions payable in twenty-five months. Bucknellians are our main dependence. For economic reasons this debt should be paid off while the National income is up at present levels.

Post-war rehabilitation will require the best college-trained leadership. Bucknell graduates must be well equipped to become key persons in this leadership.

We will need all the help you can give us, whether it is one, two, three, or more One Hundredth Birthday Roster Shares of $4.00 per month for 25 months, or a lesser gift, the size to be dictated by your conscience and your financial condition. Gifts of any amount will be greatly appreciated. We can use them all.

Bucknell has been so engrossed in doing her work that she has not appealed to her children for funds yearly as do most colleges. Now we have a real opportunity to repay in part the great debt we owe her.

I am enclosing a card which I trust you will send back in the return envelope with a message of cheer and a pledge for the amount that you want to budget for Bucknell in the next 25 months.

We have two-thirds of it pledged, and, with your help, we hope to come down the home stretch in July with the full $285,000 assured. Your subscription will represent one of several thousand Bucknellian matches which will burn these notes on February 5, 1946.

By that time we hope the war will be won. We expect to be in a new era. Students who entered last fall will graduate in 1946. Let us help them graduate from a college that has celebrated her One Hundredth Birthday free from debt!

Very sincerely,

ARNAUD C. MARTS.

A LETTER FROM THE NATIONAL GIFT CAMPAIGN CHAIRMAN

TO THE ALUMNI:

There is, in Campaign Manager Doug Foster's report on the One Hundredth Birthday Gift project, an encouraging indication of success. There is no doubt about the ability of the alumni to subscribe the amount of their quota. Not only can we "go over the top," but if we don't we must hang our heads in shame. President Marts has voiced his confidence that the Trustees will produce the amount of their quota. Most of the Trustees are not even Bucknell alumni. They have never received from Bucknell in the great measure that we alumni have but they are constantly giving to Bucknell their time, their labor and their financial support. Will we alumni meet that challenge? Our love and loyalty for Bucknell will not permit us to evade it. We can produce our quota and we need not give "until it hurts." All we need to do is give "until we feel good," because then we will have given to the point where our conscience feels good and assures us that we have given in a measure somewhat equivalent to what Bucknell gave to us.

Just a word to the Bucknellians who, in spite of the hard work of the local committees, may not yet have been personally solicited. You know it's hard in these days of restricted gas, tires, and all forms of transportation, to reach everyone, in spite of our good intentions to do so. I have a message of cheer for you who may have been missed. You were not intentionally slighted! And you have the privilege to subscribe right now. Just write to the Alumni Office at Bucknell and say, "I want to subscribe a share (or two or three) to Bucknell's Hundredth Birthday Gift." A card will do. If you give your correct address you will receive a pledge card by return mail. I assure you I am not fooling. Won't you, too, help Bucknell? You'll be helping to prevent inflation if you assist in deflating Bucknell's debt. Also you'll have that glorious feeling of having helped the finest college in the land. Let us alumni for just this once change the first line of Alma Mater and sing, "Dear Bucknell, now to thee we're giving."

Yours for a Happy Birthday,

E. A. SNYDER,
National Alumni Chairman.

ALUMNI SPEED HUNDREDTH BIRTHDAY GIFT

BY J. DOUGLASS FOSTER

WITH a total of $184,196 subscribed as of June 17, the One Hundredth Birthday Gift project to free Bucknell of her $285,000 capital debt has gained tremendous momentum and is winging its way down the home stretch with every prospect of final success. The ultimate objective is to have the necessary cash on hand by February 5, 1946, so that the note-burning ceremony planned for that day can be a significant feature of the great Centennial Celebration, Bucknell's only One Hundredth Birthday.

Says Trustee Chairman Roy G. Bostwick, '05: "No more debt will be incurred." Says President Arnaud C. Marts: "Amen."

The debt liquidation campaign has been paced down the field by two fraternity fund-raising efforts, both of which recently achieved their goals. The Sigma Chi alumni, headed by Frank S. Townsend, '21, have provided for a new house, while the Sigma Alpha Epsilon alumni, led by James A. Tyson, '11, have burned a mortgage. Edgar A. Snyder, '11, National Alumni Chairman of the One Hundredth Birthday Gift, has pointed out that this is encouraging news to our various local campaign committees.

As of June 17, 1,296 Bucknellians had subscribed toward the debt removal. Of these, 621 were named on the rapidly growing list of those who have subscribed one or more "Shares" of $100 each. This list will be printed as the One Hundredth Birthday Gift Roster in Professor Lewis Theiss' "Centennial History of Bucknell."

Among the groups who have gone over the top to date on their quotas are: Western Pennsylvania area, Wesley A. Wolffe, '11, and Mrs. William V. Mahaffey, '25, co-chairmen; Pittsburgh district, Clyde P. Bailey, '29, and Mrs. T. A. O'Leary, '12, co-chairmen; Johnstown district, Robert J. Haberstroh, '22, chairman, and Marlin B. Stephens, '30, co-chairman; Harrisburg district, Dr. Harvey F. Smith, '94, Harvey S. Bogar, '01, Bruce E. Butt, '16, Walter B. Shaw, '23, Nelle W. Aumiller, '21.

Also over the top in the New York Metropolitan district are: the Elizabeth zone, Anthony Steinhilper, '05, chairman; the Westchester zone, Harvey D. Crawford, '18, chairman; and the Nassau zone, Mr. and Mrs. Christian G. Gerken, '30, co-chairmen.

Also the York, Pa., district, headed by Reverend J. H. Fleckenstine, '12, and Penrose C. Wallace, '26, and the Germantown zone, John C. Johnson, '04, chairman, exceeded their quota. In the South Jersey district, headed by Kenneth W. Slifer, '26, and Dr. Mabel Grier Leshner, '01, three of the four zones "made the grade," namely: Bridgeton zone, L. M. Kimball, '23, and Mrs. R. N. Chubb, '19; Woodbury, W. G. Gehring, '23, and J. L. Kohl, Jr., '32; and Salem zone, Kirby Walls, '29, B. O. Ranck, '18, and Mrs. T. C. Summerill, '26.

District percentages with respect to quotas were, on June 17: Pittsburgh, 105, Uniontown, 70, Altoona, 60, Johnstown, 161, New York Metropolitan, 79, Philadelphia, 75, Trenton, 60, Wilmington, 80, Baltimore, 88, Washington, 92, South Jersey, 85.

Also Harrisburg, 106, York, 103, Mount Carmel, 70, Allentown, 66, Reading, 61.

Other districts were in process of organization when this was written, with quotas as shown: Scranton, $6,300; Wilkes-Barre, $11,550; Hazleton, $2,450; Williamsport, $9,450; Danville, $1,575; Sunbury, $5,650; Milton, $5,950; and Union County, including Lewisburg, $19,250.

Treasurer Dayton L. Ranck, '16, reports an increasing number of One Hundredth Birthday Gift subscriptions by mail from various sections of the country. Interest in the project seems very keen, indeed.

Responsibility for getting the $285,000 subscribed by August 1 and paid before 1946 has been delegated in half to the Board of Trustees, with the alumni body in general being asked to be responsible for the second half of $142,500. As of June 17, the trustee quota had been 63 per cent subscribed with a total of $90,210, while the general alumni quota of $142,500 had been 66 per cent pledged or paid with a total of $93,986. The grand total thus was $184,196, or 64 per cent of the $285,000 required.

President Arnaud C. Marts said last week that he felt confident the trustees would complete their share of the total assignment in time for the "note burning." He pointed out again that the interest on the debt is costing the University many thousands a year, and that this annual amount will do a great deal of good when it can be applied to other more useful purposes.

An interesting tribute to the success of the debt campaign was made by Jim Tyson at the Bucknell dinner in Harrisburg, Tyson's former home. Jim said: "The campaign has been a very pleasant and

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY RELIGIOUS LIFE ASSOCIATES

BY DR. C. M. BOND

THE Bucknell Alumni group fostering the religious activities on the campus is carrying on a quiet but effective program. On Thursday, March 25, Kenneth Slifer, '26, President of the Associates, made a stimulating address at the Bucknell Chapel on the subject, "Advertising Religion." A luncheon meeting of the Associates was held, in connection with Mr. Slifer's visit to the campus, for the purpose of reviewing the progress of the organization and to shape its immediate policies.

Brief reports of the campus religious agencies were made by Professor Bond and Mr. Forrest Brown. In these reports it was brought out that the College Chapel continues to make a very large contribution to the religious challenge and inspiration of the students, and that, in spite of the wartime dislocations, the Student Christian Association is maintaining a broad program of service to and training of many students in the leadership of religious and welfare activities.

One interesting development in the work of the Religious Life Associates is to be found in the contacts which have been made with 350 Student Counselors in churches located in Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey. Most of these counselors are in Baptist churches but the contacts are not limited to the churches of this one denomination. The plan calls for a two-way relationship. Not only will the counselors be able to inform their young men and women about Bucknell University, but also ministers will be encouraged to keep in touch with youth from their churches who are studying at Bucknell. It will also make possible a closer connection between the home churches and those persons on the campus who are responsible for the leadership of the program of religious activities.

The charter membership of the Religious Life Associates is still open. Any Bucknellian desiring to be identified with this group is urged to write to Mr. Kenneth W. Slifer, Ayer Building, Washington Square, Philadelphia, Pa., or to Professor Charles M. Bond at Lewisburg. It is expected that by November of this year the membership will be well over three hundred.

FRATERNITY PLANS SIGMA CHI HALL

THE Sigma Chis believe that the time to prepare for peace is in time of war. As the result of an aggressive campaign among their Alumni, which is now rapidly drawing to a close, they have a hope chest filled with war bonds, cash and pledges which they are going to spend after the war for the erection of Sigma Chi Hall, a new home for their Chapter, which we are given to understand will compare favorably with any fraternity house now at Bucknell. The University has invited the Sigma Chis to build their house on the campus. The invitation is likely to be accepted and if so Sigma Chi Hall will conform to the dignified architecture of the college buildings, be built to endure with them, and be located where it will fit in with the ambitious plans that the University's architect has laid out for the future of Bucknell.

In their plans the Sigma Chis have laid great

BUCKNELL'S NEW PROGRAM

PERSONS who have not been in touch with Bucknell's wartime changes may still be expecting the fall semester to begin in September. For the duration this arrangement is out. The University is now running on a three-semester (or term) basis, the terms for the coming year beginning July 5, November 6 and March 6. Most men students will attend college the entire year. Some women students will prefer to attend only two semesters, as before. Those who attend only two-thirds of a year may select any two terms, each of which is sixteen weeks in length.

COLLEGE PRESENTS UNIQUE CONFERENCE

SINCE 1926 the Bucknell Department of Education has held each autumn a conference on education, to which were invited Bucknell students and faculty as well as teachers from all the schools in Central Pennsylvania. This fall the conference will be strictly a Pan-American affair. Outstanding specialists in Latin-American education will discuss with Pennsylvania students and teachers the problems and techniques of education in our sister republics.

This year the education conference will be combined with an all-university affair similar to that held a year ago, to which were invited college students from every Latin-American country, as well as many specialists in the various phases of life in these countries. The affair will be held on October 1, 2, and 3. Alumni are cordially invited to attend.

INSTALLATION BANQUET OF SIGMA DELTA PI

THE ALPHA UPSILON CHAPTER OF SIGMA DELTA PI

ON January 15, 1943, the Spanish Club of Bucknell University was granted a charter to become the Alpha Upsilon chapter of Sigma Delta Pi, the National Honorary Spanish Fraternity. There were 42 chapters of the organization among the colleges and universities of the United States but no college or university in Pennsylvania was represented in the membership of the fraternity. Alpha Upsilon chapter of Bucknell, therefore, became the 43rd chapter of Sigma Delta Pi and the first chapter in Pennsylvania.

On February 14, 1943, formal installation of the chapter and initiation of 12 active members and 3 honorary members was held in the Lounge of the Vaughn Literature Building, followed by a banquet in the Orange and Blue Room of the Hotel Lewis-burger.

Sigma Delta Pi is an honor fraternity whose purpose is, "to foment a wider knowledge of and a greater love for the Hispanic contributions to modern culture; to stimulate a greater interest therein on the part of our students in colleges and universities of the United States; to foster friendly relations and the cooperative spirit between the nations of Hispanic speech; and to reward those who show special attainments and interests."

Alpha Upsilon chapter has held biweekly meetings at the home of the sponsor, Professor F. A. Sprague, during the year, where students had the opportunity to converse, sing, play games in Spanish, listen to Spanish music, or take part in or witness short dramatic dialogues and skits. The work for the year 1943 was closed by the presentation of a one-act play witnessed by the majority of the students of Spanish in the college and their friends.

Among the Clubs

*B*UCKNELL Alumni Clubs are comparable to the rest of America. While they have not been able to meet so often as in peace time, they have lost none of their enthusiasm for Bucknell if statements from club presidents may be taken as the criterion.

Robert K. Bell, '20, president of the Atlantic City Bucknell Club, tells us that the Army has practically taken over the city, mentions the many restrictions that prevent travel, and closes his letter as follows: "This is not in any way an indication of lack of interest, but simply a case of necessity."

John O. L. Roser, '11, president of the Pittsfield, Massachusetts, Club, says: "Other activities and absence of interested members of the Pittsfield Alumni Club have prevented any meetings of our group in the present school year."

"We feel we have just as alive an alumni group as if we were holding regular meetings. In fact, I think all of the members will think more of the organization for not calling on them at this time."

"Fat Snyder has gotten me a little excited about putting the urge on some anniversary subscriptions, and something will probably come of this before too long."

Ruth Warfel, '19, secretary of the Washington Club, reports two fine meetings this year, with an attendance of fifty at the February affair. Also, she reports fine times at the get-togethers in connection with their successful Hundredth Birthday Fund Campaign.

Walter B. Shaw, '23, Harrisburg president, reports monthly meetings the first Thursday of each month. At the April meeting twenty were present, and at the special Birthday Fund meeting on May 27, seventy persons attended an enthusiastic banquet, where more than a third of the quota of $6,100 was reported subscribed before the meeting. Speakers are already being engaged for next year's meetings. On September 2, the acting Alumni Secretary will speak and show moving pictures.

The Sunbury Club meets weekly at the Aldine Hotel for lunch at 12:00 o'clock on Monday. All alumni in the vicinity are cordially invited to meet with the group. The annual banquet, usually held in January or February, was postponed this year in anticipation of the big Birthday banquet tentatively set for Saturday, July 31.

J. H. Fleckenstine, '12, president of the York Bucknell Club, reports fine service in the showing of Bucknell pictures. He reports, also, that the district has exceeded its goal in the Birthday Campaign.

Lawrence M. Kimball, '23, president of Southern New Jersey Alumni Club, reports a meeting, following the big Birthday Dinner in Philadelphia on April 8, for election of officers. An excellent list of officers promises a dinner rally in the early fall.

In connection with reports from the various clubs should be mentioned the numerous enthusiastic banquets which are a part of the Birthday drive. Meetings have been held or are being held in Allentown, Altoona, Baltimore, Danville, Harrisburg, Hazleton, Johnstown, Lewisburg, Milton, Mount Carmel, New York City, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Reading, Scranton, Sunbury, Trenton, Uniontown, Washington, Wilkes-Barre, Williamsport, Wilmington, and York.

New Charter Requested

Francis F. Reamer, '21, has written, saying that the Bucknellians want a charter for a new club in Shamokin. Shamokinites have always belonged to the Mount Carmel group, but numbers and unusual Bucknell enthusiasm have led them to request a charter of their own.

A MESSAGE FROM YOUR PRESIDENT

YOUR association has recently joined the "College Registration Service." This is a new division of the Association of American Colleges, which has set up some 40 centers in cities located near camps where our men and women in the service are in training. These Centers are now established all over the world and serve as a meeting place for college boys and girls who, through the registration system, come in contact with alumni from their own college. Bucknell is associated with 120 of the leading colleges of America in this service.

We realize that it is becoming more and more difficult for the local alumni associations to hold regular meetings but it is more important than ever to hold your organization together. The Harrisburg Club has done an outstanding work during the past year with a meeting every month with many prominent speakers as their guests. If it is impossible to hold the regular dinner meetings, why not hold group meetings at the homes of various alumni and sing the old Bucknell songs and join in a little "Do you remember?" session.

With the advent of the Navy Training program on our campus, it is a wonderful opportunity for the alumni, faculty and others to make each and every one of these new boys feel at home and make them a real part of Bucknell. Let us "sell 'em Bucknell." Then when they leave they will feel that they are Bucknellians and they will be boosters for B. U. and carry good-will to the four corners of the earth.

Sincerely,

W. C. LOWTHER,
President, General Alumni Assn.

ATTENTION—Service Men and Women

THE College Registration Service, with headquarters at 19 West 44th Street, New York City, has provided facilities for you to get in contact with other Bucknell men and women.

Go to the Registration Center in your vicinity, register and then look over the list of registrants from Alma Mater.

It is expected that one or more Bucknellians will take the lead in your area, and, if no one has been assigned to that function in your center, won't you volunteer or suggest names of others in the area who will be willing to take the initiative in getting Bucknell people together.

Bucknell will endeavor to keep the centers supplied with such reading matter as will be of most interest to men and women in Service. Suggestions on this will be thankfully received by the Alumni Office.

Operating Centers of the College Registration Service as of July first, were:

TO ALL FORMER BUCKNELL STUDENTS

Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, June 10, 1943.

FOR several years I have been working on the Centennial Directory with almost no suggestions from those who have attended Bucknell. I was surprised at the lack of cooperation for I have known of your interest in our Alma Mater, and I knew you would be willing to comply with our President's request as stated in the attached letter to you from Dr. Marts.

DEAR BUCKNELLIAN:

March 10, 1940.

We have appointed Dr. William G. Owens, Professor Emeritus of Chemistry, Bucknell 1880, as chairman of a committee on the Centennial Alumni Directory to be issued in 1946.

Won't you please send any corrections or new information, including deaths, that you may have about Bucknellians or of acquaintances to Dr. Owens, for his use in making the Centennial Directory the most comprehensive and accurate Bucknell has ever issued.

We would also like, in connection with the observance of the Centennial, to gather all pictures of the early days, particularly of members of the faculty and other pictures of general interest. If you have any such pictures which you can spare, you are invited to send them to Dr. Owens.

Please address him:

DR. WILLIAM G. OWENS,
Chairman of the Centennial Directory Committee,
Bucknell University,
Lewisburg, Pennsylvania.

With best wishes,

Yours sincerely,

ARNAUD C. MARTS.

This letter, written March 10, 1940, was to have been put in all copies of "Your College Friends," issued in 1940. If the letter was not in your copy, this fact explains why we have not heard from you.

If you have pictures of instructors or scenes of interest that you no longer care for, kindly send them. Any information about class, Alma Mater, and friends will be helpful. If you wish, we will copy them and return the originals.

Kindly let us hear from you soon, as the Centennial of our institution will shortly be celebrated.

Yours for success,

WM. G. OWENS.

happy experience with us in the Philadelphia area. Our committees have enjoyed performing this service and we have gotten better acquainted as Bucknellians than we have ever been before."

"I want you to point out, also," said Jim, "that by giving 'A Share' you may not be giving 'Your Share.' That can only be decided by the size of the contribution Bucknell has made to your life and your fortune, and by your ability to pay back part of your obligation to Alma Mater."

The executive committee of Area VII met on June 17 in the Orange and Blue Room, Hotel Lewisburg, with Area Chairman Professor Frank M. Simpson and enthusiastically planned the "home" campaign. Others present were: Trustees Berkeley V. Hastings, '13, Dr. Mary Wolfe, '96, and James F. McClure, '13. Also Harold L. Shimer, '21, Milton district chairman, and Carl L. Millward, '06, co-chairman; Philip C. Campbell, '22, Danville chairman, and Willis E. Jones, '39, co-chairman; Charles A. Fryling, '13, Sunbury district chairman, and Lewis A. Eyster, '17, co-chairman; Kenneth A. Bidlack, '29, representing "West County," and Dayton L. Ranck, '16, representing the University. W. J. Busser, unavoidably absent, will head the Union County citizens organization, assisted by Harry E. Stein, Mr. McClure, Dr. Wolfe and other prominent citizens.

DEAR ALUMNUS:

Within the past year, a card was sent to you asking for reports on address changes, accomplishments, promotions, marriages, births, etc. Hundreds of these have been returned and we appreciate your fine cooperation.

This technique, for obvious reasons, cannot be repeated frequently. Therefore, I am appealing to you to keep this office informed by letter or post card of every newsworthy thing that happens to you. We are anxious to keep the ALUMNI MONTHLY a real news magazine of interest to every alumnus.

If you were looking for something that you believe should have appeared in this number, please be patient. Perhaps it will appear next time.

Ideas for the improvement of the MONTHLY will be gladly received.

Thank you.

FRANK G. DAVIS, '11,
Acting Alumni Secretary.

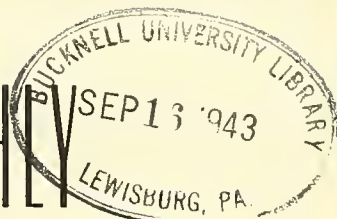

FRAME A BUCKNELL SCENE

Whenever possible the back cover of the Alumni Monthly will carry a picture that Bucknellians may care to frame. We believe many of you will frame and hang in a place of honor the Old Main view on the back of this issue.

THE BUCKNELL ALUMNI MONTHLY

-- SPECIAL 100th BIRTHDAY ISSUE --

Vol. xxvii No. 5

LEWISBURG, PENNA.

SEPTEMBER, 1943

As of September 1, the One Hundredth Birthday Gift total stood at $251,340.75, with $33,659.25 to raise to reach the $285,000 required. Subscriptions continue to come in daily from all parts of the country.

Further subscriptions should be mailed to Bucknell Campaign, Box 631, Lewisburg, Pa. Payments on previous pledges should be mailed to the Treasurer, Bucknell University.

Campaign Director Extends Greetings

August 19, 1943

To Bucknellian Workers and Givers:

I am very grateful to this issue for the opportunity to congratulate you on the big job which Bucknellians are doing for our University, both as givers and workers.

To date you have produced $251,340, including Union County's $32,140, which was a splendid indication of the loyalty of the County for the "University on the Hill".

You still have $33,659 to produce in order to attain the $285,000 which will free Bucknell of her ball-and-chain inheritance. I am certain that you will do the job for President Marts and for the boys and girls of these and future years.

I want to add my personal appreciation to that of the College of the splendid production of the entire organization of over 600 "working workers", and particularly to General Chairman Roy G. Bostwick, '05, and Alumni Chairman Edgar A. Snyder, '11, whose coats have been off continuously throughout the many months on this project.

"Church of the Air" Features Fahringer

The Rev. Fred Fahringer, Sr., '15, chaplain at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., will give the sermon on the Columbia Broadcasting System's nationwide "Church of the Air" program Sunday, September 19, from 10:00 to 10:30 A. M., Eastern War Time.

He will be heard by special request of the CBS program director who heard him at Fort Oglethorpe and requested a similar service for the September 19 program, which will be in honor of the WAC.

No doubt two men in the armed forces who will listen with interest are "Johnnie", '40, star actor, and "Freddie", '42, equally clever in athletics.

PAUL HARDING

Paul Harding Wins Notable Music Contest

Paul E. Harding, '23, has had some difficulty communicating to his many friends any vivid picture of just how he felt when a voice on the telephone notified him that he had topped the field in a big music appreciation contest and had been awarded the first prize of $10,000.00. "My first reaction," said Mr. Harding, "was a feeling of being somewhat stunned. After a few days, this gradually disappeared and other pleasant feelings replaced it. The principle positive reaction was a feeling of relief from debt."

The contest in which he participated was sponsored by the Music Appreciation Projects, a national organization with branches in the principal cities of the country. There were 35,000 contestants. Each one was expected to solve 270 puzzles of the rebus type and write an essay. It was

Chairman Snyder Congratulates Alumni

Congratulations to you alumni who so loyally and unselfishly have contributed hard work and subscriptions to Bucknell's Hundredth Birthday Gift fund. You now have the great satisfaction of knowing that through your efforts and sacrifices the full amount of the General Alumni quota has been over subscribed by eight per cent. We who had faith that we could do this and then did it were always a minority.

Approximately 2,200 of our total alumni group of about 9,600 performed all the work and subscribed all the funds to raise over 142,500, which was our alumni quota of the debt. Again we prove that a minority is a potent, powerful group in any body, politic or civic. Because we are such a fine, effective and influential group, I feel sure that many more alumni will want to join us! We are somewhat exclusive in that we are limited to a minority membership of 4,799—just one less than half the number of total alumni—but you can see that we have room for about 2,599 more. So why not hurry and join us?

It's easy to join. You need not even bother to write to the Alumni Office for a pledge card. Just take time out right now to fill out a check payable to Bucknell University for any amount. Ten dollars, twenty, thirty, or a full share—there is no limitation either low or high. Or simply write a letter stating how much you

Football Holds Spotlight Ludwig Assists Sitarsky

Sixty years ago this fall Bucknell played its first official intercollegiate football game, and, war or no war, that ancient tradition of athletic competition is being continued this fall. Football will remain alive at Bucknell in 1943 because the Navy V-12 training program, which has brought 300 sailors and 300 marines to the campus, has supplied the necessary manpower. Of the 50 men on the squad, all but one are servicemen.

Everything is new at Bucknell this year—not only the newly-installed V-12 training unit, but also the coaching corps. Head Coach Al Humphreys and his assistant, S. J. (Bus) Blum, who led the Bisons to six wins, two losses and one tie in 1942, are now Navy officers at the Del Monte, Cal., pre-flight school. In their places are John J. Sitarsky, '36, Bucknell's first alumnus coach in the past quarter-century, and his aide, Ellwood (Woody) Ludwig, one-time University of Pennsylvania end, who has been holding the gridiron reins at Shamokin High School the past four seasons.

It will not be a complete coaching turnover, however, because as freshman mentor the past seven years Sitarsky has learned the ropes thoroughly. He has had, incidentally, the experience of playing under his last three predecessors as Bucknell coach—under Al Humphreys at Cook Academy, and under Carl Snaveley and E. E. (Hooks) Mylin during his three playing seasons at Bucknell.

The Bisons will probably use the same system of play as they employed last year under Humphreys. That is, they will use the single-wing and T-formation offenses, changing from one to the other as the situation demands.

Although the V-12 assignments have brought the Thundering Herd football men with previous experience at nearly a score of colleges, the nucleus of the squad is likely to be a little group of five lettermen from last year's Bison array. They are headed by the co-captains, Marine Private Walter Szot and Apprentice Seaman Gene Matthews, who play alongside each other at tackle and end, respectively.

Other lettermen returning from last year's eleven include three seasoned fullbacks: Elting (Red) Johnson, Carroll Murray and Ray Tyler. Then, too, Guards Felix Cristoforo and Bill Bontempi and Halfback Ralph Grant saw considerable service with the Bisons a year ago.

One of these holdovers, Johnson, was the Herd's leading scorer in 1942, excelling in line-plunging and place-kicking. Szot was acclaimed by Coach Humphreys as equal to the best collegiate tackles he had seen. Rugged and shrewd, he is a master at breaking up opponents' plays.

Temple University and Manhattan College have supplied sizeable reinforcements to the Bison squad. From Temple have come Quarterback Gene Hubka, an alert field general and precision passer; Right Halfback Louis Buckwalter and End Bill Johnston.

The Manhattan contingent is headed by Jim Worst, the Jaspers' captain-elect and a bang-up end. It also includes Mike Kostynick, a chunky but slick left halfback, End Andy Murphy and Tackle Henry Furio.

Other front-running varsity contenders include Center Peter Calcano, from Panzer College in New Jersey which specializes in producing physical education experts; Kenneth Schuster, 195-pound guard from Hampden-Sydney; Jerome Schwartz, 203-pound guard from Alfred College; Dick Hoffman, 200-pound left halfback who played at Indiana State Teachers College; Joe Brody, end from Pitt, and John Hewson, six-feet six end from Muhlenberg.

With this wealth of material, however, the chief drawback has been the inability of the Bison coaches to work with their players more than a half hour daily. Most of the players are taking engineering or technical courses which keep them in class or laboratory until 5:30 P. M. Practice must be over by 6:15, which means Sitarsky and Ludwig are pressed for time. Restrictions placed upon the Navy trainees as soon as they fall behind in academic work have also cut down the size of the squad from time to time.

CAMPAIGN DIRECTOR

You all have my sincere thanks for the heartiest cooperation and most pleasant relationships in my experience in 63 campaigns.

Almost everyone "followed program" and, on many occasions, improved on it. Your winning spirit carried all before it.

Subscriptions are coming in from all sides. One to-day said "I am sorry it can't be more. God bless your efforts".

Let us rejoice in success to date and let us, as well, realize our peculiar responsibility for complete success. One of the high spots has been the accumulation of subscriptions from men in the armed services, many of which were sent without benefit of solicitation.

It has been a great pleasure to serve you.

Sincerely yours,
J. Douglass Foster

Owens Reminds Alumni of B. U. "Who's Who"

Dear Alumnus:

On the inside cover of the last Alumni Monthly a request was made by President Marts that pictures and incidents of your college days be sent for the Birthday Directory.

Two replies have been received. One offered suggestions for the directory. The other contained two pictures and several incidents. One, in the 70's, when the students delighted in ducking each other, told of the surprise a staid professor had when, as he entered the West Wing door, he got a bucket of water on his head. When the student discovered his mistake, he also was surprised. The letter relating this incident contained a $100.00 check.

Many letters have been received in the last few years telling of the affection old students feel for Bucknell. Would you like to see Bucknell folklore preserved? Cooperation proves loyalty. Money talks.

Sincerely yours,
William G. Owens, '80

Dr. D. M. Griffith Re-Writes Book

D. M. Griffith, '23, chairman of the Department of Civil Engineering at Bucknell, has recently revised completely the volume on "Steel and Timber Structures," of Hool and Kinn's "Structural Engineers". Dr. Griffith re-wrote much of the book and re-worked many designs, the whole task requiring about eighteen months.

The volume is published by the McGraw-Hill Book Company.

Latin-American Education Conference at Bucknell

Alumni living within commuting distance from Bucknell will save their gasoline coupons this month for an unusual event. On October first they will be privileged to attend the annual Bucknell Conference on Education. But this year it will be different. It will deal strictly with education in the Latin-American Nations. This year, as always, there will be two large general sessions, at 2:00 P. M. and 7:45 P. M., and group meetings at 4:00 P. M. However, this year the group meetings will be reduced to three instead of the dozen or more always held heretofore. Elementary education, secondary education and higher education will be the subjects discussed.

Speakers already engaged as this sheet goes to press are Dr. John C. Patterson, Specialist in Inter-American Educational Relations, U. S. Office of Education; Dr. Francisco Cespides, Educational Assistant, Pan American Union; Margarida Reno, Portuguese Translator, U. S. Department of State; Dr. Hubert Herring, Director, Committee on Cultural Relations with Latin-America; and Madame Olga Coelho, celebrated Brazilian soprano and guitarist. A number of additional educational specialists are expected to be present.

On Saturday, October 2, a number of these speakers and several Latin-American students will speak in University classes. Saturday evening they will be received at a Latin-American social affair.

PAUL HARDING WINS

the essay which won the contest, since many others had solved all the puzzles correctly. Harding says, "I am sorry I can't credit the winning essay to the excellent training I received in theme-writing from our good friend, Charlie Fries, but I am afraid that too much water has passed over the dam since that time. However, I still recall how I sweat over those themes."

Mr. Harding is director of instrumental music in the Washington, Pennsylvania, High School. Since leaving Bucknell, he has attended the University of Cincinnati and the Cincinnati College of Music. He has also received the degree of Master of Science in Education from Pennsylvania State College. He has taught at Penn State Summer Sessions, organized and conducted bands and orchestras at Washington and Jefferson College, and served as critic, guest conductor, and judge of music events in the southwestern part of Pennsylvania. He is married to Ruth A. Smith, x'24, and has two children, Ruth Ann and Paul.

College Registration
Service Is Discontinued

Just as the Bucknell Alumni were offering to assist with the College Registration Service in response to the invitation in the June issue of the Alumni Monthly along came an order that the organization be disbanded because of possible hazards to the security of our Armed Forces.

Dr. Guy E. Snavelly, Executive Secretary of the Association of American Colleges, writes:

"College Registration Service was launched with approval of high ranking officials of the War Department. In many centers, over a period of months, the commanding officers actively aided the establishment of the service. But a few weeks ago the commanding officers in four districts disapproved of the service, indicating that the College Registration Service might give aid and comfort to the enemy, which more than offset the uplift in morale given the men in the forces. The opposition to the service developed in New Orleans, Norfolk, Denver, and Atlanta."

Dr. Snavelly communicated with the War Department and found the high officials holding the opinion voiced by the commanding officers mentioned above. Therefore, the Association of American Colleges is bowing out of the picture and taking the College Registration Service along. The idea seemed good to alumni secretaries, but they would be the last to ask for opportunities for service if thereby the life of even a single man in uniform might be jeopardized.

V-12 Students
Purchase War Bonds

Because they have achieved a 100% record in setting aside money from their pay for the purchase of war bonds, the Bucknell University Navy V-12 students have qualified to fly the Commandant's War Bond Pennant. Lieut. Miles Lilly represented the Commandant of the Fourth Naval District, and presented the pennant to Lt. Commander J. E. Fleming, commanding officer of the Bucknell unit, while the 600 sailors and marines stood at attention. Bucknell's V-12 men are setting aside an average of 28.3% of their pay for the purchase of war bonds.

Ensign Eleanor Parry, '42, is dis-bursing officer for the Navy V-12 unit.

Recognition

A late letter from M. Beatrice Mettler, '25, of Bloomsburg State Teachers College, asks that her Birthday Gift be listed, "In memory of Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindemann."

Fall Commencement To Be Held in October

Bucknell's first fall commencement will be held on October 23. About 70 persons will receive degrees.

Harrisburg Club Opens Season Sept. 2

The Harrisburg Bucknell Alumni Club opened the season with a rousing meeting at the Y.M.C.A. on Thursday evening, September 2. President Walter B. Shaw was on his vacation but had made complete arrangements for his efficient vice president, Franklin Figner, '33, to manage the program. Frank G. Davis, '11, Acting Alumni Secretary, brought a message from the campus and showed pictures of the 1943 Lafayette and Gettysburg football games, both of which, alumni will recall, were Bucknell Victories.

The club is starting out with fine momentum and expects to have an enthusiastic meeting the first Thursday of every month throughout the year.

Association of Bucknell Women of Pittsburgh held first meeting, September 8.

CAMPAIGN SPEAKER

Harry DeWire, '14, veteran in the Harrisburg School System, and a native of Winfield, Pennsylvania, formally took over the post of Principal of the William Penn High School recently. DeWire has been a tower of strength in the Birthday Campaign in the Susquehanna Valley, speaking at banquets in Williamsport, Sunbury, Milton, and Harrisburg.

PROMOTION FOR MARSH

H. Montgomery Marsh, Jr., '28, has been promoted to Assistant Vice President of the Irving Trust Company of New York City. He formerly held the position of Assistant Secretary. He has been affiliated with the company in its Woolworth Building headquarters since the summer of 1928. He has been an officer since 1939.

Have You Heard This?

Brigadier General Henry C. Wolfe, '16, has been honored recently by being made a member of the Legion of Merit for the outstanding service he rendered in landing his troops safely in Africa. He was in charge of a large convoy sailing out of New York for Africa in the spring. At present, he is in the Amphibian Division in Africa.

On page 46 of Time Magazine for August 30, 1943, is the following paragraph: "The man who had the unenviable job of deciding who should and who should not get penicillin was Dr. Chester S. Keefer, of Boston's Evans Hospital. He is chairman of the National Research Council's committee on chemical therapy, to which WPB turned over the rationing of the drug. Because it is especially effective in treating battle-wound infections, most of the meager supply (amount: a military secret) goes to the armed forces."

Reference was made to the marvelous new drug, penicillin, which had been potently publicized when the New York Journal-American persuaded a WPB official to release enough of the remedy to save the life of a child stricken with a staphylococcus blood infection.

Dr. Keefer is one of the leading scientists in the field of penicillin treatments. Incidentally he is a graduate of Bucknell in the class of 1918.

Reynolds Packard, '26, has been appointed as United Press manager for North Africa. He is to re-open the Rome bureau as soon as possible. He has been in North Africa, helping to direct the United Press coverage of the Sicilian invasion.

Ensign John Bush, '42, commanded the first boats loaded with initial forces to land on Sicilian shores during the Allied invasion.

Raymond B. Stapleton, '14, has moved to 206 North Lehigh Street, Tamaqua, Pennsylvania. Mr. Stapleton is Principal of the Tamaqua High School and President of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association.

Shelving Promised for Alumni Publications

For a number of years the Alumni Office has housed a library of books written by Bucknellians. The collection is incomplete and the shelves need to be replaced by better ones. Every alumnus who has published a book or pamphlet during the past decade will confer a distinct favor on the Alumni Association by seeing that a copy is on exhibit. More attractive shelving has been promised by a loyal alumnus, Professor Frank E. Burpee, '01.

will give and what dates you will make payment and mail it to the Campaign Office, Box 631, Lewisburg, for the Birthday Fund. It is your application to join the select minority group and your application will be approved. You will be one of us and you will be very welcome.

Although our alumni quota is subscribed, we still need some $34,000 or more, or 340 Shares, to fully cover the entire debt. Surely there are 2,599 more alumni who can afford to invest something in Bucknell. Even Twenty-five Dollars from each of 2,599 alumni who so far have not contributed will more than complete the fund and give Mother Bucknell a bit extra to invest in a little new "finery" for her celebration.

As one of the National Alumni Co-Chairman for the campaign may I congratulate you on behalf of Bucknell for a job done but may I also ask your earnest consideration of my plea for continued help in additional subscriptions and prompt payment of pledges when due until the entire debt has been liquidated. Let's make certain that on that Birthday celebration in 1946 we will witness a bonfire of $285,000 worth of well-aged, crinkly paid off notes. We must start Bucknell on a new era on that day, free of debt and full of enthusiasm and energy for her second century of service.

The BUCKNELL
Alumni Monthly

Letter from the President

November 12, 1943.

DEAR BUCKNELLIAN:

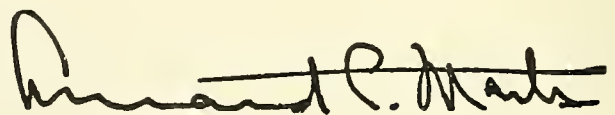

Another semester has just opened with the largest number of students ever on the campus at a given time—1345. It is the first time in Bucknell's history that a semester has opened on November first. Precedents as to dates and numbers are being broken, but the traditional Bucknell spirit carries on. Civilian students and Navy and Marine trainees sit side-by-side in the classroom, most of them with a common loyalty and enthusiasm for the Bucknell tradition.

Thirteen Bucknell men have given their lives thus far in this war. Reports of Bucknell heroism come to us from far and near. The record which Bucknellians are making in this war will be no less honorable than the record of patriotism and courage which previous Bucknell generations have left behind on our campus.

May every Bucknellian do his or her utmost in the service of America during this war. And may every Bucknellian, also, do his or her part in the great job that must be done after victory, in establishing sensible and effective methods of international coöperation which will bring peace to mankind. The mind and spirit of our generation must grapple with this supreme problem.

Use the mind and spirit which Bucknell helped to develop in you—won't you?—to help poor bewildered and frustrated mankind find its way after this war to an era of freedom and peace and good will!

My kindest regards to each and all of you.

BUCKNELL HOLDS FIRST OCTOBER COMMENCEMENT

BUCKNELL'S first fall Commencement, held October 23, was unique in another respect, also. President Marts, acting for the presidents of three other institutions (Siena College, Drexel Institute of Technology and Pratt Institute), presented diplomas to eight V-12 men being graduated from those schools. A number of Bucknell men in uniform also received diplomas and in each case received a round of thunderous applause. Of the 48 persons receiving the Bucknell bachelor's degree, four were graduated cum laude. These were William Morland Griffiths of Tamaqua, Betty Evelyn Miles of Mahanoy City, Mary Frances Parmelee of Library, and

BUCKNELL—NOVEMBER, 1943

BUCKNELLIANs coming back to the campus in November of this year see the same old place with just a few changes. One of the changes is that the first "semester," now called a "term," began on November 1. At that time the football season was about half done and many of the team members who played early in the season were leaving for other parts and new ones were taking their places. But all this is treated in Bob Streeter's article. One interesting fact might be that the Christmas vacation has been cut to six days.

Of course, we have a liberal sprinkling of Navy and Marine Corps uniforms about the campus—561 of them, to be exact, in addition to those of the Ship's Company. The V-12 program has ceased to be a novelty. At first the snappy step, the listening without back talk when a tough sergeant told a sailor or marine his faults and perhaps reminded him not too gently to stand closer to his — — razor the next time he shaved, the staying in at night for purposes of education—these and many other small items made things seem a bit strange. But people soon get used to the novel and it becomes the commonplace. Relations between the service men and the civilians are cordial and the staff members associate pleasantly with the Bucknell faculty. If anyone predicted that the program would not be a harmonious one, he is due for a second guess.

Highlight of the V-12 residence here was October 23, when Admiral Jacobs, Chief of Naval Personnel, reviewed the program and called it excellent. Interesting and educational was the recent address by Lieutenant Commander Fleming before a large meeting of the Susquehanna Valley Association of University Women, when he discussed the tremendous growth and significance of the U. S. Navy and explained the V-12 program.

The impact of the war on Bucknell's attendance is indicated by the student population this term, which is 1345—four more than ever attended Bucknell before. Of these, 561 are V-12 trainees and the remainder civilians—578 women and 206 men not in uniform. Many of these men are already registered in essential courses and a considerable number have not yet reached the age of 18. Student activities, while curtailed to some degree, are going on as vigorously as could be expected in a period when winning the war is our biggest job.

SCHAFFNER, WORLD WAR HERO, BACK IN THE ARMY

A REPLY to a recent communication to Dwite Schaffner, '15, indicates that he is back in the Army, located in Tennessee at the state headquarters of the Selective Service System. It is an interesting coincidence that Dwite is in the home state of Sergeant York, the great World War I hero, for he came near to duplicating York's heroic feat during the First World War.

Schaffner is probably best remembered as the only Bucknellian who was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross in the last war. This decoration was given to only 93 of the millions of men engaged at that time. The occasion of the conferring of the honor is remembered in Akron, Ohio, where he was a practicing lawyer, by the declaration by the city authorities of a half holiday in celebration of the event. He earned this distinction when, as a captain in France, he captured a height dominated by a machine-gun nest, which he took almost singlehanded, killing the commander with his own revolver but getting invaluable strategic information from him before his demise.

But Schaffner is remembered by Bucknellians, also, as one of the best football centers ever to play here, where he held down that position for four years, being captain one year. He played four years of basketball and was captain half of that time. In

MRS. STEVENS TODAY AND IN 1858

HARRIET MASON STEVENS, BUCKNELL ALUMNA, CELEBRATES 102nd BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

NOVEMBER 24, 1943, was a memorable day for Harriet Mason Stevens, for on that day she became 102 years old. It was a notable day for Bucknell, too, for Mrs. Stevens is a woman who has brought fame to Bucknell as its oldest alumnus and also as one who performed a notable literary feat. As a child and during her forty-five years as the wife of a missionary in Burma, she learned the Burmese language. That is something that would naturally be expected of her; but few would expect a mother of seven children to engage in the translation of the Bible into Burmese. This project, started in Burma, she finished after her return to America in 1911. In addition, she completed a voluminous list of references in Burmese. Today at the age of 102, she reads at least a chapter daily in her Burmese translation.

Harriet Calista Mason was born in Tavoy, Burma, on November 24, 1841. She came to Bucknell from Newton Center, Massachusetts, where her father was

DEATH CALLS BELOVED TRUSTEE

ON OCTOBER 3, 1943, was completed the career of Dr. George T. Ladd, Bucknell Trustee and benefactor, in whose honor the Bucknell Mechanical Engineering Department has been named the George T. Ladd Department of Mechanical Engineering. In announcing the naming of this department, President Arnaud C. Marts said, "We are proud to have our engineering instruction at Bucknell associated with the career of one of the truly great industrial engineers and organizers of our generation. Mr. Ladd's extreme personal modesty has prevented a general appreciation of his achievements in our modern industrial life. It is our hope that by associating his name with our Department of Mechanical Engineering a small fraction of the public recognition which he has earned will be directed toward his achievements and, if this association will help to inspire only one young engineering student in each generation to follow his example in scientific achievement, the result will be a very great service to American progress."

Dr. Ladd, the son of a Congregational minister, who later achieved renown as a professor at Yale and the writer of numerous books, started life with considerable intellectual and cultural momentum. He was graduated from the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale in 1891, and received the degree of Mechanical Engineer from Cornell University in 1895. His career was one of rapid growth in a number of organizations and for the last fifteen years of his life he had been President and General Manager of the United Engineering and Foundry Company of Pittsburgh.

In introducing him for the degree of Doctor of

DR. CHESTER SCOTT KEEFER, '18, DOLES OUT PRECIOUS PENICILLIN

THE September issue of the ALUMNI MONTHLY contained a brief statement concerning the work Dr. Chester S. Keefer is doing in connection with the astounding drug, penicillin. We quote part of that statement: "On page 46 of Time Magazine for August 30, 1943, is the following paragraph: 'The man who had the unenviable job of deciding who should and who should not get penicillin was Dr. Chester S. Keefer of Boston's Evans Hospital. He is chairman of the National Research Council's committee on chemical therapy, to which WPB turned over the rationing of the drug. Because it is especially effective in treating battle-wound infections, most of the meager supply (amount a military secret) goes to the armed forces.'"

Since publication of the above statement, Dr. Keefer has received much news and editorial attention for his notable accomplishments in this connection. Therefore, it will be appropriate for the Alumni to know something of his attainments since his graduation from Bucknell. They will be mentioned only in large outline.

Since he received the degree of M.D. from Johns Hopkins in 1922, he has held many important positions. Only a few which relate to his teaching experience are listed below:

- 1926-28, Instructor in Medicine, University of Chicago
- 1928-30, Associate Professor of Medicine, Peiping Union Medical College, Peiping, China
- 1930-36, Assistant Professor of Medicine, Harvard Medical School
- 1936-40, Associate Professor of Medicine, Harvard Medical School
- 1940-, Wade Professor of Medicine, Boston University School of Medicine
- 1940-, Director, Robert Dawson Evans Memorial, Massachusetts Memorial Hospital
- 1940-, Physician-in-Chief, Massachusetts Memorial Hospital
- 1940-, Consulting Physician, Thorndike Memorial Laboratory, Boston City Hospital.

Space does not permit the naming of the eleven learned medical societies of which he is a member, nor is it possible to name the 27 important appointments in addition to those mentioned above. For the same reason it is impossible to list a bibliography of the 160 scientific papers he has published since he entered the profession 21 years ago.

Bucknell and the Alumni Association are proud that a Bucknellian has made such important contributions to the welfare of his fellow men.

ED PANGBURN A HERO IN THE MEDITERRANEAN

EDWARD W. PANGBURN, '15, is 48 years old, the age when men are expected to slow up on their athletic activities. Furthermore, since graduating from medical school he has been a surgeon, a job which requires a steady nerve but does not demand strenuous physical exercise. However, Ed must have been taking systematic preparation for violent activities or he would not have been able to speak at the Bucknell Convocation on November 10 apparently in top condition.

The basis of the above statement is the fact that during the invasion activities in the Mediterranean he performed a feat the story of which will long remain in the archives of Bucknell and of the U. S. Navy as a tale worth telling. While at mess on his ship, word came that two paratroopers had landed some miles away and one had been seriously injured. The other, requisitioning a horse from a native, had come to the beach and requested medical aid. Dr. Pangburn responded to the call. He and the paratrooper, along with a pharmacist's mate, boarded a landing barge in charge of a coxswain and seven seamen. They reached a spot where the paratrooper could point out the location of his buddy but they were three hundred yards from the shore and on account of the size of the barge and the height of the waves were not able to approach any closer. Thus the only method of reaching the wounded man was by swimming.

Lieutenant Commander Pangburn, the paratrooper and the pharmacist's mate stripped and plunged into the rough sea, Dr. Pangburn holding by his teeth his medicine case weighing a half dozen pounds. The going was tough and he lost track of the pharmacist's mate. The paratrooper sank out of sight and Ed had to dive twice for him before bringing him to the surface. Then, with the exhausted 'trooper clinging to his neck, he battled his way to the shore to find the pharmacist's mate already lying on the sand. They lay there a half hour to recover from their exhaustion and then hurried to the spot where the bruised and bleeding paratrooper lay in severe pain, not only because of his battered condition but from a strangulated hernia. Dr. Pangburn performed an emergency operation without benefit of anaesthetic of any kind, laid the man on an old door and the door on the back of a mule, and sent him some six miles to an emergency hospital for treatment. He recovered.

Dr. Pangburn and the pharmacist's mate swam back to the landing barge. An hour later he was seized with severe abdominal pains and was rushed to a hospital. It was thought at the time that his heart was affected. However, after a month in the hospital in the Mediterranean area and another month in a naval hospital in the United States, he was sent back to his family in Philadelphia apparently in excellent condition. He is now serving in the Philadelphia Navy Yard and expecting orders any day to go back to the front.

Bucknell rejoices that Ed Pangburn had the stamina to survive this courageous act. He is one of her most loyal alumni. He is donor of the Pangburn Trophy for Excellence in Scholarship among the Fraternities. Evidences of his love for Bucknell would make too long a list to set down here. Suffice it to say that the Alumni elected him a Bucknell Trustee in 1942. When Old Main burned, Ed was President of the General Alumni Association. In an ALUMNI MONTHLY of that time we have discovered his letter to the Alumni in which the concluding paragraph ran as follows: "Ask yourself one question: Am I a credit to Bucknell? Be proud of your school; live so she will be proud of you." Certainly Ed Pangburn has followed his own advice.

COMMENCEMENT CALENDAR

THE remaining Commencements this year will take place Saturday, February 26; Saturday, June 24; and Saturday, October 21.

STANLEY DAVIES, '12, SUBJECT OF CO-WORKERS' BULLETIN

STANLEY DAVIES is the subject of a very pleasant criticism by Clare M. Tousley, editor of the Community Service Society Bulletin. In an edition not O.K.'d by Dr. Davies, who is executive director of the Society, Miss Tousley tousles her hair rather completely in her discussion of what the Society thinks of him. The occasion of the special edition is the tenth anniversary of his assignment to this important post.

She tells of his birth in Philadelphia in 1892 of Welsh parentage, of his careers at Bucknell and at Columbia University. Deeply interested in sociology of a practical nature, a top-grade scholar and executive of high caliber, and a captain in the First World War, he began his career with the State Charities Aid Association as director of the State Committee on Mental Hygiene. In 1940 he was appointed by Governor Lehman to the Governor's Commission on State Hospital Problems. He is chairman of the Committee on Parole and Family Care of that Commission.

Concerning Dr. Davies' skill as an administrator, Miss Tousley says that he acts on facts and not on impulse, is democratic in his dealings with his co-workers and gives full credit to those around him. One gathers that here is a man of large affairs, who knows, too, the problems of every employee of his organization.

HARRY R. WARFEL, '20, GOES TO THE STATE DEPARTMENT

HARRY WARFEL has gone to the State Department in Washington in charge of the books, translations and libraries abroad of the Division of Cultural Relations of the Department of State. His unit administers to other American Republics grants of books to the value of $125,000 and libraries in Mexico City, Managua (Nicaragua), and Montevideo (Uruguay), and a program by which books of U. S. origin are translated into Spanish and Portuguese and reciprocally books of Latin American origin are turned into English. At present the unit is participating in the China, Near East and European programs. He serves as consultant on American intellectual progress, particularly as reflected in books and periodicals. On request, the unit supplies materials to schools, universities and individuals.

Dr. Warfel is exceptionally well fitted to administer such a program. Graduated from Bucknell in 1920, with degrees of A.B. and M.A., he received the M.A. from Columbia in 1924. He spent a year in graduate work in the University of North Carolina in 1924-25 and in 1932 received his Ph.D. from Yale, specializing in American literature. Out of his interest in Americana have come his book, "Noah Webster, Schoolmaster to America" (1937), hailed as the premier book on this noted American; "The American Mind" (1936), written in collaboration with S. T. Williams of Yale; "American Local Color Stories" (1942), with G. H. Orians; and "Of the People" (1942), with E. W. Manwaring. In addition he issued three small books in this same period

BRIG. GEN'L HENRY C. WOLFE, '16, BECOMES A MEMBER OF THE LEGION OF MERIT

THE September number of the ALUMNI MONTHLY carried a note on Brigadier General Wolfe's outstanding service in connection with the landing of troops at Oran. We note here a few facts about this prominent Lewisburger and Bucknellian.

He is the son of the late Charles J. and Helen M. Wolfe and was born in Lewisburg on May 20, 1896. He attended the Lewisburg schools and graduated from Bucknell in 1916 in the department of electrical engineering. Rising from private to captain in the First World War, he was later graduated from the Fort Benning School, Columbia, Georgia; from the Industrial College, Washington, D. C.; and from the General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. He served for years as National Guard instructor at Spartansburg, South Carolina; four years at Fort Humphreys (now Fort Belvoir), Virginia, as aide to the commanding officer; and four years with the engineer corps that built the famous Fort Peck Dam in Montana. Here he planned and superintended the building of the huge electric power plant now in operation. He served two and one-half years in Hawaii as assistant to the Department Engineer under General Drum at Fort Shafter when roads for defense were being planned. For his work there he was highly commended by his superior officer. He

FRANCIS B. HAAS APPOINTED STATE SUPERINTENDENT FOR THIRD TERM

DR. Francis B. Haas was recently appointed for another four-year term as Pennsylvania State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Dr. Haas, who was Deputy Superintendent under J. George Becht in the 'twenties, served as Superintendent for two years following the latter's death. Appointed four years ago by Governor James, he has been re-appointed by Governor Martin. He has already served longer than has any other Superintendent since Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer.

Superintendent Haas has a long and distinguished record in the field of public education. He served a dozen years as president of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, from which position he was called to the State Superintendency in 1939. During the early days of the great depression he was elected president of the State Education Association and was drafted for a second term, the first person to be so honored. He received the honorary LL.D. from Bucknell in 1939. His son, Francis B. Haas, Jr., is a freshman at Bucknell.

Address Changes

HERETOFORE address changes have been sent to club presidents monthly. For obvious reasons, this custom is being discontinued for the duration. However, complete lists will be sent to club presidents at any time on request. We hope presidents will not be too greatly inconvenienced by this practice.

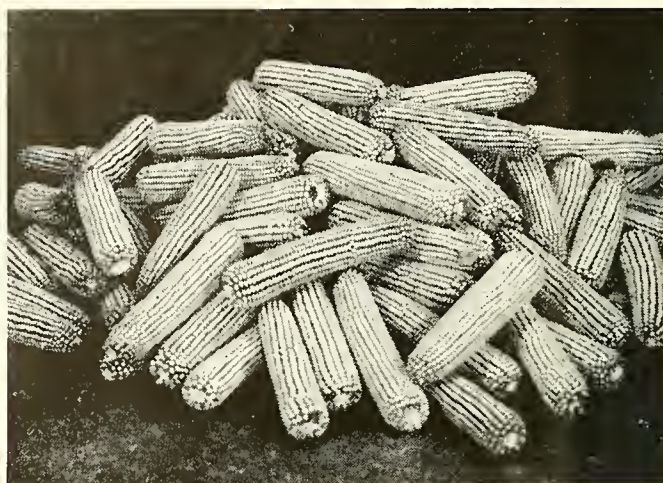

EYSTER RESEARCH PRODUCES SUPERIOR CORN

PENN-HYBRID Corn, developed by Dr. William H. Eyster, Bucknell alumnus and internationally known geneticist for the Bucknell Alumni Research Foundation, is rated the best producing hybrid corn raised in the state. Its growing popularity is due to its superior quality. In 1941, the first year of the Foundation's activities, 750 bushels were produced; in 1942, 1,500 bushels. This year's crop is estimated at 4,000 bushels. Up-to-date, demands for the seed corn have exceeded the supply. The accompanying photograph will give the reader some idea of the appearance of the corn. A much better impression can be obtained by those privileged to witness the exhibit currently on display in the window of C. Dreisbach's Sons new hardware store on Market Street in Lewisburg.

While only the trained scientist can understand all the research that has developed this product over the past 25 years, even the unschooled can feast his eyes on the giant ears growing, usually two on a stalk, whose leaves average from five to seven inches wide. Over these years Dr. Eyster has selected hundreds of pure lines of native Pennsylvania corn but has chosen for Penn-Hybrid only a few combinations which have been found to outyield other hybrids. From such pure lines, immune to common diseases, resistant to drouth, and selected by Mother Nature in some cases from the days of William Penn, Penn-Hybrid Corn has been developed.

It is only about nine years since hybrid corn began to be produced in any considerable amount. Today the traveler through the Middle West will find that the best farmers use hybrids exclusively. However, corn is a crop which is provincial in its nature. Hybrid corn grown in Iowa is not adapted to growth in Pennsylvania. Likewise, corn grown in the south central part of Pennsylvania is not adapted to growth in northern Pennsylvania and the adjoining state of New York. Therefore, Dr. Eyster is developing a hybrid corn adapted to that relatively colder climate. Some preliminary experiments have been unusually successful. It is a bit hard to visualize the possibilities in such a project. Putting the northern tier of Pennsylvania and New York State into the corn-growing area by means of a carefully developed seed corn of high quality would be a contribution of proportions to the solution of our food problem now and after the war, when we shall have to continue to produce food for many other lands.

The Bucknell Alumni Research Foundation is a non-profit organization. In other words, any profit that is derived from the production and sale of Penn-Hybrid Corn is turned back into the Bucknell treasury for the promotion of further research and for the further development of our Bucknell educational program.

FAMOUS ARTIST SPENDS TWO YEARS ON CAMPUS

HARRY WICKEY, the artist who was brought to the campus in the fall of 1942 for a two-year assignment under a Carnegie Foundation grant, has returned to the campus with Mrs. Wickey for his second year, after a summer in their studio at Cornwall-on-Hudson. On leaving the campus May 10, Mr. Wickey presented a brief report on his activities through the past year. A few items of that report follow.

His studio in the Engineering Building was open from nine to twelve and two to four-thirty each day except Sunday. Each day an average of twenty students visited the studio and observed him in all the activities involved in the development of three pieces of sculpture.

Friday afternoon of each week was set aside for demonstrations in the techniques of etching, drypoint, aquatint, lithography, armature construction, and plaster casting. Eighteen of these demonstrations were given between November and May.

Four exhibitions of original works of art were given between December and May. The opening exhibition consisted of approximately 150 original works by Mr. and Mrs. Wickey; the following of originals by a number of famous American artists.

A plan was worked out whereby four hundred original graphic works were offered on a loan basis

FOOTBALL

By ROBERT STREETER, '38

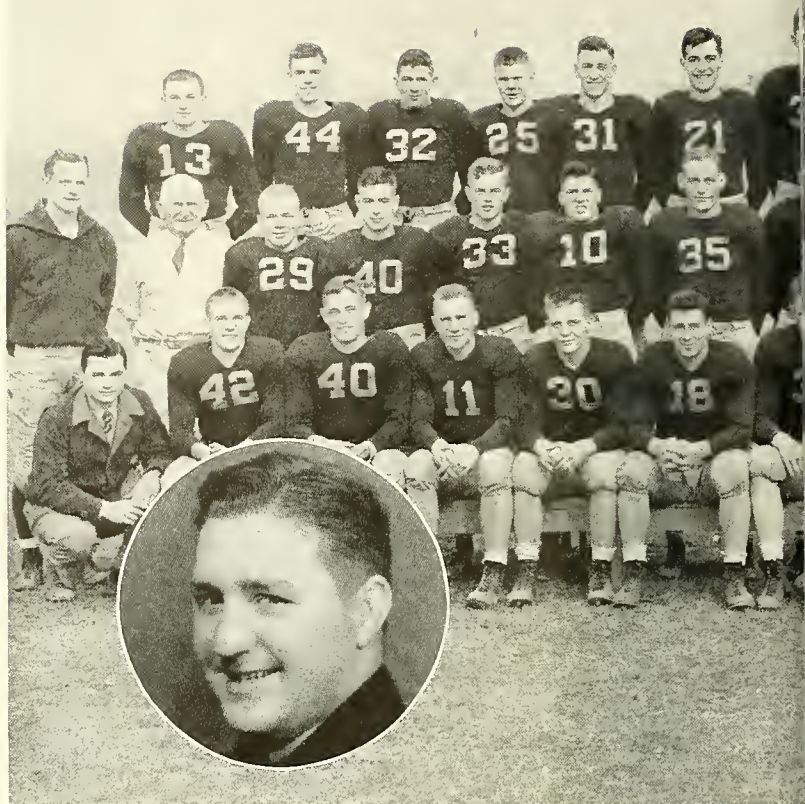

WITH Alumnus Johnny Sitarsky, '36, at the coaching helm, Bucknell's football team rallied after an uneven start and managed to perform like a typical Bison eleven in this most uncertain of all gridiron campaigns. After losing four out of five early-season contests—to Cornell, Penn State, Villanova, and surprisingly strong F. and M.—the Herd finally began thundering in late October and stampeded to five consecutive triumphs over Temple, Muhlenberg, Lakehurst Naval, Case, and F. and M. Thus the season's record stands at six victories, four defeats.

Molding a football team this fall was like stirring a collegiate melting pot, since the squad was composed of Navy V-12 trainees from more than a score of colleges. In the starting lineup for the Cornell and Penn State frays were four Bucknell men, three from Manhattan, two from Temple, and one each from Panzer and Hampden-Sydney.

To make the season that much more hectic, in late October Coach Sitarsky and Trainer Henry N. Peters, '39, received their marching orders from the armed forces. Accepted for Army service, the affable Johnny was able to guide his charges to three victories during his three-week post-induction furlough; he reported for active duty November 17.

Aiding Sitarsky in his mansized job of amalgamating such diverse talent into a hard-hitting football machine was a newcomer to the Bison athletic scene, J. Ellwood (Woody) Ludwig, assistant coach, who took over as head mentor when Sitarsky departed. Ludwig, a varsity end at the University of Pennsylvania, also succeeded Sitarsky as varsity basketball coach.

Capping the campaign was the supercharged Bisons' Thanksgiving Day triumph over a previously undefeated Franklin and Marshall eleven which had been mentioned for the post-season bowl games. Striking savagely in the first two minutes of play,

IN CIRCLES: "JOHNNY" SITARSKY,

Middle row: "WOODY" LUDWIG; JOHN PLANT; 29 POUNDER; 40 PARR; 33 HUBKA; 10 GRANT; 35 JOHNSON; 11 EBERHART; 28 SEEL; 22 TYLER; 39 MAGAGNA; 20 PULIANAS; 16 GORDON; PATRICK LALLY AND FRANK GISICK.

Lower row: KRONER, MANAGER; 42 RANDELL; 40 STEELE; 11 FRANKLIN.

Bucknell's gridmen had a 14-0 lead before the Diplomats knew what was happening.

The first two times Bucknellians got their hands on the ball the Bisons scored touchdowns. Gene Hubka raced back 90 yards for a touchdown after taking the opening kickoff. Then, when F. and M. fumbled on the first play after the return kickoff, George Lefkandinos immediately circled right end for 20 yards and another score.

In the third quarter Hubka ran brilliantly on a 31-yard touchdown trek which climaxed an 80-yard Bison drive. Ahead, 21 to 0, as the fourth quarter began, the Thundering Herd yielded a pair of last-minute touchdowns on a desperate Diplomat aerial assault, which made the final score 21-13.

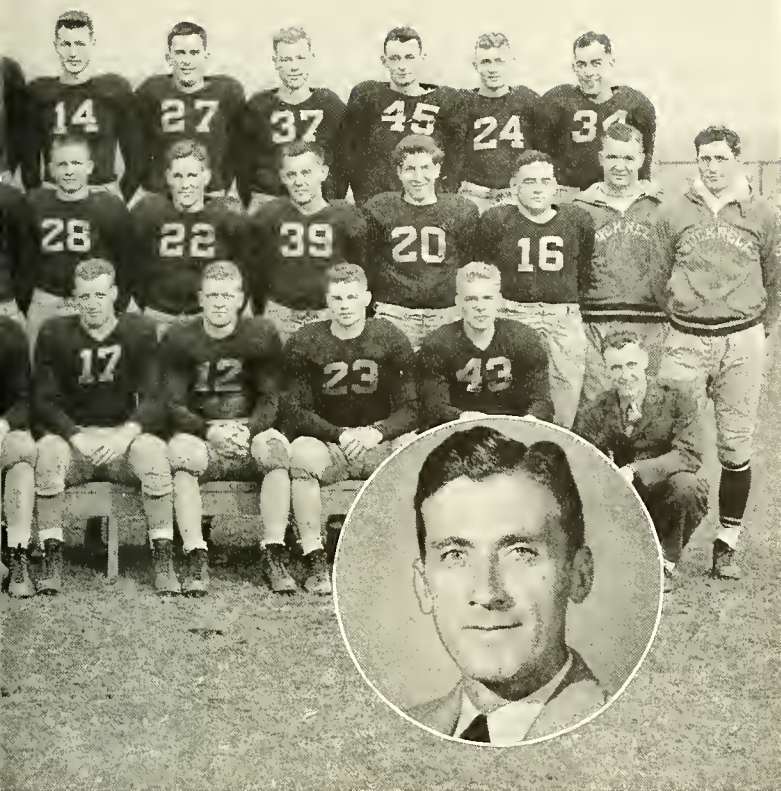

Standouts for the team all fall have been a pair of veteran Bucknellians, Marine Private Walter Szot, co-captain and left tackle, and Apprentice Seaman Elting (Red) Johnson, fullback. Szot, playing alongside the other co-captain, Apprentice Seaman Gene Matthews, made the left side of the Orange and Blue line virtually impregnable. Matthews, incidentally, left the eleven after the Temple game when he was transferred to another naval station for further training.

Naval Lieutenant Al Humphreys, who coached Szot for two years at Bucknell, regards the Bison co-captain as one of the best tackles he has ever seen on any football field, and Sitarsky and Ludwig were willing to concur in that opinion after watching Szot in action this fall. "In three years of college ball Szot has simply never been outfought or outfoxed by an opposing lineman," Sitarsky said.

Johnson, meanwhile, has been compiling one of the best ground-gaining records of any Bison back since the days of Clarke Hinkle. In nine games he lugged the leather 139 times for a total gain of 528 yards, an average of 3.8 yards per try. Curiously, he went six games without scoring a touchdown, mainly because his able substitute, Dick Hoffman, happened to be in play when Bucknell got a scoring opportunity. In the next three tilts, however, Johnson tallied four touchdowns and three extra points for 27 points.

Bucknell's first game this fall was a teacher-meets-pupil affair, as Sitarsky led the Bisons to Ithaca, N. Y., for a contest with the Cornell eleven tutored by his onetime coach, Carl Snavelly. It was a close call for the Snavelymen, too, Cornell winning, 7 to 6. The big Bucknell blow in this game was a 55-yard passing play engineered by two refugees from Manhattan, Mike Kostynick throwing to End Andy Murphy. In the dying moments of play another ex-Manhattan star, Jim Worst, almost pulled off a 28-yard field goal which would have won the game for Bucknell, but his placement try was wide by eighteen inches.

Against Penn State the following Saturday the Bisons had a chance only in the third quarter, when their ground attack brought them to the Nittany Lions' 10-yard line. The rest of the way the Centre Countians held command, with flashy Jack Castigliano catching a pair of touchdown passes in the end zone, to make the margin of victory 14-0.

Bucknellian Alvin F. Julian's Muhlenberg eleven gave the Herd a bitter battle in the first home game of the campaign, but the Sitarskymen eked out a 14-6 victory, as Johnson gained more than 100 yards individually by rushing.

With their Little All-American passer, Doug Rehor, putting on a brilliant display, Franklin and Marshall's Diplomats paid their first visit to the Bucknell campus in half a century and defeated their hosts, 12 to 6. Rehor passed the Bison defense dizzy, with towering Bill Iannicelli his favorite receiver. Bucknell scored in the last two minutes when John Hewson, six feet, six inches of end, snared three straight "desperation" passes.

On a rain-soaked gridiron in Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Bucknell fought all the way before losing to Villanova, 12-8. Momentarily in the third quarter the Bisons led, 8 to 6, but another gifted passer, Al Postus, led the Wildcats to a fourth-quarter touchdown which erased the Lewisburgers' lead.

The team launched its four-game winning streak at the expense of Temple's Owls, who were nosed out, 7 to 6. Trailing by a touchdown in the second half, Bucknell got its scoring break when Szot inter-

BISON CLUB CARRIES ON

C. PRESTON ("PEP") DAWSON, Past President

BISON Club activities have not escaped interference by the war. Much that we normally do and much that we had planned to do some months ago has been side-tracked. For example, the Club was supposed to elect new officers last spring but our meeting was summarily cancelled at the request of Uncle Sam. As a result, the present officers are continuing until other arrangements can be made. Perhaps we shall find it necessary to ballot by mail before long.

Although our program has been considerably altered, the Club will continue to serve Bucknell effectively during the war. Fortunately the Navy has not suspended competitive athletics at the colleges it has taken over and, also fortunately, Bucknell is one of those colleges. Athletics are very much alive at Lewisburg. Bison Club members recently received a letter from Director of Athletics "Benny" Griffith in which they learned about our unusual football team and schedule. By now we have witnessed this unusual team in action (or have read about it), and we have also observed an unusual feature of our schedule—playing the same team twice during the season. So there we have an example of a changed program but nevertheless a continuation of athletic activities.

It is not planned that our Club will engage in a major campaign for new membership this year. We do desire some growth, for when a club stops expanding it falls behind in membership and no organization can do a good job under such circumstances. So we are hoping that Bucknellians who have not yet become affiliated with us will apply for membership now. There is much to be done to stabilize and improve athletics and the only practical answer is a large Bison Club membership with each member making his small contribution in money, suggestions and recruiting of new students for Bucknell.

Some young men will be ready for college before they attain draft age. These should be found and urged to start their college careers. Given a taste of college life and its challenge to improve one's education, some of these young men will look forward to a return to college after hostilities have ceased. Some of the hundreds of fine young marines and sailors sent to Bucknell by the government for special training will desire to return to college after the war and it is our hope that to them college will mean Bucknell. A good program of athletics will help persuade these active fighting men to come back to us. Strong, active young men desire association with strong, active and progressive instructors.

Although we cannot hold large meetings during the war, there is no reason at all why meetings of local groups should not be held. Conversely there is every reason why such meetings should be held and I urge Bisons in every city to get together frequently to discuss ideas for the welfare of the University and the Club. In New York Rush Kress has taken it upon himself for several years to sponsor at least two meetings a year of the Bison Club and other Bucknell groups. Most of these meetings are held at his home. By keeping the groups comparatively small—fifteen to twenty men—there is ample opportunity for each man to be heard if he has suggestions to make. More and more such meetings should be taking place throughout the country. The best suggestions come from such group thinking and planning. I hope some Bisons in each city will take the initiative to set up such meetings.

Most Bucknellians are very busy during these war days. Under such conditions, unless we are reminded and urged to action, we might forget our obligations to Bucknell. I am sure that each member of the Bison Club will answer any call from President Marts to help keep Bucknell on an even keel. However, our President is not likely to call upon us. I suggest voluntary action on the part of each member. While it is fresh in your mind, take some immediate action for the good of our University. Get a new member for the Bison Club! Pay your dues! Sponsor a meeting of Bucknellians in your territory to discuss college affairs! Spot a few good candidates for admission to Bucknell! There is much to be done in these days of war to keep our peacetime institutions and customs alive.

Department of Education Publishes Bulletin

THE Bucknell Department of Education is publishing a new bulletin covering its entire program but emphasizing the graduate program and giving specific requirements for administrative and counselors' certificates. The bulletin will be off the press January 1 and will be sent on request to interested persons.

Bucknell Holds First October Commencement

Douglas Ward Passage of Rochester, New York. Fourteen master's degrees were conferred.

The one honorary doctorate conferred went to Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, Chief of Naval Personnel, a native of Danville, Pennsylvania. In introducing him as the Commencement speaker, President Marts reminded the audience that although Rear Admiral Jacobs was reared only 15 miles from Bucknell he had required 40 years to make the trip. Rear Admiral Jacobs warned his listeners that unless the United States maintains armed force sufficient to win

OSCAR WOLFE, '12, BUILDS "BIG INCH" PIPELINE

OSCAR WOLFE of the Class of 1912 has been doing his bit for the war effort in a big way. As Chief Engineer of the War Emergency Pipelines, Inc., the company which is acting as agent for the United States Government in the project, he has superintended the construction of the "Big Inch" pipeline, consisting of two parallel lines, one 24 inches in diameter and the other 20 inches in diameter. The former line carries crude oil and the latter gasoline, kerosene and heating oils. The pipelines are approximately 1400 miles in length, extending from Texas to the Atlantic Coast of New Jersey. An indication of the importance of the project is the fact that 300,000 barrels of crude oil are pouring into Philadelphia and New York refineries every day. The significance of this to our armed forces is incalculable.

Ever since his graduation, Oscar Wolfe has been connected with the oil industry. In 1912 he went to Oil City, Pa., and got a job with a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company, which was engaged in transporting oil through pipelines. Ever since then he has been engaged in this phase of the industry. From 1917 to 1927 he worked in the oil fields of Kentucky. In 1928 he became assistant engineer of the Texas Pipeline Company and later was promoted to chief engineer. In this position his department constructed pipelines costing many millions of dollars. In 1933 he went to New York City as chief engineer of the Texas Company, which loaned him to the U. S. Government without charge for the tremendous job he has carried out with such amazing dispatch.

Those who were in Bucknell in 1909 well remember the tall German lad just off the boat who entered Bucknell as a sophomore and soon became a member of the Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity. His speech was a bit halting but his heart was in the right location and his ability and pleasing personality soon won the respect of his classmates, of whom the writer was one. Our biggest problem was to pronounce the name of his preparatory school, the Grossherzogliche Oberrealschule, Pforzheim, Baden, Deutschland.

Mr. Wolfe was called back to Bucknell a few years ago, when President Marts appointed a visiting committee on engineering. This committee, of which he is a member, has coöperated loyally in bringing to Bucknell's engineering departments the recognition they now enjoy. But it was a pleasure for him to come back for another reason. His son, Anton Oscar, Junior, was a student here at that time. He was graduated in the Class of 1939 and is now in the Armed Forces. Oscar Junior's mother is Lucy Loane Wolfe of the Class of 1911 at Allegheny College. Mr. Wolfe's present address is The Enquirer Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

TRIPLE CITIES ORGANIZE ALUMNI CLUB

THE Triple Cities (Binghamton, Endicott and Johnson City, New York) now have a live Alumni Club that is full of enthusiasm and rarin' to go. It has accepted as its project for the year the recruiting of a group of first-rate Bucknell students from that area.

The club grew out of the initiative of Harry Stabler, X'23, who decided that the Elmira Club was too far away, particularly in this period of rationed travel, and who was determined that Bucknell should have a bigger place in the thinking of the Triple Cities. He invited the Acting Alumni Secretary to show Bucknell pictures to college prospects in the high schools of the three cities and called a meeting of alumni in the section to consider organization of a club. The pictures were shown on November 22 and the meeting was held the same evening at the Arlington Hotel in Binghamton. Officers elected were President, Harry E. Stabler, X'23; Vice-President, Gordon Goodyear, '27; Secretary, Sam W. Bernstein, '34; Treasurer, James T. Converse, '33; Executive Committee, Robert Walker, '44; William Work, '38; and Herbert W. Morreall, '37. Others present at the meeting were Kendon Foster, X'23; Delbert C. Vaughn, X'34; Mrs. Sam Bernstein (nee

Lost in Action

LT. WILSON W. WOODS

Lieutenant Wilson W. Woods, '41, has been missing in action since July 1, 1943, in the South Pacific. He had seen action at Casablanca, had come home, and had been sent to the South Pacific in December, 1942. A letter from his father, Mr. C. M. Woods, says, "We still have hopes that he will show up."

LT. ROY F. GOOD

John V. Judge, '38, died in an army camp in this country where he was receiving training in connection with the armed forces. His death occurred on December 27, 1942.

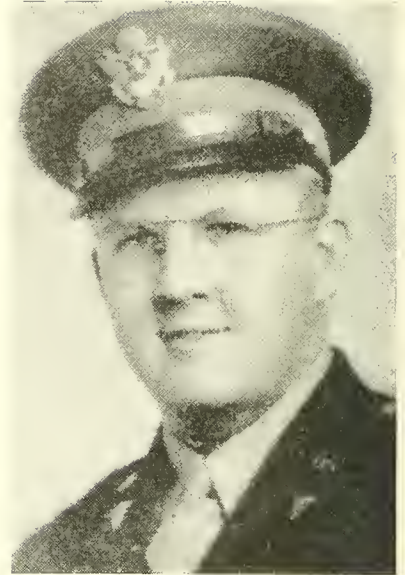

Before his induction into the army, John attended Bucknell Junior College at Wilkes-Barre, then transferred to the University, where he graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Science in Commerce and Finance.

Lieutenant Roy F. Good, '44, was killed in a tragic air accident near Meadville, Penna., on October 5, 1943. He was an instructor at the army air training school, Allegheny College, and was flying with a cadet in a training plane. Another plane left the ground at approximately the same time, and the two planes collided at an elevation of about 1,000 feet.

Lieutenant Good enlisted in the civilian pilot training corps at Bucknell under the supervision of the army air corps. He went on to take advanced training and received the assignment as a flight instructor at Seneca Flying School, Syracuse, N. Y. He was then transferred to Fort Meade Airport, Meadville, last August.

Instructor Good is survived by his parents, three sisters and five brothers, four of whom are in the service.

Ensign Theodore A. Brown was lost in the vicinity of the Gilbert Islands on September 18. He had been on a raid and shortly after his return a request came for volunteers to photograph enemy territory; he was one who went out. He strayed away from the group and although contacted by radio could not be found. His buddies are confident that he is still alive, since the enemy had been wiped out in that area.

LT. PAUL JOHNSON

Lieutenant Paul Johnson, '36, was killed on August 14 while on a routine cross-country flight with eight other officers from MacDill Field, Tampa, Florida, to Kellogg Field at Battle Creek, Michigan. Their bomber was caught in a storm over the mountains of Kentucky and crashed, killing all on board. Dr. Johnson had closed his medical practice in Montoursville, Pa., on November 15, 1942, and entered the service of his country. He leaves his father and mother, his wife, and a daughter three and a half years old.

ENS. THEODORE A. BROWN

In Memoriam

Up-to-date thirteen Bucknellians have given their lives or are reported missing in action. Notice has been given in the June and current issues of the ALUMNI MONTHLY of all these casualties. As soon as the engraving can be attended to, a certificate similar to that below will be sent to the next of kin of all persons who have given their lives in this war.

In Memory

who in the Second World War gave his life in the service of his country.

May his life and sacrifice inspire every Bucknellian who follows him with the courage and devotion which are worthy of the true American.
His name will always have a place of honor in the heart of

Bucknell University.

J., was awarded the first annual cash prize offered by the Bucknell chapter of Phi Alpha Theta for the best paper submitted by a Bucknell student on a subject of historical significance. Phi Alpha Theta is the national honorary historical fraternity, the purpose of which is to promote interest in the study of history.

Items of Interest

The Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Fleckenstine of York, formerly of Lewisburg, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Betty, '41, to Pfc. Philip H. Minnich, also of York. No date has been set for the wedding. Betty was graduated from Lewisburg High School as valedictorian of the class of 1936. In 1941 she received the degree of Bachelor of Arts, with the citation of summa cum laude, from Bucknell, where she was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. In 1942, she graduated from the School of Library Science of Drexel Institute of Technology, Philadelphia, with the degree of Bachelor of Science in Library Science. Formerly employed in the reference department of the Martin Memorial Library in York, Betty is now technical librarian of the research laboratory library of the York Corporation.

Ruth McFarland Glesk, '29, contributed this bit of interesting news. It seems that her two brothers, both of whom attended Bucknell, and are now in the service, had a reunion in the southwest Pacific after not seeing each other for over two years. Jack, John Z. McFarland, III, '35, now a captain in the dental corps, was at Pearl Harbor at the time of the attack, and is now in a more active combat area. James, '41, is now a 1st Lieutenant in the air corps and flies a B24. One day in March, Jack received a call from the air field in his area to find that it was Jim who had landed there. The two brothers had chow together, and Jack shared his mail with Jim who had not heard from home in several months.

Needless to say it was a very happy occasion for the two brothers, and they felt that Fate had been unusually kind in allowing them to meet some thousands of miles from home.

Miss Elizabeth B. Moyer, of Selinsgrove, Pa., and Charles R. Eyer, '40, of Buffalo, N. Y., were united in marriage in a pretty summer wedding. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Robert C. Eyer, '33, Lewisburg, as best man; and the ushers were Hoover Rhodes, '39, Lewisburg, and Donald Fortner, '40, Lewisburg. At present Charles is employed by the Curtiss Wright Aeronautical Company at Buffalo.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen P. Seiler, '33, are the proud parents of a son born Sept. 6, 1943. Mr. and Mrs. Seiler reside at 211 Dauphin St., Enola, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Turner announce the marriage of their daughter, Rosemary Anne, to Jack Frederick Bailey, '38, Lt. (jg), U.S.N.R., on Saturday, Oct. 16, 1943, at Camp Lejeune, New River, N. C.

Nicholas Palma, M.D., '24, has been commissioned Lieutenant Commander in the U.S.N.R., and reports for active duty December 20, 1943, at Parris Island, S. C.

Announcement has been received of the marriage of Ensign Marion G. Phillips, '43, to Thomas D. Meyer, '41, Williamsport, Pa. Mary T. Orso, '43, was matron of honor. After her graduation from Bucknell, the bride attended Officers Training School at Smith College and received her commission as an ensign in the WAVES last June and is now stationed in Washington. Mr. Meyer, a graduate of Bucknell with magna cum laude honors, is in the Naval Research Laboratories in Anacostia, D. C.

Dr. John Anderson, '05, ear, nose and throat specialist, passed away in the Allegheny General Hospital at Pittsburgh, where he was a former staff member. After leaving Bucknell, where he was a member of the Sigma Chi Fraternity, he attended Yale University and the University of Pittsburgh Medical School. To an older generation Dr. Anderson was a well-known athletic figure. He was a football and basketball star of the first grade, playing football with Christy Mathewson and Moose McCormick while at Bucknell. On going to Pittsburgh, he played basketball for the famous South Side club of the period which knew Harry Hough and others.

Sgt. Amos B. Cleckner, '43, and Muriel L. White, both of Harrisburg, were united in marriage in August, 1943, in that city.

METROPOLITAN ALUMNI CLUB HOLDS DECEMBER MEETING

The Metropolitan Alumni Club met in Pal's Cabin, West Orange, N. J., Friday evening, Dec. 3, and had an old-time Bucknell reunion. Joe Dent, the president, was at home with pneumonia, but had recovered sufficiently to permit Mrs. Dent to attend the meeting. After a telegram of good wishes had been sent him, Robert Heim, '24, opened the meeting. Ed. Snyder, '11, national chairman of the Hundredth Birthday Campaign, reported progress, eulogized President Marts for his leadership, and urged alumni to continue "rolling in the subscriptions" until every cent of indebtedness is paid.

Chairman Heim then called on Frank G. Davis, '11, acting alumni secretary, Ralph E. Page, dean of men, and Captain Paul Miller of the Bucknell V-12 program. Dr. Davis urged alumni cooperation in the admissions program, Dean Page reviewed the football campaign, particularly the Thanksgiving game, and Captain Miller gave an interesting and informative story of the work of the V-12 unit on the Campus. "Red" Lowther, '12, president of the General Alumni Association, led the singing and everyone had a glorious time.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION TO BUCKNELL

ALUMNI who are desirous of assisting in the recruiting of a high-grade group of students for Alma Mater need to know what types of students are likely to be accepted if they apply. Below are the requirements as listed in the catalog:

1. Applicants for admission to the College must be graduates of an approved four-year secondary school, or graduates of an approved senior high school.
2. Applicants will be admitted to the College on the basis of individual qualifications to do college work as indicated by such criteria as high school grades, rank in graduating class, principal's rating, intelligence as measured by a good intelligence test, character, personality, and qualities of leadership.

More specifically, a student who ranks below the upper two-fifths of his graduating class should hardly expect to be admitted unless he has some particularly good reason for the class rank and other qualities that provide considerable promise for college success. In fact, a very large percentage of Bucknell students rank in the upper fifth of their high school classes.

Alumni will note that no specific subjects* are mentioned for college entrance. This is in line with the findings of a great deal of research during the past quarter of a century, which had indicated that success in college depends not on the specific subjects a student has taken but on what he has done with those he has taken. Therefore, it is possible for a high-grade student who has not taken the traditional college preparatory course to be admitted to Bucknell. The criteria listed in No. 2 above screen out quite successfully those who will not succeed in Bucknell. Every student admitted must submit detailed information about himself and further information is obtained by the College from those who know intimately his record and personality qualifications.

*A few exceptions to the rule of no specific subject requirements are found in that:

(a) Engineering students must have had $1\frac{1}{2}$ years of algebra plus plane geometry; solid geometry is required of civil, electrical and mechanical engineering students. A course in solid geometry is offered in the freshman year for those who have not had the subject in preparatory school.

(b) Students who plan to take the Bachelor of Science course (biology, chemistry or physics) and those majoring in mathematics are required to have at least $1\frac{1}{2}$ years of algebra and plane geometry. Students taking the Bachelor of Science in Commerce and Finance are required to have at least $1\frac{1}{2}$ years of algebra.

Alumni Publications

ONE book has been received by the Alumni Office since the request in the September ALUMNI MONTHLY. This is "Trends in Public School Adult Education in Cities of the United States, 1929-1939," by Andrew Hendrickson, '25, of Cleveland College, Cleveland, Ohio. So far as is known, this little book furnishes the most recent and most comprehensive information concerning the development of this new and important branch of education. Sixty-one cities coöperated in furnishing information dealing with adult education practices over the past few years. Dr. Hendrickson has carefully analyzed this information and drawn certain significant conclusions about the progress and future of public school adult education in our nation's cities. Not the least interesting part of the work is the appendix, in which he reports the progress being made and the provision for adult education within individual cities. There is small doubt that this new volume will be widely read by people interested in the field of adult education.

Miss Minnie I. Etzweiler, '14, who wrote "Then and Now in Harrisburg" under the name of Marion Inglewood, has written another book. It has been published by Dorrance and Company and is entitled, "Stories From the Workingman's Book." Miss Etzweiler takes stories from the Bible and gives her interpretation of what they mean. A former member of the editorial staff of The Patriot (Harrisburg, Pa.), Miss Etzweiler is now living in California.

addition he was noted as a scholar, musician and speaker.

Schaffner was reared in the little town of Falls Creek, in Jefferson County, Pennsylvania. He finished his preparatory education in the Bucknell Academy. After graduation from Bucknell, he completed the law course at the University of Michigan and his entire professional life up-to-date has been spent in Akron, Ohio, where he was for two years assistant prosecuting attorney. He has been active in organizations of service men but has never sought political office.

enjoying his first and only furlough from his work as a missionary to Burma. She was graduated from the Bucknell Female Institute in June, 1858. On September 5, 1865, she married Reverend Edward Oliver Stevens. Exactly one month later they sailed for Burma, where they lived and worked until Reverend Stevens' death forty-five years later. In a letter to Dr. William G. Owens on December 5, 1942, she said, "My husband was a missionary to the Burmese and labored for them 45 years. Time would fail me to tell of our interesting experiences."

Since 1930 Mrs. Stevens has been living with her daughter, the widow of a former president of Hampton Institute at Hampton, Virginia. In addition to the daily reading of her Burmese Bible, she does a great deal of knitting for the Armed Forces, takes a daily walk, and writes numerous letters in a very firm hand to friends in America, Asia and Europe. The ALUMNI MONTHLY salutes this unusual woman and wishes her many more days of pleasure and usefulness.

Death Calls Beloved Trustee

Engineering at the Bucknell Commencement on May 23, 1943, Henry A. Roemer, member of the Bucknell Board of Trustees, said of him, "Mr. Ladd has served and is serving with distinction as a director of prominent, nationally known industrial, financial, transportation and business concerns—too numerous to mention. He is an active and energetic leader of civic activities—a director of hospitals and various charitable institutions. He had headed many industry associations. He is a Fellow of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. He is a Member of the Advisory Council of the Pittsburgh Ordnance District and a member of the Federal Reserve Board at Cleveland, Ohio. He is President of the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory, President of the Pittsburgh Diagnostic Clinic, a Trustee of the Carnegie Institute, the Carnegie Institute of Technology, and of our own Bucknell. He served as a Lieutenant Commander of the Ordnance Division of the United States Navy, during World War I, and is now devoting his engineering talents and organizing ability to the production of vital elements of war in the present conflict."

Bucknell will miss his kindly advice and encouragement, but future mechanical engineers will remember him not only as a benefactor but as a professional leader whose example it will be well to emulate.

while doing a great deal of lecturing and magazine writing.

Harry has had a broad experience in the vocational field. While gathering a cum laude at Bucknell, he had time to lead Cap and Dagger and the University Band; in 1923-24 he was Alumni Secretary and Director of Publicity. He taught a decade or more in the English Department at Bucknell and was called to the University of Maryland in 1935. Much of his work here has been the direction of graduate students in the field of English. He retains his connection with Maryland and will conduct a graduate seminar along with the duties of his new position. He has done summer lecturing at a number of American universities and during 1941 was lecturer on Contemporary Literature at George Washington University. Warfel is married to Ruth Farquhar, '19, who has carried the heavy wifely burden of a writing professor and has been recently giving full time as an officer in the National Red Cross. They live at 5601 42nd Avenue, Hyattsville, Maryland.

Brig. Gen'l Henry C. Wolfe, '16 spent one year at Fort Leonard Wood under General Ulysses Grant as assistant to General Noce.

Later he assisted in training the first Engineer Amphibians for invasion. He accompanied his brigade overseas in the summer of 1942 and spent some time in Scotland and England in preparation for the invasion of Africa. Leaving England with his convoy, he succeeded in landing his men at Oran after a three-day battle. During the past year he has been Supply Officer near the port and has trained the Amphibians for their invasions of Sicily and Italy, working practically day and night during the winter months in preparation for the Sicilian invasion. When last heard from, Brigadier General Wolfe was still in Africa at Fifth Army headquarters, awaiting orders to proceed to Italy. It may be guessed that he had a big part in the Italian campaign.

General Wolfe married Mary Tipton Hicklin of Tennessee in 1937. Mrs. Wolfe now lives in Washington, D. C.

cepted a forward pass and ran 55 yards down the sideline to Temple's 4. Hoffman scored the touchdown, and Worst placekicked the decisive point.

Although losing 15 players, including five starters, by V-12 transfer, the Herd continued to win, routing Muhlenberg, 19 to 0, in a game played in the rain at Allentown. Hewson snared a pass for the first touchdown, Johnson added the second and Gene Hubka, onetime Temple ace, made the third.

Back home again after three Saturdays on the road, the Sitarskymen outpointed a stubborn Lakehurst Naval team, 13 to 0. Once again it was Hewson, who caught an aerial from Hubka, who registered the initial touchdown. Thrice in the second quarter the Bison line held the Blimps for downs inside the five-yard stripe. Johnson added the clinching touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Case's Rough Riders threw a scare into Bucknell, but the Herd racked up its fourth straight conquest, 19 to 13. Case scored first when Halfback Bill Lund intercepted a Kostynick pass and raced 85 yards down the sideline for a touchdown. In the second quarter Johnson tallied two touchdowns for the Bisons; on one 53-yard touchdown march the big redhead carried the ball every inch of the way. The decisive six-pointer was added by Hubka, who sprinted 47 yards for a score early in the final period.

Triple Cities Organize Alumni Club

Laura Goldstein), '34; and the Acting Alumni Secretary, F. G. Davis, '11.

An interesting item in the by-laws of the club is that the annual dues provide for a subscription to The Bucknellian for each member. The club will meet monthly, the next meeting being January 10.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION PROMOTES UNIQUE CONFERENCES

A SERIES of five conferences on human values, held with the coöperation of youth from the different regions of the world, has been instituted this year by the Bucknell University Christian Association.

On November 12, 13, and 14 the program was led by five delegates from Africa, including Miss Dharis Martin, whose book, "I Know Tunisia," is a best-seller; Mr. Ako Adjei, a journalist of the Gold Coast; and Miss Evelyn Diggs of Liberia. Of the 30 sessions, 25 were held as a part of the classroom work.

It is the purpose of the series to bring to the campus youth leaders from those countries and areas of the world where American leadership is already being exercised and to attempt to understand the people and points of view. This basic understanding is needed both in the prosecution of the war and in the years to follow.

A conference with a group of Latin American students was held in October. Other areas of the world to be represented in subsequent conferences will be Southeast Asia in January, China in March, with Europe and Russia in April.

Both students and faculty members have been enthusiastic about the results thus far. Emphasis is put on the informal relationships in dorms and in campus life. Very few special meetings are arranged. The facilities of existing meetings are utilized. This program at Bucknell this year is unique among the colleges and is being watched closely by other colleges and agencies. The coöperation of many governmental, church and private agencies has been helpful.

Perhaps you'd like to frame the cover picture. It is a view over the men's gymnasium taken from the flower garden in front of the Vaughan Literature Building. The artist is Luther Pierce.

Basketball

One of the rangiest and fastest Bison basketball teams in recent years is playing a 13-game schedule, including contests with Penn State, Villanova, Lehigh, and F. and M., during the winter months.

On the 12-man squad are five men towering above six feet, two inches. They are topped by Centers John Hewson, 6-6; Paul Goodwin, 6-5; and Bill Hoeveler, 6-4. All men on the "A" squad are Navy or Marine trainees.

Double trouble for Bison foes will be provided by Dick and Bob Reash of Waterford, Ohio, identical twins who will see much action at forward.

Alumni will be interested to know that the first game of the season resulted in a victory over Penn State; score 29 to 26.

Lewisburg Alumnae Club Elects Officers

Officers of the Lewisburg Alumnae Club were elected at a dinner meeting recently at the Lewisburg Inn. Mrs. Eugene F. Marsh was elected president, succeeding Mrs. Pearl Pursley. Mrs. Hayes Person was chosen secretary and Miss Mary Thornton treasurer. The club decided to meet annually in October. Mrs. George M. Kunkle was named chairman of a committee to plan for the next meeting. Mrs. Earl Moyer and Mrs. A. J. Lauer were appointed members of the committee.

Reverend L. Elbert Wilson, pastor of the Beaver Memorial Methodist Church, was the guest speaker at the meeting. His subject was "Edwin Markham." Reverend Wilson knew Markham personally and had visited him at his home on Staten Island. The speaker played several records of recitations of Markham's poems, including his famous "The Man With the Hoe."

The War and Curriculum Changes

BY F. G. DAVIS

At its December meeting, the Bucknell faculty took an important step. At the suggestion of Dr. Harry W. Robbins, head of the department of English, the faculty passed unanimously a resolution pledging itself to begin and carry through a continuing study of changes needed to keep the University's service to its students in line with the changing times and their attendant needs. Many members of the faculty indicated that they had been thinking on these problems and therefore appreciated the opportunity to take united action. It is expected that intensive curriculum study will hold first place among discussions on the campus for the years immediately ahead.

But the committees to be appointed will not be plowing virgin fields. For about a year now a group has been studying post-war problems in monthly meetings at each of which a member of the group reports on some problem of international relations. While the group has not been large, its deliberations have been given consideration in the college press and evidently both faculty and students have been led to give attention to these pressing problems.

But more than international relations will occupy the college's attention tomorrow. Unless the war comes to a sudden close, a vast number of young men are coming back to college bearing deep scars of battle. And not all of these will be physical. Many a boy who has been in college before and many a one who is planning to enter college at the end of the war, will come back less stable emotionally than when he went into his country's service. While this emotional condition may not be permanent, it will be necessary that he be treated sympathetically and intelligently while he is making his important adjustments. These wounds, both physical and emotional, will make necessary new vocational and avocational approaches to life. What shall the college do about it? No one can say right now except that the college must maintain a flexible mind and engage in constant research and study of the problems as they arise. The faculty must admit that no questions have yet been fully answered. All are yet to be answered.

Women coming to college now and after the war will have a considerably different future facing them. Many a girl who has expected to marry and be a homekeeper is going to have to prepare for some other vocations for fewer men will be available for husbands after the war. The situation will approach that in England after the last war. Therefore, women now in college and those who will enter later must be conditioned both vocationally and emotionally for a type of world they had not expected to face.

The tremendous scientific advances of the war period, the shrinkage of the world due to radio and aviation and the attendant need for international coöperation, these are some of the facts the Bucknell faculty must take into consideration in planning for an effective Bucknell of tomorrow.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

urday evening, December 4, 1943, at the Brownstone House, one of York's preferred places. The program consisted of vocal selections by the "Victory Chorus," a group of boys from ten to twelve years of age, and several humorous readings. The speaker of the evening was Dr. William Lee, a Korean who is now located in York.

SOUTH JERSEY ALUMNI CLUB

Early in November the officers and executive committee of the South Jersey Alumni Club held a dinner meeting to formulate plans for the coming year. Another dinner meeting will be held on May 5. Lawrence M. Kimball, '23, is the new president of the club, having succeeded Edwin D. Robb, '24.

HARRISBURG ALUMNI CLUB

This year the Harrisburg Alumni Club is planning its program a meeting or two in advance instead of making up the usual yearly schedule. They are fortunate in being able to take advantage of the fact that the Harrisburg Army Air Officers Intelligence School has many well known and otherwise interesting people attending classes or on the staff, and have thus been able to acquire speakers from that source. At the November 4th meeting officers were elected and movies secured from the Visual-Aid Library of Pennsylvania State College were shown.

WASHINGTON ALUMNI CLUB

On October 29 the Washington Alumni Club held its first meeting of the year with 49 Bucknellians sitting down to dinner. Harry R. Warfel, '20, who presided, paid a tribute to George Baldt, '18, who died during his term of office as president of this club. Captain-President Marts reviewed events on the Hill, and as usual he held the group spellbound with his recital of the progress the University is making. Newly-elected officers are William James, Jr., '39, President; Robert N. Cook, '33, Vice-President; and Florence E. Parmley, '27, Secretary-Treasurer.

SHAMOKIN ALUMNI CLUB

Shamokin will hold a meeting on January 7 for the purpose of organizing a Bucknell Alumni Club. The meeting is being arranged by Francis F. Reamer, '21, whose wife and daughter also are loyal Bucknellians.

YOUR PRESIDENT SPEAKS

GREETINGS TO THE ALUMNI:

When Roy G. Bostwick, General Chairman of the One Hundredth Birthday Gift Campaign, made a recent report it showed that the subscriptions from the Alumni had exceeded the quota set for them. Since Roy's report, 94 persons have sent in contributions, 50 of those subscriptions being $100 or more. This is very gratifying and I hasten to offer congratulations to each and every one of you. You alumni certainly devoted a lot of time and energy to the campaign and it was only through your efforts that the quota was exceeded. Many thanks. This proves once more that we all think of Bucknell not merely as an educational institution but as a real part of our lives and so closely related to us that when we are asked to do a job for her we put our whole heart and soul into the work.

More than $30,000 are still to be raised, and it is comforting to know that you are continuing to roll up the excess over your quota.

I have noted numerous newspaper articles about Bucknell boys in the service who have done heroic deeds, and many of them have been cited by our Government. I have also received a large number of letters from boys who are stationed all over the world, and all speak of their meeting some other Bucknellian in that far-away corner of the earth and having a real old-fashioned "bull-session" about the "College on the Hill." They tell me that the University is doing a magnificent job of keeping them informed of what is going on back on the campus. What a glorious Homecoming we shall have at Bucknell when they are all back home once more!

Sincerely yours,

W. C. LOWTHER, President,
General Alumni Association.

ALUMNI IN THE ADMISSIONS PROGRAM

DEAR ALUMNI:

I want to talk with you for a few minutes about the place of alumni in the selective admissions program.

Recently I wrote to a number of outstanding private colleges in the East, among them Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, Brown, Colgate, Swarthmore, Amherst, and Williams, to inquire about their recruiting procedures. All replied promptly and courteously with about the information I expected, to wit, that very little recruiting is done other than that by alumni as individuals and clubs. In some cases a student is not admitted until he has been recommended by the local alumni club. One institution has followed for twenty years the practice of having prospective students meet with alumni interviewing committees in private homes. Another relies on alumni clubs to keep the rolls full. Some clubs offer local scholarships and attempt to secure publicity in local schools. Each club of one institution's alumni throughout the country has a scholarship committee which answers questions about the character and personal record the college desires to investigate. One institution does no recruiting but sends a representative to interview persons who have applied for admission. This same college finds alumni very helpful in recommending students and in explaining the situation to disappointed students who might have been accepted if competition for admission had been less keen.

The Bucknell recruiting program at present includes, besides alumni activities, sending informational materials to prospective students, sending representatives to so-called "College Nights," showing the film, "Bucknell Marches On," to groups of college preparatory students and their parents, and arranging for interviews with prospective students in the larger centers. Wherever possible I shall be glad to bring the film, "Bucknell Marches On," for showing in reasonably large schools or in centers where pupils from a number of schools may come together.

Our alumni are responsible for sending many students to the University, and the number is increasing. We believe that you take seriously the idea that Bucknell, after all, consists of trustees, faculty, students, and alumni, and that the alumni constitute by far the largest and most influential group.

It is not the intention in this discussion to ask you to assume all responsibility for keeping Bucknell's classrooms filled. Naturally, that must rest finally in the Office of the Director of Admissions. It is proper, however, to remind you that Bucknell travels in the best company among private colleges—institutions whose alumni are proud to feel that Alma Mater will continue to grow and serve only through the success, the interest, and the enthusiastic coöperation of her children. It is also of interest to tell you that our applicants each year greatly exceed the number we can admit. This enables us to select our students carefully.

A few of our alumni leaders have spoken to me about the possibilities of their clubs' entering more actively into the recruiting program. I need not tell you that their suggestions were appreciated. We believe that the sending of a fine body of freshmen to the University each year is a project into which our entire alumni body will enter with enthusiasm. Bucknell means much in your lives. Therefore, the constant improvement of Alma Mater means constant enrichment of the lives of alumni. Surely you have a number of good ideas to contribute on this subject. Won't you let me have them by return mail.

How would the topic, "Recruiting a Fine Freshman Class for Bucknell," suit you for discussion at an early club meeting? Out of such coöperative thinking will come valuable ideas. Not all of you, however, are able to attend meetings in these days of travel rationing. Don't let this fact dull your enthusiasm for this job. Send to the Admissions Office names and addresses of young people whom you would be proud to call Bucknellians. Naturally, it will be hard to refuse to admit a student who knocks at our door through the loyalty and devotion of an alumnus. Therefore, we request that, before making your recommendation, you be convinced of the candidate's high intellectual and moral caliber.

If you believe alumni should be more active in sending high-grade students to Bucknell, won't you sit down at once and write your suggestions.

With best wishes for you in the days ahead, I am

Sincerely yours,

FRANK G. DAVIS,
Acting Alumni Secretary and Acting Director of Admissions.

A GOOD HABIT

A NUMBER of you are in the habit of sending to the Alumni Office clippings relating to Bucknellians. It is a fine habit and we hope more will fall into it. We scan the newspapers which we receive, but of course we miss a lot of items that at least one alumnus reads. Thanks.

BUCKNELLIANs SEND OFFSPRING TO ALMA MATER

TWENTY-SEVEN Bucknell freshmen entering in July and November of this year are "legacies." While these young people have entered college at a time markedly different from the times in which their parents entered, they all seem to be imbued with the same old spirit of loyalty to Bucknell. Perhaps they brought it with them.

The BUCKNELL
Alumni Monthly

Letter from the President

DEAR BUCKNELLIANs:

In March I appointed three committees of the Faculty and Administration to make recommendations concerning plans which we will be formulating at Bucknell for the post-war years. The initial meeting of these committees was held in Washington where we could have the counsel and guidance of three men of national prominence in the educational world. A report of this meeting is given in this issue of the ALUMNI MONTHLY.

These committees have gone at their appointed work with energy and zeal. Preliminary reports have been made to me, and the next steps are being considered and planned.

In these plans we are thinking in the first instance of hundreds of Bucknellians now in war service who will, we hope and believe, return to their Alma Mater to complete their college educations after victory has been won. We are anxious that they shall return to a Bucknell Campus which is alive to their educational needs, and prepared to help them resume their training without loss of time or motion.

We are thinking, also, of the longer years ahead, and are endeavoring to set in motion dynamic plans which will carry Bucknell forward in the van of American Colleges,—always true to the Bucknell tradition which is one of your richest memories and heritages.

Best wishes to you all—wherever each of you may be!

FEBRUARY COMMENCEMENT PRESENTS G. WILLARD SMITH

IN THE first late-February commencement in the history of Bucknell, G. Willard Smith, President of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, spoke to the 70 graduates on the subject, "The Economic Outlook in the Post-War World."

The speaker emphasized the element of character in the solution of post-war problems. "We have the men, the weapons, and the will to win the war, but we must cultivate the tolerance, the unselfishness, and the understanding to win the peace. When I say 'peace,' I mean not only the enduring peace which we hope will come later but also that involved period following the cessation of hostilities when each nation will try to strengthen its position in the world picture."

"In our new economy, competition will act as a spur to better methods, larger production, and cheaper prices," he declared. "Business leaders know that full employment must be a post-war goal. They are pledged to give their full efforts to this end."

He suggested that American technical advances might "play an unselfish part in the reconstruction of the post-war world if we allow other countries to

JOHN MAITLAND HOPWOOD

NEW BUCKNELL TRUSTEE IS OUTSTANDING BUSINESS MAN

JOHN MAITLAND HOPWOOD was elected a trustee of Bucknell University at the December meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Mr. Hopwood is president of the Hagan Corporation, Hall Laboratories, Inc., The Buromin Company, Combustion and Chemical Engineering Corporation, and Calgon, Inc.—all engaged in the combustion and chemical engineering field. He is a director of the Main Aeronautics Company and president of the Board of Trustees of Shadyside Hospital.

He was born in England in 1883. He came to America when a young man and became a naturalized citizen. His first job was with a Pennsylvania coal mining company as an engineer and electrician, then with a Pennsylvania power company as superintendent of construction. About twenty-five years ago he started in business for himself and has become an outstanding success.

Mr. Hopwood is particularly adapted to the new work he has assumed as trustee of Bucknell. He is interested in young people, his companies giving much time and money to the development of young men and women concerned with creative work.

His home is at 58 Hoodridge Drive, Mount Lebanon, Pennsylvania.

BUCKNELL TODAY

THE occasional alumnus who returns to the campus today sees a sight that rests the eyes. Between the Charles P. Vaughan Literature Building and the quadrangle there is an array of forsythia in its richest coloring. Every campus tree seems to feel a surge of life and the tender leaves are literally tumbling out, building that canopy which has sheltered so many youths and maidens for nearly a century. Skirting those spots where each spring Nature spreads out carpets of bluets, men are beginning to mow the hillsides—not too easy a job with the obstreperous hand machine, but the results are gratifying. The lawns begin to resemble the deep green carpets which you sink into when you enter “the department store of distinction.” In the early evening, the Hill is dotted with friendly couples for the too few minutes before the 7:15 call to study. On sunny days the athletic ground in front of old Loomis Gym accommodates a hundred or more girls at a time, in their blue suits and white sweaters, playing soft ball, golf, field hockey, tennis, and archery. Out beyond Seventh Street the numerous tennis courts are occupied. Men are busy on the broad playing fields either at games or at strenuous physical education activities. A few, when they have a little extra time, are to be seen beating the elusive small white ball around the golf course.

Three times a day the Navy and Marine trainees line up to be marched down the Hill to “chow”; and they’re a healthy lot. When we meet numbers of them at Guy’s between 9:30 and 10:00 P. M., they are usually buying pint bottles of chocolate milk, freshly-made sandwiches, ice cream, or other foods right in vitamins. Any parent who may worry about how “Son” is faring physically may sleep soundly. He’s doing fine.

Bucknell’s population at present consists of:

Women, 556; Civilians, 150; Navy V-12 Trainees, 551.

Of the V-12 group, 161 were sent from the fleet. Every man has had Navy experience from 10½ months to 5½ years. A number have been wounded; one man has made 12 sorties over Germany; another, one of the officers, served on Guadalcanal for 2½ years. It is evident that this group has had some interesting experiences. Here is an illustration, clipped from a metropolitan newspaper—and it’s authentic:

Lewisburg, Pa., April 3 (AP)—There’s a new occupational hazard for college professors these days.

A Bucknell University pedagogue was reading an account of the sinking of an aircraft carrier—

DR. CLARENCE H. RICHARDSON

DR. MEYER F. NIMKOFF

BUCKNELL PROFESSORS HONORED

SIGNAL distinction came to two Bucknell faculty members recently. Books written by them have been chosen by the Armed Forces Institute for use in the elaborate educational program that has been set up for men in service. The professors involved are Dr. Meyer F. Nimkoff, Head of the Department of Sociology, and Dr. Clarence H. Richardson, Head of the Department of Mathematics.

Dr. Nimkoff's book, "Sociology," by Ogburn and Nimkoff, is by far the most used introductory textbook in sociology in the country, between 500 and 600 colleges and universities having adopted it. The first order coming from the Armed Forces Institute calls for 25,000 copies. Dr. William F. Ogburn, co-author of the book, is Head of the Department of Sociology in the University of Chicago. It is of more than passing interest that, previous to the publication of this unusual book, the book that had held the position of leadership for several years was one of which Dr. Robert L. Sutherland, then head of the Bucknell Department of Sociology, was the senior author.

Dr. Richardson's contribution to the Armed Forces educational program is "Statistical Analysis," first published by Harcourt, Brace and Company in 1934 and revised in 1944. The book is widely used throughout the country and has had the honor of being chosen as the basic text for the examination in statistics by the Actuarial Society of America and the American Institute of Actuaries. While the usual procedure is for the Armed Forces Institute to revise books so chosen, "Statistical Analysis," as well as "Sociology," is being published intact. Dr. Richardson has prepared, at the request of Dr. Spaulding's organization, an "Assignment List" with pedagogical suggestions to assist the instructors who will use the text. The first order is for 15,000 copies.

The USAFI, which has chosen the above texts, is an organization set up jointly by the War and Navy Departments and the American Council on Education. It is headed by Dr. Francis T. Spaulding, Dean of the School of Education of Harvard University. Its chief task is that of formulating a system of non-military education for men in the Armed Forces, both at home and overseas. "This will consist principally of instructional material, prepared for the use of instructors and soldiers and aimed primarily at increasing the employability of the individual soldier. Schools will be set up within each regiment and manned by the best qualified personnel."

The distinction that is brought to Bucknell by these choices is not lessened by the fact that of the more than 1,500 colleges in the country only a very few will be honored by as much as one selection. Significant, also, is the method by which these books were selected. In order that the choices might bear no taint of favoritism, the books were chosen by vote of large numbers of professors in these fields, and in any subject only one book is adopted.

TRUSTEE'S DAUGHTER WEDS

THE marriage of Miss Deborah L. V. Hopper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Boardman Hopper, of Merion, to Ensign Charles Tomlinson Kline, Jr., USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kline of Bryn Mawr, took place on Wednesday, April 5, 1944, in the Baptist Church, Narberth, Pa. Mr. Hopper is a member of the Bucknell Board of Trustees.

BUCKNELL FACULTY ACTIVE IN MANY LINES

We believe the Alumni will be interested in hearing of the activities of some members of the Bucknell faculty. We have reported on some faculty members previously and shall continue to report on others in the future. The statements are listed as briefly as possible.—Ed.

EMMA DILLON

EMMA DILLON, '15, SERVES NEW JERSEY BAR ASSOCIATION

AMONG the many occupations labeled "men only" is the law. But even this barrier is being broken down, and the Bucknell woman who has done most to assist in this onslaught is Emma Dillon, '15. In addition to being a successful woman lawyer, Miss Dillon has been active in the American Bar Association and the New Jersey Bar Association. Of the latter she has been secretary for the past decade.

Born in Trenton and always a resident there, Miss Dillon began her interest in public affairs while a student in the Trenton High School. She brought that interest with her to Bucknell and, while earning a Bachelor of Arts degree, took all the law courses available during a brief stay of slightly over three years, graduating magna cum laude with some additional credits toward a master's degree. After graduation she taught school, worked in the accounting department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Repair Shops at Trenton, and shortly became chief file clerk. Since this work required technical knowledge, she went out into the shops and got that knowledge. From this position she was chosen head of the English Department in Rider College. Leaving this work because of a throat difficulty, she became a public stenographer. Here chance associated her with a lawyer, who encouraged her to study law. She passed the New Jersey bar examination in 1926, entered active practice, and passed the counselor's examination in 1929.

Miss Dillon has been active on a number of committees of the American Bar Association, for two years having been chairman of the Committee of Secretaries of the Bar Activities Section. She was the third woman to be appointed a Special Master in Chancery of New Jersey (1935), the first woman to be appointed a Supreme Court Commissioner (1936), and was admitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court (1937).

Miss Dillon was instrumental in founding the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, held several offices in it, and was president from 1941 to 1943. She was one of the organizers of the Women's State Republican Club of New Jersey. She has been and is active in Bucknell Alumni circles, being now vice-president of the Executive Committee. She is engaged in many activities of a community and welfare nature. Incidentally, she is a busy lawyer, having a large general practice including most areas except criminal law. Her offices are in the Broad Street Bank Building, Trenton.

ALUMNI APPROVE BUCKNELL'S PREPAYMENT PLAN

INTEREST in Bucknell's Prepayment Plan, whereby parents may ease the burden of their children's college bills by placing on deposit at the University funds earmarked now for use later in paying the costs of educating their sons and daughters, continues to grow daily, according to Dayton L. Ranck, Bucknell treasurer.

Mr. Ranck announced that during the past year an increasing number of Bucknellians have opened accounts for their children.

For the benefit of those who missed the earlier announcements, Mr. Ranck summarized the vital points of the Prepayment Plan as follows:

1. The University offers to receive at any time amounts of any size to be held as prepayment for a student's education.
2. Net earned interest on these deposits will be credited annually to the depositor's account.
3. Money deposited for this purpose may be withdrawn in the event that the student finds he cannot come to Bucknell. The University is, of course, under no obligation to admit a student simply because his tuition has been prepaid.
4. Desirability of the Plan lies mainly in the fact that deposits may be made at any time, and built up gradually, so that relatives and friends of future students may thus ease their financial burden while these students are in college.

LIEUT.-COMM. HALLOCK, 'X27, CROSSES THE EQUATOR

Lieutenant-Commander Harold P. Hallock, 'x27, sent the MONTHLY last fall an interesting diary of a trip to the Southwest Pacific. The entire diary is an interesting one but it is believed that the Alumni will especially enjoy his description of the ceremonies connected with crossing the equator.—Ed.

"FINALLY, we have crossed the line, you snivelling polliwogs. Or are you? What a day! The shellbacks made us wear our shirts backwards the day previously so we would be discernible from the old hands and that they might plot against those who were not in favor. At 0900 on a warm, cloudless morning the mayhem began. First, upon the calling of your name you would confront the court consisting of a judge and old King Neptune gaily attired in rags with homemade hempen curls and beard, his fair (?) queen, and the royal baby who, in this case, was our 200-pound toothless cook, clad only with a diaper. While before the judge a couple of attendants started working on your posterior with wicked paddles and after hearing the charges and futilely pleading for leniency (that was as scarce as a beefsteak), you would be paddled along to the gallows where the barber performed wondrous jobs—circles, crosses, complete head-shaves, or just random snippings. Then with a wave of his hand the trip was pulled on the chair and off you went into the royal pool, backwards and below about ten feet. From there the royal doctor administered vile pills, bitter mouth washes, and other devilment. The despatchers beat you from there to the tunnel of love—sadistic spot that was. You crawled past six butchers who walloped you along to a long canvas funnel through which you were to wriggle while being laid upon with shillalahs. Upon emergence you found that you had come through flour, grease, lamp black, and oil, and had ground into your skin (we mostly all wore shorts) this unattractive mess. You were then a shellback—bruises, lacerations, skinned knees, and all. It took days to wash the evidences away. Of course, the haircuts will be reminders for days."

HOLE-IN-ONE

Professor Rex Robinson of the Speech Department made a hole-in-one on the Bucknell Golf Course recently, the second in the history of the course.

The cover photographs on this issue are the work of Professor W. H. Schuyler of the Department of Chemical Engineering.

AMORITA SESINGER COPELAND

BUCKNELL WOMAN LEADS IN SALVAGE CAMPAIGN

CHAIRMAN of Salvage of the American Women's Volunteer Services for Greater New York." That's the imposing title of the former Amorita Sesinger, '22, Music '26, now Mrs. Charles E. Copeland. That she is doing her job efficiently is the belief of all the members of the Metropolitan Alumni Club, who heard her describe her work at the April 14 meeting. Here the element of surprise was dominant, for she showed samples of articles, from demolition bomb cases to parachutes capable of carrying a 100-pound weight, made entirely of paper. To this important service, which she does on a volunteer basis, Mrs. Copeland brings a wealth of varied and pertinent experience. She heads 1,845 AWVS volunteers through the medium of 130 salvage depots scattered throughout the five boroughs of New York City. In addition to her administrative duties, much of her time is given to the delivery of public addresses on the subject of salvage, both from platform and radio, and her work brings her into direct contact with the War Production Board, under whose direction all the salvage projects are conducted.

Immediately after Pearl Harbor, Mrs. Copeland joined the organization which she now heads. She looked ahead and saw what an important place salvage was going to hold in this war. Perhaps watching the Japanese carting off the remains of the Sixth Avenue Subway may have emphasized the impression. But there was another side to her personal picture of salvage—that of the prevention of waste.

HOW FRESHMAN GIRLS ARE ORIENTED INTO THE BUCKNELL GROUP

In order that Alumni may be able to tell prospective girl students what they may expect in the way of counseling help when they come to Bucknell, Mrs. Dorothy T. Dyer, Dean of Women, has been asked to write a statement of the counseling program. We are glad to present this article.—Ed.

FOR several years upperclass women have been selected to help with the adjustment and counseling of the freshman women. This year the following girls have been chosen to serve for the coming summer and fall terms: Jean Cober, Lee Dillon, Anne Gerhard, Elaine Greene, Margaret Gurnee, Anne Kloss, Betty Miller, Karine Nelson, Jacklyn Novikoff, Eutha Richter, Elizabeth Scotchmer, Dorothy Stolzenberg, Ruthanne Studebaker, Margaret Thompson, Adele Weaver, Gallena Wisehaupt, Norma White, and Patricia Whittan.

Counselors are chosen with three basic things in mind. First, they must have already demonstrated their loyalty to the attitudes and ideals of Bucknell through their campus activities and citizenship; second, they must be sufficiently interested in the counseling program to make time in their schedules for the work; and, third, they must be girls whose personality and character traits are such that freshmen will react favorably to them and rapport can be easily established and maintained.

The work of the counselors begins through correspondence with the freshmen before they arrive on the campus. Letters and a copy of "Notes from Your Counselor," a summary of information written by the counselor, goes to each new girl so that she has already found a student friend who will be waiting for her when she arrives on the campus. The counselors arrive early for Freshman Week, meet their counselees, and help them get settled and acquainted. Since 1940 freshman women have occupied Larison Hall and several of the smaller houses. A student counselor lives with her group of counselees.

With the starting of classes the work of the counselor really begins. In the past, several all-freshman meetings have been arranged by the counselors to acquaint the new girls with the Student Government program, "correctiquette," sorority rushing, etc. Smaller informal group sessions are a most valuable part of the program where girls learn that most problems are not unique or peculiar to them alone.

Mutual sharing of ideas and solutions to problems helps to create confidence, fellowship, and good adjustment.

The counselors realize that they have neither the training nor the experience to answer all the questions which come to them. They must know to whom to refer problems which are complicated and specialized. Mrs. Dyer, Dean of Women, works very closely with the counselors as a group and as individuals, helping them to solve the problems which arise with the girls assigned to them.

Personal, social, and study problems are often easily and skillfully handled by the counselors who are close to the situation. Students with special study problems are given individual help. Often a talk with the professor and tutorial help are sufficient aid in helping to direct energy and ability to satisfactory achievement. Interest, personality, and aptitude testing is available for those uncertain in vocational aim and in need of discovering more about their abilities. The student counselor directs students with such problems to the Dean of Women and the academic advisor.

The girls chosen to act as counselors feel that while it is an honor to be selected it also carries very real responsibilities. Many girls have said, "Being a counselor is the most rewarding experience I have ever had. I have never learned so much about people in so short a time." In many cases this experience has figured directly in a girl's employment opportunity after college. Friendships formed between the counselor and her freshman girls usually continue throughout college and often beyond, thus strengthening the Bucknell ties.

EMERITUS CLUB PRESIDENT GIVES ADVICE TO MEMBERS

DR. A. R. E. WYANT, '92, President of the Emeritus Club and President of the Chicago Bucknell Club, athlete, minister, and physician, has prepared a booklet, "Living Long and Well," consisting of a radio address over the Chicago Tribune station as chairman of a Chicago Medical Public Relations Committee; a sermon delivered in the Morgan Park Baptist Church, Chicago, in the late nineties; and the Invocation at a Doctor's Dinner at the Beverly Country Club, Chicago, September 15, 1943. Every person who is growing old (and who isn't?) should send for a copy. His address is 2023 West 101st St., Beverly Hills, Chicago.

Alumni Club Activities

ATLANTIC CITY

The Atlantic City Club is marking time until the Armed Forces release some of the hotels in that vicinity and gasoline restrictions are somewhat relaxed, since most of the members have considerable distances to drive. The club is alive and chafing at the bit. Robert K. Bell, '20, is president.

CHICAGO

The Chicago Club held a dinner at the Quadrangle Club, March 23. Dr. H. S. Everitt, '12, presided. Dr. H. L. Shattuck of the Chicago Historical Society, who had been scheduled to speak, was unable to be present on account of illness. In his absence, Dr. A. R. E. Wyant led a general discussion on historic things worth keeping in our American way of life. Officers elected were Dr. A. R. E. Wyant, '92, president, and Mrs. Josephine Hankins Wolfe, '09, secretary. Another meeting was held at the Young Women's Christian Association, 59 East Monroe Street, on Thursday evening, May 11. Frank G. Davis, '11, Acting Alumni Secretary, was present and reported on affairs at home. He showed Bucknell pictures to the alumni and prospective students in the Chicago area.

HARRISBURG

The Harrisburg Club meets regularly the first Thursday of each month and presents an interesting program. The Club advertises "No dues, no initiations, no voting on members. Nothing but interesting dinner meetings which are enjoyed by all." At the March meeting an interesting talk on "Trees" was given by Mr. William E. Montgomery, followed by a question-and-answer session. Lieutenant Arthur W. Duning of the New Cumberland Reception Center spoke on April 6. Motion pictures furnished the entertainment on May 4. The special inducement for this show was "There will be no amusement tax charged for these movies, so let's have a big show 'on the house.'" Officers are: Franklin W. Figner, Jr., '33, president; Robert Saylor, '10, vice-president; Mrs. Clarence H. Brown, '39, secretary; and Lester Switzer, '16, treasurer.

LANCASTER

The Lancaster Club, like a number of others, is in a state of abeyance for the duration. Gas rationing has hit it hard. However, it will revive when Hitler and Hirohito have been "taken care of." The president, Russell Appleby, '37, Lt. (jg) USNR, is stationed at Daytona Beach, Fla. His wife, Eleanor Koshland, '36, and young Russell Neal Knisely Appleby, Jr., Class of 1965, are with him temporarily.

METROPOLITAN ALUMNI CLUB

On April 14 at 7:30 P.M. the Metropolitan Club sat down to a bountiful dinner at the Savarin Restaurant, 120 Broadway. President Robert C. Heim presided. Before the planned program he introduced Mrs. Amorita Sesinger Copeland, '22, Music, '26, who presented an interesting exhibit of what can be done with scrap paper. Oscar Wolfe, '12, Chief Engineer on the "Big Inch" pipeline, was next introduced. George M. Cohan, '40, told very modestly and briefly of the rescue of a man at Truk who had been shot down into the sea. Chaplain (Colonel) C. Irving Carpenter then spoke of his work as Chief of Chaplains of the Army Air Forces. He stressed the spiritual possibilities in our relations with boys in the service and after they return.

Frank G. Davis, '11, Acting Alumni Secretary, told of the activities and progress on the campus.

The officers are: Robert C. Heim, '24, president; Harvey D. Crawford, '18, executive vice-president; Joseph D. Dent, '20, executive vice-president; Mrs. Emily Devine Kelly, '21, secretary; and Bernhard A. Priemer, '28, treasurer.

MONTOUR

The new officers of the Montour Alumni Club recently elected are: Fred W. Diehl, '25, president; Dr. R. E. Nicodemus, 'x25, vice-president; Gertrude Gardner, '25, secretary; and Mrs. Lucille Dazley, 'x21, treasurer.

PHILADELPHIA

Romain C. Hassrick, '06, is president of the Philadelphia Bucknell Alumni Club. The executive committee consists of James A. Tyson, '11, chairman; James C. Craig, '20; Quinton D. Hewitt, 'x32; Dr. Albert R. Garner, '99; Reverend Anthony Vasquez, '37; and Charles W. Framp-ton, Esq., '31.

PITTSBURGH

The Pittsburgh Club held a gala meeting on December 23. Lt. L. Francis Lybarger, '28, was present and spoke to the group. Edward G. Williams, '25, executive in the advertising department of the Gulf Oil Corporation, presented busts of the late John Howard Harris and President Marts to the club and received high praise for his ability in modeling, which he pursues as an avocation. The portrait busts were gratefully received and in turn presented to the University. Roy G. Bostwick, '05, President of the Board of Trustees, accepted them on behalf of Bucknell.

John Maitland Hopwood, an outstanding Pittsburgh industrialist and business leader, elected to the Board of Trustees in December, was presented by John T. Shirley, 'x09, another member of the board. He responded briefly to the introduction.

The club held a meeting on February 5, Bucknell's Birthday, at the University Club but the program is not available.

Officers elected at the December meeting are: Evan W. Ross, '22, president; Harry C. Hunter, '28, vice-president; Max W. Demler, '33, secretary; and Edward G. Williams, '25, treasurer.

SHAMOKIN

The Shamokin group which had been a part of the Mount Carmel Club, deciding that it wished to be more active in the local community, met on January 21, 1944, and organized the Shamokin Bucknell Alumni Club.

Trennie E. Easley, '31, Director of Publicity at Bucknell, "subbed" for the Acting Alumni Secretary, who was down with the "flu." She gave them a vivid picture of the Bucknell of 1944 and an enjoyable time was reported. Sixteen persons were present, an excellent showing for these days.

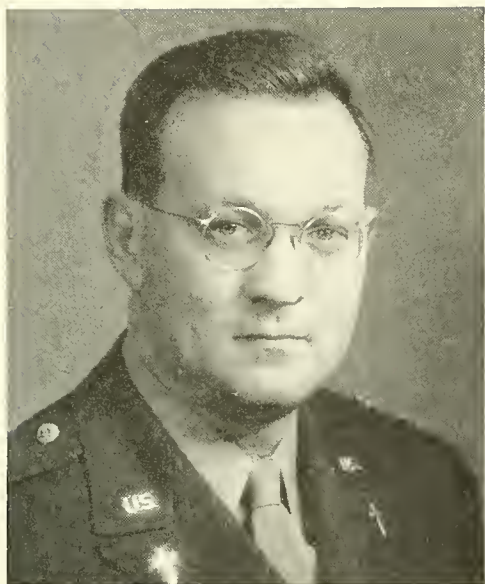

F. F. Reamer, '21, who had arranged for the meeting, was elected president; Mrs. Gladys Emerick Erdman, '23, was elected vice-president; Irene Fritz, '19, secretary; Dorothy Moody, '35, treasurer; John Carter, '21, historian; and Daniel W. Kearney, '17, solicitor.

SOUTH JERSEY

The South Jersey Club will hold its annual spring meeting in May. The officers are: Lawrence M. Kimball, '23, president; Mrs. Caryl D. Slifer, '27, vice-president; Mrs. Katherine R. Walls, '31, recording secretary; Mrs. Barbara Laudenslager, '32, corresponding secretary; and Frances M. Harris, '27, treasurer.

SUNBURY

This club meets every Monday. W. S. Reitz, '14, and Francis F. Reamer, '21, of Shamokin, attend regularly. Philip Campbell, '22, of Danville, brings reports from other clubs. Officers are: Charles A. Fryling, '12, president; James E. Sugden, '27, secretary; and Paul W. Bogges, '17, treasurer. (Continued on page 26.)

CHAPLAIN C. IRVING CARPENTER

CARPENTER, '27, HEADS AIR CHAPLAINS

WHEN the Metropolitan Alumni Club met in New York on April 15, it heard a Bucknellian who has grown rapidly into a position of outstanding importance in our Armed Services. He is Chaplain (Colonel) C. Irving Carpenter, Chief of Chaplains for the U. S. Army Air Corps. While Colonel Carpenter was not permitted to tell much about the work he is doing, the group was impressed with the tremendous importance of this service. He led them to believe that a man who could deliver such a ringing message on the problems of the service in which he was engaged must be able to inspire the thousands of chaplains under his direction. He does not believe that there is any great religious revival in the trenches. He does see, however, the many spiritual and moral problems the men are facing in the service and the equally serious ones they will face when they return to civil life. He pleaded for sympathetic understanding on the part of the home folks toward the attitudes which the boys might bring back with them.

Colonel Carpenter was graduated from Bucknell in 1927 with the degree of A.B. He went to Drew Seminary for his theological training, receiving the B.D. degree in 1931. He filled pulpits at Rehoboth Beach, Delaware, and Federalsburg, Maryland. He was commissioned a chaplain in the U. S. Army in 1936, serving at Fort H. G. Wright, New York; Fort Randolph, Canal Zone; and Langley Field, Virginia.

He has had extensive training and experience in

EUGENIO KINCAID KNEW BURMA ADVENTURE

BUCKNELLIANs should feel especial interest in the news dispatches these days that tell of General Joseph Stilwell's Chinese Army and General Frank Merrill's American Rangers, which are slowly pushing the Japs back in the Burma jungle so that the Ledo road can be built from Assam to connect with the old Burma Road, thus opening the way to get more war materials into China and help the Chinese to press the war against Japan; for in this very region one of the founders of Bucknell University was struggling through this same jungle a hundred years ago, enduring hardships fully as great as those faced by Wingate's Chindits in this present war, enduring captivity, expecting momentarily to be killed, and eventually escaping with his life after forcing his way seven hundred miles up the Irrawaddy River.

He was descending that stream in a boat when captured by robbers. Here is his own account of the incident. "I heard some of the balls whiz past my ears, others struck the boat, and some fell in the water. The discharge of the volley was followed by the most piercing and horrid cries. Before I had sufficient time to recover from the shock of their fire, my boat was surrounded by the villainous robbers and more than seventy spears encircled my body. I was completely encased by the steel points touching me . . . they immediately commenced stripping me. They took my hat and jacket and shoes and vest. An armed guard of several men was placed over me . . ."

Who was the victim? A man who was to become one of Bucknell's first trustees. He was one of the two men who collected the initial endowment fund that made the charter valid and made it possible for Bucknell to come into being. His name, of course, was Eugenio Kincaid. He was the "hero missionary" of the Baptists.

Dr. Lewis E. Theiss, '02, who is writing the centennial history of Bucknell, has uncovered an astonishing amount of fascinating material concerning not only this amazing individual but many others of the founding fathers who served the infant institution with a devotion that today seems almost impossible. Indeed, as Dr. Theiss shows in his history, the courage and fortitude and determination displayed by the men who created the University easily matched the same qualities shown by the heroes of the American Revolution, which had been fought but two generations before these pioneers in the field of education conceived and created our beloved Bucknell.

Here Are Bucknell's Fighting Men

ON THIS and some following pages are the names of Bucknellians in the Armed Services not heretofore published in this magazine. We should like to print regularly all the address changes that have been made since the last issue. This, however, is impossible, since service changes come so rapidly and the magazine is published only four times a year. If you find here addresses that are incorrect, or if you know addresses of persons whose whereabouts are listed as unknown, will you be kind enough to notify the Alumni Office.

SUMMER SCHOOL BEGINS JULY 3

PLANS are now practically completed for the Bucknell Summer School. There will be a sixteen-week session in the academic fields, beginning July 3 and closing October 21. This is basically designed to meet the needs of the trainees but is open to civilian students desiring to take the courses offered.

The summer session for teachers and principals in the field of education will get under way, also, on July 3. It will consist of one six-week session instead of the double session employed the past two years. As a feature of the six-week program for educators, Professor F. G. Davis will head a Guidance Workshop which will train guidance workers both for public school posts and for post-war readjustment counselling positions. A number of experts in the field of guidance are being invited to assist in the Workshop.

For those students at Bucknell desiring some summer work but not wishing to come the entire sixteen weeks of the academic session, the college is offering a limited number of academic courses for eight weeks, starting August 28. The course in practice teaching will begin on September 5 and run for the months of September and October. Students planning to teach will devote full time to this one course for the eight weeks.

Students interested in the academic offerings of either the eight- or sixteen-week summer session should communicate with Dean R. H. Rivenburg. Professor W. H. Sauvain will again be in charge of arrangements for the six-week summer school for teachers and administrators.

LT. COL. JOHN M. SNYDER

DR. JOHN M. SNYDER, '30, WINS LEGION OF MERIT

"FOR exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services," Lieutenant Colonel John M. Snyder, '30, has received the Legion of Merit citation from headquarters of the North African Theatre of Operations.

The citation, issued by command of General Eisenhower, pointed out that Lieutenant Colonel Snyder, chief of surgical service, from March 19, 1943, to April 8, 1943, "worked unceasingly at the operating table until exhausted and then after only two hours of rest would continue his duties.

"The fidelity to his task and the calm and tenacious manner in which he performed his duties were a fine example and an inspiration to all with whom he came in contact. Lieutenant Colonel Snyder's performance of duties exemplifies the highest traditions of military service."

The period covered in the citation included the battles of El Guettar and Maknassy when the hospital was encamped first at Feriana and then at Gafsa. During the El Guettar battle the hospital took care of all the casualties. It was supporting four American divisions, instead of one for which it was intended, and at the same time receiving the casualties from Maknassy.

Following the conclusion of the Tunisian campaign the hospital served general purposes until the invasion of Sicily. The hospital remained in Sicily, serving as an evacuation hospital, until the latter part of November, 1943, when the staff returned to England to await further assignment.

BUCKNELL SPORTS PROGRAM IN HIGH GEAR

WITH a big assist from the Navy V-12 training program, which provides most of the manpower, Bucknell's spring sports program got off to an auspicious start with a string of five straight victories.

Coach "Woody" Ludwig's baseball team contributed four of the triumphs, topping Elizabethtown College, Bloomsburg State Teachers, Juniata, and Pittsburgh, while Dr. Floyd Ballentine's tennis men opened their campaign with a smashing 9-0 win over Lehigh.

A slugging attack has been the nine's most deadly weapon this season. The diamondmen have hammered out at least a dozen hits in each of their four contests. They humbled Elizabethtown, 11-3; had more trouble with Bloomsburg's V-12 team, but won, 9-6; slaughtered Juniata, 17-3; and overpowered Pitt, 10-6.

Every man on the baseball squad is a V-12 trainee, and 14 colleges are represented by the 17 players. The victory over Pitt was marked by a curious irony when John Kelly, who pitched for the Panthers last season, turned the tables on his erstwhile teammates this year.

In addition to Kelly, the most promising pitchers are Frank Burns, of Harrisburg, who played at Bucknell as a civilian, and Herman Bloom, of Philadelphia, formerly of Temple. Burns has also been prominent as a football and basketball athlete.

Behind the plate the first-string receiver is Gene Hubka, another ex-Temple man, who starred in the Bison backfield last fall. He is replaced occasionally by Carl Nienstedt, of Wagner College, and John Rzonca, of Massachusetts State.

The starting infield includes three men who have already made their mark in Bucknell athletics. They are First-baseman John Hewson, whose six feet, six inches of height provide a target for the other infielders; Second-baseman Bob Reash, whose twin brother, Dick, plays center field; and Shortstop Pete Day. Hewson, both Reash brothers, and Day played varsity basketball. The inner cordon is completed by Third-baseman Bill Namisniak, a Drexel veteran.

In the outfield Center-fielder Dick Reash is flanked in left by George Lefkandinos, another football and basketball flash, and either Rinaldo Ridolfi or Dick Helmintoller in right.

The tennis team is a half-and-half combination, composed of three civilian freshmen and three trainees. Frank Haas of Harrisburg, a civilian, is the Number One man. Other frosh racquet-wielders are

BUCKNELL BEGINS POST-WAR PLANNING

CALLED to Washington by President Marts for a week-end conference, twelve Bucknell educators had the pleasure of meeting with three high-ranking government officials not long ago to consider some of the problems facing higher education in the near future. The governmental officials included Dr. Joseph W. Barker, assistant to the Secretary of the Navy, Colonel John M. Andrews, assistant to General Lewis Hershey, and Dr. E. V. Hollis of the U. S. Office of Education.

Dr. Barker stressed particularly the task of the college in taking men who have been carefully trained to kill and reawakening in them an interest in liberal and scientific subjects. He pointed out specifically the need for greater faculty understanding in dealing with these returning veterans. They are likely to be considerably more mature than present undergraduates and need both a scholastic and a personal interest if successful adjustment is to be made.

According to Col. Andrews, something like 35,000,000 of America's citizens will be obliged to make extensive readjustments in their lives in the year following the close of the war, this number including both those now in the Armed Forces and those in industries likely to undergo drastic changes. He anticipates that not less than a million of this number will desire to resume their educations. Col. Andrews stressed the point that colleges should be preparing themselves so that it will be possible for these men and women to enter college at any time during the year, rather than being obliged to wait for the opening of the usual semesters.

Dr. Hollis reported on the post-war planning already undertaken by the U. S. Office of Education and indicated that the schools of our country will need to think especially in terms of three fundamental issues in preparing returning service men for their places in civilian life. These three were as follows: the relation between labor and management, the education of the average college student so that he will have a better understanding of his civic responsibilities, and education on international problems and race relations.

In appointing faculty committees to carry on the task of preparation for the difficult times ahead, President Marts reminded the faculty representatives that Bucknell expects to continue to be a college of about the same size as at present and that the major task of the school will be to give the finest education possible to the 1,300 young men and women who are selected and qualified to take advantage of the offerings available at Bucknell. Bucknell will make such adjustments in curriculum and program as prove necessary to remain abreast of changing conditions.

Three faculty committees were named. Each of them was given the responsibility of submitting a report of its recommendations early in April. The first of these committees was a group consisting of Dr. Charles M. Bond, Dr. Norman Stewart, and Dr. H. W. Robbins. This committee was given the task of preparing a general statement as to the post-war problem relating to Bucknell. The second committee consists of the faculty advisory committee, under the leadership of Dr. Philip L. Harriman. This committee was asked to prepare a statement on specific steps to be taken in curricular and academic adjustment. It was this committee which took the initiative originally in suggesting a study of the whole subject of the readjustment period following the conclusion of hostilities. A third committee dealing with still other aspects consists of Dean Ralph E. Page, Treasurer Dayton L. Ranck, Dean Dorothy T. Dyer, and Dr. James A. Gathings. This group was requested to draw up plans concerning the readjustments of students returning from the war, as well as concerning the general social life and student activities on the campus. It is ardently hoped that giving time and attention to these important questions at this stage will result in less confusion and better coördination of the college in the difficult times that lie ahead.

GIFT TO ENDOWMENT FUND

J. Henry Stauff, Treasurer of Edwards, George and Company, General Insurance Agents, Pittsburgh, who died in December, 1941, left a substantial amount to the Bucknell Endowment Fund. Mr. Stauff was not a Bucknellian but was a Baptist, very much interested in education. He was a widower and is survived by his sister and a brother, also of Pittsburgh.

Snyder Wins Legion of Merit

In England Lieutenant Colonel Snyder has served with a committee engaged in revising the Manual of Army Surgery and has lectured almost daily to other new hospitals and medical groups. He was made a "visiting faculty member" of the European Theatre of Operations, Medical Field Service School. On March 12 he completed three years in service.

Lieutenant Colonel Snyder received his medical training at the University of Pennsylvania and interned at the Bryn Mawr Hospital and University Hospital of Cleveland. He spent four and one-half years in the study and practice of surgery at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., and earned the Master of Surgery degree from the University of Minnesota.

Lieutenant Colonel Snyder is the son of James W. Snyder, '02, principal of the Slatington (Pa.) schools.

SNYDER WRITES OF BIRTHDAY CAMPAIGN

DEAR BUCKNELLIANs:

Last summer, when the active regional meetings in the Hundredth Birthday Campaign were about closing, I wrote you, asking for the loyal support of those alumni who had not subscribed up to that time. Our general chairman, Mr. Roy Bostwick, and our President, Captain Arnaud Marts, also wrote you similar requests. Nearly 200 more of you have responded, half of you with full shares and several with founder's subscriptions of $1,000 or more. Several hundred have completed payments on subscriptions. That's great! Bucknell appreciates it. It's going to mean much to Bucknell and her alumni to have this grand old college free of debt when, on February 5, 1946, we celebrate her Hundredth Birthday.

About 2,400 of our 10,000 alumni have responded and about $272,000 has been subscribed. All but $93,000 has been paid in and today Bucknell does not owe a cent outside of Lewisburg. The Lewisburg banks carry the entire debt. But even the Lewisburg banks must have interest, and the interest on $93,000 is more than enough to pay the salary of one professor.

I am sure we can wipe out this debt if we all stick together and put our shoulders to the wheel for the final effort. Twenty-four per cent of our alumni have nearly wiped it out. What would happen if every one who can afford to make a subscription of any size would do his best? I know what the result would be and I think you do. And you would hasten a great day for Old Bucknell.

Yours for a Happy Birthday,

E. A. SNYDER, '11,
National Alumni Chairman.

BUCKNELLIANS SERVE THEIR COUNTRY IN THE RED CROSS

MARGARET DOUGHERTY

EDNA M. HUTCHINSON

CATHERINE R. HUGHES

CAROL LEE DAVIS

IN a letter to L. Francis Lybarger, Joseph B. Lippincott, 'x27, who has received his fourth promotion, to the position of Regional Field Supervisor in the American Red Cross, and is now somewhere in Africa, gives a vivid picture of the work and the workers in this great organization. He says: "They are a grand group. All overseas workers with Red Cross have volunteered for foreign service and are doing a magnificent work rendering a much needed service to members of our Armed Forces.

"The lives of the workers over here are not filled with the comforts of home so men and women, alike, share the same prevailing hardships and accept them as a normal part of any day—taking these in their stride with a matter-of-fact attitude. There is no grumbling for they came here expecting the worst, hoping for the best, and making the most of what there is to be had.

"When I was last in the States many persons asked, 'What hours do you work?' The reply to that question is, 'We have NO hours!' We must be and we are available twenty-four hours each and every day. When there is need for our services outside our daily routine, whether scheduled or unscheduled, we are prepared to render those services at any hour of the day or night. The average time spent on duty in any one day by Red Cross workers over here ranges from twelve to fourteen hours.

"The American public can well feel proud for its contribution to this organization and the good work it is doing. The Field Service is the link between the soldier and 'The Folks Back Home' and every facility at the command of this service is utilized to its fullest extent to alleviate the troubled minds of the men who are in the fight over here, for a soldier with a troubled mind is of no use to himself nor to the army and it is much of the service that Red Cross provides through the generosity of the American public that makes it possible for the men to receive assistance when it is most needed. Commercial cables are not available for use in this area and it is through the generosity of the Army Signal Corps that our contacts are made with the Red Cross Chapters at home. Neither is it possible for these men to walk to a Western Union Telegraph Office and send a telegram nor can they go to a telephone pay station, lift the receiver, deposit coins, and say, 'Hello, Mom' . . . it is our job and we do it with as much speed as regulations and facilities permit. The Clubs offer various types of clean entertainment, sleeping accommodations, meals, and other services too numerous to mention in this letter. Our Clubmobiles are operating in locations where the need for doughnuts, coffee, cigarettes, candy, and items soldiers like so well is considered essential. The Hospital workers carry on with the services delegated to that branch of the service in caring for the needs of the sick and the wounded. They read to those who are unable to read, write letters for those who are unable to write, and in every case fulfill each request as best they can with a smile and a cheery word to all."

A few Bucknellians have been reported to the ALUMNI MONTHLY by the American Red Cross. They are listed below.

Carol Lee Davis, '38, of Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, formerly with the Office of War Information in San Francisco, enlisted in the Red Cross service in the fall of 1943 and was sent overseas in December. She is located somewhere in the British Isles and is in charge of an Aeroclub serving American Air Corps men in that area.

Margaret Dougherty, '33, of Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania, who was formerly with the Department of Public Assistance as a visitor in Jefferson County, is located in Australia and is serving as a Red Cross caseworker.

Bernice Fisher of Deland, Florida, and Selinsgrove, Pennsylvania, began Red Cross training on April 10. She is taking a six-week course in the American University, Washington, D. C. Miss Fisher is a graduate of Stetson University and received the degree of Master of Arts at Bucknell in 1941. She has been counselor and teacher of dramatics at Camp Nawakwa, Biglerville, Pennsylvania, and until her enlistment was teaching in the high school at Plainfield, New Jersey.

Catherine R. Hughes, '28, of Williamstown, Pennsylvania, has arrived in England to serve the Armed Forces as a Red Cross recreation worker. Previous to her enlistment in this service she taught in Yeaddon, Pennsylvania, public schools. After leaving Bucknell she took graduate work at Pennsylvania State College, Temple University, and the University of Pennsylvania.

Edna M. Hutchinson, '36, of Wilmington, Del., is serving as an American Red Cross hospital staff aide in England. Before her Red Cross appointment, she taught at Richard Hudnut School, New York City, and was head of the girls department at the People's Settlement House, Wilmington. She took graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania.

Earlier, when she held the AWVS chairmanship in the Borough of Queens, she did much to publicize the problem and the need. By her writing and speaking and her administrative astuteness, she soon brought Queens to the top among New York's Boroughs. With this rich experience, her appointment as chairman for Greater New York came in the natural turn of events.

Throughout her life Mrs. Copeland has had the habit of doing the unusual. While taking a jurisprudence course at Bucknell, she was secretary to the registrar. She came back for a degree in Music. Following her graduation, she taught school two years, was secretary to leading Philadelphia and New York law firms, specialist-secretary to Miss Anne Morgan in her many activities and projects, among them the American Women's Association, and Franco-American Relief work. Her connection with Miss Morgan began shortly after her marriage, when she came to New York.

An accomplished lyric soprano, she has done much concert and radio work. The number of clubs to which she belongs and in which she is active is too large for listing here. Her home is at 8510 34th Avenue, Jackson Heights, N. Y.

as an example of clear writing—when he was interrupted by a Navy trainee.

"But that's all wrong, sir!" he said. "I was there."

The V-12 unit at Bucknell has made an enviable record. There are probably several reasons for its unusual success. Some claim it is because every man is required to be in his room evenings from 7:15 to 9:30; then he has a half-hour free but must be in bed by 10:00 o'clock. Some say it is because we have such a superior faculty at Bucknell, and still others feel that most of the credit should go to the Commanding Officer, Lieutenant-Commander J. E. Fleming, and his staff. There are those who attribute the unusual success to careful selection of trainees. Perhaps all four of these causes combine to bring about the results that have been achieved. Not all the outcomes can be listed on paper, but it is significant that not a single Navy or Marine trainee has failed his examinations for entrance to officers training school. This fact is highlighted when we are informed that the reported average failure is 20 per cent. Only last week the dining hall service at Bucknell was rated first among the twelve colleges and universities in this area. We salute the V-12 program.

share in our scientific achievements." In any case, he stated, a "scientific frontier" has replaced the "land frontier" of the old West.

Among the 70 persons receiving diplomas were four graduate students and a man and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alfred Strange of Milton, Pa. Ten received the degree of Bachelor of Science in Chemical Engineering, four in Electrical Engineering, six in Mechanical Engineering (one mechanical engineer was a young woman, Miss Wilburda Miriam Murphy of Philadelphia); twenty-seven received the Bachelor of Arts degree; six, the Bachelor of Science; twelve, the Bachelor of Science in Commerce and Finance; and one, the Bachelor of Science in Education. Persons receiving the master's degree were June Lohman Bubb, Master of Arts; Willard Arthur Christian, Edith Colligan Hannis, and Andrew Clement McGowan, Master of Science in Education.

Daniel Rupert Ormanowski of Glen Lyon and Ira Smith Sheffler, Jr., of Chambersburg were graduated magna cum laude. Norman Arthur Adamson of Pittsburgh; Alice Leone Boice of Camden, N. LOWTHER'S LETTER TO ALUMNI

GREETINGS TO THE ALUMNI:

I have just met a young Bucknell Alumnus who is home for a few weeks. He is a Navy pilot and has completed about fifty missions. It was very interesting to hear him tell of meeting Bucknell boys in every corner of the globe, and when two or more boys got together it called for a celebration and "bull session." Also, I had a letter from one of our boys located in Australia, and he tells of having dinner at least once a week with one of his classmates. They often gather in a couple more and call that the "Alumni Club" meeting. We read in the papers of the grand jobs that the boys are doing and the other night I recognized the name of a Bucknell boy whose exploits were being dramatized on the radio.

We all long for the peaceful days when our men and women will be back home, and just about this time of year we shall be able to make plans to return for commencement and the class reunions once more.

Several of the alumni clubs are doing a great job and holding meetings despite wartime restrictions. It is mainly through the loyal efforts of the alumni in sending new students to Bucknell that the incoming classes are filled to capacity. Let us not relax in our efforts for one minute. The administration needs our loyalty and support.

W. C. LOWTHER, President,
General Alumni Association.

THANKS!

OUR sincere thanks are extended to the many Alumni who have co-operated so splendidly in our admissions program. Certainly to you goes a substantial amount of the credit for the fact that as of May 1 the total number of applications for admission was 11 per cent higher than one year ago; the number of applications from young women stood 43 per cent higher than at that time.

Among the services rendered by Alumni are the following: In approximately one hundred Pennsylvania localities they have examined lists of high school seniors and indicated their judgments as to the desirability of these young people as future Bucknellians. In one locality in New York State an Alumni club wrote and asked for the names of Bucknell prospects in that area in order that these might be invited to the next meeting of the club. A gratifying number of loyal Alumni have taken time from their crowded schedules to talk to prospective students about Bucknell and have written to the Admissions Office, making suggestions as to further procedure. Almost daily letters are received from Alumni, recommending young persons as prospective students. Some have written to suggest that the Admissions Office get in touch with outstanding persons in their communities whose influence was considered desirable. Two Bucknellians have requested permission to show the sound motion picture in color, "Bucknell Marches On," to high school students in their communities. In a number of cases Alumnae have served as hostesses to prospective Bucknellians at "College Nights" staged by high schools.

While by no means all has been done that can be done, a splendid start has been made toward an exclusively Alumni-propelled admissions program. As we go along, new techniques for selling Bucknell will evolve. One excellent argument for attending Bucknell is the fact that she has a large group of loyal Alumni who are willing to spend themselves and their substance for Alma Mater. But back of this loyalty is the fact that Bucknell is one of a small group of outstanding colleges and universities which have been evaluated by the highest accrediting organizations and given complete approval. And for this fine rating, much credit is due to our president, Arnaud C. Marts, who has not only brought us prosperity and national recognition but has emphasized the "Bucknell Way of Life"—that of "Intelligence, Integrity, and Brotherhood."

NOMINATIONS FOR ALUMNI TRUSTEE

According to the By-laws of the General Alumni Association a committee consisting of W. J. Bower, '18, Chairman; Mrs. T. J. O'Leary, '12, F. F. Whittam, '15, F. F. Reamer, '21, W. B. Shaw, '23, was appointed by President W. C. Lowther, '14, to select, from names suggested by the various alumni clubs, recommendations to the Board of Directors for nominations for the election of Alumni Trustee. The various alumni clubs were requested to send in their names but due to war conditions some clubs are not holding many meetings and consequently very few names have been received for consideration. We are requesting all alumni to cooperate by filling out the blank below and mailing it to Chairman Bower before June 1st so that the committee may have a good number of representative alumni from which to select their nominees.

JUNE COMMENCEMENT

COMMENCEMENT exercises will be held on Saturday, June 24, at 10:00 A. M. in Davis Gymnasium. The meeting of the Board of Trustees will be held at the President's House at 2:00 o'clock on the afternoon of the same day. On Friday, June 23, the following events are scheduled: 2:00 P. M.—Business Meeting of the Bucknell Alumnae Association in Larison Hall Lounge. 3:00 and 3:30 P. M.—Bucknell Moving Pictures in Bucknell Hall. 4:00 P. M.—Meeting of the General Alumni Association in Larison Hall Lounge. 7:30 P. M.—Baccalaureate Sermon. 9:00 P. M.—Open House in Hunt Hall Living Room.

The United States Government has requested that commencement travel be reduced to the minimum for the duration; therefore, it is expected that the alumni meetings will consist chiefly of persons living near Lewisburg.

HALLERAN WRITES WESTERN NOVEL

EUGENE E. HALLERAN, '27, has written a good many short stories, mainly Westerns, but he had not published a novel until his present one, No Range Is Free, published by the Macrea-Smith Company of Philadelphia in 1944. One commentator says, "Here is an action-crammed story of the old West, told with unusual skill, plausible in plot, and peopled with flesh-and-blood characters you'll never forget." Halleran received his master's degree from Rutgers University in 1937 and teaches in the Ocean City (N. J.) High School. He is married and has one son.

ALUMNI MONTHLY TO BE RE-NAMED

Due to the fact that it is no longer possible to publish this magazine monthly during the college year, it becomes necessary by order of the Post Office Department to change the name in the next issue. The Board of Directors will welcome suggestions for the new name.

ALUMNI CATALOG CHAIRMAN ASKS FOR HELP

DEAR BUCKNELLIAN:

In order to get the BUCKNELL CENTENNIAL ALUMNI DIRECTORY published by 1946, it will be necessary for the committee to have the help of all former Bucknell students. I know we can count on you, and so we would like to have you look through your copy of YOUR COLLEGE FRIENDS and send to the Alumni Office all the mistakes that you have marked or that you now notice.

There are three lists which may need revision:

1. The alphabetical list. Look for mistakes as of the present time, deaths (the Alumni Office has tried to note all deaths but in many cases there is doubt, especially from 1937 to 1944), changes of names by marriage or otherwise.
2. The class list. Changes of names in classes.
3. The geographical list. Changes of addresses.

Your committee is anxious to have this Directory as nearly perfect as possible but this can be done only with your full coöperation. Kindly act now while you have this job on your mind.

Yours for a BETTER BUCKNELL,

WILLIAM G. OWENS, '80,

Chairman.

We are trying to make a collection of all pictures, programs, and other material of the olden days that it would be of interest to keep. Now, if you come across such material in spring house cleaning, just send it along. Programs of the first fifty years are especially interesting.

The Bucknell Alumnus

Letter from the President

DEAR BUCKNELLIANs:

We are thinking a great deal these days about Bucknell's post-war program and are making plans for strengthening Alma Mater in certain ways after the resumption of peacetime conditions. We hope the old "College on The Hill" will measure up fully to the new educational opportunities which we believe will open to the strong American colleges and universities in the post-war generation. Present indications are that a record number of young people in America will enter college after this war.

But we are thinking also of a group of Bucknellians for whom there will be neither a post-war Bucknell nor a post-war America. They are our alumni and students who have given their lives in this war. We know of 15 who have died. We wish to plan a memorial in their honor which will be particularly beautiful and appropriate. It has been suggested that we plant a memorial garden and grove at a proper location on our campus where nature might join with us in creating a half acre of special charm in their memory. It has been further suggested that this memorial garden be established on a slope which would provide a small outdoor amphitheatre for summer vesper services. Plans along these lines are now being considered by the Trustees' Committee on Buildings and Grounds.

Comments and suggestions from the alumni would be welcomed by this Committee. Dr. Mary Wolfe of Lewisburg is the Chairman.

Cordial greetings to each of you and all of you.

Yours sincerely,

JUNE COMMENCEMENT HONORS BUCKNELLIANs

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY held its 94th annual June Commencement this spring, but the time was one of the few elements that made it akin to all those other June Commencements. Because of war conditions most Commencement activities were eliminated. The academic procession marched from the Vaughan Literature Building down the sloping hillside to the Davis Gymnasium, but less than one-third of the usual number of graduates were in the line. There were new faces among the faculty in their gowns and colorful hoods, as some fifteen of the regular staff are on leave in the services or in war industry and scientific research. However, it was an impressive procession that mounted the steps of the rostrum to receive the earned Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees from the hand of Captain Arnaud C. Martz. Honorary degrees were bestowed on four alumni who had achieved distinction in as many different fields—law, medicine, humanitarian service and religion.

Recipients of honorary degrees were: Joseph W. Henderson, Philadelphia, president of the American Bar Association, Doctor of Civil Law; Dr. Chester S. Keefer, Boston, who supervised distribution of penicillin during the early development of the drug, Doctor of Science; Roy G. Bostwick, Pittsburgh, civic leader and attorney, Doctor of Laws; the Rev. A. Herbert Haslam, Toledo, Ohio, Doctor of Divinity.

DR. MARY BELLE HARRIS

DR. MARY BELLE HARRIS, '94, BECOMES MEMBER OF PHI BETA KAPPA

THE Bucknell chapter of Phi Beta Kappa honored itself by making Dr. Mary Belle Harris, daughter of Dr. John Howard Harris, for thirty years president of Bucknell, an honorary member. Dr. Harris had the unique experience of becoming a member of Phi Beta Kappa on the fiftieth anniversary of her graduation from Alna Mater.

Bucknellians hardly need be told that Dr. Harris was the first woman who ever was head of a federal prison. She organized and was superintendent of the women's prison at Alderson, West Virginia, for fifteen years prior to her retirement. At the golden jubilee celebration of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Atlantic City on May 19, 1941, Dr. Harris was awarded the organization's golden scroll of honor as the most outstanding woman of the day in the science of penology. Her book, "I Knew Them in Prison," is an autobiography in which she describes her methods with thousands of women inmates of the prison, many of whom by her progressive methods she was able to restore to useful lives. Her great work at Alderson was not that of an inexperienced person, for she was in charge of women prisoners at Blackwell's Island and later was superintendent of the Reformatory for Women in Clinton, N. J. During the First World War, Dr. Harris served the Govern-

PRESIDENT MARTS TELLS OF MEMORIAL PLAN

IN AN eloquent and timely baccalaureate address on Friday evening, June 23, Captain Arnaud C. Marts projected the class into the year 1970 and asked them if we are to be in another great world war in that year as we were 26 years ago and as we are now. He laid on the shoulders of the educated people of their generation the responsibility for conditions then. He urged speed in the planning of some kind of organization which will prevent in their lifetime the blot which now rests on our so-called civilization. "We must not wait to be sure that we have created the perfect international agency," he said. "We must make the start now with the best judgment we now possess." He declared that this task is "the supreme issue for civilized mankind in the next half century."

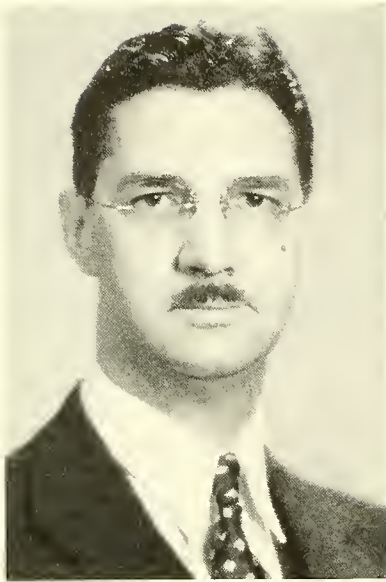

He drew three lessons from the history of the last 26 years which will have definite bearing on their individual lives during an equal period now starting. 1. "You will not avoid World War No. 3 in 1970 by pretending in 1966 that it is none of your business when one nation attacks another in this shrunken little world." 2. "You must learn to maintain sufficient military and naval strength in America to make it clear to warlike nations that World War No. 3 will not pay off for them." 3. "We must create and establish immediately an international agency which will keep the peace everywhere throughout the world."

The speaker said that the effort to establish an international agency to keep the peace is a "magnificent" issue "which summons to its side the instinctive loyalty and creative wits and devoted spirits of all men of all parties and nations and creeds, who have the eyes to see and the souls to comprehend the needs and hopes of all civilized mankind."

"Civilization moves forward slowly and ponderously," he declared. "The mind, spirit and conscience of civilized men, slowly, painfully, hesitantly, push back the dark, foggy curtains of ignorance, of superstition, of meanness, of cruelty—groping always for wider, brighter and nobler horizons for succeeding generations."

The president read the names of Bucknellians who had given their lives or are missing in the present war and proposed a memorial garden and grove in which a tree should be planted in memory of everyone who had made the supreme sacrifice. This garden and grove, he said, "might be set over on the gentle slope leading down toward the Memorial

AUBREY, '19, BECOMES PRESIDENT OF CROZER THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

BUCKNELL'S Commencement speaker this spring was a Bucknellian of 25 years back who has traveled far in the field of theology and education. He was Edwin Ewart Aubrey, new president of Crozer Theological Seminary, and his address was worthy of any president of a graduate school.

Dr. Aubrey was born in Glasgow, Scotland, came to the United States in 1913 and was naturalized in 1918. He was graduated from Bucknell in 1919 with highest honors. The remainder of his schooling was received at the University of Chicago, where he received the M.A. in 1921, B.D. in 1922 and Ph.D. in 1926. Bucknell bestowed on him the honorary D.D. in 1939.

He held professorships in Union Theological College, Carleton College, Miami University and Vassar College before going to the University of Chicago in 1929 as professor of Christian theology and ethics. From 1933 to his election to the Crozer presidency in 1944, he was chairman of the Theological Field in Chicago's Divinity School. While there he played a large part in the developing of the new curriculum and served on all the administrative committees.

He is a member of numerous learned societies and has written several books in the field of religion.

Among his productions are "Religion and the Next Generation," 1931; "Present Theological Tendencies," 1936; "Living the Christian Faith," 1939; and "Man's Search for Himself," 1940. He has contributed to the "Dictionary of American Biography," is book review editor of the Journal of Religion and the new editor of that journal.

Dr. Aubrey was a theological consultant at the Oxford Conference in 1937 and has been chairman of the Chicago Ecumenical Study Group since 1939. He was a founder of the Conference on Science, Philosophy and Religion, and is chairman of the Chicago (inter-faith) Institute for Religious Studies. He is a consultant on religious trends to the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. He is a member of the National Y. W. C. A. Committee on Spiritual Emphasis and of the important Federal Council Commissions: On a Just and Durable Peace, and On the Churches and the War. He is active in the work of the Round Table of Jews and Christians. His brother is the General Secretary of English Baptists.

Mrs. Aubrey, a Vassar graduate with a master's degree in New Testament from the University of Chicago, is a woman of talent and a leader in religious work as well as in national social and political women's organizations. They have two children, Nancy and Donald.

DR. ROBERT LINDNER, '35, WRITES BOOK ON CRIME

"REBEL WITHOUT CAUSE" is the title of a book just published by Robert Lindner, who is psychologist at the Northeastern Penitentiary. The book is described as a hypno-analysis of a criminal psychopath and is a first-hand account of a scientific experiment. Dr. Lindner, in utilizing methods of psycho-analysis and hypnosis, has described crucial episodes and base character factors in the life of a youthful criminal, following him from earliest infancy through a law-breaking boyhood to the young manhood phase in a penitentiary.

Dr. Lindner received his doctor's degree from Cornell University in 1939. He is married to Eleanor Johnson, '34, and they live in Lewisburg with their children, Marged and Dan.

DR. FRANK E. BURPEE

FRANK E. BURPEE, '01, RETIRES

STUDENTS at Bucknell since the turn of the century will regret to know that Doctor Frank E. Burpee, for many years professor of mechanical engineering and for the past few years emeritus professor, has retired from active service. For the past 39 years he had been superintendent of buildings and grounds. In 1937, with the expansion of the plant, he was made full-time superintendent. Professor Burpee, who holds the degree of Doctor of Engineering from John B. Stetson University, has been responsible for the construction of many important Bucknell buildings, including the Carnegie Library, East College, Hunt Hall, Harris Hall, the Botany Building, the first wing of the Engineering Building, the wing of the Chemistry Building, the Service Building, and the Women's Dining Room. He remodeled the Baptist Church twice, as well as Tustin Gymnasium and the Navy Dining Hall, built the S. A. E. House, and superintended the building of the Memorial Stadium.

Professor Burpee was for several years chief Burgess of the Borough of Lewisburg. He was president of many civic organizations and active in a number of others.

He has been responsible for keeping the campus one of the most attractive in the country. He loves flowers, knows them, and has made certain spots, notably the quadrangle between the Library and the Vaughan Literature Building, a joy to flower lovers. Many a sick person has been sure of a supply of flowers because of his thoughtfulness, and many formal occasions at the University have had more beautiful settings because he was on the job.

Dr. Burpee had a serious operation some months ago and since then has had to shift most of his responsibilities to other shoulders. On his retirement, the work of superintending the plant was handed to a committee consisting of Treasurer Dayton L. Ranck, '16, and Professors John C. Reed and George M. Kunkel, '19, until his successor can be chosen. His friends all wish for him many years of well-earned relaxation.

A fifth Bucknell alumnus, Dr. Edwin E. Aubrey, president-elect of Crozer Theological Seminary at Chester, delivered the Commencement address, calling for a kind of knowledge which will lead to action, rather than to cautious skepticism and indecision.

"The fundamental faith of the democracy for which we are now fighting is faith in the power of collective knowledge to make a nation wise," Dr. Aubrey declared. "This is a faith in the eventual triumph of wisdom over force, and the courage to live this faith in the midst of panic is what spells the power of the educated person."

Three master's diplomas were also awarded. One of them went to Miss Esther M. Buss, Allenwood, who received the degree of Master of Arts. Miss Buss was graduated from Bucknell in the Class of 1943.

Six students were graduated with honors, two of them with the distinction of Magna Cum Laude, indicating that they had received A's in three-fourths of their courses.

Top ranking students are Miss Erma L. Sambrook, Troy, and Miss Louise Terrett, Brandenburg, Montana.

Four students were graduated with the distinction of Cum Laude, indicating that they had received A's in one-half of their courses. They are Miss Ruth Landau, Danville; Miss Harriet S. Francke, Hicksville, N. Y.; Warren A. Kistler, Wilkes-Barre; Seymour Bernstein, New York, N. Y.

Awarding of diplomas was followed by the granting of honorary degrees. Dr. Ralph E. Page, professor of political science, who presented Mr. Henderson for his degree, described the Philadelphian as "a wise counselor, a brilliant advocate, a generous friend of education and an outstanding leader in a great profession." He was graduated from Bucknell in 1908 and has been a member of the Frank G. Davis, '11, professor of education and acting director of admissions and acting alumni secretary, gave the Commencement addresses at Lock Haven State Teachers College and at the high school at New Freedom, Pa. He is chairman of the committee on recruitment and guidance of the Coöperative Commission on Teacher Education in Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee on teacher education and recruitment of the Governor's Post-War Planning Committee and chairman of the counseling committee of the National Vocational Guidance Association. He published on June 1 "The Classroom Teacher's Cumulative Pupil Personnel Record."

Robert T. Oliver, associate professor of speech, now on leave of absence with the Service Administration Offices of the War Food Administration. "Korea: A Case Study of Japanese Co-Prosperity" was published last spring by the American Council on Public Affairs. It has a foreword by Dr. Syngmon Rhee, first president of the provincial Republic of Korea, and a preface by Sumner Welles. Dr. Oliver recently completed a two-and-one-half-month trip around the country in the interest of food conservation.

Walter H. Sauvain, associate professor of education, has spoken in recent weeks before such diverse groups as the Sunbury Branch of the P.S.E.A., the Lewisburg Lions, the combined P.T.A.'s of Lewisburg, the Bucknell Branch of the A.A.U.P., the Bucknell Alumni Club of Washington, D. C., and the Junior High Stamp Club at Lewisburg. He continues to serve as acting director of extension at Bucknell and was recently elected vice-president of the Central Pennsylvania Branch of the National Vocational Guidance Association. He delivered Commencement addresses at West Hazleton and Montdale.

Harmer A. Weeden, instructor in civil engineering, has been sworn into the U. S. Naval Reserve as an ensign and reported at Princeton University in late June for indoctrination.

NEW VOCATIONAL BULLETIN FOR GIRLS

THE Admissions Department is sending a new 56-page bulletin to prospective women students. The bulletin discusses 19 areas of work in which college women engage and illustrates each one. In addition it contains a letter from President Marts, a number of attractive photographs of college scenes and activities, complete information on curricula and courses, costs, and student aid and a map showing the location of Bucknell. Alumni interested in assisting in our admissions program will be sent copies of the bulletin on request. Just drop a post card to Frank G. Davis, acting director of admissions.

DR. COIT HOECHST

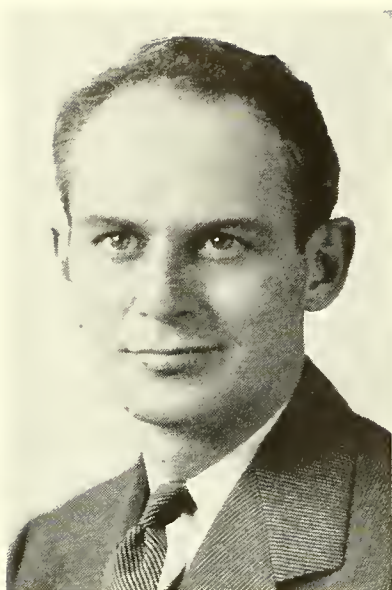

COIT HOECHST, '07, IS PRAISED FOR MUSICIANSHIP

A FEW Bucknellians have known that Coit Hoechst letters all the Bucknell diplomas; we have known him as a leader in educational affairs of Pittsburgh and of the State of Pennsylvania; we have known him as one of Bucknell's most versatile and interesting alumni; but we are probably unaware of the wide range of dynamic living this bundle of energy has encompassed since leaving Bucknell.

A good picture of his activities was painted recently by Ralph Lewando in the Pittsburgh Press. We quote Mr. Lewando in part: "We know of no one who exemplifies so completely the ideal avocational musician as does Dr. Hoechst, noted educator, who believes that 'the sincere and reasonably well-trained and conscientious amateur can and should be of inestimable service to the music profession as a layman.'"

"Dr. Hoechst, though busied with the demands of educational activity, has found the time and energy to compose eight string quartets, a piano quintet, two piano trios and two orchestral suites, which further emphasize his top-ranking here as the ideal amateur in music. His hobbies are engrossing and hand-lettering of diplomas, illuminating of hand-lettered parchment documents and albums. Since 1931 he has played the cello in a string quartet. And to cap his leisure interest, Dr. Hoechst has made a number of violins, violas and cellos that are being played to advantage."

CHARLES A. KOTHE

KOTHE, x'34, VOTED TULSA'S OUTSTANDING MAN OF 1942-3

CHARLES A. KOTHE was recently elected president of the Oklahoma Junior Chamber of Commerce and voted the most outstanding man in the city of Tulsa—all this in spite of the fact that he has been kicking around on this mundane planet only since 1912. Kothe spent three years at Bucknell in the Class of 1934, then moved to Tulsa and received his B.A. degree from the University of Tulsa. He entered the University of Oklahoma Law School and distinguished himself as literary editor of the campus humor magazine, as a member of the debating team and by being elected to Phi Delta Phi and the Coif, top-ranking honor societies of the law school. Incidentally, he worked his way through the school. He entered private law practice in Tulsa, soon was called to the legal staff of the Mid-Continent Petroleum Company, and is now chief counsel of the Macnick Company, specializing in labor relations.

Kothe is active in community affairs and is superintendent of the Young People's Department of the Second Presbyterian Church, also teaching in the department. He is married to Janet Fleming, with whom he took a honeymoon trip around the world, traveling part way by tramp steamer and bicycling through Europe and Asia.

JOHN EISENHAUER RETIRES

DR. JOHN H. EISENHAUER, '05, principal of the Reading High School for the past eight years, retired from active service August 1. He was engaged in public school work until 1928, when he became associate professor of education and director of the summer school at Bucknell, holding this position until 1933, when he became director of the Bucknell Junior College at Wilkes-Barre. After three years there, he returned to Reading as high school principal, which position he had held for five years before coming to Bucknell in 1928.

He was active in civic and religious organizations, having been president of the Kiwanis Club in Reading and the Lewisburg Lions Club. From 1932 to 1934 he was a member of the Executive Council of the Reformed Church in America and was a member of the general council of the church after its merger with the Evangelical Church.

He married Alverna Dersham in 1906. Their daughter, Mrs. Glenn H. Good, lives in Lewisburg. Dr. and Mrs. Eisenhower will live on their farm in Union County.

DEAN DYER ON YEAR'S LEAVE; MRS. STOLZ, '27, ACTING DEAN

AT THE June meeting of the Board of Trustees, Mrs. Dorothy Dyer was granted a year's leave of absence for further study, and Mrs. Lulu G. Stolz, wife of Dr. Paul G. Stolz, head of the music department, was elected acting dean. This is the third time Mrs. Stolz has been appointed acting dean, which position she fills admirably. Mrs. Eleanor Reppert has been appointed acting assistant dean of women.

THE GUIDANCE WORKSHOP

THE Bucknell Guidance Workshop, inaugurated in 1940, is having a very successful summer. Emphasis is being placed on two fields of guidance—training of school counselors and training of counselors for the rehabilitation and readjustment of returning soldiers and persons who will need to transfer from war industry to peacetime pursuits. Dr. Frank G. Davis is director and T. Bayard Beatty of the Radnor High School at Wayne, Pa., is assistant director. In addition, nearly a dozen experts are serving as consultants.

DR. C. WILLARD SMITH

BUCKNELL WILL INSTITUTE ENGLISH LANGUAGE SCHOOL

A DEFINITE honor was bestowed on Bucknell University when it was assigned by the Department of State approximately twenty Latin-American college graduates, both men and women, who will live on the campus and will speak only English for eight weeks, under the tutelage of a picked group of instructors. Dr. C. Willard Smith will be in charge of the school and will be assisted by Miss Agnes Brady of the Spanish Department. A number of other professors will assist in the project.

This is the only school of its type in the Eastern States, and its purpose will be to provide an indoctrination course into American customs and language for those Spanish-speaking people who plan to continue graduate study at colleges and universities in this country. The course will provide them with a better command of English before they begin their graduate studies.

Dr. Smith has gone to the University of Michigan, where he will study methods of conducting such a house under Dr. Charles C. Fries, '09, who has been engaged in this work at Michigan for several years. For some time two other Bucknellians also—Dr. and Mrs. Leo L. Rockwell, '07 and '11—have been working with Dr. Fries. Harry R. Pierson, '28, of the Bureau of Cultural Relations of the Department of State in Washington, has assisted in arranging the program.

Alumni will be glad to know that Bucknellians are active in the building of good relations between the United States and Latin America.

WICKEY WILL RETURN TO THE CAMPUS

HARRY WICKEY, nationally known artist, who with his wife has been on the campus the past two years, will return for several months next year. During 1943-44, he has given fifteen demonstrations of etching, lithography, casting sculpture, pressing a piece mold with terra cotta, and firing sculpture in terra cotta. A number of students who attended the demonstrations produced original works of art in the mediums that were demonstrated. Also, one-man exhibitions of art, by such noted American artists as Harry Gottlieb, Elizabeth Olds, Don Freeman, Hubert Davis, Boris Aronson, Albert Hirschfield and Cecil Bee, were given.

LIEUTENANT SHIMER WILL FIGHT LEPROSY

LIEUTENANT WILLIAM A. SHIMER, dean of the faculty and professor of philosophy, for the past 15 months on leave from the University and in command of the Navy V-12 program at Emory and Henry College, has obtained a leave of absence from the Navy and will head an organization whose function is to plan extension of the work of the American Mission to Lepers. His offices are at 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City, and his work will take him to all parts of the country.

VIEW ON OVERSEAS MARRIAGES

THE General Commission on Army and Navy Chaplains recently received from Chaplain Thomas B. Richards, '37, his observations of the problems connected with the marriage of American servicemen and English girls. After a clear-headed discussion of the problems involved, Tom said, "I am not appealing for a return to the old days of 'parental control.' I am asking, however, and this cannot be put too strongly, that American parents wake up to the fact that Johnny now needs their advice more than ever before. The right word at the right time will make or break him. I've seen it happen."

DR. B. W. GRIFFITH
Faculty Manager of Athletics

Bucknell Sports

LOOKING back over a highly successful year during which Navy V-12 trainees supplied most of the manpower, Bucknell athletes are already preparing for the campaigns of the coming months. Football practice is now underway, since it began July 31. The program will be similar to that of 1943-44: for the fall, football and soccer; winter, basketball and perhaps wrestling; spring, baseball and tennis.

The football schedule, just completed, includes games with Cornell, Penn State, Temple, Villanova and New York University. Here's the way it lines up:

Date	Opponent	Place
Sept. 16	Muhlenberg	Allentown
Sept. 23	Muhlenberg	Lewisburg
Sept. 30	Cornell (night)	Ithaca, N. Y.
Oct. 7	F. and M.	Lewisburg
Oct. 14	Penn State	State College
Oct. 27	Temple (night)	Philadelphia
Nov. 4	N. Y. U.	Lewisburg
Nov. 11	C. C. N. Y.	Lewisburg
Nov. 18	Villanova (night)	Philadelphia
Nov. 23	F. and M.	Lancaster

The two New York colleges, N. Y. U. and C. C. N. Y., are the sole newcomers on the schedule. C. C. N. Y. has never before played Bucknell in football. N. Y. U. has battled the Bisons three times, most recently in 1935, when the Violets outpointed the Orange and Blue, 14 to 0.

It is certain, in view of the small enrollment of civilian men, that the team will be composed almost entirely of trainees. It will be a new team; we shall again have to start from scratch. Fully 25 of last year's squad have left Bucknell. Their places will be filled by boys coming in from the fleet or the high schools. Last year the Bucknell squad included players from a dozen different colleges, many of them experienced football men. Then the problem was to weld these products of different systems into a machine. This time the task will be to create a team out of unseasoned material. Which is the more difficult job? That remains to be seen.

Furthermore, in these war years, the football season is split into two distinct parts. At the end of October, many of the players will leave Bucknell for duties elsewhere. Their places will have to be filled by men who entered in July. These men, not allowed to take part in intercollegiate contests during the first sixteen weeks of their training period, will be eligible to play at the end of October. However, they will have to be trained. The coaches, therefore, are confronted with the task of developing two teams at once, the two to be merged into the varsity of the second half of the season. It might be pointed out that all this resembles the old arrangement of varsity and freshman teams, except for the fact that eligibility of the former team takes place the same season.

What about the coaching staff that is to cope with this rather difficult situation? We are glad to report that Woody Ludwig will be with us again. It will be remembered that Woody took charge last year after Johnny Sitarsky went into the Army. He finished the football season with a dazzling victory over F. and M. His basketball team won nine out of twelve games. His baseball team won all but two games. Woody seems to be a winner. Bucknell fans feel confident that the job of head coach will be in good hands. (Continued on page 23.)

ANDREW R. MATHIESON
President, Bucknell Athletic Council

BISON CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

A MEETING of the Bison Club was held in the Alumni Office on Saturday afternoon, June 24, at 1:00 o'clock for the election of officers. The nominating committee, consisting of Robert C. Heim, '24, Miller A. Johnson, '20, William J. Irvin, '22, Andrew R. Mathieson, '20, and O. V. W. Hawkins, '13, presented the following names for the indicated offices and they were elected:

For officers whose terms expire June 30, 1945:

C. Preston Dawson, '24 . . President
W. Cline Lowther, '14 . . First Vice-President
John J. Conway, '16 Second Vice-President
John R. Criswell, '14 Third Vice-President
Frank G. Davis, '11 Secretary
Warren Reed, '20 Treasurer

For executive committee:

Edward C. Myers, '34—Term expiring June 30, 1945
W. S. Busser—Term expiring June 30, 1945
Harvey S. Bogar, '01—Term expiring June 30, 1946
John C. Johnson, '04—Term expiring June 30, 1946
Rush H. Kress, '00—Term expiring June 30, 1947
James A. Tyson, '11—Term expiring June 30, 1947

A letter from W. C. Lowther was received, asking that because of his duties as president of the General Alumni Association he be relieved of the responsibility of acting as first vice-president of the Bison Club. His resignation was accepted with regret, and it was moved that the position be filled at Homecoming time by nominations to be brought in by the nominating committee.

A motion was carried that the chair be authorized to call a special meeting of the Bison Club at the time of the meeting of the Athletic Council in Philadelphia in the fall. William Irvin was appointed chairman and was authorized to name his own committee.

The Bucknell summer term opened July 3. Of the 877 students, 563 are Navy V-12 trainees, 253 are men and women undergraduates, and 61 are teachers, mainly graduate students taking summer courses.

Eighty of the undergraduates are beginning freshmen—47 men and 33 women. The November beginning group will be much larger and the proportion of women will be increased.

University's Board of Trustees for the past eleven years. He is now serving as secretary of the Board.

Dr. Chester S. Keefer, Boston, who was presented by Dr. N. H. Stewart, professor of zoology, served as a consultant to the Office of Scientific Research and Development when plans were worked out for apportioning the meagre supplies of penicillin. All doctors handling cases involving the use of the drug were required to submit complete medical and bacteriological case-histories to Dr. Keefer.

Dr. Keefer, who was graduated from Bucknell in 1918, is Wade Professor of Medicine in the Boston University School of Medicine and physician-in-chief of Massachusetts Memorial Hospital.

Roy G. Bostwick, chairman of Bucknell's Board of Trustees and senior partner of the law firm of Thorp, Bostwick, Reed and Armstrong, was cited as "an eminent lawyer and a distinguished humanitarian." He was presented for his degree by Dr. W. H. Coleman, professor of English.

Graduated from Bucknell in the Class of 1905, Mr. Bostwick has been active in civic and humanitarian affairs, serving as chairman of the blood donor service of the Pittsburgh chapter of the American Red Cross, president of the Family Society of Allegheny County and director of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania.

The Rev. A. Herbert Haslam, a Bucknell graduate in the Class of 1923, was honored for his "creative, pioneering religious leadership" and his "Christian statesmanship." He was presented for the honorary degree by Dr. Charles M. Bond, head of Bucknell's Religion Department.

The Toledo pastor has been an active denominational leader as secretary of the board of managers of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, vice-president of the American Baptist Historical Society and associate editor of the historical quarterly, "The Chronicle," and member of the committee on social service and action of the Northern Baptist Convention.

Eight who were graduated 50 years ago occupied seats on the platform with members of faculty and administration. They are Rev. A. C. Lathrop, Emmett, Idaho; Dr. Mary B. Harris, Lewisburg; Dr. Harvey F. Smith, Harrisburg; Mrs. W. H. Topping, Stratford, N. J.; Mrs. William C. Mulford, Bridgeton, N. J.; Miss Nora M. Greene, Lewistown; Miss Mabel Callender, Dalton; and Mrs. H. N. Hoffman, Lewisburg.

Alumni Clubs Report

Metropolitan Alumni Club

PAL'S CABIN in West Orange, N. J., was the scene on June 16 of the third big get-together of the Metropolitan Club. More than 60 persons were in attendance and everyone had a good time. "Red" Lowther, '14, president of the General Alumni Association, led the gang in singing a lot of Bucknell songs. The program was a unique one in that three members of one family spoke. Dr. Guido Carl Leo Riemer, '95, former head of the German Department of Bucknell and respected by many alumni for his scholarship and teaching skill, was the main speaker of the evening. His wife, known to many alumni as the gracious hostess and successful manager of a kindergarten of six children (all her own), was also an honored guest at the affair.

Robert C. Heim, '24, president of the club, in introducing Dr. Riemer, read a letter from Ralph Haller, '08, who recounted acting with Leo Rockwell under Dr. Riemer's direction in a play, "Einer Muss Heiraten." Heim told, also, of the escape of Hans Riemer, now a famous criminologist, who got himself convicted and put in jail in Kansas, he and Alf Landon, the Governor of Kansas, being the only ones who knew that it was a phony.

After reminiscing on old times at Bucknell, Dr. Riemer read a paper on the place of the college graduate in the civic life of the nation. He reminded the group that the college graduate, having received much, owes much to the maintenance of democracy. Following his address his two sons, Commander Carl Riemer of the legal department of the Coast Guard, and Dr. Hugo Riemer, Bucknell '29, spoke briefly.

F. G. Davis, '11, acting alumni secretary, recounted some of the accomplishments of Bucknell faculty and alumni.

South Jersey Alumni Club

One of the most original and enjoyable alumni meetings of the year was staged by the Bucknell Alumni Club of Southern New Jersey, of which Lawrence M. Kimball, '23, is president. It was held on June 8 and about 50 were present. Kimball had ordered a set of Bucknell Glee Club recordings and a Bucknell banner as prizes for a contest which was planned. We quote from Kimball's report:

"The records arrived in perfect condition and Judge Elmer B. Woods, '10, of Pitman, won these as our first prize in the Bucknell Bingo game. Frances Harris, '27, was awarded the banner as second prize.

"Our program included a short play by members of the Woodbury Sketch Club, entitled 'Ring on Her Finger,' and the showing of snapshots, brought by the alumni, by means of a balopticon. The pictures of the grads back in their campus days brought many chuckles.

"Dr. E. H. Dutton, '98, gave the invocation, and Mrs. George Gehring, whose husband was in the Class of '23, played the piano for the singing of Bucknell songs. The Bucknell Glee Club entertained during the dinner by way of the records.

"We were happy to have Jim Tyson, '11, with us as a representative of the Philadelphia Club. Betty Robb, '29, acting as secretary, read the minutes.

"Members of the reception committee included George W. Mathieson, '22, John Gurney Sholl, '10, Kirby Walls, '29, Edna Baker, '22, and George Gehring, '23.

"The following members of the executive committee were introduced: Dr. Mabel G. Leshner, '01, Lawrence Scotti, '28, Mrs. Gertrude Dennis, '39, John L. Kohl, '32, and Edwin D. Robb, '24.

"The program was in charge of Kenneth W. Slifer, '26, Caryl D. Slifer, '27, and John L. Kohl, '32.

"The writer, as president of the club, presided."

It is not often that a club announcement of a meeting is quoted. We make an exception here in the hope that this may be suggestive to clubs that wish to rejuvenate their membership.

RECEIVES PURPLE HEART

Chaplain Ward E. Gage, '38, U. S. Army, was awarded the Purple Heart recently following action on the Anzio beachhead. Before entering service, Chaplain Gage was head dormitory counselor and graduate assistant in religion at Bucknell.

SPOTLIGHT BAND VISITS BUCKNELL

The Coca-Cola Company, honoring the Navy V-12 Unit, brought Prima's Band to the Davis Gymnasium Saturday evening, June 3. It was a colorful band with a rollicking program that stayed with the crowd for two hours after the broadcast was over.

This is How South Jersey Did It!

(A brainstorm of Kenneth W. Slifer, '26)

DEAR BUCKNELLIAN:

Our South Jersey Alumni Club used to have two meetings a year. We've cut it down to one for the duration. But we're going to make that one party TWICE as much fun!

This year's reunion will be a big dinner in the recently renovated Woodbury Country Club—where the food is so good that it's tough to find an open evening. In fact, we ran into a traffic jam after the first cards were mailed, and had to move our date up a day to Thursday, June 8.

President Larry Kimball will throw out the first olive at 7 P. M. sharp. Genial John Proctor, Club Steward, presents the following menu for your approval — and he's so sure you'll like it that he promises your money back promptly if you don't get all you can eat! Olives, celery, fruit cup, roast duck with applesauce, new potatoes with cream sauce, new lima beans, combination salad, rolls with plenty of butter, ice cream, cake and coffee. (Forgive this informal type style. We're saving paper.)

As another wartime innovation, there will be NO SPEECHES—but a brief and breezy program that will leave you time to talk to the old friends you don't see so often any more. We'll have an amusing stunt with prizes, a one-act comedy by four members of the Woodbury Sketch Club, and we'll project on a screen the funniest snapshots you can find in your Bucknell scrapbook. Pick out at least two, of yourself or some other South Jerseyite, as you were in your college daze.

This once-a-year bargain blowout is all yours for $2—and no ration coupons. Thursday is maid's night out (remember?) so make it your night out, too. Do all these things in this order:

1. Sign the enclosed card and mail it now before you forget.
2. Put an orange-and-blue circle around June 8 on your calendar.
3. Broadcast the news to your Bucknell friends. Address lists change fast these days.
4. Make up a car pool or borrow a bus ticket.
5. Bring two snapshots to be screened so we can all laugh with you!

The biggest parties we ever had were held at Woodbury. Let's repeat on June 8!

YOUR OFFICERS (all of 'em).

MRS. PEARLE DEYOE MCGEE

PEARLE DEYOE MCGEE, '09, PAINTS MURAL

JUNE 4 saw the unveiling and dedication at Christ Church in Scottdale, Pa., of a mural, "Peace," by Mrs. Pearle DeYoe McGee, 340 Brad-dock Avenue, Uniontown. The mural is an oil painting water scene, 7 feet by 11 feet, with a dove dimly seen in the center. Reverend Samuel Saunders, pastor of the church, gave the dedicatory address, after which Mrs. McGee spoke on "Following Your Hobby." A baptismal service was held immediately following the church service. Since the first of the year, Mrs. McGee has completed eight other paintings: "Buffalo Creek," "Double Glory," "Evening Symphony," "Stranger of Galilee," "Portrait of Friend Husband," "Ripples," "Poor Man's Orchid," "Industrial Night Beauty."

MRS. MCGEE'S
MURAL, "PEACE"

Mrs. McGee entered Bucknell in 1907 after studying art and music for one year and was graduated in 1909. While at Bucknell she majored in music and art. She, her husband, Edward I. McGee of the H. C. Frick Company, and their three boys and two girls are actively engaged in Christian and social work.

Coit Hoechst

Coit received his B.A. degree from Bucknell in 1907. The following year he earned the M.A. degree and at the same time a degree from the School of Music. He received the Ph.D. degree in languages from the University of Pittsburgh in 1916.

He was high school teacher, high school principal and since 1926 has been in command of the broad extension program in the City of Pittsburgh, where many thousands of adults have been enrolled. He is president of the Pennsylvania Association for Adult Education, president of the Pittsburgh chapter of Phi Delta Kappa (the ranking professional education fraternity) and past president of the Pennsylvania Modern Language Association. He is a member of the Brahms Club. He has taught in the summer sessions at Bucknell and the University of Pittsburgh.

Coit has two daughters—Ruth, married, and Eleanor, teaching public school music in North Carolina. This dynamic and versatile Bucknell alumnus and his wife, the former Margaret Wagle, live at 120 Bayard Place, Pittsburgh.

Stadium. Here would be created an acre of charm and beauty—the center of which would be a small outdoor vesper chapel. I would like to see in this garden a tree planted for each Bucknellian who has given his life in this war."

BUCKNELL PLACEMENT SERVICE IS OFFERED TO ALUMNI

Alumni are reminded that Bucknell conducts a placement service free to graduates. Mr. Paul H. Hightower, assistant to the president, is in charge of this service. In addition, there are placement representatives in three large cities: Mr. Walter W. Leland, at 580 Fifth Avenue, New York City; Miss E. C. Coby, Coby Service Bureau, Bessemer Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.; and Miss Mary A. Townsend, The Townsend Service, 1411 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Alumni in these three areas, who are interested in improving their vocational opportunities, are advised to get in touch with the persons named above.

SOLDIER HITCHES RIDE WITH GENERAL CLARK IN ITALY

A hitch-hiker's thumb in the dark paid off for Private Kenneth Garman, of Mohnton, when Lt. General Mark W. Clark, Fifth Army commander, picked up the footsore traveler and drove him back to camp in Italy. Kenneth has been in the Army since March, 1941. He served a previous enlistment in 1938-1939, after attending Bucknell University, and was stationed in Panama.

FIFTH SON OF JUDGE JOHNSON SERVES NATION

Federal Judge Albert W. Johnson, '96, of Lewisburg, recently accompanied his fifth son, Frederick W. Johnson, to the Navy recruiting station. The other sons in service are 1st Lt. Albert W. Johnson, Jr., '25; Pfc. Paul E. Johnson, '32; Lt. (jg) William S. Johnson, '41; and David C. Johnson, '45, officer candidate.

ment in connection with the detention facilities for women arrested around the camps. After the war, she was made superintendent of the New Jersey State Home for Girls in Trenton.

In 1936 Dr. Harris published "Kalidasa, Poet of Nature." The book she is most proud of is one by Gerda Mundt, a member of the Danish Parliament, entitled, "Faith in Humanity, a Book About Dr. Mary B. Harris." She received the LL.D. degree from Bucknell, 1927, and Morris Harvey College, 1940. Her home is in Lewisburg, where she is active in civic and religious work.

REYNOLDS PACKARD

REYNOLDS PACKARD COVERS WARFRONT

REYNOLDS PACKARD, x'26, arrived in the center of Rome "just 20 minutes after the last enemy tanks had rolled past," to reopen the United Press Bureau of which he is manager. This veteran war correspondent is a member of one of the famous man-and-wife newspaper teams. His wife and assistant, Eleanor, is one of the few women reporters covering an active battle front. Articles headed with the byline, "Eleanor and Reynolds Packard," insure news accurately and vividly told.

1st Lt. Harry D. Reynolds, Jr., '42, recently had a Silver Star medal pinned on by the Commander-in-Chief of the Pacific Fleet at a parade formation of the Fourth Marine Division. Lt. Reynolds played a heroic part with the Marine forces that wrested Namur Island, Kwajalein Atoll, from its Japanese defenders early in February.

Since the last issue of the Alumni Monthly, Dr. Alvin B. Biscoe, associate professor of economics at Bucknell, who has been on leave of absence for the past two years to fulfil a war assignment, has been promoted to the position of vice-chairman of the Regional War Labor Board.

Here Are Bucknell's Fighting Men

ON THIS and some following pages are the names of Bucknellians in the Armed Services not heretofore published in this magazine. We should like to print regularly all the address changes that have been made since the last issue. This, however, is impossible, since service changes come so rapidly and the magazine is published only four times a year. If you find here addresses that are incorrect, or if you know addresses of persons whose whereabouts are listed as unknown, will you be kind enough to notify the Alumni Office.

Additional War Casualties

Died in Service

Captain Glenn Haupt, '34, died
May 3, 1944, in Walter Reed Hospital from the effects of malaria fever contracted overseas. He was stricken with malaria while serving in Italy and was returned to this country, where he underwent treatment and an operation in New York City, later being transferred to Walter Reed Hospital. Captain Haupt had been employed as a chemical engineer by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey prior to entering service two years ago.

Captain Harold Hopler, '17, died suddenly June 3, 1944, at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., of a heart attack. He was in charge of the Charleston, S. C., health office under auspices of the Federal Health Bureau before entering the service. He was active in athletics during his college career and later was for some years coach at a boys' boarding school in Maryland. He served in World War I.

Air Cadet Robert M. Jellison, '45, was killed in an air crash at Ellington Field, Texas, on June 6, 1944. He was to have been commissioned a lieutenant on June 27.

Missing in Action

Lieutenant Charles G. Hewitt, '37, a Navy flier, had been operating from a carrier in the Atlantic. His plane crashed at sea April 22, and he was reported missing.

Lieutenant John J. McDade, Jr.,
'44, is missing in action since the raid over Brunswick on April 8. He had completed 25 missions and was near the end of his tour when he was shot down. All that is known is that his ship was falling and several parachutes were seen opening. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

Prisoners of War

Sergeant William A. Heim, '44, is a prisoner of war, according to a telegram received from the War Department by his wife. He was on his seventh mission as a member of a bomber crew when his ship was shot down over France early in May.

Lieutenant Richard Lins, '44, reported missing after a flight May 13 from an Italian base, is a prisoner of the Germans. It is believed the plane on which he was serving as a navigator was shot down on his first flight over enemy territory.

Sergeant Leon Svirsky, '33, shot down on a Schweinfurt raid in August, 1943, is a prisoner of war in Germany.

Lieutenant Dale R. Wynn, '39, previously reported missing, is now a prisoner of war in Germany.

Doctor of Divinity from Bucknell in 1939. Theme of his commencement address was "Is Knowledge Power?"

War conditions reduced the size of the class. Selective service has taken many men from the University. Furthermore, under the accelerated program, one section of the Class of 1944 was graduated in February, and a third graduation will be held in October.

Several Navy V-12 trainees, who completed requirements for degrees, were included in the graduates.

RUSSIAN-EUROPEAN CONFERENCE

ON May 12, 13 and 14, the University Christian Association held the last of its series of five International Student Conferences, this time with emphasis on Russia and Europe. The speakers were Mrs. Vera Micheles Dean of the Foreign Policy Association, Dr. Ragatz of George Washington University, Miss Alexandra Feldmahn of the World's Student Service Fund and Captain Orest Shevtsov of the Russian army. In addition guest students were present from Norway, Holland, Czecho-Slovakia, France, Hungary, and Iceland.

BUCKNELL ART PROFESSOR WINS FURTHER RECOGNITION

BLANCHARD GUMMO, associate professor of art at Bucknell University, has been notified that his oil painting, "Ruined House," has been purchased by the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts at Philadelphia for its permanent collection.

Professor Gummo's work has been shown on several occasions at exhibitions sponsored by the Academy, and it was from its recent annual exhibition which was national in scope that his painting was purchased.

One of Pennsylvania's outstanding artists, Professor Gummo has exhibited in many of the country's leading art galleries. In 1938 the Society of Washington Artists gave him first prize for his oil painting, "After Thoughts of Heaven." Another oil painting, "Encounter," was awarded first prize by the Harrisburg Art Association in 1941.

With this issue THE BUCKNELL ALUMNUS makes its bow. By the unanimous vote of the Board of Directors the name of the old Monthly was changed to Alumnus. We think it more clearly indicates the real purpose of the publication.

Stories of citations and decorations to Bucknellians in the fighting forces continue to pour into the Alumni Office. Stories of the heroic deeds will be published just as soon as space permits. We are also limited in the amount of newsprint paper.

Elsewhere in this issue you will see the account of honorary degrees conferred upon outstanding Bucknellians at the last Commencement. It is with pride that we bow in their honor.

Sincerely yours,

W. C. LOWTHER, President,
General Alumni Association.

LOWTHER'S LETTER TO ALUMNI

DEAR BUCKNELLIAN:

Vote for Alumni Trustee. It is your right and privilege.

At the suggestion of numerous alumni your Board of Directors postponed the closing date for nominations for alumni trustee. This move resulted in an unprecedented number of names submitted to the nominating committee. From the total number of fifteen names the committee chose two outstanding and capable alumni as candidates for the office. In our democratic way of life it is your right and privi-

MEET THE CANDIDATES FOR ALUMNI TRUSTEE

Emma E. Dillon, '15, is a lawyer, practicing in Trenton, N. J. For the past decade she has been secretary of the New Jersey State Bar Association. She has been active on a number of committees of the American Bar Association and for two years was chairman of the Committee of Secretaries of the Bar Activities Section. She was instrumental in founding the New Jersey State Association of Women's Clubs, has held several offices and was president from 1941 to 1943. She is a member of the Board of Directors of the General Alumni Association.

Miss Dillon's photograph appears on page 7 of the May, 1944, Alumni Monthly. Her home address is 2420 Nottingham Way, R. D. No. 2, Trenton, N. J.

Andrew R. Mathieson, '20, has been connected with the United States Steel Corporation and subsidiaries since leaving Bucknell. He was recently promoted to the position of salary administration supervisor of the United States Steel Corporation of Delaware with offices in Pittsburgh. He is past president and director of the Pittsburgh Personnel Association; director and chairman of the Home Service Department of the Pittsburgh Chapter, American Red Cross; director of the University Club. He is president of the Bucknell Athletic Council and former vice-president of the General Alumni Association.

Mr. Mathieson's photograph appears on page 10 of this issue of THE BUCKNELL ALUMNUS. His home address is 1458 Greystone Drive, East End, Pittsburgh, Pa.

ALUMNI CLUBS, 1944-1945

PEARL HARBOR came to all of us as a tremendous shock. The nation was mobilized for all-out prosecution of the war. At the call of President Marts, Bucknell reduced extracurricular activities, cancelled all but the bare essentials of Commencement formalities and proceeded to work consistently for victory. It was not expected that alumni clubs covering a wide territory and requiring much travel would hold frequent meetings. It was hoped that those in large centers where transportation is not a problem would continue their programs with all the enthusiasm that loyal Bucknellians regularly show. This has been true with clubs in New York City, Washington, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Chicago, Trenton, Binghamton, Shamokin, York, Sunbury, Lewisburg and South Jersey. At the request of Dr. Henry G. W. Smith of Detroit, where a club has not yet been organized, the Alumni Office sent to each Bucknellian in the area a list of names and addresses of his confreres. It was hoped that a number of alumni in the Detroit area would get together, in small groups at least, and that these meetings would lead to the organization of a Bucknell Alumni Club when the war is over and a bit of relaxation is possible. The Alumni Office will gladly cooperate in keeping alumni in other areas apprised of which Bucknellians are in the locality.

The acting secretary attended the meetings of the American Alumni Council in Chicago in May and was interested in hearing of the alumni activities of other colleges. He was a bit surprised to learn that alumni clubs of some institutions are going stronger than ever. It is hoped that wherever possible Bucknell clubs will become infused with that old fire and make the coming year the best of the wartime period.

Bucknell Sports

Ludwig will be assisted by Russell Wright, who has been working in our physical education department for the past six months. Wright is a seasoned athletic man, a graduate and former player at the University of West Virginia, and a successful high school coach.

We shall probably play an eight-game schedule in soccer. Six of these games have already been arranged, as follows: Sept. 23, Muhlenberg, away; Oct. 7, Penn State, away; Oct. 14, Bloomsburg State Teachers, home; Oct. 28, Bloomsburg State Teachers, away; Nov. 11, Muhlenberg, home; Nov. 15, Navy, away.

GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

THE General Alumni Association had a strictly skeleton meeting this year in Larison Hall living room on Friday, June 23, at 4:00 p.m. The acting secretary was in the chair, and the business was brief. It consisted of reelection of the current officers for another year and the reelection of two members of the Board of Directors—O. V. W. Hawkins, '13, and Edgar A. Snyder, '11—for another three-year term. A motion was carried that President W. C. Lowther, '14, be authorized to name the committee of five to select nominees for the alumni trustee vacancy which will occur in June, 1945.

On Saturday at 3:00 p.m. a meeting of the Board of Directors was held in the Alumni Office. Present were O. V. W. Hawkins, '13, Miller A. Johnson, '20, William Irvin, '22, Edgar A. Snyder, '11, and Frank G. Davis, '11, acting alumni secretary. A motion was carried unanimously that the name of the Bucknell Alumni Monthly be changed to THE BUCKNELL ALUMNUS. A motion was carried that the date of election of alumni trustee be postponed until the December meeting of the Board of Trustees of the University and that the nominating committee be instructed to send out ballots in the July number of THE BUCKNELL ALUMNUS. A motion was carried that President Lowther be asked to instruct his nominating committee to have their selections in the hands of the acting secretary not later than July 15.

Merle Edwards, one of our veteran coaches, will be in charge of soccer. The team a year ago was composed largely of civilian students. Here again the coach will have to build a new team and will have to look to the trainees for a larger percentage of players.

However, if the newer crop of trainees approximates the athletic talents of the 1943-44 group, the Bucknell record will need no apologies. During the year, competing in six sports, the Bisons scored 32 victories against 15 defeats and two ties, for a won-lost average of .681, well above the average.

Highlighting the year's achievements was the baseball team, which had the best record of any Bucknell nine in the past 32 years. Winning 10 games in 12 starts, the Bison diamond men defeated Pitt, Penn State and Villanova, among others. John Kelly, lend-leased from Pitt via V-12, was the star, pitching six straight victories without a defeat; he shut out both Penn State and Villanova. Kelly's control was phenomenal; in more than 60 innings of hurling he issued only four bases on balls.
